Meeting Part of National Program for Better Understanding

Three Clergymen to Speak

(Special to The Herald)
KINGSTON, Nov. 17—Hailed as the greatest means possible for development of better understanding and mutual respect between religious groups, a seminar will be held at R. I. State College here Monday under the auspices of the National Conference of Christian and Jews. The meeting is part of a nation-wide program being carried out by the conference and is one of the first sessions.

From President Raymond G. Bressler down, the entire college is to take part and keen interest is being evinced on the campus. Addresses before the undergraduate body by three outstanding clergymen, representing the Catholic, Jew and Protestant, will be given. The speakers are Rev. Lorenzo C. McCarthy, O. P., president of Providence College; Dr. Rudolph I. Coffee, rabbi of Temple Sinai, Oakland, Calif., and Benson Y. Landis, member of the staff of the Federal Council of Churches in New York.

Held in Providence
The Monday seminar at Kingston will be preceded by a mass meeting at Brown University and Providence on Sunday at 4:30 o'clock when the public will be invited to hear addresses by leaders of the movement. On the same day at Providence College a supper conference at 6:30 o'clock will be held. The three representatives of the religions involved will speak at Sayles Hall in Brown. A similar seminar, although the student bodies did not take part, was held two year ago in Providence at Brown University and at Providence College, continuing over a period of several days.

For the Kingston meeting, Dr. Bressler, who is in hearty accord with the program, has appointed as his committee Dr. Flaud C. Wooton, head of the teacher training school, who is chairman; Dr. John C. Weldin, Prof. Mabel Dickson, Rev. Harry S. McCready of Kingston Congregational Church, Miss Ruth Silverman of East Greenwich, David Brooks of Newport and Edward Geremia of East Providence, the latter three students.

Dismiss Jews From German Railways

BERLIN, (JTA)—All Jews descendants of Jews, and those married to Jews or their descendants, are to be dismissed from the German state-owned railway system, according to an order published by the railway administration.
The order also stressed that all railway employees marrying descendants of Jews in the future will be automatically dismissed from their posts.
In urgent cases, the general director of the railway system is authorized to make exceptions, if it is in the interests of the railway system to retain employees subject to dismissal.
Where the Aryanism of the employee is uncertain, the case will be referred to the racial department of the Ministry of the Interior for decision, the order stated.

PUBLIC LECTURE GROUPS STARTED AT BETH ISRAEL

Three Courses Arranged to Attract Persons of All Ages

Rabbi Schussheim Speaks

Organization of three lecture courses, two of them already in progress, was announced today by Rabbi Morris Schussheim, spiritual leader of Temple Beth-Israel, Niagara street. The courses are public and not restricted to the membership of the temple, all residents of the district being invited to attend.

The courses are conducted on three different occasions, Rabbi Schussheim pointed out, for the purpose of suiting the convenience of all interested persons. Large attendances have already indicated the wide popularity of the two study groups already under way and similarly general interest is expected to attend the opening of the third course next Tuesday evening.

Sunday Morning Course
On Sunday mornings between 11 and 12 o'clock, Rabbi Schussheim lectures on the Development of Jewish Life and Thought. Primarily intended for men, the meetings held thus far have been marked by a sizeable attendance of women and they will be welcomed all during the series, the rabbi declared. Jewish education and culture are stressed since the course is designed to "fill the gaps" in adult education. The time has been set especially with a view to allowing those who are too busy during the week to take advantage of the Sunday forenoon sessions.
For women alone a group is being conducted by the rabbi every Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when a survey of Jewish literature (Continued on Page Eight)

Big Propaganda Net Studied by Dickstein Body

Sensational Disclosures Send Committee Behind Closed Doors

New Hitler Agent Lands

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—The story of how Hitler-inspired Nazi propaganda is pouring into the United States and the far-reaching series of "cells" that comprise the Nazi organization in the nation's principal cities was being unfolded behind closed doors here today as the Dickstein Congressional committee pushed its investigations.

The committee went into executive session after sensational disclosures were made during the open hearing on Tuesday. Witnesses appearing then were Joseph Smith, an official of the National Association of American Seamen; Clarence Hathaway, editor of the Communicative New York newspaper Daily Worker; a mystery witness who agreed to testify only after the committee pledged to keep his identity secret, and Victor Ridder, one of the publishers of the New York Staats-Zeitung.

Spanknoebel Still Missing
Heinz Spanknoebel, who has never denied the charge that he is head of the Nazi propaganda program in the United States, still was reported unlocated this week although, according to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, rumors persist that he is in hiding in the German legation in Montreal. He is under indictment by a New York federal grand jury and a warrant for his arrest has been issued, accused of acting as an agent for a foreign government without registering with the State Department here.

Capt. Georg Schmitt, recently arrived emissary from Hitler for the purpose of co-ordinating the American branch of the Steel Helmet organization with that of the Nazi Steel Helmets, has already been grilled in an effort to link his activities with those of Spanknoebel. ## Mrs. Misch Will Be Tendered Reception Marking Election To School Committee

Council of Jewish Women to Honor Her Tuesday At Biltmore

Re-elected to the Providence school committee after wardens' preliminary figures appeared to have proclaimed her defeat, Mrs. Marion L. Misch will be honored next Tuesday afternoon at a reception and tea in the Biltmore Hotel tendered by the Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women.

The reception is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock and it replaced a regular meeting of the organization which Mrs. Misch founded here. She is one of the most prominent Jewish women in the community and has been active for years in a number of Jewish women's organizations.
Inaccuracies Bared
Glaring inaccuracies in the wardens' count were revealed in the official tally by the board of canvassers which reversed the preliminary decision declaring Mrs. Misch's opponent, James P. Gallagher, elected by 40 votes. The first count last Tuesday night was given as Gallagher 3871, Mrs. Misch 331. The school committee elections in Providence are supposed to be non-partisan.
The canvassers' count, however, gave Mrs. Misch 3909 to 3796 for Gallagher, a 113-vote margin of victory for Mrs. Misch. Although when it was announced last Friday there were indications that a protest might be taken to the Supreme Court, the threat appeared unimportant because the number of protested ballots, even if all were counted for her opponent, would not upset Mrs. Misch's victory.

