Twenty-two representatives of the Greater Providence Jewish community are attending the 27th annual National Conference of the United Jewish Appeal this weekend in New York city.

This year's conference is in honor of the 50th anniversary of the Joint Distribution Committee. One of the main items of business at the conference will be setting the life-saving objectives of the UJA's 1965 nationwide campaign.

Rhode Islanders attending the conference include Mr. and Mrs. Merrill L. Hassenfeld, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Salmanson, Mr. and Mrs. Max Alperin, Mr. and Mrs. Sol Koffler, Mr. and Mrs. Ira S. Galkin, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bar-

$12,000 Granted For Graduate Study

NEW YORK—Dr. Theodore Norman, managing director of the Baron de Hirsch Fund, has announced a grant of $12,000 for graduate social work education of young men and women planning careers in Jewish community center work.

Scholarships of up to $2,000 a year will be given on a basis of financial need and outstanding ability. The national scholarship committee of the Jewish Welfare Board's personnel services will select scholarship recipients.

Five winners of JWB's 1964 national merit fellowships are presently enrolled in graduate schools of social work in preparation for professional careers as social group workers in the Jewish Community Center field.

ARAB GROUP ILLEGAL
JERUSALEM — The ruling by the High Court prohibiting establishment of the Arab Nationalist group, El Ard, as a legal association gives sobering expression to the long distance that must still be traversed in achieving amity between Arab and Jew in Israel, says a "Jerusalem Post" editorial.

"There can be no questioning the integrity of the Court's decision. The El Ard group has been active for a number of years, seeking in various ways not only to propagate a Nasserist ideology, but to incite the Arab population against the State, and to vilify Israel's image abroad."

Prejudice Dictates Management Promotions

MIAMI BEACH—Discrimination and bias still enter into job promotions on the management level, but they are hidden under various guises, the American Jewish Committee executive board learned last week, when a two-year study was made public. Discrimination, the study showed, is encouraged in management jobs by certain conditions that have little or nothing to do with ability factors.

The findings were embodied in an exploratory study conducted at the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. They were made public by Morris B. Abram, president of the American Jewish Committee, at the close of the board's meeting at the Fontainebleau Hotel.

The report showed how what it describes as "nonability factors" could introduce discrimination without the mention of race or religion. This, it said, is being done by emphasizing such factors as social background, friendships, club membership and family ties.

High-Level Role Noted
In promotion to upper-management levels, the report said, these factors play a more influential role than in other promotions. By way of illustration, Prof. Robert L. Kahn, program director of the Survey Research Center, cited the problem of discrimination in management echelons.

He said that in recent years, for example, Jews have comprised perhaps 12 to 15 per cent of the graduating classes of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, an institution to which the executive recruiters of many large companies regularly turn.

Among the executives of such companies appearing at Harvard seminars and training programs for businessmen, only 0.5 per cent were believed to be Jewish, he said.

"Inappropriate to Country"
"Such findings, and the inference of discrimination which they compel, are inappropriate to our country and our time; they imply no less the social costs to the nation's business and to the nation," Professor Kahn declared.

The study was conducted at plants of "one of the nation's leading corporate enterprises," otherwise unidentified.

Jewish-Roman Catholic Research Center Set Up In Rome To Fight Religious Bias

MIAMI BEACH — To fight the roots of prejudice in religious teachings throughout the world, the American Jewish Committee has been active in the establishment of a joint Jewish-Roman Catholic research center in Rome. Other such projects are already under way in Spain, Italy and South America.

The American Jewish Committee is a human relations agency long active in interreligious affairs. The new center in Rome was established primarily to implement the Ecumenical Council's initial approval of a declaration repudiating the ancient deicide charge against Jews.

The deicide charge is not official doctrine of the Catholic Church, but it is deeply embedded in traditional teachings and finds frequent expression. Both Jewish and Christian scholars have long considered this charge a major source of anti-Semitic attitudes.

Israel Power Balance, Clash of Arms, Concern UN Committees, 19th Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The current session of the General Assembly was exciting for Israel, even before the formal opening of this 19th session took place.

The three issues affecting Israel were: the "Group of 77," the Nov. 13 clash between Syria and Israel, and the Security Council's meeting to debate the Syrian and Israeli charges and counter-grievances. The report of the Nov. 13 clash was filed by Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, chief of staff of the United Nations Truce Supervision Organization, a small but highly mobile group of military observers in the middle of the troubled frontier area.

The reconvening of the Security Council found Syria and Israel accusing each other of aggression. And, in addition, there were various maneuverings in preparation for the Assembly session.

All Want Assistance
That so-called "Group of 77" — the count keeps shifting, from 75 to 78 — is a bloc of the underdeveloped countries from Latin America, Asia and Africa interested in economic and social advancement which, they feel, must be given broader aid by the affluent members of the United Nations.

Every subterfuge, trick and maneuver in the book had been employed by the Arab states to keep Israel out of the group.

At the November meeting of the group, just before the Assembly was to convene, Israel had the opportunity to present its case openly. The November chairman of the group, Francisco Cuevas Cancino of Mexico, had seen to that.

He gave the floor to Israel's permanent representative here, Ambassador Michael S. Comay — and Comay delivered an address which put most of the members of the group on the defensive for having allowed the Arabs leeway for Israel's exclusion.

Comay made a number of important points: Israel is, indeed, an underdeveloped country, recognized as such by the UN; Israel, helping as it does nearly 60 lands in Africa, Asia and Latin America with technical assistance, has proven itself as a Government conscious of its duty to the world.

Arab Point of View
When Comay finished, one of the Arabs, Dr. Adnan M. Pachachi of Iraq, arose to attack Israel. He did not deny that Israel was an underdeveloped country.

and ethnic minorities, including Jews. Mr. Friedman, who was a member of the committee delegation that held a private audience with Pope Paul VI last summer, listed these as the center's major program areas:

It teaches the theory and techniques of human relations, with the professor in residence giving lectures and providing for visiting

Israel Army Still Needs Beautiful Young Draftees

JERUSALEM — Israel, the only country in the Western world which conscripts women into its army, will continue to draft women, despite the need for them in civilian life.

A familiar prototype of young Israeli womanhood is the beautiful, clean-cut girl in uniform, with her Uzi sub-machine gun on her shoulder. Nevertheless, the ultra-religious have agitated for years to free girls from the duty of military service. Dr. Elimelech Shimon Rimault, Liberal M.K., proposed a successful change in the draft law, to reduce the period of service to 18 months.

There is a shortage of woman-power in many branches of civilian life and many people maintain that the girls would be of more use to the nation if they were inducted into these fields.

Immorality Suspected
Philip Gillon interviewed a number of Israeli leaders. Here are his findings as reported in the Jerusalem Post.

Religious people suspect that the women's army opens the way to immorality and license. To this Gen. Dina Werth, Commander of the Israel Women's Army, says, "If the girls are good, they remain good in the Army."

Why Two Years?
Dr. Rimault says that if the Army can manage without the girls, there is no point in making them serve two years. Women should be educated, and acquire a profession or vocation, and be skilled in homemaking. He also notes that as the population increases, more men are called up who are fit only for clerical duties—with the result that the girls have nothing to do but loaf around. He also feels that girls who do not want to serve are marrying early, merely to avoid military service.

The Chen Commander argues that the contribution of women to the Army is very substantial. "We are virtually handling all the administration, social, welfare, education and many other services. I am certain that the Army cannot exist without the girls, although there may be individual girls who are not satisfied that they are doing enough."

Create Inequality
She also said that while boys and girls receive the same education, when they go into the Army, the boys get all the glory. Gen. Dina Werth also said the Army has programs for girls to volunteer as teachers in immigrant villages or as practical nurses in Tel Hashomer Hospital. The Army may introduce some sort of arrangement for girls to go into the immigrant villages and development towns as helpers to social welfare workers.

Dr. Rimault opposed using army girls as teachers after crash-courses of four weeks. He believes that solutions for the shortages of nurses and teachers must come from the Government in the form of higher incentives — it is not the function of the Army to solve civilian problems. He believes that the Army must stick to security and serve as a school of good citizenship.

Dina Werth's answer is that if the Army doesn't tend to the problem of teaching in immigrant villages, nobody will. Most girls who served in the Army said they would not have missed the experience. Others say they wasted a good deal of time. Still others contend that the service was beneficial to them as it was essential to the country.

