Kaplan Honored by Temple Sinai

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kaplan

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kaplan of Cranston were honored by Temple Sinai at a tribute reception held Tuesday evening, June 17, at the Cranston temple.

The Kaplans served as coordinating co-chairmen of the temple's Mortgage Redemption drive. They were honored for their achievements on behalf of the temple, community, and Israel.

Mr. Kaplan, President of J.K. Chemicals in Cranston, served as president of Temple Sinai from 1974 to 1977, and as president of the Brotherhood from 1971 to 1974.

As a past vice-president of Sons of Zion Synagogue, Mr. Kaplan was instrumental in the donation of two Torahs to Temple Sinai. He has played a key role in the temple's program to strengthen Israel as the Israel Bond co-chairman.

Mr. Kaplan is also affiliated with the Jewish War Veterans, Hebrew Free Loan and is a life member of Temple Beth David. He is associated with the Chamber of Commerce, Redwood Lodge #35 of the Knights of Pythias, the Providence Chapter of Royal Arch and the Palestine Marhaba Shrine Club.

Mrs. Kaplan has served twice as president of the Temple Sinai Sisterhood, from 1971 to 1973, and in 1978 and 1979. She was Sisterhood secretary in 1975-1976. Last year she was honored as "Sister of the Year" by the temple's active women's group. Mrs. Kaplan is presently a member of the Board of Trustees.

She is also involved with the Jewish Home for the Aged, Women's American ORT, having served as corresponding secretary of the Narragansett Chapter, and Miriam Hospital.

Boy Still Missing Following Kidnapping, Ransom Payoff

TEL AVIV — Israeli police, aided by army units, border police and scores of civilian volunteers, have all joined in a determined effort to find eight-year-old Oron Yarden, who was kidnapped two weeks ago and held for ransom by a number of unknown assailants.

The youngest son of Penina and Amos Yarden, of Tel Aviv, was last seen June 8 entering a car in the wealthy Sayvon section of the city, where he lived with his parents and teenage brother and sister. Witnesses at the

N.Y. Court Ruling Upholds Rights of Sabbath Observer

ALBANY — The State Court of Appeals, reversing a lower court decision, has ruled unanimously that a Rochester hospital must accommodate the religious practices of a Jewish Sabbath observer on its staff.

The Sabbath observer, Sally Rappaport of Rochester, N.Y., was represented in her complaint against Genesee Hospital by Joseph B. Robinson, general counsel of the American Jewish Congress, and Robert E. Ganz, an Albany lawyer.

Hailing the decision as "a major victory for religious liberty," the two attorneys called it "a landmark ruling" for two reasons:

"First, because the court has ruled that it is the employer's affirmative duty to accommodate the known religious beliefs of its employees' and, second, because the employer must prove 'undue economic hardship' in order to be exempt from the law.

"This ruling, by the State's highest court, gives the law effective force as a significant protection of freedom of religion, making clear that the hospital's 'attitude of indifference' and failure to undertake affirmative action to accommodate Mrs. Rappaport's observance of the Sabbath resulted in unlawful discrimination."

Mrs. Rappaport was one of five persons in the X-ray department of Genesee Hospital, a private facility, who requested to be excused from working on Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath. Genesee Hospital argued that to accommodate Mrs. Rappaport's need to be relieved of non-emergency work on Saturday would have created undue hardship to the hospital. Last year the Appellate Division upheld the hospital's claim.

Romanian Dancer Vanishes in Israel

JERUSALEM (JNS) — The whereabouts of a Romanian dancer who disappeared at Ben-Gurion Airport just before she was due to return to Bucharest are still shrouded in mystery.

Elana Tutan, a member of the 15-strong troupe which had been appearing at a Tel Aviv hotel, had checked her luggage in at the airport. She suddenly disappeared.

It is not clear whether she wants to remain in Israel permanently, but so far there is no indication that she is looking for asylum. A representative of the Romanian Embassy said any move to grant her asylum would be regarded as an "unfriendly act."

The tall, attractive dancer has her husband and two children in Romania.

an insurance executive, to a countryside location near Kfar Saba where he was to receive instructions to drop the ransom money, supplied by police and contained in two plastic bags, into an empty barrel at a roadside.

The elder Yarden complied with the kidnappers' demands but his son, who was to have been released within a half-hour of the drop-off, never appeared and police, spread throughout the area, reported that a man

First Jewish Woman Graduates West Point

Thirteen Jewish cadets were commissioned second lieutenants in the United States Army at colorful graduation ceremonies held at West Point last month, including the first Jewish woman cadet, Danna Maller.

All 13 cadets participated in the Jewish Baccalaureate Service conducted Friday evening before graduation. 250 persons, including staff, members of the faculty and their families and guests from surrounding communities attended the service, which like all weekly Jewish services, was held in a chemistry lecture hall.

A drive to raise $5.5 million for a West Point Jewish Chapel is presently at the half-way mark. Overlooking the parade grounds and campus, the chapel site adjoins two other chapels. Although there have been Jews at West Point since the first class, when Simon Levy was one of two graduates in 1802, there never has been a Jewish house of worship.

A large delegation of Jewish War Veterans, led by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Goldwasser of Monsey, N.Y., presented a kiddush cup and other gifts to each graduate. Lt. General Andrew J. Goodpaster, Superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy, presented bibles, donated by JWV to the cadets.

In appreciation of his participation, Lt. General Goodpaster was presented with a kiddush cup.

CANDLE BLESSING: Cadet Danna Maller of Cocheville, Md., the first Jewish woman graduate to be commissioned at the U.S. Military Academy, lit Sabbath candles to open the annual Jewish Baccalaureate Service held May 23 at West Point.

Obituaries

W. Irving Wolf Dies; Was Jewelry Executive

PAWTUCKET — W. Irving Wolf, 98, of 538 East Ave., a jewelry industry executive for many years, died June 15 at the Halliworth House, Providence. He was the husband of the late Fay (Miller) Wolf.

Born in Philadelphia, a son of the late Herman and Cliffee (Levy) Wolf, he had lived in Pawtucket for more than 25 years, previously living in New York City.

He was a 1904 graduate of the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Wolf was associated with Trifari, Krussman & Fishel, Inc., from 1938 to 1943. He was the president of Ostby and Barton Co., a ring manufacturing company, from 1944 to 1948.

A founder of the jewelry division of Sarah Coventry, Inc., he retired 19 years ago but remained active as a consultant to the firm. After retiring, he founded Selfit, Inc., at the age of 80, based on a patent for adjustable rings. He maintained an office in the Hospital Trust Building until he was 90.

Mr. Wolf was a founder and trustee of the Woodmere Academy in Woodmere, Long Island, and a director of the Woodmere Country Club.

He was a member of Temple Beth-El of Providence and director of Big Brothers of R.I.

He leaves three sons, W. Stephen of Sarasota, Fla., Herman of Fairfield, Conn. and W. Irving Jr. of Pawtucket; eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The funeral service was held June 17 at 2 p.m. at Temple Beth-El, 70 Orchard Ave., Providence. Burial was private. Arrangements were made by the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel.

RAFAEL M. ZAIMAN

PROVIDENCE — Rafael M. Zaiman, 11, of 365 Cole Ave., died at home on June 15 after a six-month illness.

Born in Providence, a son of Rabbi Joel H. and Ann (Shanok) Zaiman, he was a lifelong resident of the city.

He was a sixth grade student at the Providence Hebrew Day School.

