Many Groups Give Aid

The entire Blackstone Valley Jewish community is being appealed to this week by fraternal, social and religious organizations to take part in the drive to raise $1200 for maintenance of the religious school connected with Ahavat Shalom Synagogue, High Street, Pawtucket, the only Jewish house of worship in the Pawtucket area.

The campaign, under general supervision of Rabbi Isaiah Rackovsky, with Samuel Zarchen as chairman, will continue until the goal is achieved. Assisting committee members expect to raise the necessary funds by Oct. 31 when a Victory Hallowe'en party and cabaret will be held in Elks' Auditorium, Pawtucket.

Plans for the drive were made last week at a meeting of cooperating organizations, including the Ladies' Hebrew Aid Society, Sisterhood of Ahavat Shalom Synagogue, Henry Friedman Lodge, B'nai Brith, and the Hebrew Free Loan Association. Hadassah organizations are expected to assist.

With Mr. Zarchen on the committee are Mrs. Charles Tesler and Mrs. Edward Rubin, associate chairman; Charles Tesler, treasurer; Hyman Cokin, secretary, and Nathan Chernack, publicity.

The general committee includes officers named above, Morris Berick, Harry Chernick, Jack Schaffer, Julius Robinson, Charles Schulman, Edward Rubin, Louis Zarchen, A. Weinstein, Mrs. Joseph August, Mrs. Charles Schulman, Mrs. Sam Zarchen, Jack Goldenberg, Harry Schaffer, A. Fishman, Mrs. Samuel Rigelhaupt, Mrs. Max Zarchen.

Fewer Jews Studying in German Colleges

BERLIN (JTA) — The number of Jewish students in German universities has decreased from 3950 in 1932 to 1908 in 1933, official statistics disclose.

In Prussia, there were in all, in 1933, not more than 1634 "non-Aryan" students in the universities. This figure includes also students who are not pure "Aryans." Ninety percent of the students were of pure Jewish descent.

Orphanage to Mark 10th Anniversary of Dedication with Inspection Week

Beginning Monday and continuing through October 22, the Jewish Orphanage of Rhode Island will observe Dedication Week, marking the 10th anniversary of the dedication of the Summit Avenue building. Maurice Stollerman, executive director, announced today.

The observance also will be known as Inspection Week and deliberately no special program has been planned. On each day from Monday through next Monday, members of the Rhode Island Jewish community are invited to visit the building, inspect all equipment and facilities and observe personally the regular, usual child-care program under way there.

There will be no preparations for any of the visits; neither the children nor the staff will vary from their ordinary daily program throughout the visitation period. The 41 children from primary to high school age will go about their regular duties, engage in their every day activities and make use of all facilities. A fea-

Mrs. Pauline C. Poulten Ends Connection With Paper Since Founding

Her resignation as editor of the Jewish Herald and as secretary of The Jewish Press Publishing Company, Inc., publishers of The Jewish Herald, was announced today by Mrs. Pauline Chorney Poulten. The resignation is effective with this issue.

Mrs. Poulten, then Miss Pauline Chorney, became associated with this newspaper more than five years ago when it was founded by Myer M. Cooper and Joseph M. Finkle on October 3, 1929. At that time she resigned from a position with The Oxford Press, one of Rhode Island's leading publishing houses, to accept an offer of society editor of The Herald.

She became editor November 4, 1932 and has continued in that capacity to the present date. With the reorganization of the publication she was made secretary of the corporation on February 11, 1933.

Mrs. Poulten is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chorney of 40 Olney street and has lived in this city practically all her life. She is a graduate of Commercial high school, class of 1925, and attended the New Jersey College for Women, co-educational institution of Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N. J. Judge Loses Support of N. Y. Mayor

NEW YORK (JTA) — Because of strong pro-Nazi and anti-labor sentiment expressed not long ago by Supreme Court Justice Selah B. Strong he appears to have been tossed out into the political cold, bereft of his last political friend in New York.

The sentiment, expressed by Justice Strong in a recent labor case, has come home to roost like some mocking chanticleer on his judicial dais.

Mayor LaGuardia withdrew his support of Justice Strong as the Republican nominee for re-election to the bench in the Second Judicial District. Previously, Mr. Strong had been refused an endorsement of his candidacy by Brooklyn's democracy.