Study Indicates End To Hostile Stereotypes

MIAMI BEACH — American attitudes toward Jews and Judaism have changed drastically in the past 25 years, according to a study of public opinion polls sponsored by the American Jewish Committee in the period from 1937 to 1962.

A majority of Americans today view Jews as individuals rather than as members of a "racial" group, and Judaism is generally considered one of the major religions in the United States, the survey showed.

The survey found that overt anti-Semitism had gone through a "massive decline." However, the survey warns that latent prejudice could be stirred up by upheavals and crises in American society. It has been estimated that there are 5.5 million Jews in the United States.

Survey Publicized
 The survey was made public by the committee at the opening of its annual national executive board meeting, the agency's top policy planning board, at the Fontainebleau Hotel.

The committee also announced that it had established an extensive cultural and religious community service program for the 625,000 Jews throughout South America.

Harris Berlack, chairman of the agency's committee on foreign affairs, said the program, styled as "a cultural peace corps," would cooperate with existing Jewish organizations to develop libraries and other resources devoted to strengthening every phase of Jewish life.

Mr. Berlack cited the lack of qualified rabbis, teachers, social workers and other skilled Jewish personnel in South America.

The survey was conducted by Charles Herbert Stember, professor of sociology at Rutgers University, with the cooperation of the Rutgers Research Council. Social scientists from Harvard, Columbia, Brandeis, Cornell, the University of Chicago, New York University, Vanderbilt University and the University of Michigan are contributing evaluative papers on the survey.

Sentiment against marriage with Jews has waned between 1950 and 1962. "Acceptance of Jews as marriage partners increased at about the same rate as did acceptance of Jewish employes, fellow students and neighbors," the report said.

Specific Attitudes Polled
 Polls on specific attitudes show the marked decline in existing stereotypes about Jews. For example, one poll's question asked whether Jews were considered members of a "race." In 1946, when this poll was taken, 42 per cent put Jews in the category of a race. By 1962, this proportion decreased to 21 per cent, while the proportion that thought of Jews as a religious group increased to 45 per cent from 35 per cent.

A poll on how Jews are viewed taken in 1940 is contrasted with a similar poll in 1962. The results showed that "the percentage of respondents who said Jews had objectionable qualities shrank from 63 to 23 per cent." Professor Stember called this reduction "a phenomenal change for a time span of not more than two decades."

The study also shows that there is no significant difference in attitudes toward Jews among the various groups of the population, including old or young, city or rural residents, Protestants or Roman Catholics.

However, his study adds, the decline of anti-Semitism "seems to have been greater among women, younger people, city dwellers, Easterners, Catholics and persons of high income, than among opposite numbers."

David Levinson, Lawyer for 60 Years, Defender of 'Little Men,' Dies at 80

PHILADELPHIA — David Levinson, a lawyer for 60 years, died here on Dec. 4 at the age of 80. He was noted as a fighter for the rights of the underdog, frequently at his own expense, and with no prospects of getting paid for his services.

"My people have been lynched too," he once said. "I know what it means to suffer injustice, indignity and intolerance."

With this in mind he repeatedly plunged into unpopular causes and more than once emerged from the fight with a bloody nose or a bruised head.

His clients were the "little men" who got into trouble—a fugitive from a Georgia chain gang, a Communist sympathizer, a widow facing eviction.

United States Supreme Court ordered a new trial, but the defendant subsequently was convicted and hanged.

Jewish Sentries
 When two Jewish sentries were murdered at the displaced persons camp in Landesberg, Germany, in 1945, and 22 other D.P.'s were arrested for protesting Army apathy in the case, Mr. Levinson moved into action in New York and Washington.

Representing the Joint Distribution Committee, Mr. Levinson inquired into every aspect of the case. In three months all 22 D.P.'s were freed.

For his work among Negro defendants, Negro newspapers hailed him as "our Hebrew attorney."

Dr. John Slawson, executive vice president of the American Jewish Committee and also a prominent social scientist, said that the study on the papers would be published in 1965 as "Jews in the Mind of America."

In contrast to the late thirties and early forties when anti-Semitism was at its peak, Dr. Stember found that the negative stereotypes about Jews have "very nearly disappeared." These stereotypes included such notions as "Jews as a group are clannish, dishonest, unscrupulous or excessively powerful in business and finance."

Race Concept Waning
 In an interview, Dr. Slawson said that "one of the great advances these polls have disclosed — and this is one of the most promising aspects — is that Jews are being more and more seen as distinct individuals rather than a special kind of people with fixed qualities."

In his survey, Dr. Stember points out that the waning of the "race" concept about Jews has helped to reduce other fixed notions.

On the question of association with Jews, Dr. Stember's survey cites these findings in current attitudes:

Most Americans are against restrictive quotas on admission of Jews to colleges, in contrast with their wide approval of the idea in the nineteen-forties.

Most non-Jews have indicated a willingness to have their children associate with Jewish children.

The majority of Americans in business and industry are willing to work in association with Jews.

By the early nineteen-sixties, "an overwhelming majority of Americans appeared ready to accept individual Jews as next door neighbors."

Treasury Spokesman Denies Capital Loss
 JERUSALEM — Dr. Zvi Dinstein, head of the Treasury's Foreign Exchange Division, has spiked rumors of a "flight of capital" from Israel.

Between $5m. and $10m. of foreign-held securities were sold due to the decline in Stock Exchange prices.

On the other hand, capital transfers to Israel have been increasing. In 1963-64 they were up by $100m. to $239m. and will be about the same figure this year.

Foreign currency reserves reached $664m. in May, after which there was a 'seasonal' decline to $620m. in September.

The Bank of Israel Balance Sheet for October, shows an $11m. increase in the gold and foreign-currency holding of the Bank.

SURPRISE VICTORY
 TORONTO — S. Max Saltzman, 43, won a surprise victory for the New Democratic Party in the Federal by-election in Waterloo-South. The district, normally Conservative for the past 50 years, has a very small Jewish population.

In a City Hall corridor here one day he whistled a tune from "Il Trovatore" so loudly that the noise interrupted a trial before the late Judge Mayer Sulzberger.

The judge called the boy into the courtroom and reprimanded him. The judge then asked, "What do you want to be when you grow up?"

"A lawyer, your honor," the boy replied.

Judge Paid Tuition
 Judge Sulzberger and the boy became fast friends. The judge engaged a tutor to give Mr. Levinson the equivalent of a high-school education, and then paid for his first year's tuition at the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Levinson subsequently worked his way through law school.

Speaking German, Russian, Polish and Yiddish, he built up a practice among the immigrants of the city.

Represents Miners
 In 1935 Mr. Levinson represented miners accused of shooting a sheriff and some deputies in Gallup, N. M. He and Robert Minor, New York Communist leader, were kidnapped, beaten and left in the desert by local vigilantes. An Indian family found them.

Brazil ordered Mr. Levinson out of the country when he was the lawyer for some alleged Communists in 1937. Perhaps his most famous case was his successful defense in 1935 of Edward Brown, fugitive in Pennsylvania from a Georgia chain gang.

He fought this case all the way up to the United States Supreme Court and lost, only to win a refusal from George M. Leader, the Governor of Pennsylvania, to refuse Brown's extradition to Georgia.

In 1933 at Towson, Md., as lawyer for a 70-year-old Negro accused of slaying a family of four, he drew from the judge an admission that he had selected thousands of juries without ever having chosen a Negro juror.

—On the strength of this, the

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

How To Save Taxes By Year-End Planning

MEDICAL, DENTAL EXPENSES
 If you itemize your personal deductions, start today to plan for the largest medical deduction on your 1964 income tax return to which the law entitles you.

Your year-end tax strategy will be influenced by the fact that medical expenses are now deductible in full for a taxpayer who is 65 or older or whose wife is 65 or older or for a dependent parent who is 65 or older. Before 1964 costs of medicines and drugs were deductible only to the extent that they exceeded 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income. Although the elimination of this limit for persons 65 or over means that medicine and drug deductions for them won't be wasted whether you pay the bills now or in 1965, the chances are you'll save on taxes in 1964 if you pay the medicine and drug bills before 1965. This is because your tax rate will be lower next year.

