FREE LOAN ASSN. PRESENTS GIFT TO SECRETARY

South Providence Group Honors Elisha Scoliard at 28th Convention

395 Loans Granted in '32

Elisha Scoliard of Plain street was honored at the 28th annual convention of the South Providence Hebrew Free Loan Association Sunday evening in Swedish Hall in appreciation of his indefatigable efforts as secretary for the past two years. He was presented with a Sheraton gate-leg table. A resolution was also passed and presented to Mr. Scoliard for his work on the board of directors.

A report of the past year's activities showed that 395 loans were granted to South Providence Jewry. This was followed with a prayer by Rev. Philip Keller for the deceased members.

Simon Wolk was named temporary chairman and presided during the elections. He introduced Alter Boyman, who spoke briefly, and Rabbi Joshua Werner, who commended the worthwhile work of the organization. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Charles Siegal, President; Louis Diwinsky and Benjamin Reitman, First and Second Vice Presidents; Abraham Zellermyer, Treasurer; Samuel Newman, Financial Secretary, and Elisha Scoliard Recording Secretary, Samuel Silverman, former President, was named to the honorary board. The new board of directors includes Frank Scoliard, Nathan Cushing, Samuel H. Wintman, Harry M. Tanenbaum, Samuel Kaufman, Jacob Hazman, David Golden, Harry Silverman, Alter Boyman, Louis Hayman, Louis Shanbrun, Harry Lerner, Samuel Weisman, Abraham Lury, Harry Leach, Louis Shaw, Simon Wolk and Joseph Sharp.

Appeal to Providence Jewry

We, the Jewish people in Providence, are facing a crisis unprecedented in the history of our community. The Jewish Family Welfare Organization finds itself unable to meet the demands of many needy families for Passover.

It is impossible at this time to appeal for individual contributions from our Jewish friends, who have been more than generous in these most trying times. There is but one thing left to do. The League of Jewish Women's Organizations appeals to every organized Jewish group to give aid in this emergency.

How much will you give? Unless we raise the necessary funds within the next eight days many of our fellow Jews, perhaps your next door neighbor, will be hungry on Passover. It is impossible to conceive that any Jewish group that has the means to help, will stand aside and refuse to do so at this most critical time.

Please make checks payable to Mrs. Morris Beeber, Treasurer, Evergreen street. Thanking you in advance for your generosity,

THE LEAGUE OF JEWISH WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS,

MRS. MILTON FULD,
MRS. MORRIS SHEER,
Fund Raising Chairmen.
MRS. EDWARD M. FINBERG,
President.

Palestine Forbids Tourists to Land

Group of Sixty Refused Admission Despite Properly Obtained Visas

Jerusalem, Mar. 31—(JTA)—What is regarded here as the Palestine government's definite policy to hamper Jewish tourist traffic was displayed when sixty Jewish tourists were refused admission. They were not permitted to leave the steamer, though possessing proper Palestine visas.

This is the second case during the week. The first affected a group of twenty-three from Poland, who arrived via Beirut. All held proper Palestine visas obtained from the British Consulate at Istanbul. The whole group of twenty-three, including women, are now in the Haifa jail. They are being badly treated and are facing deportation, the Palestine government contending that they should have obtained visas in Warsaw and not in Istanbul.

The Jewish Agency's intervention so far has been without effect, the government holding that the tourists proposed to remain in Palestine permanently.

Jugoslavia to Admit Jewish Refugees

Belgrade, Mar. 31—(JTA)—Jugoslavia will not prevent the entry of German Jews, declared Boske Jettich, the Foreign Minister of Jugoslavia, in response to a Jewish delegation composed of Sephardim and Ashkenazim.

The delegation had called on him in order to request the right of asylum for refugees from Germany.

Bombay Has New Jewish School Building

Bombay, Mar. 31—(JTA)—A new building for the Bombay Jewish school, costing 150,000 rupees, has just been opened. A considerable portion of the cost was borne by Eir Elly Kadoori, the Jewish philanthropist and millionaire of Shanghai.

Big Crowd to Gather In Arcadia Ballroom Next Sunday Night

GERMAN JEWS FEAR REPRISAL OVER PROTESTS

Urge Abandonment of Mass Meetings Arranged In U. S.

Assail "Exaggerations"

Berlin, Mar. 31—(JTA)—The most Zionist Jewish quarters in Germany, including the Zionist Federation, the Central Union of German Citizens of the Jewish Faith, the League of German Jewish Veterans and the Society of National German Jews have joined through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency here, in an appeal to the American Jews to abandon today's demonstrations against alleged atrocities in Germany.

Fear Harmful Action

The German Jews disapprove the anti-German propaganda which has manifested itself throughout the world and express the hope that the German people will soon gain an appreciation of loyal German Jewry. They appeal that no resolutions harmful to the German people should be adopted.

Apart from the appeal of the above organizations a number of German rabbis have sent a protest to Bishop Manning, one of the speakers at Madison Square Garden, protesting against what they describe as "exaggerated reports of Jewish atrocities."

Appeal to Bishop Manning

It is understood, also, that German Zionist Federation have addressed themselves to Bishop Manning reiterating their protest against untrue tales of cruelty and against "those Jews who are attempting to misuse the Jewish question in the political interests of other countries."

Church, State and City Officials Accept Invitations to Join In Movement

Joshua Bell to Preside

Rhode Island Jewish leaders today practically completed plans for the monster protest meeting in the Arcadia Ballroom, Washington street, Sunday night, at 8 o'clock, against Hitler outrages.

Influenced by latest reports from Germany charging that original accounts of atrocities against Jews were grossly exaggerated, organization heads here are convinced that pleas to abandon protests are being voiced through intimidation and threats. They point to the Hitler government's silence and tacit approval of steps taken by National Socialists to stop all Jewish business and professional activity tomorrow morning throughout the Reich, even to the extent of barring Jewish children from school.

Thousands to Attend

Preparations have been made for thousands to attend the protest meeting with prominent church, state and city officials having already accepted invitations to speak. Among them will be the Rt. Rev. G. G. Bennett, acting Bishop of Providence diocese of the Episcopal Church, spokesman for Bishop James DeWolf Perry, presiding Bishop of the American Episcopal Church, during the latter's absence; Secretary of State Louis W. Cappelletti, Mayor James E. Dunne of Providence and other community leaders.

