SPEAKERS ON RUSSIA AT BETH-EL MEN'S CLUB MEET

RABBI LEVI A. OLAN

REV. EVERETT M. BAKER

Two differing viewpoints about the great social experiment now in progress in Soviet Russia will be presented at the meeting of the Men's Club of Temple Beth-El to be held in the vestry of the house of worship Tuesday evening, October 30.

Eminently qualified to offer opinions at once intelligent and unbiased are Rev. Everett M. Baker of the Westminster Unitarian Church who is impressed with the promise and the progress of the Soviets and Rabbi Levi A. Olan of Temple Emanuel, Worcester, Mass., who returned a few months ago with the feeling that while definite gains have been made in race relations, the widespread tyranny, poverty and inequality more than cancel the achievements scored.

The Rev. Everett M. Baker is minister of the Westminster Unitarian Church on Adelaide Avenue. During his five years in Providence he has forged to the forefront as a carrier of the social message of Christianity. He is chairman of the Interdenominational Commission on Social Action, the president of the League of Nations Association, a director of the Providence Welfare Society, of the Consumers League, of the National Ministerial Union of the American Unitarian Association and of the Religious Education Society. He visited Russia twice with the Sherwood Eddy party and has consistently championed American recognition of the Soviet Union.

Rabbi Levi A. Olan is rabbi of Temple Emanuel in Worcester, Mass. During his five years in that community he has established himself as a fearless and effective Jewish leader. Few communal or civic functions in that community take place without him. He is, among other things, the president of the Jewish Federation of Worcester, and the chairman of the board of the Ivriah.

For years he had advocated American recognition of Soviet Russia and hailed the news of accomplishments there. Last summer he went to Russia to establish contact with relatives and Jews to whom he had letters of introduction.

Ability to speak Yiddish, as well as avoidance of official guides enabled him to gain an intimate insight into conditions prevailing there.

These two leaders will give their viewpoint on Russia as it is today.

After a question period refreshments and cigars will be served.

Arthur J. Levy and Irving L. Shein are co-chairmen of the evening's program.

A. F. of L. to Press Nazi Boycott Backed Unanimously at Meet

SAN FRANCISCO (JTA) — The American Federation of Labor, which is holding its annual convention here, stood committed to prosecute with all the vigor at its command the boycott of Nazi Germany, which the Federation endorsed one year ago and which was unanimously re-endorsed.

The Federation also urged full labor support for the newly created "chest for the liberation of the workers of Europe."

In approving the recommendation of the resolution introduced by the boycott committee, the convention also went on record as favoring wholehearted support for the "victims of Fascism, and particularly to refugees from Fascist countries and those brave heroes of labor who, in spite of the tremendous risks involved, continue to hold the thread of labor solidarity and labor organization within the Fascist countries."

Green Denounces Nazis

In a moving speech in support of the boycott committee report, President William Green, a staunch advocate of the boycott, pleaded for aid for the refugees from Fascist countries, condemned the Nazi regime for its persecution of the Jews, and declared that the labor movement would continue its fight until freedom has been restored to the persecuted workers and the Jewish people in Germany.

"We cannot be true to labor and to ourselves if we remain complacent when our brothers in other lands are being persecuted because they demand freedom," he said.

"We can appreciate our own freedom when we learn about the sufferings of the Jewish people in Germany."

"We protest with all the power we possess against the treatment which has been accorded our fellow trade unionists in Germany, and the Jewish people as well."

"We will continue our protest until the merciless dictatorships in Germany and Italy are wiped out. I cannot reconcile modern civilization with the persecution and murder that is going on in Germany. We will do everything in our power to bring back freedom to the trade unionists and the Jewish people in Germany."

In commenting on the report, the resolutions committee declared that it had confirmed, beyond any possibility of contradiction, that since the advent of Nazism, the condition of German workers has become intolerable; that wages had been reduced, work hours lengthened, living costs and taxation increased and that the last vestiges of the once powerful trade union and cooperative movement in Germany had been wiped out by the ruthless cruelty of the Nazi regime.

Unique Dedication Series Tonight at Temple Emanu-El

Everyone is Welcomed to Unveiling of Stained- Glass Windows

A Service which promises to be unique in the history of this Jewish community will be held at Temple Emanu-El tonight, when 13 stained-glass windows will be dedicated at the opening service which will also mark the first celebration in the Tenth Anniversary Year program.