The strategy for persons under 65 must be different, because their drug and medicine costs are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income and their total medical expenses are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

This means that your medical expenses can be completely wasted as tax deductions if they do not amount to more than 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income in 1964 or 1965. Therefore, your year-end tax strategy should be aimed at bunching your medical expenses either into 1964 or into 1965 so that they run over the 1 per cent and 3 per cent limits in at least one of these two years.

For instance, assume your adjusted gross income in 1964 and 1965 will run around $9,000 and your medical expenses are about $250 each year. Since the first 3 per cent of $9,000, or $270 is wasted, you won't be able to deduct any of your medical expenses in either 1964 or 1965 — even though you will spend $500 over the two years.

Your goal should be shifting into the closing weeks of 1964 some of the medical or dental treatment you originally planned to have in 1965 and you should pay for this treatment in 1964. Thus, if you have $150 of dental work done and paid for this year — work originally scheduled to be done and paid for in 1965 — your total 1964 medical expenses would be $400. After wasting the $270, you would still have a $130 deduction left to help you save on taxes — even though your total expenses for 1964-65 would be exactly the same.

Your strategy if you have had only minor medical expenses so far this year might involve reversing the above procedure and holding off until early 1965 treatments you have planned for 1964.

This would build up your total 1965 medical expenses and possibly give you a deduction in 1965 if your expenses next year run over the 3 per cent limit.

If you are helping your parents by paying part or all of their medical and dental bills, be sure you know the rules for getting the maximum tax benefit. Although you are under 65, you may be able to deduct in full the medical expenses paid for your parent who is 65 or over (there is no 3 per cent or 1 per cent "wastage" required for him). But this deduction is allowed only if you furnish more than half the support of your parent. You need not be able to claim your parent as a dependent. As long as you furnish more than half his support — and, in measuring whether you do this, the medical expenses you pay count as support from you — you can deduct in full the medical expenses you pay for him.

In the remaining weeks of 1964, you might meet the support requirement by making some additional cash contributions to your parents. If there is little chance of going over the halfway mark, you should seriously consider letting your parents pay their own medical expenses if that would help cut their own tax bill. You could help them with their other living expenses in order to permit them to pay and deduct their medical expenses.

Incidentally, if you and your brothers and sisters are chipping in to help your parents, with nine of you paying more than half the support but with one of you claiming them as dependents under a multiple support agreement, let that one pay the medical expenses so he can get the deduction for the medical expense. The rest of you could then contribute toward their non-medical expenses.

CANTORS LEAVE ISRAEL

TEL AVIV—There is a new exodus taking place today—scores of cantors are leaving Israel for higher paying posts in America, Canada and other countries. Only during the High Holidays are cantors able to secure positions in Israel. In Tel Aviv, where there are 700 synagogues, only 15 have professional cantors under contract.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

To Vanish Or Not To Vanish . . .

By Beryl Segal

The Sidra of this year at Temple Emanu-El was "The Vanishing American Jew?" This timely topic, of interest to every Jew in America, was the theme of the Institute of Adult Education this season. In a series of talks by speakers selected for their special interest, this topic was discussed and analyzed, and let us hope, forever solved.

Those who wish to be among the "vanished" did not come to this series, and those who came were reassured that at least within their life time the Jews of America will not disappear. It is not as simple for a people to "vanish" as the article in Look magazine made it appear.

We came to listen to the lecture of Dr. Abraham J. Karp, Rabbi in Temple Beth El in Rochester, New York. We came for several reasons. First we wanted to hear what this Rabbi-Historian had to say on the topic. Rabbi Karp always puts problems in a historical perspective. In the second place, we have a warm corner in our hearts for Rochester, having lived there for nearly ten years and being very fond of its streets, its park, its schools, and especially its Lake Ontario. And thirdly, we knew that we could expect an engaging talk. We listened to Rabbi Karp when he spoke at the Rhode Island Jewish Historical Association and we wanted to hear more. We noticed that at least one more officer of the Association was there, and for the same reason, we suspect.

And what did Dr. Karp say about the Vanishing American Jew? Is he or isn't he vanishing?

As we hoped, Dr. Karp discussed the matter in the light of history, general and Jewish history.

He pointed out that in the year 1872, when there were hardly two hundred thousand Jews in America, a popular magazine of the time predicted that the Jew would disappear in fifty years. According to the article in that magazine we shouldn't have come to listen to this lecture because we are not supposed to be here altogether.

At the turn of the century Lincoln Steffens looked at New York's East Side and saw nothing but doom for the Jews and their way of life. According to his prediction, we living in the sixties will not be recognized as Jews. What Mr. Steffens did not foresee was that the East Side of New York would be doomed, but that the Jews would have moved out to Long Island, and are now very much alive in this year of 1964-5.

And so on from predictions of doom made for us in America by various people, in various periods, in various places.

The historical truth is, as Dr. Karp pointed out, that history consists of Challenges and of Reactions to these challenges.

Challenge: America is the Land of the Free. Jews have a free choice to be or not to be Jews. Some of them take this freedom to choose. But most of them use this same freedom for defending and strengthening their faith. There are more Synagogues and greater percentages of membership in these synagogues than ever before.

Thus Freedom is a two sided sword. Free not to be a Jew, but also free to maintain our Jewishness. Most of us chose the second Freedom.

Challenge: America is the Land of the Immigrant. In a society that consists of immigrants from all climes and national origins, it is very easy for an Immigrant to come here and to melt with the population in the New Land. This was in fact the idea of the Melting Pot. It was supposed to be the American Ideal to become the Melting Pot of nations. But this idea was as false as it was simple. You cannot create a nation of "look alikes," and "act alikes," and especially of "believe alikes" and "feel alikes."

America today is a Union of several cultures, several nationalities, each one of them contributing its color and sound and harmony to the land. America is a United States politically, but a union of national groups culturally and spiritually. America is a Land of Protestants, Catholics and Jews. Thus we are a third of the nation, though numerically we are infinitesimally small. We are a part of the great orchestra that is America. We add a spray of color to the multicolored bouquet that is America.

When we are Jews we do not have to go back to Poland, or to Lithuania or to the Ukraine. We are American Jews. The Jews of Poland and of Lithuania and of the Ukraine are gone, never to return. But we are American Jews true to one faith of our fathers, true to the cultural pattern of our people, and true to the eternal hope of rejuvenation and of rebirth. We are always afraid of being the last of an Eternal People, and thus are never lost, never vanished.

We are a nation of the third generation in America today. The grandfather clung to his Old Country culture he brought with him. The son wanted to forget his father's heritage that was a burden and a hindrance to him. In his great haste and anxiety to forget he included also his father's beliefs and his tongue and his way of life. Everything that smacked of Europe was abandoned.

But the grandson is intrigued by the faith of his grandparents, by the language they spoke, and he loves their cooking. Witness the "Kosher Style" hotels and summer resorts that attract these grandchildren of the immigrants.

The American Jew is changing, but he is far from vanishing. This in spite of the rising number of intermarriages and of assimilation. These numbers are greater because there are more of us in this country now.

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

ABOUT SOME DEAR DEPARTED

Sy Feuer, the producer, was discussing the special problems in dealing with the late Cole Porter. The songwriter and his wife were born rich, earned millions and lived in the grandest and most sophisticated style — displaying exquisite taste and flair in everything.

When Porter was writing the songs for "Silk Stockings" Feuer suggested a comedy song for the three Communist agents who return to Russia after the failure of their mission: "Maybe a song about fearing they'll be sentenced to that horrible place, Siberia." Porter stared at the producer, puzzled by his statement.

"You're so wrong about Siberia being horrible," said Porter. "When Linda and I spent a week at the castle of the Grand Duke in Siberia, it was truly beautiful."

During the production of "Candide" Porter phoned Feuer to say he was stuck for a rhyme, to go with "the aurora borealis is. . ." Later Feuer suggested the rhyme, "Not as heated as a palace is" . . . Porter replied: "But that's the first one I threw away."

"When Linda and I had a Palazzo in Venice, we could find no way of heating the rooms."

Then we spoke of other familiar voices of Broadway, stilled forever — three of them in November. The first was Pancho, the bandleader, who was brought to America from Argentina by Rudolph Valentino. None knew that his real name was Adolfo Rosquellas until it appeared in the obits. The slim, smiling, bespectacled man was simply "Pancho" to all.