Ballots Protested
State Senator William G. Troy,

watcher for Gallagher, protested 90 ballots in all, 57 of which were counted for Mrs. Misch and 32 of which the canvassers refused to tally in favor of Gallagher. The 90th ballot was set aside as a sample of a certain type of vote.
Watching for Mrs. Misch, Attorney William A. Needham challenged 29 ballots, of which 17 had been counted for Gallagher over his protest and 12 of which the board had declined to tally for Mrs. Misch.

Wins Second Term
Mrs. Misch made net gains in every district in the official count as compared with the figures of the wardens and in two districts glaring inaccuracies were revealed when she picked up 36 and 80 votes. The election means that she will serve her second six-year term on the school committee.
Although legally non-partisan, the election, like all other school committee contests, had a decidedly political tinge, Gallagher being supported by the Democrats and Mrs. Misch by the Republicans. She is a former president of the Women's G. O. P. Club. Senator Troy, who checked for Gallagher at the canvassers' count, is Democratic leader in the Senate and Mr. Needham is one of the city's most active Republicans.

Boycott to Benefit Toy Manufacturers

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (JTA)—Connecticut toy manufacturers will enjoy a thirty-three and a third percent increase in business over their Christmas trade of last year as a direct result of Hitler's anti-Jewish campaign, according to Secretary Frye of the Toy Manufacturer's Association.
German-made toys are arousing little interest on the part of the buyers in such large centers as New York and Chicago, he said, and estimated that the German toy trade in the United States this year will be cut one-half at least.
The boycott on German-made toys is very definite, Mr. Frye said, adding that large stores have adopted an absolute policy of retaliation to Hitler's policies, while others are making the "made in Germany" legend as inconspicuous as possible. However, this practice is common now in connection with all German-made goods, he said.
At the Lindstrom Tool & Toy Company, Bridgeport, it was said that the company's increased volume of business was a direct result of Hitler's anti-Jewish policy. At the Gong Bell Manufacturing Company, East Hampton, it was said that buyers were giving preference to domestic toys to a very noticeable degree, because of the superiority of American products, and sentiment supporting the boycott.

ROUNDOABOUT

One of our local boys took it on the chin recently . . . the girl who he fondly imagined was his one and only "upped" and married an out of townner very suddenly . . . and the poor fellow didn't even know about the other man in her life until a couple of days before the wedding when she called him up and told him that "he was her best friend and wanted him to be the first to know!" . . . and he had always thought that they were rather more than friends . . . but he is a gentleman and wishes her all the happiness in the world although he still loves her.

Milton Silverman is shortly going on a motor trip to Arizona to visit his brother Harold . . . He says he will be glad to take anyone else who would like to trip west . . . providing they pay their own way!

A certain young lawyer called us at the office the other day and proceeded to give us what he called, good advice. He maintained that none of our men readers were interested in what certain women wore or who went to the movies. Or in other words, they were not interested in "seen about town." They were interested in scandal, harmless of course! But the gentlemen refused to tell his name. We wonder just what he was afraid of.

The social season is in full swing . . . another organization is to be congratulated on its successful dance . . . Temple Beth Israel Sisterhood held their annual supper dance at the Nar-ragansett last Wednesday Eve and it was grand . . . the ladies looked charming and the men most gallant . . . the decorations were beautiful and music sweet . . . then why shouldn't it be a huge success!

A certain business man in town is doing a lot of explaining . . . it all started as a joke but he denied so vehemently that we are beginning to doubt his explanations after all . . . he is married . . . very happily so . . . but he was seen driving in town with a most charming lady . . . he maintains the charmer was his cousin but no one else in the family seems to remember ever seeing that cousin before . . . but perhaps he discovered a new relative no one else knew about!

Are you doing your bit for the Community Fund drive? You know how necessary it is for every one to get behind the drive . . . we must help those who are in no condition to help themselves!

What little girl who was very popular has disappeared from our midst . . . do you know and why? We will tell you. She was going with a certain rounder in town and her father strongly disapproved . . . he forbade her to see him any more . . . you know that heavy father role doesn't go any more . . . so the young lady disobeyed her father and saw the questionable young man any way . . . so her father sent his erring daughter out of town for safe keeping.

There are congratulations due to so many young couples this week . . . rapid is working overtime these days . . . Celia Litchman and Simon Rose . . . Freda Bograd and Henry Efros . . . Bernard Blumenthal and Edythe Frank of Roxbury . . . Bessie Rosenberg and Charles Lindenbaum of New York . . . Rosa Glass and Hyman Galkin . . . Belle Temkin and Jacob M. Saxe . . . Eva Podersky of Pawtucket and Samuel Gorman . . . Lillian Goldstein and Simon Chorney . . . Henrietta Wilner and Albert Shatkin.

With all the bible study groups and Hebrew classes starting at the various temples the young people of Providence are getting religious minded . . . it's a grand idea . . . it's about time we were interested in something useful!

Don't be frightened . . . we don't often get this sudden moralizing streak but it came this week and you and you and you must bear with it . . . cheerio . . . till next week!

fellowship of the Congregation, with the hope that his affiliation will prove mutually inspiring.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE ATTENDS ANNUAL ARMISTICE PROGRAM

Outdoing similar meetings of the past two years, Sunday's annual Armistice Observance brought out an audience that crowded Sayles Hall to capacity, to hear President William A. Neilson of Smith College, noted educator, author, and lecturer, speak on "The Prospects for Peace."

Outdoing similar meetings of the past two years, Sunday's annual Armistice Observance brought out an audience that crowded Sayles Hall to capacity, to hear President William A. Neilson of Smith College, noted educator, author, and lecturer, speak on "The Prospects for Peace."

Dr. Neilson declared "freshmen in college today know nothing of the world war, except as they read of it as a bit of history. They were not born at the outbreak of the war, and seniors were only little children. It is necessary to do something so that the lessons we learned in the war will not be lost to them." The speaker expressed the opinion that "the prospects for peace today are blacker than they have been in any of the recurring Armistice anniversaries. We have seen the long effort toward disarmament, for the moment at least blocked, and there has begun to be a serious loss of faith that any real disarmament will be accomplished in our time."

Mrs. Samuel Wachenheimer headed the committee on arrangements for the meeting.

Do You Want A MORTGAGE? Then Come To Old Colony

Obviously we cannot take mortgages on every property for which we receive applications. The money we loan belongs to our shareholders, and can only be loaned under certain entirely reasonable conditions which we must maintain to safe-guard and protect the funds of these small savers.