The meeting, part of the protest movement that has spread like wildfire throughout the world, is sponsored here by the Rhode Island Council, American Jewish Congress. Attorney Joshua Bell, chairman of the unit, will preside. Assisting him in making arrangements for the event

Reform Jewish Congregations To Gather Sunday In Boston

Bearing in mind that the one way to save Judaism from its outward enemies is to solidify and strengthen Judaism from within, 500 delegates from Reform Jewish congregations throughout Massachusetts and Rhode Island will meet this Sunday, April 2nd, in Boston, to discuss the problems of the congregation and its membership. The delegates will listen to suggestions on means of gaining new members, on methods of meeting budgets and of working out new schemes for the raising of funds, and the intensification of religious school and educational work.

In honor of the occasion there will be a special "laymen's service," the morning of April 2nd, held at Temple Israel. The service will be conducted by Samuel Finkel, President of the Brotherhood of Temple Israel and chairman of the New England Association of Reform Congregations; Judge Jacob Asher, President of the Brotherhood of Temple Emanu-El of Worcester, and Harold Lipkin, President of the Brotherhood of Temple Ohabei Shalom of Boston.

Luncheon will be served at Temple

Ohabei Shalom, with the congregation as hosts to the delegates. The afternoon session will be held at Temple Ohabei Shalom and will consist of a discussion of problems besetting the synagogue, led by Matthew Porosky, chairman of the board of Temple Ohabei Shalom; Lee M. Friedman, president of Temple Israel, and A. S. Burg, President of Temple Beth-El of Lynn, Mass. Rabbi William H. Finestrubler of Temple Keneseth Israel of Philadelphia, will deliver an address on "The Congregation and Its Membership."

This conference is one of a series conducted throughout New England, New Jersey and New York by the North East Religious Union, which is a regional division of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, parent body of all the Reform Congregations of the United States. These conferences are part of a program tended to intensify and to amplify the influence of the synagogue upon the Jewish of the region and to bring the benefits of religious experience to

Norman Thomas to Speak at Plantations Club Monday

Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate for president in 1928 and 1932, will be the speaker at the Providence Plantations Auditorium on Monday evening, April 3rd, promptly at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Socialist Party of Rhode Island.

Dr. Thomas is one of the best known lecturers throughout the United States, and has been devoting his entire time since the war to education and organization work for the purpose of building a society based on economic justice, and production for use instead of profit, taking as his special field colleges, churches and labor unions.

Dr. Thomas is a graduate of Princeton University and the Union Theological Seminary. At the outbreak of the war he was clergyman of a prominent church in New York City. He threw in his lot with the Socialist Party, when others were leaving it, because the party took a definite stand against the war. He said that he could not conscientiously ask the blessing of God on bayonets and bullets.

The subject of his lecture will be "The World Today and Tomorrow," a very timely subject when it is considered what is now taking place in the Old World. Joseph M. Caldwell, State Secretary of the Socialist Party, will be chairman of the meeting. After the lecture the Poale Zion of Providence will hold a dinner in honor of Dr. Thomas at Zim's Banquet Hall on Mathewson street. Alter Boyman is in charge of the arrangements for the banquet and any one desiring reservations should communicate with him at once, as the tickets are limited.

Tickets for the lecture may be procured from Mrs. Gussie Nelson, 200 Orms street, or from members of the committee.

Dr. Thomas is a member of the Workmen's Circle and an honorary member of several labor unions. His work on behalf of strikers in different parts of the country, is recognized in the movement, as one of the most outstanding contributions to the cause of labor that has been given in America.

NOTES

During the past week Rabbi Israel M. Goldman of Temple Emanu-El and Rabbi William G. Braude of Temple Beth-El visited the Orphanage.

An old-fashioned "spelling-bee" caused great interest and amusement for the children in the Home one evening. The number of good spellers was found to be large. The boys and girls were divided into three groups: senior, junior and midjets.

Dr. Wolfenson, on his recent visit to the Temple Emanu-El Religious School, found the various classes functioning in splendid manner, and the children making excellent progress because of the fine instruction they are receiving. Through the courtesy of Temple Emanu-El and Rabbi Goldman, all Orphanage children are attending the school.

The Orphanage basketball team again victorious when they met the "Olympics" in a return match in the Home gymnasium the score being, 29 to 13. The "Olympics" had previously won the Junior League Championship of the Community Center, making the victory of the Orphanage team highly gratifying.

In last Sunday evening's game the Home boys lined up against the Newboy A. C., finishing with a score of 55 to 19 in favor of the Orphanage.

Several out-of-town alumni of the Home have recently returned for visits, as well as a large number of Providence alumni. They unanimously find the high standards of the Orphanage in the past not only fully maintained, but even considerably enlarged.

Dr. Wolfenson presided at the afternoon session of the sectional meeting of the Child Welfare Division of the Social Workers' Institute, held at the Providence Biltmore Hotel Thursday.

Passover preparations are well under way. A complete double set of dishes and utensils for Passover is maintained by the Orphanage and will be ready for use. MORE CRITICALLY ILL RUSHED TO HOSPITALS

By CHARLES M. HOFFMAN, MIRIAM HOSPITAL

In recent months hospital administrators in different parts of the country have noticed a marked change in the character of patients entering their institutions due to the economic condition. In former years the great majority of patients, not of an emergency nature, such as accident, appendicitis, etc., were not nearly as advanced in illness as many patients seeking treatment this year. Hospital superintendents attribute the large number of advanced illness cases now being admitted solely to present business conditions, which tend to make people delay hospital and medical care, just as they tend to put off expenditures for other necessities. This general trend has been noticed to some extent in our own community.

We at the Miriam Hospital have noted in recent months that a number of patients have delayed hospital and medical care almost to the danger point. As a result, the doctor and the hospital personnel must use heroic efforts and the patient himself must stay in the hospital longer and be more careful during convalescence. The writer understands that in some of the larger cities there have been a few instances of death occurring within a few hours after admission to the hospital simply because the patient had failed to obtain medical care until his condition was hopeless. I want to bring this fact to public attention so as to warn anyone in this community who may unwittingly be allowing some condition now easily corrected to become serious or even incurable. The services of a doctor should be obtained at the first indication that an illness is becoming serious, and if the doctor recommends that the patient come to the hospital, this should be done at once.