Pancho led the rumba bands at El Morocco and the Copacabana. He gave Desi Arnaz his first job, as a bongo-drummer. During World War II he served in the Army and was assigned to head the musicians at West Point. He became an American citizen, with only a tie of nostalgia to Argentina.

Even that tie was severed when Pancho wrote a tango which had a line about "Paris, New York and Morocco." He applied for an Argentine copyright. Peron's copyright official changed "New York" to "Nueva York," because of the dictator's rule against foreign versions. Pancho protested that it meant an extra note — uneven for a tango. "So make it a rumba," the official suggested.

That was when Pancho hurled his Argentine passport at the consul in New York — not Nueva York.

The second to depart was Ed Byron, the radio and TV executive who created the fabulously successful series, "Mr. District Attorney." Byron was contemptuous of the capacities of TV officials. After one network conference he left angrily, headed towards the bar at Shor's and asked: "You know what a camel is?"

Byron looked around, then supplied the answer: "A camel is a horse put together by a TV network planning board."

One dispute with the network was over his cancelling a "Mr. District Attorney" program because the N.Y. police suddenly had eliminated the use of sirens except as an air-raid warning. The script was about a firebug who set a dozen fires. "I can't do an arson show without sirens," Byron said. "That's like being asked to do the Johnstown flood during a water shortage."

Soon after TV became popular, Byron noticed his young son watching a space cadet program. He asked the boy: "Are they on Venus or Mars?" The boy said they were on Venus. He could tell, "because when they're on Mars, that rock is on the other side."

The third Broadway citizen whose life is ended was William O'Dwyer, the former Mayor of New York. One night in Gracie Mansion, when Cardinal Spellman was the guest of honor, we heard O'Dwyer lament the apathy in vote regulations. "Perhaps I can tell you why," said the Cardinal.

Mrs. Murray L. Elowitz

Miss Phyllis Carol Unger, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Unger of Kansas City, Mo., became the bride of Murray Leo Elowitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Elowitz of 45 Forest Street, at a 4 P.M. ceremony on Nov. 22 in the Chapel Room of the Muehlebach Hotel in Kansas City. Rabbi Morris Margolies performed the ceremony, assisted by Cantor Jacob Rothblatt.

The bride wore an ivory silk brocade theater suit, and carried a starburst bouquet of stephanotis with garlands of tiny ivy. Her short illusion veil was held in place by a small pearl crown. Greenery and white and maize fugli chrysanthemums, flanked by seven branched lighted candelabra, formed a canopy for the marriage.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. I. E. Rubin of Columbus, Ohio, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were her sister, Mrs. Penrod Turk, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bernard Unger, of Kansas City. They carried garland cascade of maize carnations and roses, with their blue and maize brocade gowns.

Steve Guntar of Pasadena, Calif., was best man, and groomsmen were Swayne Van Besten of Dallas, Texas, and Earl Dee of Peoria, Ill. A bridal dinner followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Elowitz attended Smith College and was graduated from Stanford University. She studied at the Sorbonne in Paris, and continued her graduate work at the University of California in Los Angeles. She has been at the Rand Corporation in Los Angeles.

Mr. Elowitz is an alumnus of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and received a graduate degree from Northwestern University. He is a systems analysis engineer with North American Aviation in Anaheim, Calif.

After a wedding trip to Mexico, the couple will make their home in Anaheim.

Teenagers Cautioned On Dangers Of Dance

CHICAGO — Teenage leaders of the National Conference of Synagogue Youth were cautioned about the inherent dangers of social dancing by Rabbi Chaim Wasserman, assistant national director of the group.

Speaking to 100 national, regional and local youth leaders, he warned against using dancing as an excuse for meeting the social needs of teenagers.

"It is your task, as leaders in your youth organization, to assume the responsibility of making your members aware that social dancing in the synagogue youth program weakens the primary educational and religious goals of such teenage groups."

Where dancing is an accepted norm, he felt, such a program could not fully stimulate its participants to think in terms of a highly moral, intelligent and religiously meaningful life experience.

He emphasized that, of late, sociologists and psychologists were concerned with the abnormal fervor which Jewish teenagers have displayed for social dancing and particularly for the orgiastic-like Latin American type dances.

CHRISTIANS FREE

LONDON—Rev. Peter Schneider, former chaplain of St. Luke's in Haifa and newly-appointed director of Jewish Studies in the Archbishopric of Jerusalem, noted that a complete reversal of the historic Jewish-Christian relationship has come about with the establishment of Israel.

He stressed that there is complete religious liberty for Christian communities in Israel.

PUZZLE NO. 842

Elizabethville Student at Yeshiva U. Says Jewish Community Secure in Congo

NEW YORK — The Jewish community of the Congo maintains a more secure position in the African nation than the people of other nationalities, according to Leon Soriano, who is working for a Ph.D. degree in physics at the Belfer Graduate School of Science of Yeshiva University.

Soriano, who returned to the United States recently after a visit to his family in the Congo, believes that over the years the Jews in Elizabethville have established a closer liaison with people of other colors and nationalities through their daily contact in business and their tendency to mind their own business.

"Many of the people who come to the Congo are workers for international business operations there. They stay one, two or three years and then leave. The Jews, most of them Sephardic, came to the Congo as permanent settlers and set up shops and businesses.

"My father, Abner Soriano, came to Elizabethville 35 years ago from the island of Rhodes. He became a merchant, quite successful in dealing with his fellow man," the younger Soriano said.

The 22-year-old student has been in New York since 1961, when he left the then Belgian Congo to enter New York University. Soriano, who received his B.S. degree in physics in June, 1964, is the founder and president of the International Students Committee. He is also chairman of the International University People to People group. Both organizations seek to establish closer and more beneficial relationships among college students of all nationalities.

Soriano points out that his personality, character and attitude have been patterned after his father, who has long been active in Congolese Jewish affairs and is a staunch supporter of Zionism and Israel. "My father was president of the Jewish community in Elizabethville for eight years . . . his actions have had a definite effect on me," he said. "He stimulated my interest in education and working for the betterment of all mankind."

During high school days at the Athenee Royal, Soriano excelled in academic studies. He won four government prizes, including a U.S. Consulate Award. He also spent many vacations in Europe. After graduation, he came to the United States on a scholarship.

Soriano is attending the Belfer School on a graduate fellowship. He is also a research assistant at the school, working with Dr. David Finkelstein, professor of physics, on projects involving relativity and plasma physics — areas in which he hopes to specialize later.

He plans continued study in physics, and eventual research and teaching — in the United States, where he hopes to settle.

CRANSTON HADASSAH
A native Israeli, Mrs. Shalimas Miller, will speak at the Cranston Chapter of Hadassah's meeting at 8:15 P.M. on Monday at the Cranston Jewish Center. Mrs. Miller is an artist, the wife of a rabbi and a resident of the Union of South Africa. She will discuss the Jewish community in the Union of S. A. Members of Hadassah and their husbands and friends are invited.

BLOOM REAPPOINTED
Bernard O. Bloom has been re-appointed coordinator of Camp Naomi for Girls in Raymond, Maine, and Camp Joseph for Boys in Harrison, Maine, for the 1965 season. The appointment was announced by Joseph B. Grossman, president of the Jewish Community Center Camps.

TO INSTALL OFFICERS
Congregation Mishkon Tfiloh will install its newly elected officers on Sunday at 8 P.M. Rabbi Emanuel Lazar will induct Nathan Goren, president; Joslin Davis, first vice-president; Eugene Friedman, second vice-president; Norman Schwartz, recording secretary; Jack Wilkes, treasurer, and Alvin Blener, financial secretary.

Louis Bernstein, Morris Fishbein, Samuel Grossman, John Newman, Herman Rekant, Nathan Resnick, Samuel Rotkopf, Israel Schwartz, Edward Spencer, Morris Wilkes and Seymour Winograd, board of directors.

Members of the installation committee are Chairman Joslin Davis, Morris Fishbein, Samuel Grossman, Abraham Linder, Herman Rekant, Israel Schwartz and Jack Wilkes; Mesdames Joseph Bernstein, Harry Gornstein, Morris Kagan, Emanuel Lazar, Samuel Rotkopf and Samuel Schaffer, and Miss Dorothy Berry.