But we have ample supplies of cash readily available for desirable first mortgages on small homes, if you can meet requirements and are in a position to demonstrate your ability to repay the loan.

Details and circumstances vary so widely in individual cases that it is impossible to outline here an exact statement of what mortgages will and will not be acceptable, but we will be glad to have you come in and talk the matter over with us in confidence, and we will willingly match our time against yours in analyzing your problem, to see whether we cannot be helpful in some way.

"INDORSING" HITLER

The recent election in Germany, during which Hitler's policies were overwhelmingly "indorsed," was the ghastliest farce ever perpetrated upon a nation. Conditions prevailing at the balloting were such that it was impossible to obtain an honest vote and the outcome was surprising neither to Hitler himself nor to anyone else however far removed from the scene.

It is easy to picture Nazi storm troopers, mopping up after the whirlwind speaking campaign of the leaders, standing menacingly at the ballot boxes and daring anyone to vote "no." Nazis routed out the voters, compelled them to cast their ballots and then counted them. Nazis intimidated, harried and threatened. In fact, officially no one exists in Germany today except Nazis. There is no opposition party; there can be no expressed viewpoint contrary to the Nazi attitude.

Even the fact that, according to the count, well nigh every voter in the Reich went to the polls is not too surprising to be understood. People were afraid to stay away. Moreover, a small total vote, indicating apathy on the part of the German public in the face of Hitler's energetic campaign, would have meant his doom. With the Nazis in complete control of the polls, the result was inevitable. Although not on such a grand scale, the practice of making ballot figures look right by one method or another is not unknown even in the United States, and whatever their faults the Nazi chieftains cannot be accused of lack of resourcefulness.

Hitler very cleverly made his foreign policies the main issue and even if the elections were conducted fairly there could be no quarrel with the result. The oppressions of the Versailles Treaty and other more crushing burdens placed on the Reich by European powers paved the way originally for the rise of Hitler. The fact that the rest of Europe is keeping the German people under its spurred heel, by flaunting pledges to disarm, is serving to maintain Hitler's hold over the suffering, bewildered and downtrodden remnants of a once great nation, a people so desperate that it even turned to and now follows his mad dictates.

Reduced to the lowest common terms, the election was a referendum upon whether or not the German people should have three square meals a day — and then allowing only the starving to vote on the question.

THE KINGSTON SEMINAR

At Rhode Island State College on Monday will be written into the annals of religious history another chapter of the finest movement ever conceived by man and one that should have the heartiest support of every thinking Catholic, Jew and Protestant.

The Jewish Herald previously has sung praises to the National Conference of Christians and Jews and at every opportunity, will do everything in its power to sustain interest in the movement. The misunderstandings that result from ignorance, one of the other, have given birth to all manner of bigotry and intolerance among religious faiths. Any step towards greater mutual respect and appreciation strengthens the well being of the entire world.

That the conference should be held in Rhode Island also is peculiarly fitting for the state was conceived because Roger Williams and his band of followers came to the shores of Narragansett Bay to practise their religion as they saw fit. This State of ours is founded upon the very principle which is the goal of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Perhaps, especially from the Jewish viewpoint, there has never been a time when the need for banishing intolerance and religious prejudice was more apparent. The tragedy in Germany and imminence of a similar anti-Jewish policy in Austria do not entirely overshadow perceptible signs of an anti-Semitic consciousness in many parts of the United States. In fact, no nation is completely innocent of the charge of oppressing religious minorities in some form or other. Officials of the conference obviously recognize this to be true, hence their determined efforts toward eliminating this evil by prompting better understanding between different religious groups.

And certainly, the best possible place to start is in the colleges where the youth of the country overcomes many of his senseless and unreasoning prejudices. Success of the movement augurs well for enlightened future generations with consequent harmony and peace throughout the nation. The National Conference of Christians and Jews is dedicated to the work of stamping out the world's deadliest evil.

Brevities

Arnold Schoenberg, distinguished German composer is one of the valuable exiles for whom America will have to thank Germany. The best or some of the best blood America has, we owe to the Nazi type mind from the very beginning. Consider the case of such a man for instance as Dr. Priestley, the discoverer of oxygen, who was exiled from England in the beginning of the 19th century because of his sympathies with the French Revolution.

Schoenberg likes hissing. Used to worry a great deal when he was hissed, but later came to the conclusion that unless a musical work was hissed at its beginning, there was something wrong with it. A great musical composition always shocks the people at first, he argues.

Queen Esther of the Bible only set a precedent, if you believe Dr. Melamed, famous Chicago editor. There is a Jewish lady behind King Carol — there is a Jewess around Mussolini — there is a Jewess around — but we can't remember all of them. Write to Dr. Melamed for the full list.

Walter Winchell is on the sick list and Paul Yawitz, who was "fired" from a St. Louis paper, (the editor telling him he would never make good in the newspaper game) is taking Winchell's place.

Every good columnist was one time told he would never make good as a newspaperman. If you don't believe it, ask Louis Sobel, Hearst columnist, who had the same experience as Yawitz.

Morris Margulies, Secretary of the Zionist Organization, smokes exactly one dozen cigars every day. Like H. L. Mencken, he prefers the nickle brand.

Spinoza like Thomas Jefferson was fond of wine. His daily "quota" was a minimum of a pint a day.

According to the New York Sun, it was the Jewish vote which was responsible for the election of La Guardia as Mayor of New York. Nazi papers please copy.

Two of the better known actresses of the Yiddish stage in New York are "shickshehs" (Aryans to you).

The first work in English to plead for Zionism was written by a Christian woman — a well known authoress. Try and guess who.

Jacob Fishman, editor of the Jewish Morning Journal is probably the handsomest scribe in the Yiddish field. Fishman is a bachelor.

No country in the world has ever had a class of immigrants who brought as much capital with them as Palestine.

Eliash, Jewish scribe of New York has seven non de plumes. That is why, he explains, he always says "we" instead of "I."

They do say that Dr Goebbels, the so-called "brains" of Nazidom, who looks anything else but the typical "blood beast" of Aryanism—is trying to supplant Hitler.

Will Herbert Bayard Swope who found himself unavailable for the post of minister to Germany because of his Jewish descent, be the first ambassador to Russia? There is some talk to that effect anyway.