The following have been chosen as characters in the mock trial to be presented at the Center Stunt Night April 24: Israel Zukroff, Sydney Cohen, Samuel Penn, Hyman Weinberg, Abe Kilberg and Irving Berry.

PLAY SUCCESSFUL

The local Jewry enjoyed an evening of rare pleasure at the presentation of the Passover play, "Alilath Dom," given by the pupils of the Ahavath Sholom Hebrew School last Sunday evening. The play was coached and staged by the principal, Samuel S. Cohen, and Max Gorodetsky, formerly connected with the Jewish stage, was in charge of costumes and make-up.

In spite of the limited facilities and extreme youth of the "actors" and "actresses" the play ran smoothly, and were the children twice as old they could not have committed themselves better. The first act opened with a Seder and the children chanting the Haggadah in a manner that would do credit to their elders. The second act went on with the finding of a Gentile boy, who had been left wounded and supposedly dead at the Rabbi's door step. This results in the accusation of murder against the Jews by the bigots, who believed that the Jews required blood for the Passover rituals. The boy, however, does not die which naturally vindicated the Jews, and through the clever questioning of the Chief of Police, they find the guilty one.

The Rabbi and the Rebbetzin played by Samuel Goldfarb of Pawtucket and Ruth Fishbein gave excellent performances. The Chief of Police, the priest and the boys who had the Din-Torah played by Sydney Cohen, Harry Rosenberg, Irving Pickar and Morris Goodman, respectively, also deserve honorable mention. Meyer Grossman of Edgewood, who played the part of the murdered child, acted his role remarkably well for a child of seven years. Even the mob scene, usually of minor importance, was an outstanding bit of acting by a group of boys who enjoyed depicting the hoodlums their part called for. Alilath Dom was played here last year and was such a success that a strong demand was made to stage it again. It was at this request that the School Board decided to give Providence Jewry the opportunity to see the historical drama.

The other characters were played by Joslyn Presser, Beatrice Cutler, Louis Schleifer, Sarah Gordon, Minnie Meyers, Rose Wallick, Ethel Horvitz, David Wilkes, Irving Gertz, Haskell Frank, Haskell Wallick, Emma Perlow, Sidney Greenfield, Morris Sweet, William Gregerman, Jack Goldstein, Morris Snyder, Sidney Green, Irving Weiner, Sanford Fineman, Eunice Horvitz, Ida Barles, Joseph Cohen, Philip Friedmann, Sydney Kloner and Joseph Wexler.

Henry Berlin, tenor, rendered several popular Jewish selections which were very well received. He was accompanied by Miss Julia Yale Berlin. Mr. Berlin was formerly connected with the Temple Beth-Israel Choir.

Prof. Einstein's House Searched for Arms

Berlin, Mar. 31—(JTA)—Professor Einstein's house in Caputh, near Potsdam, has been subjected to a most thorough search by political police and Nazis.

The Nazis had charged that huge quantities of arms had been concealed in Professor Einstein's house. It is understood that although every part of the house was most carefully examined nothing more dangerous than a bread knife was discovered.

JEWISH INTERVENTION AROUSES IRE OF NAZIS

Vienna, Mar. 31—(JTA)—American Jewish intervention at Washington, reported in the Austrian press recently, has greatly excited the Nazi press here, leading to an intensified anti-Semitic campaign.

Articles in the Nazi press have succeeded in producing disturbances in Vienna and demonstrations by Nazi students in the university. So threatening did the situation become in the university, that the government closed all the colleges and issued orders to the police that they were to enter the colleges if there were any sign of recurrence.

TIDBITS

By SYLVIA L. ROBIN

The Jewish people of Providence are on their toes, regarding the Hitler outrages, as was evinced last Monday night, at the protest meeting held at Zimm's Banquet Hall. Over sixty Jewish organizations were represented, and men and women from all walks of life appeared—old, young, strong and feeble—each one ready, anxious and willing to do some small part to prove the feeling that is in the heart of every Jew at this time.

A mass meeting was decided upon, to be held Sunday night in the Arcadia, a large auditorium, where great numbers can be accommodated.

An enterprising Laundry Concern advertises as follows:

MEN  WHY KILL YOUR WIFE? — LET US DO THE DIRTY WORK FOR YOU!

Any husband wishing to take advantage of this accommodation may have the name of said laundry upon request.

Louis Bachman can now play any game of cards, from Solitaire to Pisha-Pasha—and with two decks, too, for he took the lucky number in the drawing at the Providence

Fraternal Association meeting Tuesday night.

The Jewish Center Parents' Association is making strides towards becoming a permanent organization. Mrs. Ira Robinson, who was appointed temporary chairman, has been retained by the executive committee as choice for President. She is an ardent and enthusiastic worker and under her leadership, the group should thrive and grow.

Herman Galkin, nominee for Vice President, has a great many novel and interesting projects which he promises to reveal in the near future.

Benjamin Rakatansky, nominee for Treasurer, is in charge of arrangements for the next meeting. He will institute an idea which will go over "big," and result in largely attended and anxiously awaited meetings.

Mrs. Sigmund Robinson, is the nominee for Corresponding Secretary, and in spite of being a very busy person promises to do a good bit of work in that capacity. Mrs. Samuel Littman, as Recording Secretary, will be hard to beat. An executive board of six members, in addition to the officers mentioned, certainly should have no difficulty in making this new organization an outstanding one in the city.

The Book Case

Comments on Jewish Authors and Their Books

By FRIEDA R. BIENSTOCK

"Sing Before Breakfast" by Vincent McHugh (Simon & Schuster), is of the Hemingway school and more Hemingway than that author himself. Mr. McHugh is unquestionably a master of prose but he elects to follow a somewhat questionable school of writing. For the average reader "Sing Before Breakfast" will prove to be a bit too metallic in its dialogue and somewhat unreal in its character delineations.

The story is that of an artist who refuses to be swayed from his ideals by the mere matter of having to provide for his wife and himself. He is so, we are told, madly in love with his wife. Yet her frantic worry and obsessions regarding the future do not sway him. On page after page he gives evidence of his love and yet lets his money dwindle away without any attempt to ease her anxiety. And finally, in a quarrel, brought on by lack of funds and her unwillingness to have him humiliate her, he accidentally kills her.