In a statement announcing withdrawal of his support, which is tantamount to disavowal by the Republican party, Mayor LaGuardia quoted from the Strong labor case decision which he characterized as smacking "of Bourbonism."

One of the significant phrases of the decision, as quoted by the Mayor, is the following:

"Today in Germany where labor unions have lost their hold the country is making splendid progress industrially."

The Mayor also cited such gems from the decision as the following:

"Picketing is certainly not a manly job."

Tossing a copy of the decision aside, the Mayor declared that "this is almost as bad as the Danbury hat case. It smacks of Bourbonism."

Sundlun and Finkle Nominated As Candidates for State Senate

Half of Providence's delegation to the upper branch of the State Legislature will be Jewish if nominees in the First and Second Senatorial districts are successful, it became apparent today. The two Jewish candidates, both on the Republican ticket, are Attorney Walter I. Sundlun and Joseph M. Finkle.

Mr. Sundlun long has been active in G. O. P. affairs and is a member of the party's state speakers bureau. His candidacy was foreshadowed last year when he personally followed activities in the Senate during most of the regular session. THIS WEEK IN REVIEW

AUSTRIA
While there has been no violent anti-Semitic flare-up as yet in Austria, all signs indicate that the rope is being tightened around Jewry's neck. Jewry was warned by the Reichspost, official government organ, not to protest the law segregating Jewish school children. Declaring that the government would never withdraw the order, the paper characterized the Jewish protest as "nothing but a Marxist attack upon the government."

Least the Jews misunderstand Austria's opposition to the Nazis, the paper explains:

"If Austria repulsed Nazi attacks it was not in order to defend Jews. Our purpose was to defend the cultural acquisitions of the country."

The Jewish community, meeting in plenary session, nevertheless demanded that the government withdraw the segregation law.

The attitude of the Schuschnigg government was further made apparent by three of its leading dignitaries—Dr. Karl Buresch, Minister of Finance; Dr. Otto Ender, president of the Federal Court and former Chancellor Rudolph Ramek, who formally joined the "Aryan Jurists Association" which requires proof that the applicant's ancestry is pure "Aryan" and that he is not married to a Jewess.

This seems definitely indicative of an eventual Nazification of Austria into categories, "Aryan" and non-Aryan."

Seven Jewish doctors, specialists attached to the government sick benefit insurance fund for the employees of the Department of Commerce were summarily dismissed without warning. Up to this stage, specialists had been exempt, only general practitioners losing their positions.

A report from London meanwhile states that Herr Reintaler, new chief of the Nazi party, is supposed to have received orders from Nazi headquarters in Munich to mark time, reorganize his party and not give the government any pretext to prosecute those Nazis still holding office.

ELECTED MAYOR

CAPE TOWN, (JAT)—The people of this, the mother city of South Africa, have again elected Louis Gradner as mayor. His skillful management of municipal affairs evoked praise from the press and all sections of the population.

Mayor and Mrs. Gradner are keenly interested in Jewish affairs. He has taken an active part in every meritorious Jewish movement and served recently as honorary chairman of the Keren Hayesod campaign here.

Commenting upon his re-election, the Cape Times says:

"The re-election of Mr. Gradner for another period as mayor of Cape Town is none the less welcome for being fully expected. It is not too much to say that Mr. Gradner has made an outstanding success of his first year of office."

According to the Cape Argus, "Mr. Gradner has done, both by example and precept, all that a mayor can do to lead the City Council into a new era."

Double Anniversary Plans Made for the Community Center

Extensive preparations were made to celebrate a double anniversary at a meeting of the committee held last night at the Jewish Community Center, 65 Benefit street under the chairmanship of Alfred L. Morse.

The plans as outlined include special features with the connection of regular Center programs to include lectures, concerts and anniversary meeting programs. Special anniversary features will include a minstrel show in December, a buffet supper and speaker in January and a Souvenir Journal in May.

In 1914 the present building at 65 Benefit street was purchased and for a period of 11 years conducted under the name of the Hebrew Educational Institute. In 1925 the name Jewish Community Center was adopted and a wide program of activities was initiated.

As a part of the anniversary program, Samuel H. Workman, chairman of the lecture and concert committee announced that the well known international singer and balladist Victor Chenkin will appear in a costume recital at the Plantations Auditorium Sunday evening, November 25. Mr. Chenkin's program will be one of a series of nine to be offered to the Center membership on Sunday evenings. The programs definitely booked are December 16 Rabbi Edward Israel of Baltimore; January 13, S. K. Radcliffe of England; February 3, Oscar G. Villard, and March 13 a dramatic presentation by the Yiddish actor Ben Ami.