Louis Lipsky's son is doing newspaper work.

Jews entering Palestine are finding Hebrew a strange language. Consider some of the oddities. The Hebrew word "dog" means "fish" while

"he" means she and "who" means he.

Madison Grant who professes to be an historian, has just published a book on the racial strains composing America. Mr. Grant belongs to the 100 per cent Nordic school, who believe that no good whatsoever can come out of Nazareth or anywhere else outside of the Nordic strongholds. Mr. Grant is particularly antagonistic to Italians and Jews. Jews, he says, are non-European, and moreover, he doubts whether they have any of the old Hebrew blood. Not Europeans—not Americans—not Hebrew. The Jews must not have been born. Like Topsy just grew.

We hope Mr. Grant lives long. He'll have to live long to learn anything much.

The Zionist Organization is slowly losing a large percentage of its workers to Palestine. Last to go was Miss Ida Flatow, who has been secretary to all of the big guns of Zionism—Weizmann, Brandeis, Lipsky, Rothenberg and Szold.

There is some talk in the Jewish circles in Cuba about the erection of a monument to Luis de Torres, the first white man to step on Cuban soil. He was the interpreter of Columbus and later became the first governor of Cuba. He was a Jew.

Lewis Browne, author, has made four trips to Palestine. He writes, he's afraid, if he makes another he's liable to remain.

Will Durant of Story of Philosophy fame is married to a Jewish girl who used to sell papers on the East Side.

The people of Palestine have exceptionally good teeth. It is said, due to the ever present sunshine and maybe the orange juice, yet one of the leading false teeth factories in the world is located there, but it sells mostly to Europe.

Impressive Armistice Day Service Held at Temple Beth-Israel

A most impressive Service was conducted at Temple Beth-Israel in commemoration of Armistice Day, Friday evening, by Rabbi Morris Schussheim, assisted by Cantor Joseph Schlossberg and the choir.

The guests at the Service were the Jewish War Veterans, Rhode Island Post No. 23 and the Ladies' Auxiliary. About one hundred and fifty guests participated in uniforms, making a most impressive sight. In addition a large congregation attended, making the total close to six hundred persons. Rabbi Schussheim preached on the meaning of Armistice as a call to Peace rather than a glorification of War.

"In the parades and the patriotic gatherings we are apt to become confused and assume Armistice Day to be an observance in honor of war," he said. "In truth, however, none more than the soldier himself abominates war and all that it implies. Armistice Day is a tender memorial to those who gave their lives that war might cease and a dedication of ourselves to this end in honor of their memory."

Rabbi Schussheim called upon the religious minded of the community and in particular the youth, to dedicate themselves to the greater patriotism, namely, service of country and life, security and peace. "In these tasks," he declared, "there is an even greater thrill than which calls with the blare of the brass and the beating of the drums."

Quoting the Midrash he pointed out that the Jewish conception makes security contingent upon jobs and peace. "These are the goals we should strive for today," the Rabbi pleaded with the audience. "A continuation of the war hysteria will only further destroy mankind's hope of ultimate redemption."

Addresses were made by the Commanders of the Post and Auxiliary and by the presidents of the Congregation and Sisterhood.

LIFE OF EARLY SETTLERS FILLED WITH DIFFICULTIES

Pioneers Were Forced to Make Rapid and Radical Adjustments to Meet Conditions They Encountered in a Land Whose Language and Ways Were New

By IRWIN ROSENBERG

It is now 60 years since Isaac Smolensky first touched Fall River on his periodical journeys through Southern Massachusetts towns, voluntarily hawking the goods carried in a sack upon his broad shoulders to the skeptical mill hands.

Coming from Boston, Isaac Smolensky's visits soon convinced him that the mill town was to his liking, and so, with his younger brother Louis, in 1875 he swung his heavily-laden bag to the ground and took on the title of first Jewish settler. This honor still remains with brother Louis Smolensky, a venerable gentleman who celebrated his 80th birthday in October.

Since the days of top-hats, hour-glass figures and monthly pay envelopes from the Jewish community has risen from a position when the appearance on the street of a Semitic beard would provoke obscene epithets and flying granite, to one of eminence. How this all came about makes the proverbial long story, but we shall try to give you some highlights.

Hard Times for Jewish Pioneers
The years from 1880 to 1884 marked the arrival of a small group consisting of Louis Kavolsky, Simon Gourse, Moses Markell, Samuel Shon, Samuel Smolensky, Joseph Malowsky and a few others. These immigrants came to Fall River with the hesitancy of water slowly trickling out of a faucet and their lot was not an easy one.

At that time, attempting to lead a Jewish life in this city was well nigh impossible. Factors that made it so were many. For one thing, they depended upon obtaining their Kosher meat from Providence, delivered by horse and wagon. Thus, whenever the weather was not particularly favorable or the driver decided to take a vacation, they went without their meat meals. This condition lasted until 1890, when some now unknown individual risked a precarious existence and opened a kosher butcher shop.

The early Jewish settlers had no communal life to speak of. They were not particularly welcome by their gentile neighbors and the stigma of their occupation, which was peddling, was not easily forgotten. It was not until later that they acquired the means to set themselves up in business.

Trek to Providence for Holidays
Before the first congregation was formed, to attend the High Holiday services they had to travel to Providence, which was then considered quite a distance away. Many of these first settlers distinctly remember the long trip and the small group of individuals who gathered in the basement of an old building to observe the solemn festivals.

The first death in the community also presented a problem. The nearest cemetery was located in New Bedford, where a group of German Jews had settled a few years before. The trip, which was slow and arduous, took half a day.

About this time the first really Jewish residence in the city came into existence when three young and unmarried men, Louis Kavolsky, Moses Markell and Louis Smolensky, lived together in a house located on Division Street.

First Congregation Formed
With the arrival later in the year of several other families, the Brombergs, Landsmans, Ettensons, and Radans, there was a sufficient number to have a regular minyan. After some preliminary meetings, what emerged was the Congregation Adas Israel, located on the top floor of the Troy building (corner of Fourth and Pleasant Streets,) which is now owned and occupied by Kaplan Brothers.

First cantor of the synagogue was Samuel Levin, who later was a Rabbi in Newark, N. J. The honor of being the first "Baal Tefila" and the first "Mohel" fell to Samuel Smolensky.