A reception honoring the new officers will follow their installation.

ANNUAL KIVEN LECTURE
The fourth annual lecture in memory of the late Dr. Nathan J. Kiven will be presented by Dr. William B. Kannel on Monday at 8:30 P.M. in the Miriam Hospital auditorium.

Dr. Kannel is associate director of the Heart Disease Epidemiology Study, Framingham, Mass.; research fellow and instructor in Preventive Medicine, Harvard Medical School, and a medical director in Public Health Service. The subject of his lecture will be "Evaluation of Serum Lipids as Predictors of CHD."

The Kiven Memorial Lectures were established by colleagues and friends of Dr. Kiven and the Rhode Island Heart Association. They are held in Miriam Hospital, where Dr. Kiven was a visiting physician in the department of medicine, and clinical director of the cardio-pulmonary service.

Jewish Bill Of Rights Asked From Soviets

NEW YORK — A bill of rights for Soviet Jews has been called for by the National Committee for Labor Israel, in a resolution adopted unanimously by 2,000 delegates at the group's 41st convention.

The new Soviet Leadership is asked "to revise the anti-Jewish policies introduced under the regime of Stalin and pursued under the rule of Nikita Khrushchev." The resolution added that the new Russian leaders are now "being subjected to scrutiny and appraisal by the entire world."

Labor Israel raises money in the United States to carry out social and medical services conducted by the Histadrut, Israel's labor federation.

Disagrees With Eisendrath

(Editor's Note: Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, in a speech before the board of trustees of that organization several weeks ago, called upon Reform Jews to break their "silence" and face up to the problem of breaking the Orthodox "stranglehold" in the State of Israel, especially pertaining to church-state relations. This story was published in the Nov. 27 issue of the Herald. Mrs. Archibald Silverman mailed in the letter below in answer to Rabbi Eisendrath's remarks at this meeting.)

Dear Rabbi Eisendrath,

I suppose one has to reach the age of 82 before courage makes a person "tell off" even the President of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, so here goes:

Very recently I read a column in which you "call upon Reform Jews to break stranglehold of Orthodox, in Israel". As it happens I disagree with you wholeheartedly. To begin with, I do not actually like "pushkes"; but even in the olden days when the present inhabitants of Mea Shearim, Safed, and other "Orthodox" communities and Yeshivot, also in the old city of Jerusalem, had to live on so-called "pushke-gelt". I, the youngest of eight children born in Kovno, and the only one to survive, and being brought here at eight months, blessed those who held the Holy Land for us!

As I grew older and, undoubtedly having been born a Zionist, I always preached that, to me, Zionism and Judaism were synonymous! So, for sixty-three years I travelled all over the world, and everywhere I found results of the teachings of "Reform Jews" whose "ideals" seemed easy and cheap to follow!

Have you any idea how many generations were poisoned by these teachings? Ask me, for as it happens, in so many places, Jews have grown rich and they, joining the Reform Temple in the early days (at first believing they would bring more real Judaism, then, giving it up, and becoming even more "reformed" than the old-timers), some cities finally decided they had to have an in-between Judaism, so, organized Conservative Congregations came!

Now I, having gone back and forth to Palestine, now Israel, twenty times since 1925, know who were the "gate-keepers" of our land (the Orthodox), just as I know it was the Histadrut (not necessarily religious, or builders of synagogues) who dug the ditches, drained the swamps, and fought both the Arabs and a diseased land!

As it happens, I had two sons by the time I was just twenty! Living in South Providence, my husband and I went to a synagogue my father-in-law had helped to build; so, lending that congregation the Sefer-Torah given to me by my dying father, my husband and I, too, joined the old Orthodox "shul", and, though I had been a "sogerin" since I was ten, I asked my maid to bring these two sons to "shul" on Yom Kippur, and leave them with their father.

I tried, in vain, to see them through the dirty curtain behind which we, women, sat from seven in the morning until nightfall. My husband, too, looked forward for the two children—one, six; and one, five. At the close of the service we hurried across two separate streets that ran street-cars, and, finding the children at home, were told that they were "chased out" of the "shul" because there wasn't any room for "shkutzim like us".

About this time a new Reform Synagogue was being built and, not having an in-between, Conservative, "shul", we joined for the children's sake, figuring we would bring enough of our friends in as new members, and thus, we would bring the extra Jewishness I felt was needed there. Enough said, though I brought in the additional members, they, themselves, voted against me whenever I suggested anything that would promise more Judaism, as I saw it, in our Temple.

Intermarried Jews Not Barred By Israel

JERUSALEM — No Jews will be barred from migrating to Israel because they intermarried in other countries, Zalman Shragal, head of the Jewish Agency's Immigration department, told newsmen recently.

"No one's immigration will be barred because one member of a couple is not Jewish or because the couple was not married in accordance with Jewish religious ceremony. We shall find a way of accommodating them, within the provisions of traditional Jewish religious law," he said.

He stated that the Immigration department does not decide who is and who is not a Jew.

TEL AVIV—David Ben-Gurion has restated his appeal for unity of the labor parties, declaring "there are differences but no basic antithesis between us." He stressed the need for all three parties to combine forces in waging an educational campaign to inculcate labor values, particularly among younger workers.

 Ben-Gurion, when comparing the basic unity of the Israeli parties from Mapam to Haoved Hatzioni (Liberals), mentioned the Communists and Herut as the only parties which were in direct antithesis to labor values.

Fraternities Talk Much, Do Little

NEW YORK — Social fraternities on American college and university campuses have taken little action to eliminate discriminatory practices, nor have the colleges themselves, according to a recent report by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

The report summarizes a study of university policy on fraternity discrimination made by the Illinois Committee on Human Rights in Higher Education in cooperation with the ADL. Fewer than 20% of the schools have acted to bring their practices into accord with their formal policies.

In making the report public, Dore Schary, national chairman, declared that while "fraternities no longer flaunt their racial laws, neither have they opened their membership rolls to all students. They evidently practice secretly prejudices they can no longer state openly."

Schary asserted that "vigorous action by the college administrations is needed on the actual practices of fraternities if educational institutions are to support efforts to end discrimination based on race, religion and national origins."

The study reveals that although today only two out of 61 national fraternities retain restrictive clauses in their constitutions, this has failed "to produce significant racial and religious integration" in their membership.

The Illinois study polled the 365 colleges and universities throughout the country that have fraternities or sororities on campus. Of these, 252, or 60%, replied.

Although most schools acknowledged their educational responsibility "in every phase of student activity," the commitments to formal policies against fraternity discrimination differed markedly.

Blaustein To Receive Lehman Israel Award

NEW YORK—The Herbert Lehman Israel Award will be presented to Jacob Blaustein at a dinner on Dec. 22.

The award is a plaque designed by Chaim Gross, noted sculptor. It expresses the spirit of friendship and cooperation between America and Israel, and the participation of American Jewry in the development of Israel through the Israel bond program.

Mr. Blaustein has also been elected by the trustees of Columbia University to serve a three-year term on Columbia's Advisory Council of the School of International Affairs.

American Jewish Committee Officer Assails Extremists as Un-American

WATERBURY — "Extremists used the election campaign as a recruiting device," said an officer of the American Jewish Committee at a November meeting of the Waterbury Unit of the committee at Beth-El Synagogue.

George M. Szabad, member of the Board of Governors of the committee, and chairman of its national committee on education and of its Westchester Division, stated that "The radical right is resurging as a result of emotions kindled in the heat of the campaign."

"The extremist wolf in anti-Communist clothing presents a problem," he continued. "They intimidate by slander, terrorize by rumor, disturb the peace and incite to violence. How can patriotic Americans, sincerely concerned about Communism, guard against being duped?"

Explaining why patriotic Americans should worry about extremists, Mr. Szabad said: "By their conspiratorial and repressive tactics, they are trying to bludgeon the American people into abandoning the twin ground-rules of democracy — that problems are solved by free and honest debate of legitimate political issues; and that the bedrock of integrity and goodwill among Americans, which lies beneath the surge and flow of conflicting opinion, must be kept inviolate.

"Instead of fighting Communism, extremists are fighting Americanism. Instead of protecting our American process of thoughtful discussion and orderly debate, and our system of law and justice, they are inciting hysteria and violence. Extremism lives by the alien and totalitarian doctrine that the end justifies the means.