James Waterman Wise to Speak Here Oct. 18

America's preeminent young liberal, author, educator, and lecturer, James Waterman Wise, son of the famous Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, will speak before the Temple Emanu-El Men's Club on Thursday evening, October 18 taking as his subject "Facing the Jewish Future."

Rabbi Wise is naturally keenly disappointed that intellectual scruples have arisen in his son's mind and he sees a problem which is not confined to his own household but one "common to Christian and Jewish communities alike." James Waterman Wise is conservatively optimistic on the outlook for his race. He sees Palestine with a good Zionist start already made and bound to develop into a great and prosperous Jewish nation which will be the focus of culture for the entire Jewish race. He takes the vanishing of Jewish religion, meaning belief, as already accomplished, a conclusion which many of his fellow Jews probably do not admit. His prophecy is sanely expressed and deserves the hearing by all interested in a problem of which both Jews and non-Jews are conscious.

AN EDITOR'S FAREWELL

Today marks my last as editor of The Jewish Herald after five years of association with this newspaper in one capacity or another, and I make this an excuse to inflict upon my readers a few personal thoughts

Five years ago, in the black October of 1929 when the bottom was falling out of the stock market and the depression was beginning to affect everybody's morale and pocketbook, The Jewish Herald was born. It came into a dismal world. The most trying half decade in history had just commenced. Old established businesses were failing and closing up. Curtailments in all directions had replaced earlier expansion plans.

Into such a state of economic chaos was introduced a new enterprise. Certainly the outlook was not hopeful. But the conception of the founders — and that ideal has perpetuated itself all through the paper's history — was that this was not to be a mere business. Rather, it was to be a service to the Jewish community, a medium of self-expression in lieu of which nothing then existed. It was to be a forum for Jewish thought, for exchange of ideas among sections of the community, bringing them together for mutual understanding.

To this ideal I was converted by the founders of The Jewish Herald. They persuaded me to give up a much more remunerative position to try to develop a service which is as greatly needed now as it was little appreciated at first. As times became worse the struggle became harder. For five years I have managed to stick with it — I have helped to nurse it along until now The Herald is a robust youngster, gaining in popularity and growing in importance despite failure of general business to match its forward strides.

After today I leave my work to other and perhaps more capable hands. Change often means progress; it's good for everything and everybody once in a while. Undoubtedly it will be good for The Herald — and for me. To many with whom I have been in almost daily contact during the past five years, I want to offer thanks for a pleasant association. I hope it has been mutual. I bespeak continued support of The Herald. The paper is essential to the well-being of the Jewish community of Rhode Island; it deserves to thrive and merits Jewry's whole-hearted backing.

A NORDIC VIEW

Some time ago the Nazi press published a letter from Knut Hamsun, the famous Norwegian novelist and Noble Prize winner, according to which Mr. Hamsun had endorsed the anti-Jewish policy of the Hitler regime, justifying the persecution of the Jews on the ground that they belonged to an "inferior race." Hamsun has never been known as an outspoken friend of the Jews, and yet it seemed incredible that he would identify himself with the absurd and spurious race theory of the Nazis.

Now we learn that Knut Hamsun did write a letter to a young German Jew whom he had helped to release from a concentration camp, but that instead of referring to the Jewish people as an inferior race, he extolled their superiority. The Nazi press falsified Hamsun's letter.

He wrote to the young Jew, in part, as follows:

"As a Jew you belong to a race that is dominant in every cultural domain in every land. In science, art, literature, commerce, industry — in all these the Jews hold a high rank. This is denied by no one, as far as I know . . .

"It is a misfortune that the Jews have no great land of their own. Palestine cannot hold them all, and in all the five parts of the world it seems impossible for them to find a territory which would be large enough for them . . .

"The Jews who are powerful in politics and finance should not rest until a new great Jewish land is found."

To the Nazis this letter is sufficient proof of Hamsun's approval of their racial discrimination against the Jews. They could not, however, admit to their own people that Hamsun emphasized the superiority of the Jewish race, so they distorted it to suit their own purposes.

Our Community — And Its Needs

By RABBI JONAH E. CAPLAN

Although a comparative newcomer to Providence, I have had the opportunity in the past year to become more or less acquainted with our fair city in general and the Jewish community in particular.