Simon Gourse was president of the congregation for 14 years. About this time the members of the synagogue realized the imminent need of providing a Jewish education for the then younger generation and thus Samuel Smolensky, mentioned above, was hired as the first Hebrew teacher.

New Synagogue for Gourse Bar Mitzvah
In 1890 the synagogue moved to the top floor of the old Weaver's and Spinner's building, located on the site of the present Steiger Building on South Main Street. The membership increased during this period and the congregation remained in these quarters until 1897, when the need was felt for a building which would be entirely its own and, accordingly, (Continued on Page Six)

COMMENDING A 100% FALL RIVER INDUSTRY

CAPE COD SHIRTS, PAJAMAS
AND SHORTS are a Fall River product from the cotton bale through every process to the ultimate consumer.

The Cotton Comes Into Fall River in Bales and Doesn't Leave the Confines of Fall River Until It Is a Finished Garment

- 1 THE CLOTH in the Falmouth and Hyannis Shirt that retails at $2.00 is manufactured by a local cotton mill employing Fall River people.
- 2 THIS CLOTH is taken from the Fall River cotton mill to a Fall River finishing plant where it is finished and dyed by special process for use in these CAPE COD garments.
- 3 THE CLOTH FROM THIS FALL RIVER FINISHING PLANT is brought to the Cape Cod Shirt Co. on Pleasant Street, where the shirts are styled, cut, stitched, inspected, laundered by hand, packed by hand, boxed and cellophanned in individual sizes.
- 4 THE BOXES that these CAPE COD SHIRTS are packed in are made in Fall River and the cartons in which the shirt boxes are shipped are also made in Fall River.
- 5 CAPE COD SHIRTS are then taken complete from our factory and sent to The R. A. McWhirre Co. and other stores, where Fall River people can purchase their individual sizes, colors and styles in shirts, pajamas and shorts.
- 6 IN ALL THESE PROCESSES from the time the cotton bale enters Fall River, until it is purchased in a complete and finished garment, Fall River people are employed under NRA working conditions.
- 7 WE WOULD LIKE to have every citizen of Fall River read these statements, as they are of interest to everybody in Fall River. We don't think there ever has been a product finished complete in every process by Fall River people in Fall River factories before, and therefore, we are quite anxious that everybody in Fall River be acquainted with the above facts.

MANY ROSE FROM PEDLERS TO BUSINESS, PROFESSIONS

two old houses on Pearl Street were purchased, soon afterward wrecked, and the building, which still houses the congregation, constructed shortly afterward. David L. Gourse, the son of Simon Gourse, was the first Bar Mitzvah in the synagogue's new location.

However, from 1884 to 1897 there were a great many other important occurrences. The year that the first congregation was organized was the one which saw the first signs of the transformation of the Jewish residents from petty pedlers to the owners of flourishing, though small, shops. The first Jewish owned store was a clothing establishment located at Pleasant and Flint Streets and the proprietor was "First Settler" Louis Smolensky.

Jews Progress in Fall River Business

Two years later, in 1886, two other stores were added to the list. One was a men's hat store, owned by I. Harris, which was situated at the corner of Pleasant and Second Sts. The other store, of which Simon Gourse was proprietor, held forth from the corner of Washington and Columbia Streets. The next year I. Stressman opened another clothing store on South Main Street.

The period from 1885 to 1890 saw a great increase in the Jewish population of Fall River. This was almost wholly due to the immigration of many victims of the pogroms which followed the assassination of Alexander II of Russia. These newcomers were from Russia, Poland and Lithuania and their arrival in this country had been made possible by the Alliance Israelite of France and through moneys made available by the Baron de Hirsch Fund.

About this time the need for a Jewish cemetery that would be easily accessible to the residents of Fall River began to be felt acutely. In order to help the situation, in 1888 Samuel Smolensky purchased a plot of land in Swansea, which is now almost filled. It was not until several years later that all the organizations in the city pooled their efforts in this matter, formed the Hebrew Cemetery Association and purchased a large tract of land on Fish Road.

Increased Population Increases Prosperity

In 1888 the first effect of the increased Jewish population began to be felt. A group of Russian immigrants, probably elated over their new found good fortune, banded together and founded the second synagogue in Fall River, which they called the American Brothers of Israel.

Not pinched for lack of funds or of members, as their predecessors had been, it was possible for them to do away with the necessity of having the congregation spend its infancy in a hired hall, with the inconveniences that would naturally be incurred.

Accordingly, after many preliminary excursions during which they attempted to find a suitable piece of property, they selected an old unused Protestant church on South Main Street, located about where the present Community Center stands.

For some time the congregation remained in that building. However, as the years passed, the membership increased, and the synagogue's income became correspondingly greater, it was found that their quarters were inadequate for their ever-growing needs.

Rabbi Lipshitz Comes to Fall River
Soon afterward, in the exhilaration of the years not long before the turn of the century and previously to when the panic of 1893 made the wisest heads more sagacious, the congregation purchased a piece of property on Union Street, moved the building there, and a few years later completely remodeled the premises. Shortly afterward they hailed the arrival of Rabbi Abraham Lipshitz, then a young Rabbi who had just come from New York, and who, incidentally, has remained here ever since.

The "Gay Nineties" were most assuredly felt by the Fall River Jewish community. In the beginning of what is now said to be that hilarious period, the first Jewish owned house was erected. The owner was again "First Settler" Louis Smolensky, and his home, which was one of the finest in Fall River, was built in 1891 on the corner of Osborn and Whipple Streets.

Shortly after the turn of the century, a group of young Jewish men formed the first Talmud Torah association, which is still in existence. They were practically the first in Fall River to realize the necessity of providing a means for the young men of the community to study their history and religion; and in time their ranks grew.

The first meetings of the organization were held in a building on Washington Street. Later, when greater numbers attended the classes, the institution's quarters were moved to the American Brothers of Israel Synagogue on Union Street.

Organize Y. M. H. A.
While all this was transpiring, the Young Men's Hebrew Association had been organized by the same group who had formed the Talmud Torah Association. From 1897 to 1903 the meetings were held in rooms in the Boys' Club on Anawan Street. Later, when their ranks had increased considerably, their quarters were in the Academy building on South Main Street.