Besides his parents, he leaves two sisters, Elana and Sarina L. Zaiman and a brother, Ari L. Zaiman, all at home; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Shanok of Scarsdale, N.Y., and his paternal grandparents, Rabbi and Mrs. Solomon Zaiman of Los Angeles, Calif.

The funeral services and burial was held June 16 at 3 p.m. at Lincoln Park Cemetery, Warwick. Arrangements were made by the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel.

Avraham Halfi Dies, Was Veteran Stage Actor

TEL AVIV (UJA) — Avraham Halfi, a veteran actor on the Israeli stage, died Sunday of a heart attack at the age of 74. He was one of the founders of the Ohel Theater and later joined the Chamber Theater with which he remained until his death.

Joseph Cohen Dies; Helped Build India Point Park

PROVIDENCE — Joseph Cohen, 85, of 33 Brookway Road, president for more than 40 years of the Promet Corporation, the former General Scrap Iron & Metals Processing Co., died June 11 at the Jane Brown Building of Rhode Island Hospital after a three-month illness. He was the husband of Edith Lotnik (Cohen) Cohen.

Mr. Cohen was a principal figure in the development of India Point Park. Before April, 1968, his company owned a 2.7-acre tract there on which it operated a scrap metal yard, one of several owned by the firm in New England.

When a park was proposed in the 1960s as a replacement for the scrapyard, Mr. Cohen agreed to a swap for a parcel at Fields Point.

Later, when public funds were being solicited to match government dollars for construction of the park, Mr. Cohen added his personal contribution of $1,000.

Under his direction, the company grew from "a small junkyard" to one of the largest exporters of scrap metal on the east coast. He said he really began in the business when he worked as a boy with his father, who collected scrap with a pushcart in Fall River.

In 1968, he estimated that more than one-third of the cargo shipped out of Providence was scrap from his yard, and that he employed more than a third of all the longhorses there.

He once said that scrap metal yards, unsightly though they may be, are essential to the existence of any metropolitan area. He speculated that if only his New England operations were closed for a single day, the result would be a chaotic buildup of scrap in many New England communities.

He served in the Navy during World War I. He was a 1919 graduate of Brown University and his fraternity was Phi Epsilon Pi. He had also attended the U.S. Naval Academy.

A charter member of Temple Beth-El, and also a member of Congregation Agudath Achim in Taunton, he was past national president of the American Institute of Scrap Iron & Steel, a member of Providence Rotary and the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island.

He was a retired member of the advisory board of the Industrial National Bank.

Born in Fall River, he was a son of the late Louis L. and Fannie Cohen, and lived in Providence since 1934.

Besides his wife he leaves a son, Avram N. Cohen of Providence; a brother, Robert J. Cohen of Fall River; a sister, Mrs. Sarah Norman of Brookline, Mass., and a grandchild.

A funeral service was held June 12 at 2 p.m. at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel, 458 Hope St. Burial was in Mt. Nebo Cemetery, Taunton.

Rabbi Bamberger

NEW YORK (UJA) — Funeral services were held here for Rabbi Bernard J. Bamberger, former president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis and the World Union for Progressive Judaism. He died Saturday at the age of 76.

Rabbi Bamberger, who was also a former president of the Synagogue Council of America, was rabbi of Temple Shaaray Tefila, one of New York City's oldest

The Rabbi's Role Subject Of Conference Discussion

How does a rabbi judge whether a woman coming to discuss marital problems seeks help or is flirtatious? What are the limits of a rabbi's responsibility when he wants to aid a couple with a sexual problem? How does the rabbi cope with the demands of his own family situation, after serving as confidant, celebrant, counselor and counselor in the course of a normal day?

These are a few of the concerns to be examined at a special session on "Understanding and Relating to Sexual Issues: The Rabbi's Role," Monday, June 23, at the 91st Annual Convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh. Dr. Ruth Westheimer, Adjunct Associate Professor at New York Hospital, Cornell University Human Sexuality Program, will make a presentation including two brief films, with a discussion to follow.

Dr. Westheimer points out these factors which oblige the rabbi to develop his competence in handling the subject of sexuality:

1. With the extended family a thing of the past, people confide increasingly in their spiritual leaders;

2. The divorce rate among Jewish families is a major concern;

3. The sexual function is a significant factor in the stability or instability of the marital relationship.

"To be effective in helping his congregation in this subject area, the rabbi must be ease in discussing sexuality, and clear about his role," Dr. Westheimer observes. "He must understand the implications of the relationship between sexuality and religion. He must be ready to counsel, while understanding that it is not for him to be a sex therapist."

Dr. Westheimer has lectured on sexuality and the Jewish tradition, and has taught the psychology of sexuality, and has explored the range of challenges rabbis encounter as the minister to their congregants, who often reveal sexual problems incidentally, in the course of discussing other matters.

Lubavitcher Rebbe Rebukes Practice of Family Planning

NEW YORK — The Lubavitcher Rebbe, Rabbi Menachem M. Schneerson, spoke out sharply here against the increasing prevalence of family planning, and the ignorance by many Jews as to the Jewish laws pertaining to marital relations.

Speaking at Lubavitch World Headquarters in New York before more than 3,000 women attending the 25th annual convention of the Lubavitch Women's Organization, the Rebbe decried the silence on the part of many Rabbis who hesitate to speak out publicly on the Torah view of family planning and the Jewish laws regarding the observance of Taharas Hamishpacha marital relations, the observance of Mikvah, etc.

"As a result of this disturbing void and painfully neglected area of Jewish life," the Rebbe said, "many, many of our Jewish men and women do not know that in most instances Jewish law prohibits family planning and the prevention of birth, and that Jewish law prescribes many details regarding marital relations, which are of constant importance and consequence to Jewish family life."

"Today's young people learn about male and female relationships from many sources, especially as a result of the openness in recent years with which such matters are being discussed, but, unfortunately, the Torah view on these matters are at best kept secret from them."

"Years ago this information was transmitted from mother to daughter. But nowadays, despite the prevalent openness in some issues, parents neglect to transmit to their daughters and sons at the premarital stage of their lives the information vital to their proper observance of marital relations according to Jewish law, including Mikvah and all the attending details. We now witness, therefore, the prevailing ignorance of this entire, very important area of Jewish life."

The Rebbe called upon Rabbis to talk about these matters in their synagogues, discreetly but publicly, as well as in private consultations with their members, to teach and educate them in this area.

The Rebbe said that tampering with the first commandment and disrupting the normal, natural human biological functions, has sharply increased the stress and strife in families, and is a major contributing factor in the breakdown of family life and mental and physical maladies amongst Jews and non-Jews.

The Rebbe urged the women to initiate a massive drive to inform and educate Jewish women "upon primarily rests the responsibility and the privilege of perpetuating the true Jewish home" about the Jewish laws which prohibit the prevention of birth and which regulate Jewish marital life, and to "thereby provide for a growing, healthy and wholesome Jewish family for themselves and for the entire Jewish people."

Reform synagogues, from 1944 until his retirement in 1971.

As a scholar Bamberger achieved renown for several books including "The Story of Judaism," "The Bible - A Modern Jewish Approach," "The Search for Jewish Theology," "Prosemyism in the Talmudic Era."

Born in Baltimore and graduated from Johns Hopkins University he was ordained a rabbi in 1926 at Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati. In 1929 the university conferred on him a Doctor of Divinity degree.