A morbid story unquestionably and yet one which we cannot dismiss as mere trash. Mr. McHugh gives more than faint evidence of really excellent writing. His prose is smooth and his style that of a master. If only he did not make his characters talk like creatures spawned out of a union between the writings of Hemingway and Michael Arlen, I would say he possessed something very close to a genius for writing. As it is one can only hope that Mr. McHugh will decide to eschew affectations and give us more of the type of writing that is evidenced in those few pages of his book which do not positively glitter and sparkle with clever repartee!

"Gas-House McGinty" by James T. Farrell (Vanguard), is a story of the chief wagon-dispatcher of the Continental Express Company, and the mad-house wherein he works and the other mad-house which he calls home.

Written by the author of "Young Lonigan" this book is of the same type, realistic, faultless in character delineation and startling in its development of real feeling on the part of the reader for the homely, unromantic characters involved in the story.

"South Moon Under"

"South Moon Under" by Marjorie Kimman Rawlins, current Book of the Month selection will come as a pleasant breeze to those of you who like your tales mellow, warm and human. It is the story of three generations in a family living primitively in the swamp lands of Florida, real backwoods people, close to the soil. Written with delicacy, yet strong and convincing it is a saga of a type of American most of us know little about.

The main thread of the story tells of a young boy's struggle to make a living out of nature, as a hunter and bootlegger. He finds in the country about him the answer to life. Intermingled in this pastoral tale is a love story that fits beautifully into the picture. This is a book that will not disappoint you.

Member of Ullstein Firm Succumbs at 70

Berlin, Mar. 31—(JTA)—The death has occurred here at the age of 70 of Louis Ullstein, the second son of Leopold Ullstein, founder of the great Ullstein newspaper and book publishing concern in Berlin.

The late Louis Ullstein played a great part in the development of the firm of Ullstein. He was in considerable measure responsible for the growth of the concern and for the management of the numerous newspapers published by it.

Although part of the Ullstein family, including Louis Ullstein, has dissociated itself from the Jewish community, Nazi propaganda has been particularly directed against the Ullstein firm.

Jewish Children Attending Syria Mission Schools

Beirut, Mar. 17—(JTA)—Over 1100 Jewish children in Syria are compelled to seek their education in missionary schools, it is asserted here by Jewish leaders. It is understood that the Alliance Israelite, after investigating the condition of Jewish education, intends to approach Sir Elly Kadoorie, the Jewish philanthropist of Shanghai, and to ask him to assist in the establishment of Jewish schools in Syria. The Alliance proposes that the educational establishments established by him should be called "Kadoorie Schools."

Sir Elly Kadoorie, who is an old scholar of the Alliance, having received his education at one of the Alliance schools in Bagdad, has already contributed large sums for Jewish education in Syria.

Twin Elms Popular With Pleasure Seekers

Dancing and vaudeville as one of the entertainment high lights are available every night to Rhode Islanders at the popular Twin Elms Inn in Harmony.

The Inn, situated in the midst of natural scenic splendor, is growing more popular with those who seek an evening's pleasure after a day of work. A short ride over good roads will take you there. There are two bands and two dance floors to accommodate the merry makers. The lodge dance floor at the extreme east end of the Inn is separated from the Ballroom by a spacious balcony, where private parties are held to enjoy the fun of both dance floors.

Billy Harris' Cotton Club Orchestra holds the spot-light in the lodge. Leo Marsh is the master of ceremonies, and under his direction, several acts of vaudeville are presented in real cabaret style.

Lithuanian Govt. Publishes Statistics of 1932 Emigration

Kovno, Mar. 31—(JTA)—One thousand and one emigrants left Lithuania during 1932, of whom 725 were Jews, according to the official statistics of the Lithuanian government. The previous year, the total number of emigrants was 1750, and 1128 of them were Jews.

In 1932, the Jews constituted therefore 72½% of the total number of emigrants, an increase in comparison with the previous year, when they constituted 64%, a striking demonstration of the emigration urge among the Jewish population, in spite of the severe immigration restrictions, which have affected it much less proportionately than they have general emigration.

Of the 725 Jews who left Lithuania in 1932, 290 went to South Africa and 193 to Palestine. The Palestine emigrants were assisted by the Palestine Office of the Zionist Organization, and those who went to other countries were assisted by the Kovno office of the Hicem.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR TO UNITED STATES RESIGNS

Washington, Mar. 31—(JTA)—Dr. Friedrich Wilhelm von Prittwitz and Gaffron, German Ambassador to the United States since 1927, has resigned from his post as a protest against Nazi rule. Dr. von Prittwitz, known as a supporter of Republicanism in Germany, has found himself out of sympathy with the doctrines and methods of the Nazi Government, and feels that he can no longer represent it here.

It is understood that von Prittwitz had asked to be relieved of his post immediately after the Reichstag elections made it clear that control of the Reich had passed to Hitler.

HITLER ANSWERS

In the face of world condemnation of his scheme to exterminate German Jews, the Black Chancellor in his madness has hit upon another more crafty method of accomplishing his evil design. The world has told him in no uncertain terms that it will not countenance bloodshed and pogrom, but he remains defiant, determined to destroy utterly the faith and confidence hitherto reposed in the German people.

His new scheme, the more atrocious because it is more difficult to combat, consists of depriving Jews of their positions and their means of livelihood. It is the deadly weapon of seige, an attempt to accomplish by starvation and humiliation the dastardly purpose sought originally by physical violence.

Jews in that revolution torn land have become not German Jews—who down through the generations gave the world its greatest thinkers, artists, musicians, authors and financiers—but scapegoats for all the murderers, bandits and hoodlums with whom the Nazi tyrant has surrounded himself. The newest Hitler scheme, product of a diseased mind, is to starve them to death unless they flee the country as thousands already have done.

Jews have been and are being removed from public positions, from the hospitals, the courts, the schools and from business. Jewish shops and goods are being boycotted, Jewish students in German universities are being expelled, Jewish educators are taboo, Jewish physicians and lawyers are forbidden to practise.

That is the Black Chancellor's brazen answer to the whole civilized world's pleas in the name of humanity and decency!