"The only way to counteract the radical right is by circulating the truth, which means all of us must do a job of person-to-person education — the kind that takes place when one friend says to another, 'What's it all about?'"

Chairman of the Waterbury Unit is Leon Merson.

Founded in 1906, the American Jewish Committee is the pioneer human relations agency in the United States, protecting civil and religious rights of Jews here and abroad, and advancing the cause of improved human relations for people everywhere.

Orthodox Summoned To Act Against 'Anti-Torah' Group

NEW YORK — "It is our hope that the increased dangers to Torah evident from the formation of such new anti-Torah groups as the 'American Friends of Religious Freedom in Israel' will stimulate all of Orthodoxy to take the necessary forceful action to protect Torah interests, which in reality are the interests of the entire Jewish people," reads a statement issued by Agudath Israel of America.

The new group was scored as "a sister-organization of the Israel-based 'League for Religious Freedom,' which bears the major responsibility for the recent unprecedented attacks on Jewish religion in the Holy Land."

The main objective of the new group, according to Agudath Israel's statement, is "to sanction civil marriage and intermarriage in Israel. To achieve these ends, the group has been using the 'big lie' tactic, by clamoring that their 'religious freedom' is being denied.

"The compulsory religious marriage laws of Israel are accepted by the overwhelming ma-majority of the non-religious leaders and masses, who fully realize that this is in their own best interest to maintain Jewish continuity and to prevent the Jewish nation from splintering into unbridgeable segments that could never intermarry.

"We also note that various elements involved in the infamous 'Seven-Organization Declaration' . . . against Orthodoxy in Israel . . . were not deterred by the uproar they caused, and are among the founders of this new permanent body to combat Torah interests in the Holy Land. This broad grouping of secular and reformist elements thus openly reveal a firm determination in the total war that they have proclaimed against Orthodoxy. . . . We trust that those Orthodox groups that have granted religious status to these anti-Torah elements through joint membership in such mixed religious bodies as the Synagogue Council of America and the New York Board of Rabbis, will be moved by these latest developments to take the necessary action to withdraw their aid and succor to these groups."

Canadian Committee Studies Means Of Control In Fight Against Hate Literature

MONTREAL — Effective means of combatting hate literature are being studied by a small informal committee of experts appointed by Canada's Justice Minister Guy Favreau. Saul Hayes, executive vice-president of the Canadian Jewish Congress, and Dean Maxwell Cohen of McGill University are members of the committee.

"This group will study effective policies and means for fighting hate literature and other materials, and recommend to me as quickly as possible concrete steps the government might take," said Favreau.

Argentine Decree Penalizes Racists

BUENOS AIRES — Argentine President Arturo Illia has promulgated a new decree which provides penalties for propagandists of racial superiority, but also allows Argentina's two foremost anti-Semitic organizations to lead a legal existence.

Lifting of the ban against the Tacuara movement and Guardia Restauradora Nacionalista, leading Argentine fascist groups, has caused some concern among Jewish leaders here that these organizations may now be able to operate openly without any legal restraint against their existence.

Penalties of imprisonment of from one month to three years may, on the other hand, be imposed on those who "propagandize ideas or theories of race or group superiority, based on religion, ethnic origin or color; or who would justify or promote religious or racial discrimination in any form; or who incite to violence, individually or organizationally, against any race or group of another religion, ethnic origin or color."

The fixing of specific penalties for anti-Semitic or fascist actions and incitements meets requests previously voiced by DAIA, the central body or organized Argentine Jewry.

Ontario Powerless

In Toronto, Attorney General Arthur Wishart declared that the Province of Ontario is powerless to stem the mailing of hate literature in the province. His department examined every example of such literature brought to its notice in the past year, he said, but found no case in which it could prosecute with any reasonable hope of success.

The attorney general made the statement as he thumbed through a two-inch pile of pamphlets and letters, mainly attacking Jews, Negroes and persons labeled communists. They included material cursing Jews and threatening to exterminate the whole Jewish race. An attack on Abraham Feinberg, rabbi emeritus at Holy Blossom Temple, had been written by a 20-year-old youth.

Hate Writers Safe

Wishart said in an interview that the authors of such literature are undoubtedly aware that they cannot be touched by the law.

"Ontario is willing and anxious to initiate prosecutions that could be successful," Wishart added. He pointed out, however, that he could see no way in which the province could enact its own legislation to stop the hate-mongers.

Existing hate literature is not obscene within the meaning of the criminal code, he said, even though in his own mind he is sure of its criminal intent.

19 YEAR OLDS

You must have your own Blue Cross-Physicians Service protection by January, 1965

If you turned 19 this year, you will not be included under your parent's Family Plan after Jan. 1, 1965. (Parents take note!)

Time flies and that date will soon be here! It's easy to get details on how 19 year olds can secure their own protection under these non-profit health plans . . . getting the most for the health protection dollar! Don't delay. With today's high health care costs, it makes sense for you to act before the 19 year old enrollment period ends in January. Young adults who don't join by then will have to wait for the next general open enrollment . . . probably late in 1965.

In Hollywood . . .

By Barney Glazer

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's appearance December 2 at a dinner in the Beverly Hilton Hotel to help raise $30,000,000 for developing the Cedars-Sinai Medical Center marked Hollywood's dedication to the building fund drive.

Producer Samuel J. Briskin is president of the Center's committee which includes other film luminaries: Steve Brody, Armand S. Deutsch, Eugene V. Klein, Hal B. Wallis, David L. Wolper and Mrs. Lew Wasserman.

Dozens of other Hollywood executives and stars prefer to remain anonymous while contributing to the Medical Center. Discarding any form of personal publicity, they feel they will find their satisfaction when the Center is completed.

SWEEPING through upper Galilee country, 100-m.p.h. winds completely destroyed the set for "Judith," Paramount movie starring Sophia Loren. It was learned here today from Hollywood studio officials. The set duplicated a cooperative farm settlement. Director Daniel Mann said that fortunately 50 extras had worked on the kibbutz set the previous day, escaping injury.

JERRY LEWIS' son Ronnie danced the watusi at his mother's birthday party. Jerry is Jewish; Ronnie isn't. . . . Herschel Bernardi is flapping his flippers because New York's nail-eating critics acclaimed his performance of Johnny Denbo, the cocky Gypsy king, in the Shubert Theater new musical "Bajour" as "magnificent."

DAVID MORGAN, 22-year-old singer-guitarist son of famed bandleader Russ Morgan, is learning how to "sing" in sign language at religious services for the Southland's Jewish deaf. A rabbinical student at Hollywood's Hebrew Union College and a philosophy major at San Fernando Valley State College, David has been appointed spiritual leader of Temple Beth Solomon of the Deaf.

Organized three years ago by the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the unique service for the Jewish deaf is held the second Friday of each month at Wilshire Boulevard Temple, complete with a deaf choir which "sings" the age-old chants in sign language.

A graduate of Beverly Hills High School, young Morgan originally turned to the study of theology to help him "emotionally" in his approach to composing religious music. When his interest became both intellectual and spiritual, he decided to become a rabbi. Said David, "I want to delve deeply into Judaism, to help elevate it as a moving force in the modern world." He believes that religion, like music, lifts mankind to a higher plane, transcending the dull, the mundane and the ignoble.

AL LEWIS, who moved from Manhattan to the San Fernando Valley to play his teevee "Grandpa Munster" role, discussed his Merchant Marine service during World War II. "I was torpedoed twice and contrary to what my geography teacher said, the Mediterranean is not warm."

ENGAGED—Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Shwartz of 18 Dellwood Road, Cranston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Lynn, to Ira L. Kaplan, son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Kaplan of 66 Woodcliff Road, Brookline, Mass.

Miss Shwartz, a graduate of Cranston High School East, is a freshman at R. I. Junior College. Mr. Kaplan is an alumnus of Chauncy Hall, Boston, and a junior at Boston University.

A Dec. 18 wedding is planned.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

MICHAELSON TO SPEAK
State Senator Julius Michaelson will discuss the new Medicare bill at the Tuesday meeting of the Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women, at 1 P.M. in the Temple Emanu-El vestry. Dessert and coffee will be served at 12:30 P.M.