Students Appeal to Supreme Court

Jewish Organizations Split Over Sabbath Question

WASHINGTON (JTA) — Jewish communal organizations are not of one mind as to whether Lynn and Susan Stein, twins of nearby Fairfax, Va., who shunned their high school graduation exercises because they were held on the Sabbath, should take the issue to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The American Jewish Congress has joined with the two Orthodox girls in their decision to have the nation's highest tribunal consider their appeal that in the future institutions like Virginia's Woodson High School and the Fairfax County School Board should not hold such events on Sabbath days. However, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, the Jewish Community Council of Greater Washington and the National Jewish Commission on Law and Public Affairs (COLPA) see the circumstances from a different perspective.

When Woodson High conducted its exercises two weeks ago, Lynn and Susan were attending services at the Conservative congregation Olan Tikvah, Fairfax's only synagogue, which is within walking distance of the Stein home.

Numerous friends were prepared to boycott the graduation in sympathy but the sisters discouraged them. "This is an event that comes once in a lifetime and you should take part," they told classmates.

Of the 512 students in the class, 12 are Jewish. Besides the Stein sisters, one other Jew declined to attend the exercises. George Hamil, spokesman for the Fairfax County School Board, informed the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that the class had six valentines and Susan was one of them but not Lynn. Hamil said that Lynn had a 4.0 average until she received a "B" in calculus for the last semester that "pulled her down."

Noting that the twins had been trying since last December to get the exercises held on a day other than the Sabbath, their lawyer, Washington attorney Michael Hausfeld, told the JTA that Lynn "devoted so much time to the effort that it had to take its toll somehow."

Hausfeld said that unless the school authorities change their policy so that exercises will not take place on the Sabbath day for Christians or Jews. The girls are prepared to take the issue to the Supreme Court. They have until the end of August to take that action.

The Virginia Supreme Court on May 29, eight days before graduation, agreed with the Fairfax Circuit Court against overruling the County Board which by a 5-3 vote refused to change the date. Woodson's principal and two area school superintendents had previously rejected the twins' appeal.

TRACES OF ANTI-SEMITISM

The attention resulting from the issue brought about what The Washington Post described editorially as "traces of anti-Semitism." School authorities said that if threats were evidenced they should have been brought to their attention. Mrs. Evelyn Stein, mother of the twins, told the JTA "I have seven children and I don't want them hurt."

The twins are the oldest in the family of Dr. Jerome Stein, a physician who practices in northern Virginia, and Mrs. Stein. JTA was informed by sources close to the case that they know of anti-Semitic remarks by Woodson students and threats that jeering at the graduation against Jewish students would ensue if the graduation were postponed.

When the case was before the Virginia Supreme Court, the ADL, the Washington Council and COLPA suggested through their counsel, Washington attorney Nathan Lewin, that the court rule in support of the girls' complaint but not to defer the graduation since it was so close to its scheduled date. Lewin, who has often appeared in court on behalf of Orthodox Jewish causes, told the JTA that "we hope for a victory on principle."

The three organizations filed their brief with the court on May 27. A hearing was held the next day and the court's denial came the following day.

In opposing further court proceedings, Lewin told the JTA that the issue is not like compulsory participation in employment or professional testing that involves the Sabbath. "Attendees at graduation is not absolute requirement," Lewin noted. "There is no question the girls will get their diplomas."

As for the twins' view of the legal process, Lynn said: "It's not over. We're not finished. It will never be finished until the date gets changed."

On Spirituality . . . And Life

A Letter From a Young Hebrew Christian to His Parents

Dear Mother and Dad,

I visited you home last Friday night with my wife Catherine. I noticed the Sabbath candles burning, the only vestige of spiritual value still at home. I displayed a little gold cross and both of you looked startled at me. Benji and Sarah turned away from me.

Come to think of it, is my fault? After my bar mitzvah ceremony and the swell display of luxury at my party, I found a void in my soul. I was looking for an inspiring symbol of spiritual meaning. To put it plainly, I was searching for G-d in my soul. I did not find this at your hands.

Along came several well-mannered, soft-spoken men with understanding words. They offered me spiritual satisfaction in my attachment to Jesus. I saw nothing wrong to contradict what attachment and what consciousness I possessed. I was throwing nothing away. So I joined them.

At my bar mitzvah ceremony, I heard the rabbi speak of Hillel and Shammai. I had never heard of them before. Now I am so much nearer to St. Paul and to St. Peter. I saw something where I had nothing before.

Now about Catherine. Before I joined the Hebrew Christian, I met her at college. She is beautiful, educated and well-adjusted.

Why Should Jews Get Excited?

It never ceases to amaze me how the assimilated Jews of America hide their heads like ostriches when REAL JEWS go out of their way to eliminate enemies of all of Jewry. Such was the case this month, with the near-death of two Arab mayors in the Liberated Territories (or West Bank, as the Communist-dominated "PEACE NOW" group calls it).

For 13 years, religious settlements held back their wrath as they buried one youth after another, all victims of P.L.O. On the Bar Mitzvah of the Six Day War, the settlers decided to show they were Jewish men. The non-Jewish world, for 13 years, told them to turn the other cheek. It is a fact of nature that all faces have two cheeks and there was nowhere else to turn. The mayors who egged on the terrorists had to be eliminated.

Many Liberal Jews and non-Jews asked how can the democratically elected government of Israel allow these murderers to take vengeance. No one asks why the democratically elected Arab mayors supported the murderers of children. These beautiful political leaders only called for the genocide of the Jewish people, but never lifted a gun themselves (maybe a little gun-running).

There is only one solution to the Liberated Territory Question. The Arabs must be paid to leave, as were those in Israel's old borders. An armistice column cannot be allowed to choke Israel's throat. Our enemies, who open P.L.O. embassies, will do so whether we are GOOD JEWS or not, so let's not be such good Jews.

Looking for a Job?

Within the first five minutes of your interview for a job, business recruiters often make up their minds whether you're to be hired or not.

That, at least, is the finding of Michael Molloy, head of the job recruitment division of Arthur Anderson & Co., one of the nation's leading accounting firms. Millions of you are now out there, finished with your formal training (for a while, certainly), whether it be from a high school, college, graduate school, technical, trade or any sort of other educational institution. Most of you have not yet obtained what you will consider your first "permanent" job; most of you are just starting to look; most of you have been told the basics of hunting for a job ("I've done it often enough") but you still frightened, uncertain, wishing you had more guides.

OK. What do job interviewers look for in you, a job candidate? Molloy advises you, as a job applicant, that:

• Thorough preparation is the key to making first impressions work in your favor. Before you go for the interview you've obtained, look deep within yourself, be honest, weigh your own weaknesses (as only you know them) as well as your strengths.

• Ask yourself: If I were in the employer's seat, would I pay someone with my background the salary I want and am asking? If your honest answer is "No," lower your expectations at this point.

• Dress for the job you want. If your aim is to work for a conservative bank and that's where you're being interviewed, don't wear a flashy bow tie or slit skirt.

The person interviewing you wants to see (if you look, as well as speak and perform, as a serious business person is expected to look. (As a girl applying for a job in a newspaper city room filled with men, I wore only dark-colored, high-necked dresses with the familiar white collars and cuffs, washed and ironed every day. It was a uniform, deliberately created to downplay my undeniable sex difference.)

• Do your homework about the company you're asking to join. Find out what you can about its size, what it produces, its position in the market, which aspects of its operations fit your particular interests or talents.