UNWISE AND UNSOUND

From the viewpoint of the general public—especially that great majority of the people who are wage earners—the Lapan bill now reposing in the House judiciary committee of the Rhode Island legislature appears to be unwise and unsound.

The bill would put a sizeable increased tax on chain stores while exempting independent storekeepers from any similar burden. Business organizations entirely outside the chain store business have vigorously opposed this type of legislation. Only this week there was presented to the Senate a resolution of the Cranston Chamber of Commerce condemning the bill.

Such a tax plainly is discriminatory in fact and in spirit. Without holding any particular brief for chain store organizations, it is readily apparent that passage of this proposed law would benefit a comparatively small class at the expense of the public. The chain store system has been perhaps the greatest single factor in stabilization of prices for food products, keeping levels moderate and enabling the wage earner and man of modest means thereby to profit.

The law may be so drafted as to be constitutional from a strictly legal point of view, but with respect to the public welfare it is open to serious challenge. If its primary purpose were to bring in additional revenue, such a scheme would be robbing Peter to pay Paul because the tax burden would be immediately passed along to the public in the form of higher prices. If, on the other hand, it is designed artificially to handicap the chain store so that the independent is given an advantage in competition—and plainly that is its purpose—then the public welfare is subordinated for the benefit of a comparatively small class and the legislation is discriminatory against the general public and the chain stores alike.

TIDBITS AND NEWS OF JEWISH PERSONALITIES

By DAVID SCHWARTZ

It's Over—All Over

I came upon my friend Brinning reading a Jewish weekly. He looked up.

"What are you reading?" I asked. "Oh, something terrible. I hope Sokolow doesn't see this. Or Brandeis."

"Is it that bad?" I asked. "Yes," sighed Brinning, "if Brandeis, Sokolow, Jabotinsky, Weizmann saw this article by Pierre van Paassen, they would just throw up the sponge. The Zionist movement would collapse like one of those apples of Sodom that grow around the Dead Sea."

"What is the article about?" I asked.

"It's called, 'Is the Zionist Episode Over?' And it says it is. It says it's a complete wash-out. The jig is up."

Dinner In Palestine

"But," I interjected, "why all the latest reports say just the opposite. Never before have reports been so optimistic. England is allowing greater immigration. There is employment for all—even a scarcity of labor. Why only this week, there is the further announcement that Canada is allowing Palestine oranges in free, which will mean a further impetus to Palestine prosperity."

"My dear sir," said Brinning, "you talk so foolishly. This man Van Paassen surely knows better than you. He was himself in Palestine several years ago. They even gave him a dinner there. You have not even had a breakfast there. You don't think Van Paassen would be fooling you, do you? Here, read the article yourself, said Brinning, and be convinced."

I read the article. "Well," said Brinning, "it's all over with Hatikvah singing now, isn't it? I guess we'll have to stick to Eli, Eli."

A Communist Opinion

"What is your reaction?" continued Brinning.

"My immediate reaction is that the testimony is impeachable."

"Exactly," said Brinning. "Van Paassen is a Communist—and the development of any country except on a Communist basis he just can't see. To ask him about Zionism is like asking a vegetarian whether he would eat meat that is not kosher."

The Land of Assimilation

"There are only two ways out for Judaism. Assimilation or Communism. Such is Mr. Van Paassen's opinion."

"Well, the German Jews," said Brinning, "have tried assimilation. In no country has there been such a deliberate effort to assimilate as there. German Jewry was the mother of Reform Judaism, which retained a minimum of Jewish practices—such a minimum that some people can scarcely distinguish it from Unitarianism. Further than this, there have been societies organized by Jews in Germany, assertively and even blatantly assimilation in object. Nowhere has the movement to merge the Jewish identity with the rest of the population been so pronounced. But it appears not to have helped. The Hitlerites are massacring them. They are not only at war against the Jews, but they are at war against the Jews who have adopted Christianity. They are running down and ousting from employment, even those whose fathers and grandfathers changed to Christianity."

"So that in truth, assimilation may be ruled out, as an escape for the Jew. And if that is so, it appears, at least, if we are to take Van Paassen's word that Zionism will not help—that the only solution is Socialism or Communism."

The Communist Solution

"But is this last refuge open? Let us see. In Germany, it appears that even Communism would not help. For it is a matter of record, that last year, the Communist party in Germany, ousted all Jews from positions in its party."

"And it appears that in other places where the Socialistic, if not the Communist idea, makes pace, that it is not so good for the Jew. Consider Poland. We may, indeed, trace the increase in the misery of the Jews of Poland to the progressive socialization of that land. Every time Poland takes over a new industry, more Jews are thrown out of work. And in the government operation of the industry, no Jews are employed. So the lot of the Polish Jew has grown increasingly harder with the socialization of that land."

Two Maybe's

"But," continued Brinning, "Mr. Van Paassen will perhaps tell me, that once full Communism comes, and the country is safely and securely Communist, all of these difficulties will be removed."

"Well, maybe, they will, and maybe they won't. But even assuming that they will, let him first go and make all the world Communist. It's quite a problem. A problem, perhaps a little more difficult than to bring about the Palestine of our dreams."

American Generosity

"The article," continued Brinning, "is full of half-truths—and half-falsehoods." Thus, Mr. Brinning is sure that the success of Palestine depends economically on American Jewish generosity.

"I am not half so sure about that as Mr. Van Paassen. I recall one of the most distinguished leaders of American Zionism going so far indeed as saying, confidentially to me that, Palestine was growing despite the Zionist organization."

"American generosity building up Palestine! That is pure piffle. They would probably have less hospitals in Palestine, if it were not for American Jewish donations. But I am not even so sure about that. The government would have probably been forced to assume the health work—a normal function for the government. The growth of Palestine as a whole has been a spontaneous one. It has grown because, even if the immigration laws were strict, still some were admitted. It is these poor immigrants, most of them coming with nothing, who have built up the land."

"Analyze exactly what this American generosity has meant. Add all the moneys raised in America by contributions, subtract from that the sum that has gone to the expenses of these campaigns, and see what little actually has gone to Palestine. You may get a shock when you see the result. One thing is certain Palestine has not grown from these contributions."