Rabbi Goldman will preach a special sermon for the Dedication Service, entitled "Windows of the Soul." Music will be rendered by Cantor Bettman and the full Temple Emanu-El choir under the direction of Arthur Einstein. Addressess will be made by Mrs. Henry Hasenfeld, chairman of the Stained-Glass Window committee; Judge Philip C. Joslin, president of the Congregation; Samuel M. Magid, vice president of the Congregation and chairman of the original building committee; and Henry Keck, of Syracuse, N. Y., noted architect who designed the windows.

At a designated point in the Service, flood lights from the outside lawns will be illuminated so that the stained-glass windows may be seen even at night in the interior of the Auditorium. Of the 13 stained-glass windows, one is a circular window behind the Ark, representing "The Burning Bush." Six windows on the right side express the theme "The Institutions of Judaism," and the remaining windows on the other side represent themes under the heading "The Ideals of Judaism." The windows are of Moorish design and each window contains two emblems expressing some organized form or ethical ideal of Jewish life.

A cordial welcome is extended to all.

In addition to these reports, a most interesting program is being prepared for the entertainment and enjoyment of the members of the Home.

GERMANS MAD, SAYS DR. BUTLER AT COLLEGE RITE

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (JTA) — Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, said today that the people of Germany have gone "stark, raving mad."

Speaking at ceremonies marking inauguration of Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox as the 12th president of Union College, Dr. Butler declared that "no light and no leadership can be looked for from Germany for some time to come."

"Those people must regain their senses, turn their backs upon the silly and reactionary slogans which are now hurled at them, to be received with such highly emotional enthusiasm," the noted educator asserted, "before they can resume the intellectual leadership which they had so well won."

Lauds British, French

He said, however, that "the world cannot do without Germany, no matter how preposterous and reactionary may be its ruling policies and doctrines at the moment."

Paying tribute to the British, French, Dutch and Scandinavians as "the happy and fortunate few who still hold fast to sound principle," Dr. Butler said:

"Almost everywhere else in the world troublesome and dangerous ferment — moral, political, economic and social — is well under way."

"Unhappiest of all, the great German people, whose literally colossal accomplishments in philosophy and in science, in literature and in the fine arts, in industry and in commerce, have played so commanding a part in the world's history for two full centuries, have gone stark, raving mad under the pressure and temptation of those rigid and disheartening conditions which attended the writing of the Treaty of Versailles."

Jewish Diplomat Gets Reception from Nazis

BERLIN (JTA) — Jacob Suritz, Soviet Jewish diplomat and newly appointed ambassador to Nazi Germany, arrived here. He was greeted with pomp and ceremony by a guard of honor of black-shirted special Hitler guards, representatives of the German Foreign Office, as well as members of the Soviet Embassy.

His predecessor in the Berlin post was Leo Kitchuck, another Soviet Jewish diplomat.

Trend to East Side

The $5,000 extension to the present gymnasium building and the formation of an educational and recreational council and the extension of the Center program to the South Providence section of the city were the highlights of the survey made by the Jewish Welfare Board of New York and presented by Louis Kraft, director of Jewish Center activities, to the Jewish Community Center Board meeting held last night at 65 Benefit street.

The survey, which covers more than 100 typewritten pages, deals exhaustively with Jewish community life in Providence and presents a brief survey of every Jewish organization in the community with particular reference as to the effectiveness of the Jewish Center program. Another recommendation made by Mr. Kraft involves the extension of the present Center facilities so that modern quarters may be provided for a growing membership.

According to the survey, only nine per cent of Center membership in the children's group come from So. Providence, and Mr. Kraft and Dr. Charles Bernheimer, who assisted him in the report, made the observation that hundreds of Jewish children can be served by the Center through the organization of clubs, classes and a game room. The plan as proposed involves the use of present facilities in that section of the city so that on additional expense will be entailed by this type of program.

Undergraduates to be Guests at Temple Beth Israel Tonight

Temple Beth Israel, enlarging its scope of activities for the Bar Mitzvah year of its existence, is reaching out to serve spiritually the student body of our community. The Temple is proud to number among its family of members many distinguished graduates of the universities of the state who have achieved distinction and have been rewarded with the highest honors. These men and women are now to be hosts to their younger undergraduate friends and are inviting them to be their guests at the initial service of the late Friday evening services of the Bar Mitzvah year.