The Jewish community within our city may well be proud of the many institutions which are today living monuments to the efforts and self-sacrifice of our fellow Jews in coping with their communal problems. I need not make casual mention of a few of these to substantiate my convictions; such as the Jewish Orphanage of Rhode Island; the Jewish Family Welfare Society; the Hebrew Free Loan Association; the Jewish Home for the Aged; the Jewish Community Center; the beautiful synagogues and temples, and last but not least, the Jewish Herald to whom I am greatly indebted for making possible the appearance of a series of articles under the heading "Our Community — And Its Needs."

As a rabbi and spiritual leader in our community, I must necessarily feel that my duties as such do not begin and end with my congregation as an entity in itself but instead extend to the general interests of the community at large. My functions as rabbi concern Providence Jewry and Providence Jewry concerns me. While I may have every reason to feel proud of the community in which I am living and to which I am administering, I cannot at the same time be blind to those ills which are retarding every possible step forward in caring for its needs and wants.

Our struggle for a material existence during the trying days of the depression, the poverty that unemployment has brought to so many suffering souls and our financially stricken public institutions have so completely altered our outlook towards communal problems that our interests in them has been reduced to the level of our every day pursuits, namely that of dollars and cents. We have begun to think of our community only in terms of how much we can contribute to the different institutions that are appealing for financial help. Our community has demanded of us very little, if anything other than material aid. In fact, from all appearances it would seem that the Jewish community of Providence suffers no other ills than those dollars can cure.

That, however, is not the case. The problems confronting Providence Jewry are by far more serious than those with which our local institutions are confronting us. More far reaching in its scope and more lasting in its results, than feeding the poor, clothing the naked, or caring for the old and feeble is our understanding of our communal needs and our method of approach in supplying those needs. But before I discuss this question with you I am going to offer for your careful reading a reprint of an article written for the "Opinion" by one of the most outstanding Jewish educationalists in America, Alexander M. Dushkin, who is the executive director of the Board of Jewish Education in Chicago. The article, appearing under the title "The Rabbi as Teacher," will not be reprinted in full due to the limited amount of space. However, the most important issues coming under that heading will not be omitted. Please watch carefully for next week's issue of the Jewish Herald.

Orioles First In Football League

The Orioles Football team subdued the Bradley A. C. at Roger Williams Park last Sunday by the score of 2 to 0. Although scoring seven points in the first quarter, the Bradley coach called his team off the field when his protest on the referee's decision was overruled. The Bradley team refused to finish playing the game and the officials awarded the touchdown in the first quarter was made by Bernstein and Broskofsky scored the point after the touchdown.

The Orioles will play the South Providence Trojans at Roger Williams Park on Sunday afternoon. The kickoff will be promptly at 2.15. All members of the team are requested to be on hand for practice sessions at 7 o'clock tonight and at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

Thus far, the Orioles are in first place in the Providence Football League, having won two games and lost none. The Wanskuck Townies and Olneyville Harps are tied for second and the Webster Nickers, third. The South Providence Trojans and Bradleys are at the bottom.

OBITUARY

MRS. PAULINE RESNICK

Funeral services for Mrs. Pauline Bell Resnick of 229 Blackstone Street, who died Sunday evening after a three months' illness, were held Monday afternoon from her late home. Interment was in the Lincoln Park Cemetery. She was 68 years old.

Mrs. Resnick was born in Odessa, Russia, July 16, 1866. She came to this country in 1896 and settled in this city, at the Blackstone Street address, where she had made her home since.

Shortly before she came to this country, a pogrom in Odessa, in which Bolsheviks massacred many of the residents, including her husband, forced Mrs. Resnick to flee to Holland with her three daughters. It was from there that they migrated to this country.

Mrs. Resnick is survived by her three daughters, Mrs. Lillian Posner, Mrs. Henry Lazarus and Miss Sarah Resnick, all of this city.

METROPOLITAN COMMENT

No "Small Miracle"

One of the late September entries in the theatrical sweepstakes was "Small Miracle." Immediately acclaimed as a good number by the critics, it seemed destined for a long and successful run. It's author is Norman Krasna, and therein hangs a tale.