The British Attitude

"Nor need Mr. Van Paassen be so disconsolate about the British policy. There is good ground for the belief that the British colonial mind has undergone a great change. Not from any idealism, to be sure, but for her own selfish interests. The very Mosul oil line, to which Van Paassen refers,

Denial Ullstein's Death Due to Ill Treatment

New York, Mar. 31—(JTA)—A report in the Warsaw daily, Nasz Przegląd (Our Review), to the effect that the death of Louis Ullstein, head of the Berlin publishing firm, was due to wounds inflicted by Nazis, and published in the Jewish Daily Bulletin of March 24, is denied here by the New York correspondent of the Ullstein Press Service, Rolf Jungelblut.

He writes that he has received a cable from the head office of Berlin to the effect that there is no foundation to the story regarding the circumstances of Louis Ullstein's death. He adds that Louis Ullstein had been suffering from gall stones and died after an operation.

is one of these selfish reasons. Thus, for instance, the Bedouins have a habit of tearing up the pipe lines. The Bedouins hold this as threat over the British as a means of extracting money. With the Jews dwelling around these pipe lines, the British may have to pay this graft. There are many other reasons, why Britain is beginning to see that her interests are identical with the interests of a Jewish Palestine."

Zionism Faces Opportunity

"No," said Brinning, "the Zionist episode is not over. In fact, with the Jewish conditions what they are in Germany—in Poland and other parts of the world, and with world conditions what they are—it seems to me that Palestine is faced with the greatest opportunity in its history, if we had only the leadership to vision it and to meet it."

"If we had such a leadership, what could we do?" I asked.

"Well," said Brinning, "a far visioned leadership might work on a plan for the raising of an international loan—say of 50 million pounds—to finance an immigration of two or three million Jews, say from Germany and Poland—into Trans-Jordan. The loan could be issued against a tax on the increase in land values, which would take place once those two millions came there. You bring two million people to any place, and land values will take a tremendous rise. The loan would thus be amply secured."

"The world's mind now senses the importance of the Jewish problem, and I believe, it would be receptive to such a bold solution at the present. Two million Jews taken from Germany and Palestine would make Trans-Jordan bloom like the rose. The whole Near East would pulse with new life."

The chairman of the delegation reported that the protest of the National Council of Jewish Women was sympathetically and interestedly received, and Under-Secretary Phillips assured the delegation that an intensive investigation of conditions is being conducted and every effort is being made to ascertain the real facts of the oppression.

The National Council of Jewish Women will be represented by Mrs. Mark Lansburgh of Washington at hearings before the Immigration Committee when it discusses the question of relaxing immigration requirements for persecuted Jews and that it will emphatically support such efforts.

League Conclave Will Stress Greater Role for Jewish Women

More intensive participation of Jewish women in general communal life as well as in Jewish life will be the keynote of the forthcoming annual convention of the Women's League of the United Synagogue of America, which will be held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York City, on May 7, 8 and 9th, according to an announcement issued by Mrs. Samuel Spiegel of New York City, National President of the organization.

In this connection Mrs. Spiegel announced that among the tentative subjects for discussion will be such questions as: "What Is the Jewish Woman Doing for General Social Welfare?" "What Is She Doing to Further Peace Movements?" "What Is She doing for College Youth?" These questions Mrs. Spiegel said, will embrace many important Jewish as well as general activities in the community in which she believes Jewish women should take a much more active part.

"The problems attendant upon the economic depression as well as the general position of the Jew in this country makes the role of the Jewish woman a particularly significant one," Mrs. Spiegel declared. "The Jewish woman will have to shoulder more responsibilities than she had done in the past, not only in her specific Jewish communal life, but in the life and well-being of the community as a whole and in the problems that effect the nation. For this reason the convention of the Women's League will be the most important that has taken place in many years."

The chairman of the program committee of the convention is Mrs. Jacob S. Minkin of New York. Other chairmen are: Nominations, Mrs. Louis Ginzberg of New York; resolutions, Mrs. B. E. Kopelman of New York; credentials committee, Mrs. C. Reisman of Scranton; reception committee, Mrs. L. Kavovitz of Port Chester, N. Y., and Mrs. Leo Goldberger of New York.

By NINA KAYE

Helen Siegel's feet dragged as she crossed the polished square of the foyer and turned the crystal knob. She tried, for the tiniest fraction of a second, to lift the sag in her shoulders, to turn up the corners of her mouth. But she couldn't. What was the use, anyway? They would have to know sooner or later.

Inside, with the door open behind her, as if she might need a means of escape, she faced the group about the fire. It was a modern fire, smokeless and odorless and heatless. But it gave just the needed glow to that lovely room that looked out across the roof-tops of Manhattan to the river. And especially on a damp and misty March afternoon, it drew you to it. Helen had once seen a cat sprawled in comfortable languor before a radiator. It had been amusing, then. Now it seemed rather pitiful, as she recalled it.

She did not go up to the heatless fire, but stood in the doorway, facing them.

Her mother—everybody said Mrs. Siegel looked young enough to be Helen's sister—looked up in surprise. Her father, handsome in his dark blue smoking jacket, swung around from the backgammon board, to the chagrin of her brother Arthur, who was about to make a telling play.

"Helen!" they exclaimed together. Helen drew off her hat and wearily passed her fingers through her soft brown hair. "Yes," she laughed sharply, "I'm really here. Not—not my ghost."

Mrs. Siegel rose and came hurrying toward her. "Oh, I'm glad you came home early. How clever of you to know we were planning a surprise for you! You see, papa, Helen didn't forget it was her birthday!"

"My birthday!" Helen almost shrieked her surprise. "My birthday!" Then she began to laugh, wild, hysterical laughter.

At last she was in a chair, drying the tears that had welled with her laughter. "No, Mama, I didn't remember it was my birthday. But that makes it even funnier. Sort of easier to remember the anniversary, that's all."

"Arthur," Mrs. Siegel called, "get Helen a drink of water. She's tired. Helen, darling, you can't be feeling well if you come home in the middle of the afternoon like this."

"I'm quite all right, Mama," Helen said, her efficient self again. "Never mind the water, Arthur. You might as well be here and hear the news. The shop's closed!"

"Closed!" The force of the word sent them all to their feet. "Yes," Helen nodded, "for good. No more Mlle. Helene. I put it off as long as possible. I put off your knowing the trouble I've had. But nobody seems to want one-of-a-kind dresses any more."