Letters have been sent to all Jewish students on record and Professor Theodore Collier of the history department of Brown University will lead a public forum after the service on the present international situation, with a special view to the place of the Jew in the international set-up. A reception and Kiddush will be tendered to the students in the vestry of the Temple following the service.

While this service and a number of subsequent services will be in connection with student nights, the Congregation and the community at large are cordially invited to participate. The liturgy of the service will receive musical rendition by Cantor Joseph Schlossberg and a well-trained choir under the direction of Jonas Goldenberg with Miss Bella Goldenberg at the organ. Suggestions for War Prevention Made by Prof. Goodrich at Beth Israel Men's Club Meeting

The opening meeting of the Men's Club of Temple Beth Israel took place Monday evening, at which time a good sized audience listened to an address by Professor Leland M. Goodrich on the prospects of war or peace in Europe.

Dr. Goodrich, professor of international law and chairman of the Foreign Policy Association of Providence, presented a careful analysis of the factors resulting from the Great War 1914-1918 and recent developments in Europe, particularly the spread of Nazism and dictatorships as indicating the eventuality of a war in Europe. The present set-up, according to Prof. Goodrich, has a double significance of making an immediate war unlikely though containing all the factors making for war eventually.

To offset this possibility, Prof. Goodrich suggested an emphasis on democratic system of government, cooperation with the League of Nations and an attitude of willingness of making concessions in the economic field to encourage trade between the various nations.

A question period followed, during which Prof. Goodrich answered a number of questions of particular Jewish and international interest. The program of the evening was in charge of Albert Lisker, chairman, who called upon Rabbi Schussheim to present Professor Goodrich. Dr. Carl Jagolinzer presided and presented the program for the year. A series of eight monthly meetings was projected with a special program for every evening. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by a committee in charge of Fred Weitman.

CONTINUING THE BOYCOTT

The unanimous vote of the American Federation of Labor, at the annual convention in San Francisco, to continue the economic boycott against Germany, is an effective expression of public opinion on the part of a large and important element of the American people against the despotism that prevails in Germany today.

Hitler is continuing to call the anti-German boycott the work of "the devilish international Jewish clique," but the German people will eventually discover that the economic boycott directed against Naziland is supported by the labor organizations and by other liberty-loving people, both Gentiles and Jews, in various lands. The economic situation of Germany is reaching an ever more critical stage, and it will soon be quite impossible for the Nazi leaders to conceal the truth from the disillusioned and desperate people.

THE TERRIBLE TURK

The Turkey of Kemal Pasha has prohibited Zionism, according to a report from Istanbul. All Zionist activities have been declared illegal. A number of Jewish organizations have been raided, and their headquarters searched for evidence of relations with the Zionist movement. No incriminating documents were found.

In this respect Kemal Pasha, the Turkish dictator, learned his lesson from Soviet Russia. There, too, Zionist affiliations are regarded as illegal. But the Turkish dictator failed to learn from the Soviet government how to deal with anti-Semitism. The Soviet government treats anti-Semitism as one of the pernicious remnants of reaction and as an attempt at counter-revolution, and it deals drastically with the offenders. The Turkish government has permitted a series of anti-Jewish outrages in various parts of Turkey. In the beginning the government denied the reports of pogroms and wholesale expulsions. Afterward it placed the blame on the local authorities. But the press is continuing its anti-Jewish agitation. Discriminatory laws have been made. The officials charged with anti-Jewish brutality have been treated leniently by the military courts. Jewish children have been barred from the schools, and Jewish shops are boycotted by Nazified Turks. And now comes the official drive against Zionism.

COMMUNITY SPOKESMEN

Several events of the past months have brought to light the extreme necessity, advocated by THE JEWISH HERALD time and time again, for the formation of a central communal agency to speak for, and represent the entire Jewish community in its contact with our non-Jewish neighbors. We have steadfastly urged the Rabbis and lay leaders of Providence and the rest of the state to call a conference among themselves with the idea of selecting a committee to pass upon, and formulate a communal Jewish viewpoint on the public acts, and press news which will give the impression of being the acts and opinion of the entire R. I. Jewish community, if not that of American Jewry.