In his early twenties, Krasna is no longer a small miracle. He is an established and highly paid member of the literati. Only a few years ago, however, he wrote theatrical notes for the tabloid Graphic. A protégé of Louis Weitzenkorn, he went to the late but not lamented tabloid when Weitzenkorn began a short-lived career as its editor. Both men came from the World, also late, but lamented by many. Weitzenkorn was the rag's Sunday editor, and Krasna one of its copy boys.

Aside from the royalties coming to Krasna from his play, he is also on the Hollywood payrolls, his latest effort being the highly amusing "The Richest Girl in the World," which features Miriam Hopkins. The youthful author's first play incidentally was a lampooning of Hollywood, "Louder Please" but that was written while he was still on the outside looking in.

Krasna, incidentally, was reputed to be the original of the wise-cracking, up and coming, office-boy in his boss' successful, "Five-Star Final," the play in which editor Weitzenkorn got even with tabloid journalism for the gray hairs it gave him.

Now as far as the Broadway tally sheets go, editor and copy boy are even. Both have scored once in two Broadway tries. Weitzenkorn's first play, "First Mortgage" was a flop as was Krasna's first, "Louder Please." In their second tries, both made good. In an effort to keep ahead of his erstwhile office boy, Weitzenkorn will soon bow with a third, an untitled play that will be produced by Thomas Mitchell.

A Red Shylock

New York has seen a number of modern adaptations of Shakespeare. There was the Basil Sydney tuxedoed Hamlet, a jazzed version of "Taming of the Shrew" but now from Prague comes the news of a radical "Merchant of Venice."

At Prague's "Divadlo 34" Theatre, there is a "Merchant of Venice" in which Antonio indulges in an insurance swindle by allowing his ships to be sunk in order to collect the insurance money. Shylock personifies capitalism and the characters of the play rail at him throughout. The decision of the Doge of Venice against Shylock is interpreted as the masses triumphant over the tyranny of capitalism and big business.

But what concerns us, and is not reported in the dispatches from Prague, is whether the anti-Semitism in the play has been deleted to make room for the Communist propaganda. Or whether it was found possible to completely change the play except for that one element.

"The House of Rothschild"

Despite the fact that "The House of Rothschild" has been barred in France, Latvia and other countries and that no attempt was even made to show it in Germany it is making a fortune for its producers, 20th Century Pictures. Motion picture trade paper experts, to whom box office figures are an open book, estimate that the Arliss picture will net its producers a profit of over a million and a quarter dollars. These same experts testify that the picture will gross over two million dollars and that the cost of the production was less than a half million, the picture except for the Arliss salary not being an expensive production.

It is amusing to note that the picture which was attacked by some American rabbis as being anti-Semitic has met with difficulties in other countries because it has been held to be pro-Jewish. In Argentine, the opening of the picture brought threats of violence from the local Fascist "shirt" organization. And in answer to requests for help from the Buenos Aires office, the Home office of the United Artists sent copies of

No Kidding

John Jacob Astor, the founder of the Astor fortune and the great grandfather of the present John Jacob whose marital affairs are making him the laughing stock of the country, once worked as a fur beater for a New York Jew, Hyman Levy.

Will Rogers has been asked to play the role of Calvin Coolidge in a play about the ex-president written by Richard Maibaum, youthful Broadway author last represented on Broadway by the Hitler play, "Birthright."

Lorenzo Da Ponte, the librettist of Mozart, was a Jew. He came to this country as Columbia University's first professor of Italian and ended his life as a grocer in Elizabeth, New Jersey.

The New York ghetto's Delancey street was named after a noted English family, De Lancy. And the equally prominent Henry street after the long line of English royalty.

The Gershwin family name was Gerschkovitz and George was Jacob and Ira was Isadore. George Gershwin, incidentally, was undoubtedly the prototype of the successful composer in the new George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart show, "Merrily We Roll Along." The character is called Sam Frankl, a Harms song pluggler of ten years ago, who, in 1934, no longer worries about his song hits but about his concertos and rhapsodies in ultra-modernistic jazz idiom.

Maurice Lacoste, a Turkish born Sephardic Jew, is the editor of one of the two French language newspapers published in New York City.

And So The Days Pass

By JACK SILVERMAN

IN THE MAIL

Dear Mr. Silverman: I've been reading your column for over a year. This in itself would not be unusual were it not for the fact that I am not Jewish. . . . I get the Herald in the office where I work, a firm owned by Jewish people.