Mrs. Alice DeSaint, administrator for the Division of the Aging, and Miss Matilda Litwin, consultant for the Department of Social Welfare, will answer questions about Medicare. They will bring Medicare application forms, and will assist anyone who needs help in filling them out. Mrs. Reuben Pollock will introduce the program.

The public is invited to attend.

TEMPLE SINAI SERVICES
"Who Is A Brother?" is the sermon title for the Sabbath Vayt-gash service at 8:30 P.M. tonight at Temple Sinai, according to Rabbi Jerome S. Gurland. A Kiddush, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn Ackerman, will follow the service.

At the 11 A.M. service on Saturday, Barbara Dunder will be speaker, and Diane Ludman, Susan Brooks and Robert Geller will be readers.

NEW YEAR'S EVE GALA
A gala New Year's Eve party is planned by Congregation B'nai Israel Sisterhood, according to Mrs. Sheppie Dressler of Woonsocket, president. Co-chairmen of the dinner dance are Mrs. Solomon Stein and Mrs. Phillip J. Macktez, and a cocktail hour and special surprise ending are among their plans. Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Edward Golden and Mrs. Harold Golden. Mrs. Paul Bernon is publicity chairman. Assisting with preparations are Mrs. Robert Levine, Mrs. Lester A. Macktez and Mrs. Phillip D. Finkle.

THE SNOWFLAKE FLING
The Intermediate Group of Temple Beth Israel's U. S. Y. will hold a dance, The Snowflake Fling, on December 19 from 7:30 to 11 P.M. at the temple. Proper dress must be observed, and those attending must be in grades 7 through 10 and belong to U. S. Y. or some other youth group.

NEW YEAR'S EVE PARTY
Temple Beth Am, Warwick, will hold its first gala New Year's Eve party in the temple auditorium. Hot hors d'oeuvres and a buffet dinner, hats and favors, and dance music from 9:30 P.M. until 1:30 A.M. have been planned. Reservations may be made by telephoning Larry Aikins, chairman of the party, ST 1-3831; Shirley Karp, HO 3-8309; Rita Eisman, RE 7-9233, or Joyce Friedman, ST 1-4856.

lecturers. This part of the program has been arranged in cooperation with the existing American Jewish Committee chair in intergroup relations at Pro Deo University.

It conducts research to help religious educators revise their teaching techniques and materials to root out expressions and distortions that cause prejudice.

It issues publications and other background documents for use by various religious bodies, including universities, parochial schools and related agencies.

It develops and maintains relations with universities and schools in various parts of the world and seeks to stimulate and assist studies by religious groups of their teaching materials and methods.

Prof. Otto Klneberg, former head of the department of social psychology at Columbia University, has been named as co-director of the Sperry Center, along with Prof. Tulio Tentori of Rome, a prominent cultural anthropologist.

Mr. Friedman said that projects had been initiated in Italy and in Spain, as well as in South America, to promote self-studies of religious texts. The Rev. Bertrand de Margerie, president of the Conference of Catholic Priests in Brazil, has completed a study on the image of Jews in Brazilian catechisms, Mr. Friedman reported.

Rabbi Marc Tanenbaum, director of the committee's inter-religious affairs-department, cited the center as a "dramatic and practical illustration of what Catholic scholars and religious leaders in cooperation with Jews are doing to carry out the mandate of the Ecumenical Council to combat anti-Semitism."

However, Rabbi Tanenbaum said in an interview, that although Christian-Jewish relations were achieving new levels of understanding, "a curious paradox exists which reflects divisiveness within organized Judaism."

On the one hand, he said, major Jewish organizations have warmly greeted the Ecumenical Council's preliminary action to repudiate deicide. On the other hand, he said, some Jewish leaders have responded to this "historic development with cynicism and petulant carping, deriding even the motives of Christian leaders who have demonstrated their good faith in many ways."

He said that Jewish leaders "who are taking this position are giving the impression that they do not want Christians to help put an end to anti-Semitism, and that by some strange irony they are holding present-day Christians collectively responsible for all the persecutions of Jews in the past."

His Eminence told of having gone to a vote registration place. The clerk asked his name and wrote down the reply, "Francis Cardinal Spellman." Then the clerk asked: "What occupation?"

O'Dwyer once had a feud with John Golden, the veteran Broadway producer and song writer whose hits included "Poor Butterfly." Golden a dedicated member of The Lambs Club, was asked to write a sketch for the Lambs Gambol — the annual revue whose only competition was the Frbie put on by the rival theatrical club, The Friars.

Golden worked hard at writing the sketch, about the wonders of the world which could be seen in N.Y., for the price of a subway ride around Manhattan. It was all in rhyme, and concluded with "It's the only ve-HIC-le where they take you for a nickel."

The day before the Lambs Gambol where this lyric was to be used, the Mayor announced the raise in subway fare to a dime. Golden complained: "Mayor O'Dwyer must be a Friar."

In Mexico City one night I heard O'Dwyer tell of the day he greeted a Father-of-the-Year and his 14 children at City Hall. O'Dwyer asked for the mother: She was found at home cooking, washing and muttering about her husband: "The bum never did an honest day's work in his life."

He insisted, however, that politics must guide admission to the group. He pointed out that Portugal, certainly an underdeveloped country, was not considered for membership because it is anathema to African states. But Israel, he said, "is 100 times worse than Portugal."

Since Pachachi was appealing thus to the Africans, all wondered how the Africans would react. A half-dozen African representatives took up the cudgel on Israel's behalf. The Africans rejected every one of the Arab arguments.

The debate lasted almost three hours. No definite decision on admitting or rejecting Israel was reached by the time the hour arrived for adjournment.

But Israel had presented a powerful set of arguments—and the Africans and Latin Americans (since the chairman himself represented the Latin American bloc) had shown their fairness toward Israel.

Next day came the report from Gen. Bull. On first reading, it certainly seemed most objective.

When Comay addressed the Security Council at its first meeting on the latest Syrian-Israeli flare-up, he made these points: Syria had started the shooting on Nov. 13; Syria fired at an Israeli patrol traveling a path definitely inside Israel's territory; Israel replied with its airpower—but not until the UN military observers had failed in an effort to reach a cease-fire.

Coming up, on the Assembly agenda would be a number of issues of vital concern to Israel. These included: the issue of financing UN peace-keeping operations, such as the United Nations Emergency Force, to which the USSR insists it will not contribute

Jewish Theological Seminary Acquires North African Books, Manuscripts

NEW YORK—The Jewish Theological Seminary of America recently acquired a collection of approximately 150 manuscripts and 2,000 printed books which comprise a valuable record of the Jews in North Africa. The documents were secretly preserved for centuries in communities in Morocco and other countries.

Condition of the collection ranges from states of fine preservation to decay. Most of the manuscripts and books are still in crates in the seminary's library tower.

Although much study and historical evaluation is still needed, the archive is known to contain astronomical theses, astrological formulas, grammatical works, Biblical exegesis and Talmudical commentaries.

The books and papers, which

B'nai B'rith Board Votes To Rejoin Coordinating Group

WASHINGTON—Moving to heal a 12-year-old breach in Jewish community-relations activities, B'nai B'rith's board of governors voted at an annual meeting last week to reaffiliate with the National Community Relations Advisory Council.

The council is an advisory and coordinating body of six Jewish national and 75 local community-relations councils whose purpose is to combat discrimination and promote inter-group relations.

Label A. Katz, president of B'nai B'rith, said that the action of the 490,000-member organization would require approval by the national commission of the Anti-Defamation League. Its community relations arm. The league, whose executive committee has already recommended approval, will meet in February.

The move to reaffiliate came after two years of discussions, during which negotiators ironed out the differences that led B'nai B'rith and its Anti-Defamation League and the American Jewish Committee, then the largest members of the council, to resign in 1952.

Report Caused Defection

The controversy was a result of a study made by Robert M. MacIver, a well-known sociologist. Professor MacIver, whose study was financed by the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds, proposed a reallocation of activities and responsibilities among community relation agencies "to avoid duplication."

When a majority of the council's affiliates voted to implement the report, B'nai B'rith and the American Jewish Committee resigned, contending the action shifted the status of the council from an advisory body to a "functional" agency.

It was learned that under the new agreement there would be no allocation of functions. However, the special resources of constituent groups would be utilized on a "case-by-case basis."