Several events of the past, such as the Hitler trial, the greeting to Bishop Keough, the formation of a Jewish voters league, and other things have not only caused bitter comment and denunciation from various quarters, but more than that, have tended to further the split that most unfortunately is evident in the heterogeneous mass of American Jewry. Such a condition, deplorable at its best, is actually ruinous in the present era when the forces against us are so active in various parts of the world.

American and world Jewry has a right to expect from the

R. I. Jewish community aid and assistance in the present world crisis. Palestine must be built up, German Jewry must be assisted, the Jews in other parts of the world must be given our moral and financial support, and most important, anti-Semitism, which is steadily gaining ground in this country must be encountered and defeated.

We cannot do all these things in the midst of bickerings, and lack of unity. We cannot even improve the condition of our own community, until, once and for all, we come to the realization that we as Jews, must have a central organization ruled by the democratic principles of our country, wherein the will of the majority is the law of the whole. It is impossible to please all of the various factions of any community, but it is not impossible to create a condition where the public utterings in behalf of Jews shall have some official status, and not the rancor of well-wishing, but nevertheless unauthorized and self-appointed community spokesmen.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. B. J. WORTMAN, D. C. Ph. C.

As I sit in my private office day after day and see and talk with various types of sick people, I come more and more to realize just how sadly neglected has been and is yet, for that matter, our education as to just what disease is and just how it must be dealt with, if sick people are ever to get well.

Therefore, it is my sincere hope that you may seek to know through these health articles the way of truth and light in health matters, and that you may banish your sickness and suffering not only in your case, but in all who are near and dear to you.

How strange it seems that the human mind generally is so slow to grasp a fundamental fact and how readily people will spurn a thing that may be of the greatest benefit to them—even condemn and ridicule before investigation has been made—and even sometimes after investigation, which proves their positions wrong, they will still allow prejudices to carry them away from that which they should warmly embrace.

Science has proved that health is largely a matter of nerve energy. So long as the nerve power lines are kept free and open, all is well. When they are impaired, you become "all tired out," and your resistance to disease is greatly reduced.

It is the chiropractor who, years ago, discovered in the spinal region, the source of all human energy—and, at the same time, the cause of most human ills. His whole philosophy is built around the scientific adjustment of the spine—nature's way to radiant health, happiness, and well-being.

It is difficult for many people to understand why chiropractic seeks to correct disease in vital organs by adjusting the spine. Spinal adjustments remove interference between spinal nerves and the organs, knowing that if vital energy is not properly delivered to these organs they cannot function normally. This is a fact recognized by all schools of healing. The chiropractor's work is to replace the offending vertebrae or misplaced spinal bone and permit free transmission of nerve force. When this is done normal functioning of the organ is the natural consequence and symptoms such as pain, discomfort, headaches, etc., automatically disappear.

If you can grasp this important fact that every vital organ in the body is connected with and controlled by nerves from the spinal cord and brain, then you can understand why chiropractic methods can relieve so many ailments.

Our Community—And Its Needs

By RABBI JONAH E. CAPLAN

Due to the shortage of space in this newspaper and the length of the article by Alexander M. Dushkin, it will be impossible to reprint even in part "The Rabbi as Teacher," by that author and do justice to it at the same time. I shall, however, in the small space allotted to me, attempt to present a brief resume of that article.

In tracing the history of the Rabbi's functions in American life we find that as the years pass, an ever greater proportion of our children are being taught within the precincts of the synagogue and under the direct supervision of the rabbi. The congregations have in the past years begun to realize more and more that the basic measure of the rabbi's worth is not in terms of his managerial ability to balance the budget, nor in his acceptability as a social mixer, nor even in the size of gate receipts due to his spellbinding ability; but that it is rather to be measured in terms of quiet, perennial influence as teacher of children, youth, and adult, in the classroom, in the study circle, in the pulpit and through personal contact. (The author does not imply that the rabbi play the role of the Melamed by replacing the trained teacher).

The age of measuring the rabbi by the yardstick of good fellowship applied to the commercial drummer, or of the jazz brilliance characterizing the successful entertainer now lies behind us. The terribly disillusioning spectacle of German Jewry once more points to the lesson that our inner life as Jews must be deepened and strengthened, and that Torah—education in all its Jewish phases—continues to be the tree of everlasting life to which we must cling in prosperity as in diversity.