Your philosophy of life and people interests me. . . . Your outlook on life is entirely different from what I imagined was the typical Jewish viewpoint. I'll be frank and confess to you that I, a Christian, was possessed of opinions about you Jews, entirely different from what you and your column have made me see. What were they? Well, as long as this letter is anonymous and I feel quite sure you'll not find out who I am, I shall be very glad to make a frank confession.

In the first place, although I am considered a cultured Christian girl, I did not know that the old testament which is the foundation of the Jewish religion is the same bible upon which my religion is founded. I'll say again, up to the time I began associating with Jews, and reading your column, I used to imagine that you Jews were heathens, swindlers, arson perpetrators, and that in general your existence was for the sole purpose of defrauding us Christians. During my childhood I was forbidden to play or associate with Jewish children, because my folks told me that they killed our Saviour. I would not have been allowed to accept my present position with the Jewish firm I work for, were it not for the fact that the wolf had his head through our door, and as there was no work to be obtained in a non-Jewish establishment, I took my present position.

I was never treated in so pleasing a manner in my life. This is the fourth position I've held since graduating high school, and is the first where neither the owners nor my associates have ever treated me in anything but a gentlemanly manner. Mr. Silverman, it's like Heaven working here! . . . But, that's not the purpose of my letter.

There is a Jewish young man working here as a salesman. . . . We fell deeply in love. His people are opposed to me as my people are to him. I am willing and glad to accept the Jewish faith, not because of him, but because having learned something about it, I feel that I will not forego the important principles of Christianity in so doing, and above all, it's like an article I read in the Herald some time ago; I'd like to have children who will be of the same blood and people as our saviour. I wonder if you can picture the situation in my home? I hate to hurt my parents and friends, and yet I feel that I wish to do the right thing. My head is in a turmoil. I don't know of a single soul to turn to for advice. Can you please help me? Will you please give me some advice in your column?

E. G. H. This is the first time since I've been banging out weekly copy that I undertake to answer a human problem. It's not the first letter asking for advice. Many have been received, but believe me, dear friends, I'm not even capable of solving my own problems, let alone telling others what to do.

Dear E. G. H.— I wish that it would have been possible for me to tell you what you may do so as to make every one happy, and nobody sad. . . . Unfortunately I can see no way open for you along this line.

Let me tell you one thing however. We as Jews have never put forth a concentrated effort in an attempt to convert other people to our religion. As a matter of fact, we have always discouraged it, just as I am going to dissuade and discourage you from so doing. There is no promise of anything but unjust persecution and a hard, hard life for any one who bears the tag "Jew." Just as you have had misconceptions about us, so do many other millions. The struggle for survival has been a very, very hard one for our people, and for one who seeks complete happiness and freedom from worry and persecution,—It's going along the wrong lane to join the House of David.

Why don't you and the young man in question have dinner with me some night, and we'll discuss the subject at length. Please be assured that your confidence will never be divulged, and perhaps I MAY be instrumental in helping you.

R-R-R-RACKETS! No doubt, you, like myself,—often asked the question,—"What do all of these well dressed fellows do for a living?" . . . referring to a collection of chaps who can be seen almost daily loitering in certain parts of the down town sections. . . . You, and you, and you. . . . who toil honestly for meagre wages have no idea how easy it is for some folks to annex some of Uncle Sam's inflated dollars. . . . Here's an actual fact of ONE such case. (But don't you try it, YOU may get caught).

We'll call him Sam. (that's not his real name). . . . He is a well dressed, and impressive young man. . . . Some time ago he hit upon a novel scheme. . . . He'd approach a Chinaman and ask him to show him his citizenship papers. . . . Hmmm! . . . Asking a Chink for his citizen papers! . . . The poor Oriental would immediately lose his yellow jaundice complexion and turn ashen white. . . . "So. . . you haven't got citizen papers? How did you get into the United States? . . . BUT, you're lucky that I am the one who is dealing with you. . . . All right, give me two dollars, and I'll forget all about it."

Sam got many a two dollar bill that way. . . . but I don't see anything wrong about it. . . . He actually gave the Chink a receipt for it!