• Get whatever literature you can from the company's information department; check the public library, financial reference books. Don't be afraid unfamiliar with a fact you should know.

• Prepare a short, well-organized outline of your past experience and future goals. At some point during most interviews, you will be asked to "say something about yourself." This is no time to blush or stammer! Be prepared. You might even rehearse your brief speech before your family or friends.

• If you have an obvious shortcoming, poor grades in some subject or an earlier job that you left abruptly after only a few months, bring it up yourself and explain the circumstances. Don't permit the interviewer to spring the subject on you (take it for granted that the personnel director interviewing you has uncovered your faults as well as superior qualifications). The fundamental message here is to disarm the interviewer and to pile up the credits on your side.

• Of course, interviewers know it's discriminatory to ask directly about your marital status, religion, child-rearing plan, etc., and they will be cautious about opening their company to a lawsuit on the basis of discrimination. But some may ask the forbidden questions in a roundabout way and talk you into a corner.

The best way to handle this delicate situation is to try to find out what is behind the awkward questions, for instance, "who takes care of your children while you are working?"

A subtle ploy is to turn the question around. With extreme politeness, you might ask, "Do you inquire because there is a lot of travel or overtime connected with this job?" That doesn't antagonize the interviewer, but now he or she is on the spot, not you.

Finally, Molloy told my associate, Brooke Shearer, "It's important to remember that what you think of the person interviewing you is every bit as important as what the interviewer thinks of you."

The interviewer was selected for this job because the company feels this person represents it well. If you don't like him, or her, then you probably would not like working for that particular company either. And the wisest move is to stop . . . right there.

There is nothing in her to repel me or estrange me. She has no situation to her ancestors, neither do I to mine.

Her father and mother don't go to church regularly on Sunday, nor do you or I go to the synagogue regularly on Saturday. Her home serves all kinds of meat, so does ours. All things there are not kosher, so you are not particular either.

At the wedding a priest and a rabbi performed the ceremony. After the wedding mother broke down and told me that she wore a black veil on her heart, mourning that I severed forever my heritage of four thousand years with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, Mother Sarah and Rachel, Moses and Isaiah, all gone forever. But Mother and Dad, you never gave me any attachment to begin with.

Mother, you asked me how I could give up all the Jewish holidays. But Mother and Dad, you never gave them to me. In our home you lit the candles for the Sabbath and nothing else.

There was no Sabbath spirit or holiness. The holidays were blank, meaningless days with us. We had Passover seders in someone's home and a few chunks of matzo and that was all. The other holidays we had dinner out or people came to us. That was all. There were two days of Rosh Hashana, etc., but you observed only one day. Apparently, you were too bored.

This was a make-believe Judaism. So what did I give up? On my new calendar I have holidays that are enriched by acceptance in the Christian world and in many instances by the secular world.

To tell you the truth, I am not at all happy with all that, too. I am confused, and I have not found G-d yet. Please ask the rabbi, will I be accepted if I return to Judaism?

If you want to keep Benji in your fold, give him a spiritual uplift. Bring G-d into your home and into his life, on Sabbath, the Passover, Purim and Hanuka, Yom Kippur. Don't starve him spiritually.

I remember Grandpa's pleasant face when he kissed the mezuza on the door and his face lit up with a feeling of security. Don't starve him spiritually — give him a deeper concept of life. He will find a purpose in good living.

Give him a loving attachment to you people, to their history and to the State of Israel.

I still love you.

Guess whose oil bills won't be going up this fall?

Now that OPEC has announced another price increase, almost everyone's home fuel bills will be going up.

The exception to the rule — homeowners who purchased a Sunworks Selector-Pak water heater from The Energy Store in Pawtucket.

Because these homeowners are using the Selector-Pak to heat their hot water, they automatically reduce their home oil costs by purchasing less oil (between 20%-30% of oil bill expenditures can be traced directly to the energy required to heat water for bathing, laundry and dishwashing).

And they'll be getting big tax credits: another money saver. In Rhode Island, homeowners are eligible for a 57% tax credit. In Massachusetts, a tax credit of 61% off the net cost.

The Selector-Pak system from Sunworks has what we believe to be the lowest cost/Btu/lit within the industry, which is the lowest cost per gallon of hot water for now and in the future (based on HUD and Department of Energy studies).

Finally, nobody has to pay anybody for sunlight. It's free.

Find out how you can tap the sun and put a little sunshine in your pocket by calling the Energy Store, 726-4061.

So the next time OPEC raises their prices, you can laugh. All the way to the bank.

See us at the home show at Warwick Mall next week.

Schwartz Named BU Law Dean Ad Interim

William Schwartz of Newton Centre, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Schwartz of 397 Pawtucket Ave., Pawtucket, has been appointed dean ad interim at Boston University's School of Law.

Professor Schwartz has been associated with B.U.'s School of Law since he graduated first in his class in 1955. He joined the faculty the same year and has held the Austin B. Fletcher and Roscoe Pound chairs in law.

In making the announcement, Dr. Silber, President of B.U., said "Prof. Schwartz's appointment follows several weeks of extensive consultation with faculty, students and alumni. He is universally admired for his intellectual brilliance, outstanding scholarship in the field of estate planning and for leadership in and service to the legal profession. A man of prodigious energy, a superb writer and lecturer, Dean Schwartz can be expected to continue the movement of the Boston University School of Law to the forefront of research and legal education."

Prof. Schwartz has served as a representative to the Office of Public Information of the United Nations, was director and founder of the National College of Probate Judges and served as chairman of the Legal Advisory Committee of the National Commission on Medical Malpractice. Since 1960, Prof. Schwartz has been editor on property law for the Annual Survey of Mass. Law.

He is a trustee of numerous organizations, including the Kerry Foundation and Hebrew College.

Prof. Schwartz and his wife, Bernice, have two children, Alan and Robin.

Muskie: U.S. to Maintain Camp David Formula

WASHINGTON (JTA) — Secretary of State Edmund Muskie in two public discussions on successive days of the Arab-Israeli situation, insisted that the United States will maintain the Camp David formula as a basis for peace. But he seemed to relax somewhat toward the West European initiative for a new platform while exerting additional pressure on Israel to accommodate progress toward a settlement.

Appearing before the Washington Press Club, Muskie dwelt on the violence on the West Bank and on the meeting in Venice beginning Wednesday of the nine-nation European Economic Community (EEC) that intends to proclaim a new Middle East initiative with greater participation in the negotiations by Palestinian Arabs, which could open the way for the Palestine Liberation Organization to enter the talks.

Muskie's appearance came after President Carter wrote to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who broke off the talks last month on autonomy for the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Carter proposed that Egypt's and Israel's top negotiators come to Washington for a new round of talks with U.S. special Ambassador Sol Linowitz. It is understood here that both Egypt and Israel have agreed to the President's suggestion, Muskie said, however, that no date has been set.

"We must not let it fail," Muskie said, in upholding the Camp David agreements. That its goal of May 26 has not been met "is a disappointment," he said, "but it is no cause for despair and it is no cause to abandon the process which has achieved so much." He said that the autonomy talks will be continued "solidly based on (United Nations Security Council) Resolution 242 and the Camp David framework. It would be a mistake to change either of these essential building blocks. Indeed, the U.S. will not allow that to happen."

However, he added, with reference to the European meeting, "We do not object to new initiatives to the Camp David process."