From all appearances the congregation seems to be a natural unit of organization for Jewish educational life in the U. S. A. It concerns itself with the entire Jewish family and not with the child alone and it can therefore integrate the child beyond elementary education into the congregation. It has continuity in responsibility, a building, a budget, a spiritual leader in the form of its rabbi. And yet the congregation alone cannot and must not deal with the entire field of Jewish education. No single congregation can provide facilities for training teachers. The smaller congregations can hardly provide adequate secondary schooling. A very large proportion of the Jewish population is not affiliated with any synagogue. Many are too poor to pay tuition fees, and receive no communal aid to provide for their education. Most important is the fact that unless the congregational school becomes a part of a larger school system it will breed in the child a sense of narrow congregational loyalty and denominational chauvinism. The child will develop a congregational loyalty at the expense of the community at large.

The author of "The Rabbi as Teacher" points to the city of Chicago where the congregations ranging from the ultra-reform to the ultra-orthodox have voluntarily placed themselves under the super-of Jewish organizations conduct similar work and some type of cooperation can be developed so that these programs can be made more effective and serve a larger number of people. The proposed Council would serve as a clearing house for exchange of information, for consultation of plans, for season activities, so as to avoid conflict of dates for major activities. Such a Council could also arrange for a training course for club leaders, provide for a joint recruiting of Sunday school teachers and develop a common program of education for the entire Jewish community.

The report commends the Providence Jewish Community Center for the high quality of its work and points out that from the point of view of its program it is considered to be a leading institution of its kind in this part of the country.

Minor recommendations within the Center building include the development of a more intensive afternoon program, organizing discussion groups, the establishment of a music department, and a summer home camp for children.

Trend Towards East Side

According to the report the bulk of the Jewish population resides in the East Side and the North and the South Providence section of this city, with a definite movement towards the East Side. There is an enrollment of more than 4,000 Jewish children in the Providence public schools making it about ten per cent of the entire school population.

The entire report is divided into several sections dealing with the general population, Jewish organizations, Jewish education, juvenile delinquency and recommendations. The report is signed by Harry L. Gluckman, executive director of the Jewish Welfare Board of New York.

Milton C. Sapinsky who presided at the meeting thanked Mr. Kraft and the Jewish Welfare Board for the valuable data compiled about the Jewish community in Providence.

Members of the Board who listened to the survey were: Milton C. Sapinsky, Henry Hassenfeld, Abe V. Flink, Mrs. Joseph J. Sefer, Abraham H. Blackman, Mrs. Jacob Ernst, Mrs. Isaac Wolf, Jules P. Goldstein, Dr. Myron Keller, Isador Kern, Benjamin Rakatansky, Mrs. Louis I. Kramer, Boris N. Nelson, Charles Silverman, Walter Adler, Mrs. Bertram L. Bernhardt, Dr. Louis I. Kramer, Samuel Temkin, Samuel H. Workman, Herman S. Galkin, Louis R. Golden, Alfred L. Morse and Samuel Rosen.

Dr. Kennison Talks on Youth Problems

Dr. Samuel I. Kennison was guest speaker at the first meeting of the season of the Miriam Hospital Association, Monday at the Biltmore Hotel.

Choosing as his subject, the social problems of the youth of today, Dr. Kennison declared that these problems are caused by (a) parents not growing up with their children, (b) lack of some definite responsibility in early life, regardless of economic conditions of parents, and (c) utter disregard on parents part of what youth is best fitted for vocationally.

Dr. Kennison, who is a graduate of Brown University and Harvard Medical College, served as a lieutenant in the navy during the World War, and was pathologist at the Newport Naval Hospital. He is at present chief pathologist at the Miriam Hospital.

Mrs. Charles C. Brow, president, extended greetings to the gathering. Mrs. Joseph Smith, vice president, read the prayer preceding the business session. The association will hold its annual linen shower and bridge on Wednesday afternoon, November 14, at the Touro Fraternal Hall, with Mrs. Smith as chairman. She will be assisted by Mrs. Samuel Kennison, treasurer, Mrs. Max Temkin, refreshments and Mrs. Bernard Goodman, secretary.

vision of the communal bureau of education which he heads. The rabbi then remains responsible for his own school and at the same time links his school with the common efforts in education made by the community at large.