In 1912 the organization moved again, this time to a much larger place at 58 Pleasant Street. Not long after this, the World War called away many of their members and for some time the organization was dormant, moving from place to place.

The formation of the YMHA was of more importance than can readily be seen. It marked the change of the Jewish communal life from the synagogue's to an organization which attempted to coordinate the social and cultural activities of the entire community.

Communal Organizations Formed
The period around 1897, however, witnessed the formation of many fraternal lodges of national orders. Two lodges of the Sons of Benjamin were organized; a lodge of the order of Brith Abraham came into existence; the Independent Order of Brith Abraham claimed two chapters, and there was one lodge of the Sons of Judaea.

But these were not the only communal organizations which were formed at this time. In 1893 the Free Loan Society came into existence, and this organization's activities have been varied and useful, continuing up to the present day.

Due to dissention in the ranks of the other two congregations, in 1915 the third synagogue in Fall River was formed by factions of the two. It was called the Paole Zedeck synagogue and was located on Washington Street, where it still remains.

Ben Jacob Synagogue Founded
The cause for the establishment of the next congregation was a geographical one: The distance to the other synagogues was too great for residents of the Flint to walk. Thus, a year or two before the end of the war, the Ben Jacob Synagogue was formed, with a building erected on Quarry Street.

The above reason was the same for the establishment of the congregation Beth David, located in the Southeastern part of Fall River. This group purchased an old wooden school house on Vale Street and converted it into a synagogue.

The next year was of importance as a group of citizens conducted a survey of the entire Jewish community and found that it numbered over a thousand families, or about 4000 individuals altogether.

In 1925, during the boom years of the Coolidge era, the sixth synagogue in Fall River was established. The Achavas Achim congregation, as it was called, was mostly composed of former members of the Ben Jacob synagogue. They erected a building on Weybosset Street.

Establish Jewish Home for Aged
It was also in this year that the very evident need for an Old Folks' home was abated with the establishment of the Jewish Home for the Aged, which is still located at 46 Forrest St. and whose inmates now number 16.

Another development of communal importance was the formation of the present Talmud Torah Institute, which occupies its own building on Mason Street.

HEBREW EDUCATION AND CULTURE NEVER NEGLECTED

A year or so later, the movement for the establishment of a modern conservative temple, in which the late Atty. David R. Radovsky and Nathan Yamins were prominent leaders, was consummated with the founding of Temple Beth-El. The group purchased a wooden church on Franklin Street, converted it into a temple and witnessed it going up in flames in the great fire of 1928.

The day after the catastrophe, Edward Adaskin called a meeting of members of the congregation at his store, on South Main Street, to formulate preliminary plans for the construction of another temple, which was subsequently erected on High Street. Rabbi Morton Goldberg has been the spiritual leader of the congregation since its founding.

Jewish Community Center Established

The remaining communal event of major importance before we close our story is the establishment of the Community Center. Consolidating in part the work of both the YMHA and the YWHA, which was formed some 15 years before, the institution as it is now was organized in January, 1929. The purchase and subsequent remodeling of an old house on South Main Street followed.

Contrasting with the former scanty education that first Jewish settlers were able to provide for their children, in later years we find that many of the children of these same settlers have been able to acquire higher education and that some of them are now in the professions.

Commercially, the Jewish residents of Fall River have branched out from the proprietorship of small shops to the ownership of various industries.

In the last seven or eight years there has been an influx of Jewish owned manufacturing industries, which now employ thousands who formerly were employed in cotton mills. Last year they banded together as the Fall River Affiliated Industries with a membership of 21.

And now that we conclude our tale of the 60-year-old Jewish community, we trust that the next 60 years will bring forth a story as fruitful as the past one. But in the meantime, it would not be amiss for you to follow these pages regularly for happenings, the sum total of which will most assuredly compose the future history.

THE AVODA CLUB

(This is the second of a series of articles on Fall River Jewish organizations.)

Every Thursday at noon a group of Jewish professional and business men meet at the Eagle restaurant. Comprising the membership of the Avoda Club, their gathering is the realization of the hope of several local Jews that the Jewish men of this city would at sometime organize with the purpose of serving their race.

The club was formed only in June, not long after the news of the atrocities committed in Germany reached here. At the request of the Fall River branch of the American Jewish Congress, 24 men met on the afternoon of June 8 with the object of organizing the Fall River Drive for the relief of Jews in Germany. They were addressed by Moses Davidson, of New York, a representative of the Joint Jewish Committee, who spoke on conditions in Germany.

Soon afterward the club, as it is now, was formed with these general objects: 1—To promote high social, business and professional standards. 2—To develop a more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable Jewry. 3—

AN OPEN LETTER

Editor, Jewish Herald:

I am in receipt of a postal card, wherein I am complimented on the contents of a multigraphed letter received bearing my signature and captioned "For Humanity's Sake—Don't Buy German Goods."

On April 19 my attention was called to a letter appearing on the editorial page of a Providence daily paper, over my signature, titled "Jewish Patriotism and Ability." This was a surprise to me, as I had never written a letter to the paper, nor to anyone else, on the subject contained in said letter, nor have I ever expressed publicly by word of mouth or otherwise, my sentiments on Hitler, or about the part I have taken in the conduct of the Miriam Hospital. Nor am I in the habit of blowing my own horn about my war record.

When this matter came to my attention, I immediately went down to see the editor, with the result that on April 21 the following item appeared on the editorial page of the same paper:

A STATEMENT FROM MR. HOFFMAN

A letter was printed on this page on Wednesday, April 19, bearing the caption "Jewish Patriotism and Ability," and the signature of Charles M. Hoffman, Superintendent of Miriam Hospital, Providence. Mr. Hoffman says that he did not write the letter, was ignorant of its having

Speech-Voice Group of Council Meets Today

Cowen, secretary and Mrs. Myer Tenenbaum, treasurer.

throughout the ages up to the present time, including recent English literature, is presented. While this group is conducted under the auspices of the sisterhood, with Mrs. Samuel Littman as chairman, all women desirous of participating will be welcome, upon application, either to the chairman or at the class session direct.

Youth Group Starts Soon

To meet the growing need of the youth of the community, who have been spurred on by recent anti-Jewish outbreaks to learn more about their own people and their culture, Rabbi Schussheim will conduct a weekly Tuesday evening class in Jewish history and in Hebrew.