Moscow Cancels Israeli Olympic Visas

TEL AVIV (JTA) — Soviet authorities have cancelled all of the entry visas they previously granted Israelis who paid $400 in advance to attend the Olympic Games in Moscow this summer. Their act was seen as a reprisal for Israel's decision last month to join the U.S. and other countries boycotting the games because of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Although Israel will not send its athletes to Moscow, about 170 Israeli nationals applied for visas and paid in U.S. dollars for hotel accommodations and admission tickets to the various events. Last Sunday, 80 of them were notified that their visas were granted. They planned to leave for Vienna on Wednesday to collect the visas and proceed to Moscow.

But the Soviet Embassy in Vienna advised the Israeli travel company, Petlours, that all of the visas have been withdrawn and the passports of the applicants were on their way back to Israel.

Petlours had made the travel and hotel arrangements in conjunction with Intourist, the Soviet travel agency, which collected the $400 from each applicant. Intourist has given no indication when or how it will refund the money.

He said, in response to a question, that "it is not yet determined what European initiatives might be taken."

The secretary also stated that the U.S. has not been consulting with the Europeans, adding "that in itself would undermine the Camp David process." It is reported here that the European initiative would be placed before the UN General Assembly where the U.S. would not have a veto and in this way bring about pressure on the U.S. to meet, in some way, the European proposals.

Muskie appeared to equate the massacre at Hebron May 2 and the violence against West Bank mayors a month later, although the PLO claimed responsibility for the Hebron killings while the Israeli government has deplored the bombings and is seeking the culprits. "I find revolting both the recent attack on Israeli citizens in Hebron and the maiming of two West Bank mayors," Muskie said. "Again and again alternating explosions of inhumanity remind us of the agonizing difficulties."

The Secretary of State listed five issues that remained in the autonomy talks. He mentioned six without fully identifying them two weeks ago, but in neither list did he mention the future of Jerusalem. About Jerusalem, he said in response to a question whether the U.S. has made a specific proposal to remove the legislation annexing East Jerusalem, that "we have made all sorts" of proposals. "You are not going to wipe out" the issue of Jerusalem sovereignty. "You have got to go around it for the present."

Listing the five items, Muskie said "first and most critical is security. Israel must be secure but it is durable any agreement must also enable the people in the West Bank and Gaza to help provide for their security."

The Israel Defense Force must be able to protect Israel from external attack whether by conventional armed forces or by terrorist groups. At the same time, the "strong local police force" under the self-governing authority called for at Camp David, must be able to assume its fair share of the burden for internal security and public order."

Begin Slated As Keynote Speaker

NEW YORK (JTA) — Premier Menachem Begin of Israel will be the keynote speaker at a gala dinner to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York on Nov. 11 to mark the 100th anniversary of the birth of Ze'ev Jabotinsky, Begin's mentor. About 1800 guests from throughout the United States are expected to attend, it was announced by the Jabotinsky Foundation, sponsors of the dinner.

The list of Israeli patrons include Knesset Speaker Yitzhak Berman; Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir; Chief Rabbi Shlomo Goren; Sephardic Chief Rabbi Ovadia Yosef; chairman of the World Zionist Organization and Jewish Agency Executives, Leon Dulzín and Poet Laureate of Israel Uri Zvi Greenberg.

European Initiative To Recognize PLO Condemned

PARIS (JTA) — The delegates of the 250 Jewish communities of France have condemned any European initiative which might result in the recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Expressing solidarity regarding Israel's security, the delegates stated their total opposition to the recognition of the PLO as long as it does not modify its charter and renounced its avowed aim to destroy the Jewish State.

In a communiqué published after the election of France's new Chief Rabbi, Rene Sirat, they condemned as contrary to the interest of Middle East peace any initiative which might thwart the Camp David peace process which has already led to concrete results.

The delegates said they hoped the French government's attitude towards the Middle East problem would be less biased.

Memorial Service Held For Slain Iran Jew

NEW YORK (JTA) — More than 300 people, among them Jewish leaders, Israeli officials and members of the Iranian Jewish community in New York attended a memorial service held last Friday for Albert Danielpour, an Iranian Jew executed in Hamadan, Iran on June 5.

The service was held at the Fifth Avenue Synagogue here and was sponsored by all major Jewish organizations in the metropolitan area. It was coordinated by the Jewish Community Relations Council of New York.

The 52-year-old Danielpour was accused of cooperating with the CIA and with Israeli intelligence and was also charged with helping to establish the "Zionist government in Israel."

Although he denied all charges, he was sentenced to death April 10 by the Islamic Revolutionary Court in Teheran. His sentence was commuted to three years' imprisonment after many interventions on his behalf. But last Thursday, upon a direct order from Ayatollah Kalkali, he was executed in Hamadan.

Friday's memorial service, which was also attended by Danielpour's two brothers and sister, was also to express protest and anger as well as concern for other Iranian Jews now imprisoned in Iran and who may become subject to the same fate.

Daniel Shapiro, vice president of the JCR who chaired the program, said that Jews all over "and all men of conscience" should not sit idly by in the face of the harsh times confronting Iranian Jews.

Rabbi Nissim Shulman of the Fifth Avenue Synagogue, said that Danielpour was a "Kadosh" (martyr) who was "blameless and innocent of any crime." He was "murdered," Shulman charged, "not because of what he did but because of what he was a Jew." He added that Danielpour has become a symbol of the hatred of our enemies, who wanted to "attack Israel and the Jewish people" through him. He called for a campaign "to touch the conscience of the world," as to the fate of Iranian Jews.

The 45-minute memorial gathering was also addressed by Ambassador Jerome Shalev, U.S. representative to the United Nations Commission on Human Rights and former president of the International League for Human Rights. Consul General Yosef Kedat, of Israel, represented the Israel government.

Memorial services for Danielpour were held in other major cities across the United States. More than 1000 persons attended a service at Temple Sinai in Los Angeles, sponsored by the Jewish Federation Council in conjunction with the Temple.

Earlier this week, two American Jewish leaders denounced the Iranian government's action. Bertram Gold, executive vice president of the American Jewish Committee, said his organization "notes with revulsion and renewed concern" the report of Danielpour's execution. Gold said the fact that Danielpour's support for the creation of "the Israeli Zionist government" was equated "with spying for Israel and the United States, among other trumped-up charges against him, contains the seeds of a new threat to the several dozen other Jews currently under arrest in that unhappy country."

Edgar M. Bronfman, acting president of the World Jewish Congress, in a statement issued in Paris, called the execution of Danielpour "a cruel and ominous disregard of civilized standards of justice and decency. It makes one tremble for those now behind prison walls whose fate lies in the hands of men who have such contempt for international opinion and the dictates of ordinary humanity."

Sniper Attack Near Old City Wounds Policeman

JERUSALEM—Tzadok About-boul, a 20-year-old Israeli border policeman, was reported to be in good condition following surgery at Hadassah Medical Center for the removal of bullets which were fired by an unidentified sniper from atop the ancient stone walls around Herod's Gate near the Old City of Jerusalem.

Two other policemen who were accompanying About-boul, raced along the wall in search of the assailant but no arrests were made. Five Arabs, however, were reportedly taken in for questioning.

This latest incident, termed as one of the most serious to take place in Jerusalem in many years, indicates a shift in the pattern of violence toward more specific targets in politically significant locations.

According to officials the shooting incident, coupled with the May 2 ambush of Jewish worshippers in the occupied Arab City of Hebron, in which 6 persons were killed and another sixteen wounded, indicates a new direction in Palestinian violence. It now appears that sharper focus is taken on Israelis engaged in acts particularly offensive to Palestinian radicals. Many of the worshippers involved in the May 2 ambush were settlers who had asserted the right to establish a Jewish presence in central Hebron.