A Glance at the Yiddish Theatre

Dorchester's Franklin Park, and the tenacity of the Jewish stage

Max Klatter

Sadie Shoengold

Sam Auerbach

At least ten years ago, maybe longer, the cry went up that the Yiddish stage was on its last legs. The suspension of immigration, the advance of the non-Jewish theater, talking pictures, the automobile, the radio, and the oft-bemoaned decline of the Jewish theater, brought forth a gathering of the faithful patriots who all but donned sackcloth and ashes, and made ready to cry at the bier of the art of the Thomashevs, the Adlers, the Kesslers, and the rest of those who brought tears and smiles to the eyes and hearts of a generation past.

However, the theater seems to be possessed of the proverbial nine lives. Old-time producers may fail, and go back to the laundry business, but new ones spring up to take their place. Actors whose names were bywords in many a Jewish home may die or sink into oblivion, but new artists arise over night to carry on the sock and buskin. With all the deaths and obituaries that have been credited to my most favorite art, a careful check of the situation reveals that the corpse is a very lively one. In fact it's a situation that calls for a repetition of Mark Twain's immortal expression — "The report of my death has been slightly exaggerated."

Scanning the horizon of our own New England scene, specifically Boston, where for a good many years we've had a seasonal repertoire company in addition to the end of the season visits from New York companies, I find that this year, more than heretofore, Boston has an excellent Jewish dramatic group, Jacob Youngman, undeterred by past losses in the managerial field, has assembled a group of young earnest and studious actors who, though not universally acclaimed in the same manner as the greatest of the great, succeed admirably in giving "Moishe" (as we comically call the public!) a fine evening's entertainment.

The leading woman of this year's Boston Jewish theatrical company is Miss Sadie Shoengold, sister of the famed Joseph Shoengold. She is a vivacious and attractive blonde with a fine speaking voice, and a fair singing ability. The leading man, Max Klatter, is tall, dark and handsome, and an elegant tenor perhaps one of the three best singers in the entire Jewish theatre. They are ably supported by a well-rounded company which includes Sam Gernstenzang, a lively comic; George Shoengold, the leading lady's brother, who for reasons of his own is billed under the name of George Gould; Janet Ringler, Abe Hart, Clara Gold, Helen Beida, Julius Adler, Goldie Cohen, Louis Bakshitsky and others.

The present season, which opened with the advent of the high holidays, brought forth 3 productions. An operetta, "Tziganer Bandeh" and two dramas, "A Hartz vos Benkt" and "Darf Men Hoben Kinder?" Other plays are in preparation and visits to nearby cities are contemplated in the near future. The attendance at the Boston showing has been so satisfactory that no out-of-town visit is necessary. In other words, the boys and girls have been doing business, and eating regularly (which speaks

A. J. Forest Teaches Playing of Organ

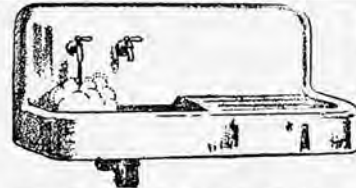

The Forest Organ School is the only institution of its kind in Rhode Island whereby students interested in the study of the organ have the facilities for practicing on a modern electric organ under the very best of conditions.

Although the organ school does not guarantee to provide positions for its students, it will render all possible aid and advice to the inexperienced. Also church organists who wish to advance in their studies will derive benefit from attending this institution under the guidance of its director, Mr. A. J. Forest, a leading organist for many years and at present organist and choir master at St. Charles Church.

Last but not least, I wish to say a word of praise for the one person who, more than any one else, makes or breaks the destiny of a play, the director. Having been one myself, with a moderate success behind me, I well realize the trials and tribulations that beset this, the world's toughest job. In Samuel Auerbach, the director of the Franklin Park group, both audiences and players are fortunate in having a most capable person. His capability does not consist of driving his actors to the point where they render a flawless rendition of the parts assigned. Oh, no! If he tried that with a group of youngsters, he'd succeed only in driving them insane and presenting a set of gargoyles instead of human beings in his stage presentations.

Mr. Auerbach understands actors, plays and audiences to a greater extent than do many other directors. He presents plays that "Moishe" has been accustomed to in a more refined manner than heretofore. He allows his actors to develop gradually, feeling that just as Rome wasn't built in a day, you can't make an artist in one or two sessions. Moreover, he is planning for a gradual ascent to higher levels of play and production. I for one, congratulate him and wish him a deserved success, and needless to say, urge my readers to patronize and support the Franklin Park company when it comes to visit our "fair city."