The first session for this group will take place Tuesday evening, at 7:30 p. m. While this is an ambitious program the rabbi feels that more than ever the community needs an intelligent understanding of Jewish life and so has developed these courses and offers them to the community.

been sent, and has no idea who was responsible for its authorship. This correction is made accordingly.

Following the above publication, I forgot the incident entirely, but imagine my amazement when I received several telephone calls from friends on last Friday, congratulating me on the content of a letter purported to be a reprint of the one published on April 19.

It is quite evident to me that some anonymous poison-pen artist is on the rampage to discredit me and the institution I represent. I am today taking the matter up with the local hospital authorities in the hope of locating the culprit who is so malicious as to even resort to the expense of printing and postage to broadcast, among our Jewish people, an epistle that I know nothing about.

I fully realize that a man in my position must be broadminded enough to stand a certain amount of abuse and unjustifiable criticism from time to time, but the tactics that have been resorted to in this particular instance are most despicable and exasperating to say the least.

Anything that you can do to call attention to the true facts of this incident will be very much appreciated, I assure you, for I know that many others have also received copies of this forged letter, and it is impossible for me to reach them individually by mail.

Very sincerely yours,
Charles M. Hoffman,
Superintendent, Miriam Hospital

Jury Summons Agent

While the investigation is progressing here, authorities are keeping close contact with the New York grand jury probe, especial significance being attached to the jury's summoning of Benno von Stulpnagel, formerly major-commander in the German army during the World War and now head of the American and Canadian Stahlheim. Von Stulpnagel, who has declared his intention of becoming an American citizen, has been requested to report to the grand jury today.

He is reported to have held several conferences during the last few days with Schmitt, whom the J. T. A. describes as his superior officer, regarding the coordination of the American Stahlheim with the mother organization in Germany.

The Dickstein committee, which A. Dana Hodgson, representative of the State Department also said, heard Ritter identify Nazi propaganda papers circulated in the country. The committee also heard Smith declare that hundreds of men who are in reality German citizens and whose families live in Germany, had down jobs on American vessels by virtue of naturalization papers which they possess. Sixty-five percent of these men, he asserted, are used by bringing Nazi literature into this country.

During the course of Smith's testimony, Congressman Dickstein indicated a need for revision of naturalization laws to make a "heart and soul" belief in the constitution a requirement for naturalization papers

And So The Days Pass

By JACK SILVERMAN

PLAGIARISM
Tis cruel that critics
Should love to belabor
Our plagiarist poet
With stock and with stone.
For if he has borrowed
The thoughts of his neighbor
It is harsh to assume
That his faults are his own.

BIOGRAPHY OF A MAN (Second Chapter)

When the animal Man was a little over a year old he began to walk. At first his attempts were clumsy than a jay-walker's pedestrianism, but after a little practice, improvement was noticed in his efforts. His first venture in the great outdoors consisted of walking into a neighbor's wood shed, and falling asleep there. This caused his mother to have 17 fits of apoplexy. She called out the police and fire department, as well as the neighbors and their children on what has since become known as a "man hunt." Even at this early age he absorbed the philosophy of the saying "dirt cheap" — dirt being his outer cover from head to foot.

On his third birthday his father presented him with a ball and bat. He used the bat to break his mother's dishes, and the ball to smash the neighbor's windows. He was learning fast, at least so his parents thought, and a bright future was predicted for him. His mother said he'd be another Theodore Roosevelt, his father was sure he'd be a Babe Ruth, and the neighbors prophesied a career at the County Jail. He personally desired to be a columnist! (Yes, even at this early age.)

His fourth birthday brought to him the first rays of knowledge. Like book learning, etc. His father began to teach him the A B C's. You know how those lessons go. . . . D like in apple. . . C like in cow. . . D like in dog. . . One Sunday afternoon while the family had a house full of company, the good father wanted to show off. . . . Sorry, show everybody how smart you are, get your alphabets, and spell out daddy's name. . . and little man — quaker than a flash, set up on the table, three capital letters, S-A-P!

ODDITIES OF THE DAY

The star player of the U. S. Naval Academy football team (Navy), is a Chinaman, Coming Hoop of Hawaii. . . Ted Hasting, prominent radio announcer, who made the word "putrid" popular a couple of seasons ago, pulled a "homer" last week when he broadcasting the Harvard-Army game, he referred to the Boston Common as the scene of the Boston massacre. . . Herr Adolph Hitler had a "sweeping victory" in that phoney German election. (I always figured that "sweeping" was his forte!)

A little boy was reading the daily paper: "Daddy, what does it mean when it says here that things are becoming 'stabilized' . . . does that mean that we are all going to live in a stable soon?" . . . Harry M. Meyers of this city, is a dead ringer for Prince Felix Yusupoff (as he was when he was Harry's age) who was the guiding genius in the only murder that I ever condoned: The slaying of the Russian monk Rasputin.

Hitler's "obituary" lies all prepared in almost every newspaper office in the country. Oh, boy, how anxious we are to see it in print real soon! . . . Caviar, which is supposed to be as popular a dish in Russia, as spaghetti is in Italy, is in reality as strange to my "zemlyaks" as chop suey is to the Chinese. . . Not one person in 50 can give you a recitation of the world's greatest law, the ten commandments, without mistake or hesitancy. (How then can you expect them to know such an insignificant thing as the parking laws!) . . . Out in Oklahoma, a 67-year-old man married an 11-year-old girl, and the marriage was fortunately annulled by a kind judge.

EPITAPH

Weep ye not for Mary Anne
She slepeth now at rest.
Free from labor's heavy ban,
From mistress's behest.
E'en from reading prayers she's freed:
The poor girl never learned to read.

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

Here, my friends, is a list of people and events that I observed in the course of a few days. . . Not in the big worldly atmosphere of New York or Chicago, but right here in provincial Providence. . . My purpose in bringing it to your attention is to point out the heterogeneous conglomeration of that much talked about adventure called LIFE.