The recent bombing attacks of June 2, in which two Arab mayors were crippled and another escaped injury, have confirmed official fears that the Palestine Liberation Organization may retaliate for what investigators believe was a crime by Jewish extremists. Intelligence reports, according to an official at a Jewish settlement in the West Bank, indicate future terrorism against Jewish settlers and settlements.

Wafa, the P.L.O.'s press service in Damascus has reported that a Palestinian guerrilla had fired at the border policeman in Jerusalem.

The pro-Israeli Arab Liberation Front also took responsibility for two bomb blasts in the Tel Aviv suburb of Petah Tikva. There were no reported injuries sustained in that attack.

Soviet Emigre Honored By Classmates

Anatole Trakhtenbroit, a 20-year-old Russian Jew who came to the United States with his parents five years ago, was voted the "premier of the year" by his 770 classmates at the 49th commencement exercises of Yeshiva University held this past weekend.

Trakhtenbroit, a native of the Ukrainian City of Chernovitsy and who is presently residing in Bridgeport, Conn., will continue his studies at the University's Albert Einstein College of Medicine.

David and Lili Trakhtenbroit, parents of the young graduate, are both practicing physicians. The family lived in Queens before moving to Bridgeport.

Planning On Investing...Dave Sargent Shares His Advice With You Every Week in The R.I. Herald.

Successful Investing

Weyerhaeuser
And
Mount St. Helens

by David R. Sargent

Q: Was the damage suffered by Weyerhaeuser from the eruption of Mount St. Helens bad enough to affect the stock? Should I sell my shares? T.V. Iowa

A: Apparently, the volcanic explosion flattened 15,000 acres of mature timber owned by Weyerhaeuser. In addition, flooding washed away logs equivalent to four million board feet of lumber. Access roads and roads were also destroyed, but a Weyerhaeuser mill remained intact.

While the damage should not be ignored, in light of the company's holding of six million acres of timberland it seems insignificant. Furthermore, most of the damaged trees can be salvaged, either for lumber or for chips for pulp mills. There is a shortage of chips as a result of curtailed lumber production reflecting the slowdown in building.

The full extent of the damage is not yet known, but the impact on earnings, when taken in the second or third quarter, is not expected to be significant. Weyerhaeuser had already been feeling the pinch from the reduced level of building activity. The shares are undervalued in terms of market price and timber resources, and should be bought rather than sold.

Q: What is your appraisal of the Madison Fund (NYSE)? How does one get their address to obtain a prospectus and other literature? C.I. New York

A: Madison is a closed-end investment company rather than a mutual fund; therefore, shares are bought through a broker in the same way as a stock. Their address is 660 Madison Avenue, New York, NY 10021. Shareholders approved the fund's shift from diversified to non-diversified status to enable fund management to attain greater portfolio concentration in favored issues.

As a nondiversified fund, Madison may invest up to 50 percent of assets in major positions, with no position exceeding 25 percent of total assets. Management believes that concentrating investments in specific stocks or stock groups offers the best opportunity for capital gain in the 1980's.

Madison has been the center of considerable attention recently. Loews Corp. is said to have purchased over half the stock. Previously, Reliance Group had made a couple of offers to acquire the company. The shares are trading at about a 17 percent discount from net asset value.

The fund's past record has been well above average, but the switch to a non-diversified status adds a new element of risk to the shares. If you can afford a moderate degree of speculation, Madison Fund may be bought.

U.S. Supreme Court Upholds Protest Decision

NEW YORK (JTA) — The American Jewish Congress hailed as "a major victory for civil liberties" a unanimous decision by the U.S. Supreme Court yesterday upholding the right of Hebrew school students to collect signatures at a California shopping center protesting the United Nations anti-Zionist resolution.

The AJCongress had filed a friend-of-the-court brief in support of the public's right to circulate petitions or otherwise peacefully exercise their right of free speech in privately owned shopping centers.

The case — Pruneyard Shopping Center vs. Robbins — arose in San Jose, California, when Jewish students at Temple Emanu-El, as part of a class project, sought to collect signatures for a petition opposing the UN resolution that condemned Zionism as a form of racism.

Commenting on the decision, Prof. Abraham S. Goldstein of Yale Law School, chairman of the Commission on Law and Social Action of the American Jewish Congress, declared:

"The unanimous decision of the high court is a major victory for civil liberties. A shopping center in contemporary California is the modern equivalent of the Greek agora. We are gratified that the Supreme Court has ruled that First Amendment guarantees must be afforded at these modern day public forums."

Rabbi Irving Koslowe:

He Makes A Community Come Alive

Jews throughout history have been persecuted. Sing Sing is one of the few places where maybe it's an advantage to be a Jew. Rabbi Koslowe has made it a little more tolerable, a little more pleasant.

— Stephen Dalsheim
prison superintendent

There are about 1,600 inmates presently interred at the Ossining Correctional Facility in Ossining, New York. As of today, only eight of those are Jews; two short of a minyan, or the number required for a religious service under Jewish law.

Those eight Jews, in addition to a few other inmates and a selection of clergy and prison officials, gathered at the prison recently in order to honor Rabbi Irving Koslowe, who was celebrating his 30th anniversary as the Jewish chaplain at the prison that, up until 1970, was formally known as Sing Sing.

Although Rabbi Koslowe has had a full time job since 1943, serving as the rabbi of the Westchester Jewish Center in Mamaroneck, he has also found time to serve as Jewish chaplain at the prison.

The rabbi, demurring when called upon to give a speech to the small group of well-wishers who had gathered for the ceremony in a small temple called Tikvah Shalom, or the Chapel of Hope and Peace, did note, however, that he "probably was the only rabbi of a parish who does not mind losing members."

The rabbi's clerk, who wished to be identified only as Len, spoke of the feelings of the Tikvah Shalom and for the rabbi who administered there. "We look forward to coming into this room. When you're cut off from society, you can come here and be able to feel you're back in a community again."

The clerk then presented Rabbi Koslowe with a chess set which some of the inmates had made. The board, made of oak and pine, had white and dark green ceramic chessmen, the green to match the inmates' uniforms.

"I'm not a very good chess player, but I dabble," said the rabbi. Up until 1963, when New York abolished the death penalty, Rabbi Koslowe would sometimes play the game with inmates on death row. He recalled witnessing about 15 executions at Ossining, including those of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg on June 19, 1953. That was a Friday, he remembers. All the other executions took place on Thursdays at 11 p.m.

Gafny Optimistic Over Israel's Economic Outlook

LONDON (JTA) — If Israel were to practice persistent and thorough economic and monetary restraint, its inflation rate could be brought down from last year's 111 per cent to 30 per cent in one or two years, according to Dr. Arnon Gafny, Governor of the Bank of Israel.

He did not expect that to happen this year, not least because the current wave of oil price rises were similar in their severity and international effects to those of 1973-74, he said. Nevertheless, he believed some progress was being made, as a result of the tough measures imposed by Finance Minister Yigal Hurwitz.

The inflation rate of increase in the first quarter of 1980 had dropped from eight per cent to five per cent, he said, but was not certain that this progress would be maintained. Gafny, who arrived here from a gathering of central bankers in Basle, also mentioned other "rays of light" on Israel's economic horizon. In the first quarter of 1980, Israeli exports increased in dollar terms by between 40 and 50 per cent. Last year they rose by 30 per cent in dollar terms and ten per cent in volume.