Katz Hails Decision

Mr. Katz said the decision to rejoin was made "on the basis of mutually agreed upon terms which provide for a coordinative process that respects volunteerism and the integrity and autonomy of its constituent members." He called it "an example of a working and practical unity in which all elements, and particularly the community itself, stand to gain."

Dore Schary, national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League, said the conditions for reaffiliation would protect "our communal integrity and help put our special skills and staff to greater use in the common cause of human relations."

The B'nai B'rith board of governors also voted to spend $4,339,000 on its youth programs next year—an increase of more than $262,000 over current expenditures.

were passed from generation to generation as a sacred heritage, were written by descendants of Spanish Jews who had fled or were forced to leave when expulsion orders were promulgated in 1492.

The North African link with Jewish cultural history was described yesterday by Menahem Schmelczer, the seminary's associate librarian, as of major importance to scholarship. The collection, he said, "will enable historians to fill in gaps in the records of the cultural development of Jewish communities in every age throughout the world."

In recent years, many North American Jews have immigrated to Israel and to France. In the disintegration of the North African communities, Mr. Schmelczer said, "bearers of the tradition are disappearing, and the written material becomes scarcer."

The seminary's collection had been assembled over many years by an unnamed scholar in Morocco, and it was purchased from his heirs. The records, rescued from many sources, are particularly rich in Moroccan material, and particularly valuable, according to Mr. Schmelczer, because part was written by the first generation after the Spanish expulsion.

Scholars are interested especially, the librarian added, in assessing the impact on the North African communities of refugees who, in his words, "had been immersed in a tradition of scholarship and culture under centuries of liberal Moorish government."

Cantor Charles Ross, assisted by the temple choir, will conduct the Sabbath Eve service, and an Oneg Shabbat will follow.

"TRADITION OF PEACE"
 "The Jewish Tradition of Peace" will be the sermon topic at Temple Beth Shalom's late services tonight at 8:15 o'clock. Rabbi Charles M. Rubel will conduct the services, and Cantor Karl Kritz will sing the liturgy. Fred Very will be organist.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Rosenfield will sponsor an Oneg Shabbat after the services, in honor of the coming marriage of their daughter, Sandra Beth, to Arnold Stralman.

TAYLOR TO SPEAK
 Dr. Clarence S. Taylor, superintendent of the Warwick School Department, will be guest speaker at Temple Beth Am, Warwick, at 8:15 P.M. services today. Dr. Taylor's topic will be "Factors in Child Guidance." Rabbi Alfred Fruchter will conduct the services. Congregation President Abe Aron and Sisterhood President Mrs. Bernard Silver will be host and hostess at an Oneg Shabbat after the services.

FOUNDERS AND GOOD FRIENDS— Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Korn, who helped found the Providence Hebrew Day School and have been closely affiliated with all its major projects, were honored last Sunday night at the school's annual Chanukah festival. Archie Smith, left, president of the school, in his first public appearance since an illness, presented Mr. and Mrs. Korn with a scroll in honor of their many years of dedication.

Hebrew Day School Friends Honored at Chanukah Festival

Honor was paid two friends of Providence Hebrew Day School at the school's Chanukah festival last Sunday night. Archie Smith, school president, presented a scroll to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Korn, who have been associated with the school since its inception. Mr. Korn has served as school treasurer since its founding, and Mrs. Korn is honorary vice-president of the Ladies Association.

Also honored was Miss Nettie Simon, observing her 15th anniversary as secretary of the school. She was presented with a tray by Mrs. Joseph J. Fishbein, president of the Ladies Association.

Among other awards of appreciation was a Menorah pin presented to Benjamin W. Grossman for his interest and generosity.

Rabbi David Jehuda, dean of the school, delivered the Chanukah message. Children participating in the program were Wayne Krieger, Bernice Gelbruch, Ava Garber, Joel Gereboff, Gary Goldsmith, Paul Glassman and Sari Fishbein.

Chanukah refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, including Mesdames Joseph Dubin, chairman; Malcolm Bromberg and Milton Winkler, co-chairmen; Harold Levine, center-piece; David Korn, hostesses; Robert Dwares and Samuel Flescher.

Arrangements committee members were Dr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Fishbein, Dr. Norman Berkowitz, Joseph Teverow, Malcolm Bromberg and Archie Smith. Ushers were Jacob Temkin, Milton Winkler and Jerome Feinstein.

9,000 Slovakian Jews Not Assimilated, Says Chief Rabbi Elias Katz

LONDON — Neither assimilation nor overt anti-Semitism are problems which trouble the Jews of Slovakia, according to a London Jewish Chronicle report.

Slovakia's 9,000 Jews have, with few exceptions, maintained their Jewishness, in contrast with Jews in some other East European countries. Jewish life generally is in a tolerably good state, and Jewish institutions of all kinds do exist, said Rabbi Elias Katz, Chief Rabbi of Slovakia.

Each of the 23 communities has its own synagogue or Beth Hamidrash, and its own slaughterer for poultry. There are eight slaughterers for cattle, and those from the bigger centers like Bratislava, travel to smaller communities to attend to their requirements for kosher meat.

His own salary is paid by the state, said Rabbi Katz, and the state contributes toward the maintenance of Jewish institutions. Every community has a Talmud Torah of some kind, and bar mitzvahs and weddings are regularly celebrated.

Whatever might have been the case in the past, there is today no overt anti-Semitism in Slovakia, said Rabbi Katz.

With this in mind I, together with a few other women, labored hard to form a women's committee to build one Conservative Synagogue, and then another; but, for me and mine, evidently it was too late. . . .

Finally, taking the chairmanship of the Ida M. Silverman Synagogue Building Committee, under the auspices of the Keren Hayesod in Jerusalem, I have lived to see "billions of dollars" worth of synagogues and centers growing up everywhere! And yet, what a time I have had, even though assisted by a remarkable committee in Jerusalem; for I have helped to build only eighty-five synagogues in Israel! . . .

And now, after Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath's having visited the new and seemingly prosperous Israel (there is no unemployment there—jobs are and must be prepared in advance for the newcomers), he finds fault with the old-time Orthodox Jews, the while he tells of having spoken to several leaders who, according to him, want Reform Judaism!

No one has ever prohibited having Reform Jewish synagogues in Israel! Yes, most of Israel's Orthodox leaders seem to find fault with any and all kinds of Judaism and Zionism, but even though I do not agree with them on all points, and even though most of them may or may not know my name, I love them just the same wherever they are, for they have and are "holding the fort" for our land, and trying to keep it holy!

I know the Reform 'Siddur' has been revised and, at long last, evidently has more or less accepted the new State of Israel; but I would ask you, Rabbi Eisendrath, to try to figure out how much or how little Reform Judaism did to help build this new State of which we all may be proud. So, please, bear in mind that Jews are coming from every country in the world, while Reform Judaism existed in very few countries other than the United States! I know whereof I speak because, as you know, I have visited practically every country. . . .

So, Rabbi Eisendrath, I wish I were at least twenty years younger, for then I would fight you in every newspaper, Yiddish, Hebrew, Anglo-Saxon, and English.

. . . . Retract a little of your speaking and much of your thinking for, as it happens, we need everybody who has the joy of living in Eretz Israel! Too bad there are not more Americans, English, Canadians, etc. to bring some of their ideas into the Holy Land, just as they did to the lands wherein they dwelled! We want to and we must (after we have taught the surrounding Moslems a bitter and costly lesson) make of our God-given land the greatest and the noblest land in the world! This is undiluted Zionism! The one who knows the job of 'Zionism' feels and knows real Peace!

Sincerely yours,

Canadian Report Finds

Rise In Delinquency

MONTREAL — A study conducted by Louis Rosenberg, research director of the Canadian Jewish Congress, shows a rising number of Jewish juvenile delinquents. The number convicted of all offenses in Canada has increased from 35 in 1950 to 89 in 1962.

The total number of Canadian juvenile delinquents convicted of all offenses rose from 6,418 in 1950 to 16,608 in 1962.

The percentage of Jewish juvenile delinquents among total juvenile delinquents convicted in Canada formed 2.6% of all children within that age group.

In 1941, the percentage of Jewish children among convicted juvenile delinquents in Canada was 5%.