IT ACTUALLY HAPPENED Take it from Morris Zimmerman, 'cause that's how I got it.—This happened at the last Nazi gathering in Nuremberg:—A little Jewish lad was in the huge crowd listening to "Fuehrer" Adolph's screech, or,—I mean speech. . . . Suddenly a burly

Bowling League

The 1934-35 bowling season started off with great success. With six, five men teams bowling every Thursday evening, competition has been keener than usual. The following high averages have been hit: A. Poirers, 115; S. Markowitz, 114; M. Filler, 112; S. Kagan, 111, and D. Freedman, 109. Filler's team leading the league thus far with Raiser's a close second.

The pool and ping pong tournaments are now in progress and all entries are urged to play off their matches on Tuesday evenings.

Jack Alprin has announced that arrangements are being made to have speakers at future meetings. A smoker and mock trial are also being planned.

Aryan pulls a gat from his pocket, and the first thought that came into the little Jew's mind was that it was meant for him. . . . Sheer instinct made him throw himself upon the gun toter with the force of a Benny Friedman, and knock him upon the ground. . . . A turmoil ensued, storm troopers arrived on the scene, and it didn't take them long to recognize the gun man. He was a much sought communist, long suspected of wanting to assassinate Hitler.

When the confusion subsided, the little Jewish lad was amazed and bewildered. He not only found out his mistake, but actually found himself a conquering hero. . . . "So, this fellow intended to assassinate Hitler?" he mumbled. . . . "Yes," replied a high police official, "and you, brave lad that you are, saved our "Fuehrer's" life. . . . I'll see that you are handsomely rewarded for it. . . . tell me what do you desire most?"

"If you'll be so kind, mein Herr," the little Jew said shaking with fear, "What I want more than anything else is. . . . DON'T LET MY FATHER FIND IT OUT. . . . HE'LL KILL ME!"

JEWISH SPORT NOTES

By MORRIS WEINER

Samuel Reschewsky, Chess Wizard
So many readers of the J. T. A. sports feature have requested that we do a column on chess and the master minds of the board that we have decided to write one co-incidental with the news that Samuel Reschewsky, genius of the chess board, is preparing for a nation-wide exhibition tour.

There are many good Jewish chess players in America. There are several Jewish young men who rank with the foremost wizards in the country. But there is only one Sammy Reschewsky, greatest of them all. It was only a few short years ago that a Russian lad took the entire world by storm with his wizardry at chess. The pawns were nothing but toys to him, and no matter how adult or astute his opponents, little Sammy Reschewsky outwitted them—and at their own game.

In 1924 the sport pages of the country's press heralded the fact that Sammy Reschewsky, 11-year-old prodigy, would play 20 games of chess against as many opponents at the same time wherever he appeared. And, he seldom failed to defeat everybody he met, even when he played the best chess wizards in this country.

Now On Way to Highest Honors
If the story of Reschewsky, the Polish Jew, were told in a few words it would read, "From Wonder child to grand master."

The same poise, the same complete calmness and mastery that were something to marvel at when Reschewsky played as a child were with him at Syracuse this summer when, for the third time in succession, he did not lose a single game. "Someday you will be champion of the world," Akiba Rubinstein told the little fellow after the famous Polish master had had an interesting session with the prodigy. The prophecy seems to be in a fair way to come true, for Sammy is on his way. Dr. Alekane and Capablanca must of necessity look to their laurels.

Sketch of Reschewsky's Life
Reschewsky was born in Lodz, Poland, of extremely orthodox parents. He is imbued with the same spirit of orthodoxy as his people. He began playing chess at the age of 5, after watching his father play with friends in his home. It is said he pointed out moves to his father at the time. At the age of 6 he was acclaimed one of the best chess players of all Europe.

When he was seven, Sammy played and defeated a number of master chess players in Europe and was praised by Dr. Lasker, former champion chess player of the world, as having a phenomenal chess brain. During the World War the youngster gave a number of exhibitions in the war zone and made himself famous in a game with the Governor General of Warsaw, during the German occupation. After trimming the General, Sammy remarked to him, "You can shoot, but I can play."

Among the outstanding victories of the prodigy's early career were those over Janofsky, former French champion; Michelson, former Dutch champion, and Charles Jaffe of New York City.

While in Washington, shortly before the death of President Harding, Sammy was received at the White House. He won a number of matches from Senators and Congressmen during his stay in Washington and also won a match from William J. Burns, head of the Investigation Bureau of the Department of Justice.

Shortly after the boy arrived in the United States he gave a remarkable demonstration of his ability at West Point, where he defeated 19 army officers and drew one game with Colonel Frieberger, veteran of the service.