Salesmen swearing by their (dis) honor that the garment is all wool. . . An old man of 70 loses his job to make room for a younger wage slave. . . Brothers and sisters, humans of the same flesh and blood who not only lack love for each other, but are bitter enemies. . . Young girls who have not yet lived life, but think they know all about it. . . 45,098 young men and women who think they can write a better column than Walter Winchell, O. O. McIntyre and Jack Silverman. (So-called celebrities, worshipped by a sheeplike multitude, who have such an exalted opinion of their own importance. Hey there, guys, did you ever hear of Caesar and Napoleon? . . . They were "big shots" at one

The useless Pagan splendor of military parades, which will soon die and be forgotten when the Divine commands of "Love thy neighbor as thyself," and "Thou shalt not kill" will come to be realized and obeyed. . . The daily parades of "Black Maria," carting the remains of those who came from dust. . . going back to the dust they came from — and who like fools thought they were on par with the Divinity that gave them life, during the short space of time Almighty God's gift was visited upon them. . . The next time a speck of dust gets into your eye, remember that it may be the remains of a gone by "big shot" of years ago. . . and so the days pass.

SPORTING WORLD

NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD BY GEORGE JOEL

Weil Gives Up Baseball Club

Sidney Weil, Jewish sportsman of Cincinnati has had a noble experiment of his own and it proved an exceedingly costly one. In September 1929, he decided to become the owner of a baseball club. To that end he bought himself for a sum in the excess of $800,000 the controlling interest in the Cincinnati Reds of the National League. He ascended to the presidency of the club and was all set to become a baseball magnate. Now after four years he has found that as a manager he failed to draw anything but money out of the bank to keep the club going. A few days ago he resigned as president and found himself minus his original investment of $600,000 plus another sizeable chunk of money for the incidental expenses. The fellow who first called the Cincinnati club the "Reds" must have been thinking of the ink in the business office.

The reason why the Reds failed to draw enough at the gate to pay expenses may be found in the league standings over this period. Sport promoters have found out that people are only interested in watching teams that win.

German Fighter and Jewish Manager

Gratitude is one of the last things you will find in the very strange sport known jokingly as prize fighting. Cases of fighters sticking to managers through sheer sentiment or cases of managers going back to small clubs after they have arrived in the money are scarce. All of which is an introduction for a blast in favor of Walter Neusel, a German heavyweight. This young man had a Jewish manager. When things got tough in Germany for the Jews, Neusel instead of deserting his Jewish manager left the Fatherland instead and went to Paris and through the other countries of the continent. The team arrived in America recently and opened at the small Grove Club in New York where Neusel was a hit with the fans. The Garden then signed him for a bout the next week — To appear at Madison Square Garden is the ambition of every fighter. The Grove Club however asked Neusel to postpone his Garden appearance. He consented. Wait till Hitler bears about this traitor who not only refuses to throw over his Jewish manager but is actually acting like a gentleman.

Another Jewish Wrestler

Another aspiring intense Jewish gentleman took to a wrestling mat as a means of earning a living. This time it was Eli Fischer and he made his debut in New York with Joe Savoldi as his opponent. After seven-teen minutes of gouging, strangling and tugging Savoldi who played football at Notre Dame threw out by this time perspiring athlete on his back, pinned his shoulder to the mat and called it an evening. Fischer as a wrestler is a 220 pounder and exceedingly handsome. The last is written exclusively for my many lady readers.

Chatterings

The smaller football colleges have an unusually large number of Jewish players in the lineups this year. At Union, Greenberg is playing a tackle, Olkowitz is in the backfield at Gettysburg, Mendel plays at end for Bates, to pick but three colleges at random. In the middle west and far west I am told that more Jewish names are appearing each year. This is the healthiest sign I have seen so far as the anti-Semitic problem is concerned. To repeat an old idea — the best way to combat anti-Semitism is for the Jewish youth to become increasingly active on the athletic field. . . They have more than made their way in the big colleges but it has only been in the past five years that their presence is being felt in the smaller institutions.

The students of N. Y. U. a good portion of whom are Jewish were given an opportunity to express themselves on the question of whether or not football should be considered a major or minor sport. Or in other words if the students wanted the high pressure football teams of the Chick Meehan regime or were satisfied with the losing teams now representing the university. The students with almost unanimous acclaim begged for the good old days when they could see their team win . . . I could become very philosophical at this point and ramble charmingly on about the ego and victory psychology but I will restrain myself.

Professional football is enjoying its best season in years, especially around New York. A good deal of the interest in the sport can be blamed upon Harry Newman of the Giants and Benny Friedman of the Dodgers. Sunday sport crowds are predominately Jewish and if a promoter does not appeal to this section of the population he is apt to find himself with a sparsely filled arena on his hands. I might add, innocently, that sports promoters do not care for sparsely filled arenas, in fact the news that brings joy to a promoter's heart is that somebody was crushed to death in the crowd as it fought its way to the turnstiles.

clared that Hadassah had done much toward the wiping out of unsanitary conditions in Palestine and that their hospitalization work was notable and a great help in the rebuilding of the country. The Hadassah, he stated has helped to end much of the inefficiency that went with the rehabilitation of the land. In mentioning the German Jews who are now seeking a home in Palestine, he declared that they felt that they were outsiders, due to the fact that they had never taken much interest in Zionism.

Miss Mayers gave several selections in Hebrew, Russian and English.

Refreshments were served by Miss Gertrude Miller, chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, Miss Ida Mossoff, Miss Rita Radovsky, Miss Ida Golis, president of Junior Hadassah, Miss Sarah Jacobson, the Misses Esther and Ann Freedman and Miss Rosaleigh Posniak.

To provide a practical means to form friendships and render service. 4.—To cooperate in furthering the position of the Jews.
To attain their objectives the club has several plans under consideration by which they could render service to the Jewish community, one of them being the sending of Jewish children to Jewish camps if their parents were financially unable to do so.

The club also takes an interest in all current topics and at practically every meeting there have been speakers who talked on a wide range of subjects. During the summer, Mayor Joseph L. Among those scheduled to speak in the next few weeks are: Arthur E. Seagrave on "Inflation," and Max Kaplan on "My Trip Through Russia."

The officers of the club are Isador Levine, president, and Jacob Kline, secretary-treasurer. The executive board consists of: Rabbi Morton Goldberg, David L. Gourse, Frederick Kavolsky, Max Meyer and Benjamin Horvitz. Both officers and board serve one year, the president being ineligible for re-election.

The club's members now number 62. Any Jewish man is eligible for membership, his application having to bear the signatures of two members and have at least no more than three votes against it when his name is presented at a meeting.