Orioles to Vie with Olneyville Harps

Plans are being made to handle a large football crowd at Roger Williams Park, when the Orioles A. C. play the strong Olneyville Harps, at 2:15 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Both teams are bitter rivals and the game promises to be hard and fast. In the last three years, they have played two scoreless ties, and last season the Orioles nosed the Harps out to a 6-0 defeat.

In this game, the respective teams

Thousands of Oil Burners Installed by Buckley & Scott, Inc.

It is not a generally known fact that the oldest and largest distributors of automatic oil burners in New England are right in our own City of Providence.

Fourteen years ago last Spring, Buckley & Scott, Inc., 137 Broad street, made the first New England installation of an automatic oil burner. The public was quick to appreciate the value of this new aid to comfort in their homes and in the next few years Buckley & Scott installed thousands of oil burners in the homes of residents of this city.

New developments were made in the oil burner industry; different types of burners were put on the market and following the progressive methods which marked the early years of their business, Buckley & Scott added new types and sizes of burners to their line, until now they handle all the accepted types of burners, in fact, all the different styles of burners that are sold by any of their competitors in this city.

Their line now is not confined to domestic burners. They carry also burners adapted for public buildings of all sizes, as well as burners for large power plants.

Fuel oil is also an important division of the Buckley & Scott organization. Their ability to deliver fuel oil, as well as their ability to supply the oil burner, enables them to assume entire responsibility for ones heating service, and this fact is undoubtedly one of the big factors contributing to their success.

Besides oil burners and fuel oil, Buckley & Scott are distributors for Westinghouse electric refrigeration. Thousands of local users can attest the satisfaction and reliability of the service which these refrigerators render.

will use their strongest lineups against one another. They have been drilling all week so as to be in the pink of condition for the encounter. The mental strategists of the Orioles are holding a long practice session at 7 o'clock tonight, and 9 o'clock, Sunday morning, at Lower Davis Park. Coach Herman Mushnick has requested all players to be present. A series of new plays will be run off.

Communal Agency Workers Convene at Hotel Narragansett

Three hundred delegates from 20 New England communities attended the New England Conference of Jewish Communal Agencies conducted Saturday and Sunday at the Hotel Narragansett.

Speakers at Saturday's sessions were Dr. Mordecai M. Kaplan of the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York, Governor Theodore Francis Green, Mrs. Morris Joseloff, of Hartford, and Louis Myers, also of Hartford. Rabbi William G. Braude, of Temple Beth El, delivered the invocation, and Max L. Grant, president of the Jewish Federation for Social Service presided.

Officers elected are as follows: Louis Myers of Hartford, Conn., president; Mrs. Marian Silverstone of Bridgeport, Conn., Isaac Kilbrick of Brockton, and Archibald Hillman of Worcester, vice presidents; Henry Hassenfeld of Providence, treasurer; A. V. Skolsky of Hartford, secretary.

Executive committee members selected were Max L. Grant, J. I. Cohen and Arthur Levy of Providence; M. Keogil, Mrs. J. C. Goldbaum, Mrs. Hilda Podoloff, Louis Rosenbluth and Sarah Semack of New Haven; Rabbi Levi A. Olan and Dr. Haskell Talamo of Worcester; Charles Goldman, Lynn, Mass.; Mrs. Helen Shapiro, Ike Shine and Fred Stern of Bridgeport, Conn.; Judge Saul Rosenthal, Morris Older, Mrs. Lillian Joseloff, Judge A. S. Borden, Congressman Herman P. Kuppelman of Hartford; Saul Markell, Benjamin Selekan, Judge J. J. Kaplan, Mrs. Hyman Freiman and Dr. Maurice Taylor of Boston, and Benjamin Everett of Holyoke, Mass.

Resolutions Adopted

The report of the resolutions committee was adopted. Among the resolutions were those recommending that the various Jewish communities in the jurisdiction affiliate with the National Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds to manifest their co-operation and interest in the problems of Jews throughout the country; that the Jewish communities of New England individually create organizations which can constructively meet the needs of agencies working on Jewish problems; that a special committee of five be appointed to study the problem of dealing with the recognized fact that chronic cases of sickness among the aged are becoming greatly aggravated and present facilities to care for them are entirely inadequate in all communities; that the National Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds be requested to assume responsibility through field representatives to serve rural communities for the better organization of the small Jewish communities that have no professional organizations.