Swift glances flew from son to father and mother. Almost, as if they spoke aloud, Helen could hear their thought.

Leaping to her feet, she cried out her anger. "Oh, you're only worried about what's going to happen to you! You're trying to imagine what it will mean to give up this apartment and go to live somewhere else—in Brooklyn, perhaps. Arthur's wondering how in the world he'll be able to go to a public high school, after Sanford's. Why don't you think of me for once? How do you think I feel, losing the shop I've built up in ten years? What do you think I'm going to do? How can I look for a job, ask my competitors to help me out? Oh, I wish I'd never started anything! I wish I'd been like other girls and gotten married and forgotten my ambition! Then, maybe I wouldn't be so alone on my thirtieth birthday!"

Mrs. Siegel gripped her arm, shook her into silence. "Helen," she insisted, "we were thinking of you! We've been thinking of you all the time! That's the surprise we've got for tonight. Milton Cramer is in New York! He called up today and Papa invited him here!" Suddenly Mrs. Siegel's face became a study in shrewdness. Instinctively, craftily, she lowered her voice. "Listen, everybody," she whispered hoarsely, "not a word about Helen's shop closing! Nothing but lightness and happiness tonight! Remember, he's got to think we're still well off. Everybody has heard about Helen's success. Milton didn't call up just for old time's sake. He asked about you, Helen. And when we told him it was your birthday and he should come to dinner, he was glad about it!"

Gradually, the significance of her mother's words dawned on Helen. "I wouldn't think of such deception," she said coldly, disdainfully.

Instantly the three of them were upon her, urging. "Think what it means—if you married Milton and went back to Clayton you could have a big house, we wouldn't be any trouble. You always liked Milton, remember."

Helen fled to her room. Seated at the crystal-top dressing table, with the light glowing softly through it on her face, Helen began to realize how hard it was going to be to give it all up. To begin again at thirty! Thirty was so terribly young for a man. But for a woman!

"You always liked Milton," she repeated her mother's words. Her lips grew white with remembered pain. "Always liked!" she repeated.

If she hadn't been so desperately in love with Milton, she'd never have flung herself into her work when he said they were too young to be married, there was his mother to support, he had his way to make in the world first. They were both twenty then. And now they were thirty!

The moment she saw Milton Cramer, standing there in her living room, bowing over her hand, Helen knew that she had never stopped loving him. "If he's come for me now," her heart cried desperately, "I'll marry him, gladly."

With that thought ringing through her, she made no attempt to contradict her mother when she spoke of her success and the wonderful Madison avenue shop where actresses and society women relied on Helen's taste.

Mrs. Siegel drew Milton out about his own success and Milton confirmed what they had heard from friends in Clayton.

After dinner, Mrs. Siegel and her husband tactfully went off to the Yiddish Art Theatre and Arthur left for his Squash Tennis Club.

Alone in the living room, seated in deep chairs on both sides of the friendly fire, Helen and Milton talked long over their coffee.

At last Milton put down his cup, rose and walked about the lovely room. Then he came over to Helen's chair.

"I can't do it!" he exclaimed bitterly. "Helen, you may as well know what a cad I am. I came here tonight with every determination to propose to you. Oh, I knew you weren't married. I've followed every step of your success! I've never loved anybody but you, Helen, and tonight you seem more desirable than ever. But I can't propose to you, Helen. I haven't a cent! I haven't even got a job!"

He stopped abruptly, her laughter breaking through his vehemence. "What are you laughing at?" he demanded. "It seems hardly funny to me!"

She rose and faced him, lovely in her wine-red velvet. "Oh, Milton," she said, "we're only thirty! It's not too late to begin! But I don't mind how poor we'll be, I don't mind whether you make a success or not! We've wasted ten years, building up a success that went puff! like dandelion seed. Let's forget everybody but us, dear!"

"And our love!" he finished, gathering her into his arms.

Jerusalem Suffers Water Shortage as Rains Fail

Jerusalem, Mar. 31—(JTA)—Following the failure of the rains, the Palestine government announces that the present distribution of water in Jerusalem, which is now made every two days, is to be further reduced to once every four days.

As no further rains are now expected until the autumn, the population are asked to observe a rigid economy in the use of water for domestic purposes.

The water shortage in Jerusalem has become a subject of serious grievance, both among the Jewish and Arab population. It is described as a source of perennial anxiety to the population of Jerusalem, who last year suffered serious hardship and were reduced at the end of the year to an insignificant water quota, distributed only once in six days.

It is pointed out that though many solutions have been advanced for the settlement of the water problem, the Palestine government persists in continuing its patch-work policy of constructing insignificant works or of improving old sources of supply, which hold out hope of permanent improvement.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S PORTRAIT TORN BY BERLIN HOODLUMS

London, Mar. 31—(JTA)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's portrait, hanging in the study of Feuchtwanger's Berlin house, was torn up during the search by Nazis recently, it was revealed in an article by Lion Feuchtwanger published in the London Evening Standard.

The article, which is under the caption of, "I Warn Jew-Baiters," describes the situation in Germany "as of barbarism unprecedented since the Thirty Years War." He throws the entire responsibility on "Hitler and Goering, who have armed 600,000 Nazis and made them believe that they would one day see the heads of people they have been taught to regard as opponents rolling in the dust, and lamp posts decorated with their dead bodies."

Polish Refugee Relates Expulsion and Mistreatment

Warsaw, Mar. 31—(JTA)—A Jewish couple by the name of Blum, who have arrived at Kattowitz Wednesday coming from Essen, relate that thirty armed Nazis broke into their house at Essen, where they had a furniture store. The man tried to telephone to the Polish Consul for help, but the Nazis tore his clothes from him and beat him into unconsciousness. His wife was shut up by them in a pig-sty from which she was released only 48 hours later, following the Polish Consul's intervention.

Blum's family, who lived at Dueseldorf, were ordered by the authorities to liquidate their affairs and depart for Poland at a half-hour's notice. They have arrived at Kattowitz penniless.