But such successes were heavily overshadowed by the rising oil costs, which last year were equal to eight per cent of Israel's real national income. Such a burden could not possibly be offset by bigger productivity in one year, he added.

"Test me. Invite me. I owe you."

According to the rabbi, the day before an execution the condemned inmate would be moved from a cell block on death row to a single room called "the dancehall." Visiting family members, if there were any, would leave about 6 p.m., then it would be just the inmate and the clergyman until the guards arrived at 11 o'clock.

Directing his comments to the inmates who had gathered for the occasion, Rabbi Koslowe said that he hoped they would go home "as soon as you possibly can." He also asked them to let him know when their families had a simcha, a happy occasion outside the prison, so he could attend.

Hamilton, Canada Rates Highest In Jewish Education

TORONTO (JTA) — Some 95 per cent of all eligible children in Hamilton are getting some kind of Jewish education, ranking the Hamilton Jewish community of 1500 Jewish families as having one of the highest per capita Jewish school enrollments in North America, according to the Canadian Jewish News.

The report indicated that 525 children are enrolled in Hamilton's three Jewish schools: the Hamilton Hebrew Academy, a day school; the Conservative Beth Jacob religious school; and the Reform Temple Anshe Shalom school.

Boy Missing . . .

dressed in black picked up the money. According to a high police official the plainclothes detectives did not arrest the suspect out of concern for the boy's safety. The suspect, however, did elude the detectives after vanishing into an orange grove and no further word has been received from the kidnappers as to the child's whereabouts.

Israeli Prime Minister, during the course of an address to the Herut Executive Committee on Wednesday, appealed to the kidnappers of Oron Yarden to return the eight-year-old child and "prove that in spite of the crime you committed you still have a conscience. Do not torture the family," he said.

Mr. Begin told the Herut meeting that he would consult with the Attorney General and suggest making kidnapping punishable by a minimum of 25 years imprisonment instead of the seven years now in effect. He also spoke of the rise of criminal activity in general in Israel and said the State must root out such crimes as murder, rape and kidnapping, which, until recently, were not identified with the Jewish people.

Budget Cut Threatens 11,000 Jobs

JERUSALEM (JTA) — An agreement has been reached between the Treasury and the Housing Ministry calling for a 12 per cent cut in the ministry's budget.

An official announcement said that the cuts would not affect new housing construction. However, analysts predicted that the reduction of the housing budget by more than IL 3 billion would result in the dismissals of over 11,000 construction workers and would set off a chain reaction in other trades.

The cost of housing can be expected to rise because there will be fewer construction starts, the analysts said.

Begin Hits U.S. For Veto Failure, Upbraids Egypt For PLO Briefing

JERUSALEM (JTA) — Premier Menachem Begin complained bitterly against the United States for its failure to veto an anti-Israel resolution adopted by the United Nations Security Council and against Egypt for allegedly briefing the Palestine Liberation Organization on the progress of the autonomy talks over the past year.

Addressing a press conference, Begin denounced the resolution which condemned the June 2 bomb attacks on West Bank mayors and accused Israel of not providing adequate protection to the civilian population in the occupied territories. The U.S. abstained in the vote.

A Cabinet communique charged earlier that the resolution was a pretext to demand Israel's total withdrawal from the territories, including East Jerusalem, and therefore was in contravention of Resolution 242, the basis for the Camp David accords.

Begin said that former Egyptian Prime Minister Mustapha Khalil, the chief Egyptian negotiator in the autonomy talks with Israel and the U.S., had revealed at a London press conference that Egypt kept the PLO informed on the talks.

Begin charged that it was "bad faith" on Egypt's part to have conferred with the PLO behind Israel's back. He recalled that at Camp David the two countries had undertaken to negotiate "in good faith."

The prime minister said that when the talks are resumed, he will demand that such consultations with the PLO cease. He intimated that the Egyptian position on autonomy had been influenced by the PLO. He now "understood," Begin said, the origin of the various "extremist and totally unacceptable demands" made by Egypt during the last negotiating sessions. The autonomy talks were suspended by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt on May 15 on grounds that Israel's positions prevented progress. It is not clear when they will be resumed.

However, Begin said that Interior Minister Yosef Burg, Israel's chief negotiator in the autonomy talks, might be sent to Washington for discussions but that they would focus solely on setting a date for resuming the negotiations. He stressed that there would be no substantive talks in Washington between Burg, Egypt's negotiator Defense Minister Kamal Hassan Ali and U.S. special Ambassador Sol Linowitz.

Begin said that Israel was preparing a paper that would detail the "specified security locations" to which its armed forces would withdraw when an autonomy plan is implemented. But he stressed that those locations and the means of access to them were solely a matter for Israel to determine.

Ambassador Rosenne Hits European Initiative

DETROIT (JTA) — Israel's Ambassador to France has charged that an initiative undertaken by the European Economic Community threatens the Middle East peace process.

Meir Rosenne, addressing an Israel Bond dinner at Sha'arei Zedek Synagogue here, referred to reports of an impending decision by the European Economic Community (EEC) conference which opened in Venice to urge inclusion of the PLO in Mid-east negotiations. "How can any Arab state be expected to be less rigid in its demands in this regard than the European countries?" he asked.

Rosenne said Israel would not negotiate with the PLO, whose aim was to destroy Israel, an objective reiterated only 10 days ago in Damascus by PLO leaders. The envoy voiced optimism on the next round of autonomy negotiations but cautioned that the "international climate" would have an important role to play.

Bridge

by Robert E. Starr

In today's hand, most of the players sitting South, opened the bidding with a forcing bid and then leaped right to game in No Trump even if their opponent made a bid in the suit they were weakest in. Those players all made an overtrick easily and we are not concerned with them in this article. A few Souths were more pessimistic, ending in a minor suit part-score. This article is about how they should best play the hand in that contract.

|                  |  |              |  |
| North            |  | East         |  |

| ♥ 7 5 4          |  | ♥ A K 10 9 6 |  |
| ♦ 9 7 5 3        |  | ♦ 2          |  |
| ♣ 8 4            |  | ♣ J 10 6 5   |  |
| South            |  |              |  |
| ♠ A              |  |              |  |
| ♥ Q 8 3          |  |              |  |
| ♦ A K Q 10 8 6 4 |  |              |  |
| ♣ A Q            |  |              |  |

South was Dealer. North and South vulnerable with this bidding:

|     |     |    |    |
|-----|-----|----|----|
| S   | W   | N  | E  |
| 2C  |     | 2D | 2H |
| 3NT | End |    |    |

That is why the bidding went most of the time. The Two Club bid is the artificial forcing bid most of the better players use. East, not vulnerable, was able to show his suit mainly for a lead as there was little chance he would buy the contract after South's bid.

This bid didn't frighten many Souths who went right to the No Trump game anyhow. They had no problem making ten tricks after a Heart lead and continuation. East did have hopes of establishing his suit and then getting in with a Spade. Such would be the case as Declarer could just run his tricks.

Some Souths, leary of Hearts now, settled for a Three Diamond bid where they played the hand. Some others landed in the same contract when they very pessimistically opened with one Diamond rather than a forcing bid.

North, of course, passed but every East gave South another chance by reopening the bidding. One South took advantage of this by also leaping right to the No Trump game but the others remained dubious and settled for the Diamond part-score. They are the ones this is about.