The committee submitting the report was made up of Dr. Maurice Taylor, Louis Meyer, Mrs. J. C. Osterweis, Miss Frances Resnick, Walter I. Sundun, Arthur J. Levy and Judge Joseph G. Shapiro.

Dr. Charles Wilensky, of Boston, addressed the gathering on "Community Planning for Health," touching mainly on Jewish hospitals and dispensaries. He said "In attempting to meet the needs of various metropolitan cities in which there is a large Jewish population, it has been found necessary frequently to establish Jewish dispensaries and hospitals to meet the singular needs and handicaps of our people — whether they be related to habits, racial psychology, religious prohibitions, etc., which demands a specific background and service in order to accomplish satisfactory results. The need has existed and the size of the population of respective communities has justified their establishment. These institutions furnish not only the proper environment for Jewish patients but excellent provisions for the training of the Jewish interne, doctor, nurse and technician."

Planning For Aged

"Community Planning for the Aged" was the topic of Jacob Abrams of Hartford. He said that dependency regardless of age, had shown a marked increase during the past five years, but nowhere had it left its mark so visibly as in the ranks of the aged.

He then developed the problem of trying to place the aged in a position in which they would be happy. He said that the offering of a home with a son or daughter usually resulted in incompatibility.

"We are all so familiar with the fact, that it is unnecessary to enumerate all of the obstacles which beset the path leading to happy and contented lives," he said. The absence of piety, the non-adherence to the Jewish dietary laws, improper respect on the part of grandchildren, and sons-in-law and daughters-in-law, and in many cases, on the part of their own children, a vast difference in the mode of living, are only a few of the things which lead to incompatibility. Suffice it to say that when these obstacles become insurmountable, what is there left to do but to enter a home for the aged?"

Boarding out the aged had been found inadvisable, he reported, inasmuch as the same class of service as might be obtained in a home for the aged could not be found in a boarding house.

Calling attention to the fact that many homes exclude bed-ridden cases, or cases suffering from a chronic ailment he declared, "It is my opinion that no home for the aged is doing a good job unless provision is made for the proper care of and service to the bed-ridden and chronically ill."

Asks Lower Age Limit

The minimum age requirement for admittance to most homes should be lowered, Mr. Abrams said. "The requirements run from 60 years minimum to 70 years minimum," he explained. "It is my firm conviction, however, and there is a growing tendency along that line, that these age requirements will have to be lowered, because of the difficulty of finding employment, even during middle age. This is a matter that will require considerable thought on the part of every home for the aged. So many applications are made by people between 50 and 60, who are either chronically ill or for some other reason incapacitated, that it seems pitiful to exclude these cases because of their age. It is tantamount to a sentence of suffering for just so many years longer, until they reach the minimum age requirement."

Dr. Maurice Taylor of Boston had charge of the discussion on family welfare and child care, with Max Meyers of Hartford and Miss Lotte Marcuse of Boston, as speakers. Manuel P. Ostrow of Providence was chairman of the discussion on care of the aged with Mr. Abrams, and Charles M. Hoffman of Providence had charge of the session devoted to health, with Dr. Wilensky as the speaker.

Judge Rosenthal had charge of the education, recreation and cultural activities meeting, with William Pinker of Brockton, the discussion leader, and Louis Hurwich of Boston and Samuel Joselowitz of Springfield, the speakers.

Other speakers or presiding officers were Mrs. Harry Silverstone of Bridgeport, Rabbi Morris Schusheim of Providence, Dr. Maurice J. Karpf, New York; Harry Silverstone, Arthur J. Levy of Providence, Isador Soboloff, New York; Rabbi Levi Olan, Worcester; Dr. B. N. Selekan, Boston, and Mrs. Morris Joseloff.

as well as their families, are still being persecuted, incarcerated, thrown into concentration camps and robbed of any chance to make a livelihood," the report stated.

"The press, the theater and the universities have been forced to serve nothing but the ends of the Nazi party, and all true religion is considered by the present rulers of Germany as inimical to their power.

"Measures against Catholic organizations continue in their severity. The Protestant church has been put under a dictator against the wishes of the clergy.

"The Jews continue to be hounded and abused in a most inhuman manner. The continued growth of Nazism and Fascism is constantly increasing the danger of a new war and is causing increased armaments throughout the world."