SPORTING WORLD
NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD BY GEORGE JOEL

JEBY RETAINS MIDDLEWEIGHT TITLE

It was a close call, but Ben Jeby, newly crowned middleweight champ, managed to retain his title by taking a draw with Vince Dundee at Madison Square Garden last week. The match was for the title, and rarely do both judges and referee fail to concur in a title bout. In this particular bout there was a wholesale disagreement among the officials and after the votes were all counted, it was found that one judge voted for Jeby, one for Dundee, while the referee called it a draw. The newspaper boys were almost unanimous in giving the fight to Dundee and so was the crowd who howled mightily its disapproval nevertheless, the only thing that counts is the official decision.

Favored to win by odds of 11-5 even though he had lost two previous decisions to Dundee, the champion had a busy evening. His performance did not look anything like his showing when he won the title just a few weeks ago. Evidently Dundee's style was not to his liking but Jeby kept wading in and Dundee kept backing away. It was Jeby's willingness to fight that made him look bad. He was an easy target for Dundee's long left and the Italian kept up a steady tattoo on Jeby's face, which looked exceedingly raw when the final bell at the end of the 15th round rang out.

After the fight Jeby appeared at a radio studio and said that although the fight was close, he thought he had won and was willing to fight Dundee again. Jeby also announced that he was getting married the next day. There is no doubt about Jeby being a game guy. He is certainly willing to take it.

As part of the ceremony at the Garden, Maxie Rosenbloom, who was on hand received the gold trophy emblematic of the light-heavyweight championship. Asked what he was going to do with the belt, he said that he'd probably turn it into the treasury so he couldn't be accused of hoarding.

ROSENBLUM THE TRAVELER

If travel really is as broadening as it is supposed to be, Maxie Rosenbloom should be the broadest bird in the boxing game. A corps of statistical workers, after weeks of labor, make it known that during 1932 the Gay Caballero, who is to defend the light-heavyweight title against Bob Godwin in Madison Square Garden next week, traveled 73,000 miles to box thirty times in twenty-five cities, two of them in Canada and the rest scattered over nine states, from Florida to California. Thus he averaged one bout about every twelve days.

Under the technocratic scheme Maxie certainly would have rolled up more than his share of ergs. However, if he was as prodigal in spending his ergs as in getting rid of his dollars, he probably would be several thousand ergs in debt.

If there were more like Maxie the railroads would have nothing to worry about. Rosenbloom does all his traveling by train. To roll up his mileage record of 73,000 for the year Maxie put in many trips back to Broadway between fights.

To wallow a bit more in statistics the records show that in not quite eleven years Maxie has engaged in 192 bouts. Up to Jan. 1, 1933, he had gone to the post 188 times, thirty-four bouts being draws, no decisions or no contest. He has been defeated twenty times, suffering one knockout by Tommy Milligan. His arm was raised 134 times, giving him a winning percentage of .870. In the 188 bouts up to the first of the current year he had boxed a total of 1733 rounds.

The Gy Caballero plays many a return engagement. He has boxed Jimmy Slattery seven times and has met Frankie Schoell, Lou Seozza and Leo Lomski six times each.

When Rosenbloom hooks up with Godwin it will be their fourth meeting. He has boxed Joe Anderson, Battling Bozo, Tommy West and Gene Johnson four times each. He has clashed with nine other boxers three times and has met twenty-two others twice.

But even with 73,000 miles to his credit in 1932, Maxie must admit that his manager, Frank Bachman, takes precedence in that respect. Bachman has rolled up more than ninety thousand miles, making every trip Rosenbloom has undertaken and a lot more besides, with his other fighters.

What is more remarkable, Bachman knocked off his 90,000 miles without once boarding a railroad train. Frank travels exclusively in his automobile, a moderate-priced sedan.

Bad man, Rosenbloom and the trainer used to travel by train until the depression caused boxing clubs to cut transportation to expenses for two instead of three. So for the last few years, Bachman and the trainer have traveled by automobile.

The manager manages to keep up with the champion, even though traveling by automobile and doing all the driving himself. He averages around 600 miles a day. His best single day's work was 888 miles from Miami Fla. to Raleigh, N. C. His prize trip was a non-stop jaunt from Minneapolis to New York, 1400 miles, with only an hour's sleep while having the oil changed.

CHATTERINGS

With collegiate basketball off the floor the other indoor sportsmen are coming into their own. Last week the Eastern wrestling and boxing championships were held. In both sports I found young Jewish collegians winning honors. As expected, Al Wertheimer of Syracuse, national collegiate 125-pound champion these past two years, again walked off with the title in that division. A newcomer to wrestling circles, Max Hurwitz of Cornell won the 135-pound wrestling title. This young man from Liberty, N. Y., brought up on a farm, showed what the outdoor life can do for a man. It was his first attempt at championship competition. While at prep school he was a baseball and basketball star.

Harry Wolf, the squash tennis champ, was named number one man on the ratings. What did you expect? Leonard Green, another Jewish squasher, made a mark in the recent open racquets championship—he got to the quarter-finals.

State Joins Protest

Both Governor Theodore Francis Green and the Rhode Island General Assembly have taken official recognition of the situation, the former endorsing the Jewish protest and the assembly passing unanimously a resolution introduced by Representative Charles Brown of this city last week. The measure protests Hitler atrocities against Jews and urges Rhode Island members of Congress to support United States intervention.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Hull has reported on the investigation ordered by the State Department as a result of a conference between Undersecretary Phillips of Massachusetts and national leaders of the American Jewish Congress. Persecution and bloodshed reports were confirmed by the inquiry, he said, but added they have ceased.

Newspaper stories, however, coming from authentic sources reveal that Nazis have adopted a new and deadlier policy in dealing with the Jews. They gave thinly veiled indications that the Hitler government is countenancing a movement to start tomorrow morning, which would deprive Jews of their positions and their means of livelihood.

Boycott Against Jews

Jewish business men and their products are to be boycotted, Jewish doctors and lawyers—those who have not already been discharged—will be ousted from all public positions, and even children will be expelled from the public schools, Jewish educators long have come under the Nazi ban, hundreds of them being jobless as a result of being thrown out of the schools.

Those newspapers not dominated by the Nazis—there are only two left in Berlin—any consequence—have warned the government of the consequences of its refusal to prevent the movement. Within the Hitler ranks a serious outbreak has been reported, the Steel Helmets in Brunswick and elsewhere now appearing indisposed to follow the policies of the extremists among the Nazis. Hundreds of them have been arrested and an order disbanding them met with so serious a reaction that it probably will be rescinded tomorrow.