The normal Heart lead resulted in a third round ruff by West who would return a Spade rather than lead into a strong hand from that Club King. I watched every Declarer but one now do the same thing. They drew the last Trump by leading small to the Dummy and then quite confidently now, took the Club Finesse.

This just happened to lose but didn't phase anyone as the contract was still made and the line of play seemed perfectly normal. However, there was something else they could have tried in addition to this which would have provided another trick and cost nothing to make the effort.

The idea is to possibly make a trick with Dummy's only honor, the Spade Queen. For this to happen, the King must fall before that Queen does and there are exactly enough entries in Dummy to try.

First, cash the Spade Ace. Next a low Trump to Dummy, remember every spot over there is higher than East's 2, the Jack had already been used to ruff with. Next ruff a low Spade, East following with his Jack leaving that King all alone. Now simply repeat this just being careful which spot to use to get to Dummy.

The third Spade lead does drop the King leaving the Queen good in Dummy and another high Trump there to use to get there to cash it. On that Queen the Club Queen is discarded and although this is not as good as bidding and making the No Trump Game, it is at least satisfying to make that extra trick and knowing that the hand was played well. The fact that the finesse would have lost helps a bit, too.

Moral: If you can see an extra chance to do something, always do everything to try it as long as it costs nothing. Two shots are better than one.

U.S. Senator Speaks out On EEC Declaration

WASHINGTON (JTA) — Sen. Richard G. Lugar (R-Ind.), a potential Vice Presidential nominee as Ronald Reagan's running mate in the Presidential election, has derided "Declaration of Venice" by the European Economic Community as being "not a constructive step" and certain to cause "a lot of mischief" for the United States, Egypt and Israel.

Appearing on the CBS television program "Face the Nation," Lugar responded to a question about the European drive to get the PLO into the Middle Eastern negotiations, by saying: "It's not a constructive step and it could only have occurred if the Europeans had come to a conclusion that (President) Carter was a disaster and that's the conclusion they've come to. In other words, that there is nothing going with this Administration that is going to change the Middle East or anything else.

"Now having come to that conclusion," Lugar added, "they (the Europeans) have quietly gotten their own foreign policy together and that's going to cause a lot of mischief not only for the Egyptian, the Israelis and everybody else, but certainly for us."

Lugar, who is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was asked whether "the basic idea of the West Europeans that the PLO is in some way be involved in the negotiations is correct." Lugar replied: "Oh, I don't think so. I would guess that the problems finally come down with Egypt and Israel, hopefully with Jordan." The visit of Jordan's King Hussein to Washington this week "is critically important" to "fashion something in the Camp David mold that leads to a degree of self-government by people who are living in the West Bank area and adjacent circumstances, but that's a long way from getting into the PLO."

Seven Named To Participate In FEREP Program

NEW YORK (JTA) — Seven recent college graduates have been selected by the Council of Jewish Federations to participate in the CJE Federation Executive Recruitment and Education Program (FEREP).

The FEREP scholarship-loan program provides a national process of recruiting, educating, training and placing young men and women of exceptional ability and commitment in professional positions in the Jewish Federation field, according to Morton L. Mandel of Cleveland, CJE president, and Samuel J. Silberman of New York, chairman of the FEREP national selection committee.

They said the 1980 recipients are: Lisa Ann Morrison of Hollywood, Fla.; James J. Moscovitz of Baltimore; Eric Louis Sieband of Madison, Wis.; and Debra Sue Stein of Jenkintown, Pa., who will study in the Baltimore Institute of Jewish Communal Service Double Masters programs at the Maryland University school and Baltimore Hebrew College.

Susan Marilyn Weisfuse of Brooklyn, and Nathan Geller of Pittsfield, Mass., will study in the Double Masters program at Columbia University social work school and the Jewish Theological Seminary. Harold M. Weinschenker of Winnipeg will attend Toronto University.

Thatcher Petitioned By Anglo-Jewry

LONDON (JTA) — Nearly all the factions of the Anglo-Jewish community have united to urge the British government not to support a European initiative which would involve the Palestine Liberation Organization in the Middle East peace process.

Leaders of more than 70 organizations gathered in London to sign a letter which was presented to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. Although Anglo-Jewry lacks the electoral muscle of either American or French Jewry, it is persistent and tireless in its general support for Israel's foreign policy and shares its opposition to a European initiative which would cut across the Camp David negotiating framework.

Labor, Government Already Primed For Upcoming Elections

JERUSALEM — Although it's only June and no elections are scheduled until the fall of 1981, Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Likud government, Israel's present ruling power base, and the Labor Party, which dominated every Israeli government from Israel's independence in 1948 until its 1977 defeat to the Begin coalition, are gearing up the start of an election campaign.

It is the Labor party that was pushing for an early election. Surveys show that it would win if elections were held now and, consequently, the party is aiming to differ with the Prime Minister as much as possible on the key issues: the Palestinian autonomy question and Israel's economic situation.

Although policy toward the Palestinians has attracted the most interest, both in Israel and abroad, economic problems are the primary cause of dissatisfaction with the present government.

But it is Arab-Jewish relations that remain the focus of Israeli emotions. The Israeli society itself has been torn by doubts regarding its role as a military occupier since 1967, when the Army captured the West Bank from Jordan and the densely populated Gaza Strip.

Compounding the problem was the peace treaty with Egypt which set in motion an effort to grant about 1.3 million Palestinians in the area some measure of their own self-administration. Since that time debates, arguments and violence connected with the Palestinian question have become more violent.

Prime Minister Begin has taken his autonomy stance for both military and religious reasons. He hopes to retain all of the West Bank under Israeli sovereignty, an objective expressed in the pursuit of a policy of building Jewish settlements throughout the occupied Arab territory.

Top Labor party officials, including former Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, former Foreign Minister Abba Eban and former Defense Minister and present party leader Shimon Peres, have a different autonomy concept than that of Mr. Begin. Based on their acceptance of territorial compromise they have expressed their willingness to surrender part of the West Bank under certain specified conditions.

Laborites Take Lead

TEL AVIV (JTA) — The Labor Party has scored a substantial gain in last week's elections held by the Federation of Civil Servants while Likud and its religious bloc coalition partners suffered a loss. Labor garnered 61.6 per cent of the trade union's vote, up from 52.2 per cent in the last elections.

Jerusalem Officials Resist Poverty Eviction

JERUSALEM (JTA) — About 40 slum families have pitched tents and are building concrete and brick homes on State-owned land south of Jerusalem in violation of the law. But the Jerusalem municipality has made it clear that it is in no hurry to evict the squatters.

"We will not pull the government's chestnuts out of the fire," a municipal source said. The families, who call themselves "Okeim" (literally, tent-dwellers) say they are modeling their action on the Gush Emunim.

But their motivation is neither religious nor ideological; it is their way of alleviating the acute housing shortage that has plagued Jerusalem for years without any effective relief from the government.

The municipal source agreed that "The housing shortage and soaring housing prices are a national problem" and the Jerusalem authorities will not help the government by quashing this latest demonstration against it. The municipality indicated, however, that it would adhere to the normal legal process once the Israel Lands Authority, which owns the plot of wasteland in the Katamon slum quarter, initiates formal proceedings against the squatters.

The illegal building effort is being financed by independent MK Samuel Flatto-Sharon, a millionaire who had been accused of election irregularities after he won a Knesset seat in 1977. This has created discord among the squatters, some of whom would prefer to do without Flatto's largesse.