Sammy is the youngest of a family of six. He attended the New York City public schools and had private tutors when he was away. It was said then that he was exceptionally brilliant in mathematics, mechanics, and music and that he had a very good voice. He appeared in a number of concerts for charity organizations with some of the leading singers, notably the late Cantor Joseph Rosenblatt.

Reschewsky Today
Today, though still a little fellow, he is 22 years old and has a framed diploma from the University of Chicago in his room. He graduated from that institution with high honors and a reputation for being the greatest mathematical student ever to have attended that school.

During August, of the past summer, the international tournament of the New York State Chess Association was held in Syracuse. Such chess players as Isaac Kashdan, Herman Helms, Abraham Kupchik, Reuben Fine and J. A. Horowitz completed.

It was here that Reschewsky won ten of 11 games and drew four. Isaac Kashdan, runner-up, had seven draws scored against him.

Plans National Tour
At present young Reschewsky is preparing for a nation-wide exhibition. His itinerary is being mapped by Mr. J. Diamond, who will accompany the chess wizard on his journey from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Reschewsky will play for various organizations and thereby assure a method of raising funds for the organization and himself. He will play 25 games simultaneously on these exhibitions. In this corner, as a sports writer, this method of gathering in money for institutions and organizations seems a better idea than a theater party or a bridge.

Nazis Enjoy Jewish Meals at Restaurant

WARSAW (JTA)—A queer story of how three Hitlerite journalists from Berlin regaled themselves with gefilte fish and Kol Nidre at a Jewish bar here is recounted in Haint, local Yiddish daily.

Dr. Hjalmer Fusch, co-editor of the Berlin Angrif, an editor of Der Deutsche, organ of the German Labor Front, and one of the editors of the Munich Neuste Nachrichten came here as guests of the Polish government, along with several other German journalists.

Strolling through the streets, the three came upon the "Metropole," a Jewish restaurant. They entered and ordered gefilte fish, whiskey and Kol Nidre, paying the orchestra repeatedly to play the prayer over again.

"I'm very fond of this wonderful Russian Melody, Kol Nidre," one of the guests said to the conductor.

"Everything is very nice here," the rest chimed in as they left. "Auf Wiedersehen!"

DRUCKMAN—SILVERMAN
Louis Silverman of this city announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Beatrice Marion Silverman, to Isidore Druckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Druckman of Hartford, Conn.

The ceremony was performed Sunday at Zinn's Banquet Hall by Rabbi Joshua Werner.

The bride was attractively gowned in white chiffon velvet with which she wore a tuft of yellow arranged in turban effect. Her bouquet was lilies of the valley and bride roses.

After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Druckman will make their home on Melrose Street, this city.

human race has met with opposition. The pages of history, covering the comparatively few centuries for which the records have been preserved, contain positive assurance that the "martyrs" of yesterday have become the "benefactors" of today.

The advent of Chiropractic as a new method of restoring health to the sick was attended by the usual controversy and opposition. The fundamental principle was ridiculed and denounced. Even when clinical results substantiated the truth of that principle, the attacks and condemnation continued. However, we all know that the various elements that promote success in any line of endeavor arouse antagonism as well as favorable reception, and the pioneer in any new field of thought or industry must contend with the forces of selfish, competitive, or misinformed opposition.

What is sickness? Is it not merely a condition of disease of the body? It is true that impressive and fear-arousing names can be given to the numerous symptoms created by this condition of bodily disease, but the cause is not corrected by treating the effect. The restorative forces must be marshalled within the body itself, and regardless of names, symptoms and opinions. Nature is the deciding factor with respect to the physical condition.

It certainly is not natural to be sick, and the premise of Chiropractic is that if the vital nerve force is able to express itself freely and without interference, then this vital nerve force will correct the condition of disease in the body. If your spine is in normal condition you will have good health because the resistance of the body against disease depends upon the condition of the spinal column.

Down through the centuries turning over the pages of known records we find the great truth constantly emphasized that good health is the best wealth with which mankind can be blessed. Magazines and newspapers are crowded with health hints. Any element that contributes to the health of the community bestows the highest degree of wealth, and no greater service can be rendered than that of restoring health to the sick and suffering.

For more than 38 years Chiropractic has been accomplishing wonderful things. That it has endured for that length of time is proof of its worth and merit. It has put millions of men, women, and children on the road to health and enabled them to become useful members of society.
