'Drive Out Jews' Nazis Cry Mass Meeting August 19 to Lay Groundwork for Boycott

Elaborate Plans Being Made for Home Carnival

With executive committee meetings being held weekly, indications point to the greatest and most ambitious Fall Carnival ever staged by the Jewish Home for Aged. Preparatory plans are being completed rapidly and it is expected that this year's Carnival will differ from any ever held outdoors.

Thousands of dollars worth of tickets have been distributed throughout the state and workers for this worthy cause report a brisk sale. The ticket itself is the most attractive bargain ever offered to the community, because it possesses a three-fold value; the holder may win a 1935 LaSalle automobile; it entitles one to share in the free raffle awards; and lastly, the stub itself will be honored for ten cents toward the purchase of an orchestra seat at the Strand Theater. A book of 12 tickets is selling for $1.

The grounds will be laid out to include every inch of available ground at the Home plot or Hillside Ave. Committees are being organized to solicit merchandise from local merchants. If anyone has anything to donate, telephone Max Siegel at the City Hall Hardware Company and arrangements will be made to collect your contribution.

Teddy Max, general director of the carnival, will have an unusual announcement to make in the next week's JEWISH HERALD, he said today. Incidentally, Max Siegel, chairman, invites all who are interested to attend committee meetings.

Canadian Fascists Seek Veterans' Aid

TORONTO, Ont. (JTA) — The newly formed political party which is seeking a Fascist regime in Canada has attempted to enlist the Canadian war veterans in its movement. It was charged at the convention of the Canadian Legion in London by D. I. Harris, president and representative of the Jewish branch last week.

Mr. Harris named the newly formed Canadian Corps Association as the body which is trying to make dupes of the veterans. He declared that Fascism is rampant in Toronto.

Judge Rules Son Must be Raised a Catholic

NEW YORK (JTA) — Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink ruled that the two-month-old son of Jacob Miller, a Jewish truck-driver, and Mrs. Helen White Miller, a Catholic, must be raised a Catholic as the result of a pre-nuptial agreement made between the couple and the Catholic priest who married them.

The ruling was handed down in spite of the fact that a similar agreement was made with an orthodox rabbi who, unaware of the first ceremony, rewedded them.

Nazi Press Distorts News

Purposely Twist Reports to Suit Their Own Ends and Purposes

NEW YORK (JTA) — Cognizance was taken this week of the practice by German newspapers of presenting distorted accounts of American events under the credit line of world-wide news agencies.

The United Press Association, one of the organizations involved in an incident of this sort, told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that it had never sent out a report which appeared under a U. P. credit line in the National Zeitung of Essen, formerly General Goering's organ, concerning the riot on board the Bremen here.

The report in the Zeitung said in part: "Opposed to these heathens who have been visibly incited by Jews is the opposition of the authorities. Also the sentiment of the decent American population. All American newspapers except outlandishly Jewish-Bolshevist papers greatly regret this incident."

Not one word of the report was sent out by the U. P., James Furay, vice-president of the association, declared. He said that the Zeitung had explained that the U. P. credit line had slipped in "by mistake."

Thirty-nine German newspapers take the U. P. service. The International News Service was concerned in similar incidents. Dr. Paul Goebbels' paper, Der Angriff, credited to the I. N. S. two New York dispatches, one referring to Felix Warburg as a "notorious Jewish banker," announcing formation of a "gigantic Jewish organization for relief of Jews driven out of Germany."

The report was characterized as a distortion by J. V. Connolly, president of the I. N. S. here. He told the J. T. A. that the Angriff is being closely watched for a repetition of the incident. The organization serves six German papers.

Anti-Semite Cards Strewn in London

LONDON (JTA) — Scores of cards with the inscription "Britons! Do not allow Jews to tamper with white girls," have been strewn in the gardens of a number of houses in Warewood Road, Ilford, a suburb of London, the London Star reports.

Lacked Fare to Holy Land — Takes His Life

WARSAW (JTA) — After waiting eight years for a certificate permitting him to go to Palestine as a pioneer worker, Josef Urbach, 26, well-known in Lodz Hechalutz circles, last week committed suicide for lack of 150 zlotys (less than $30) to pay his fare to Palestine.

"Make the boycott against German made goods more effective," was the resolution adopted by the Rhode Island Council of the American Jewish Congress at an executive meeting held last Monday night at the quarters of the Jewish War Veterans on Niagara St. It was also voted to postpone the scheduled mass meeting to Monday night, August 19. The additional week will permit groups in all parts of Rhode Island to arrange for representation at the general meeting.

Dr. Maurice J. Mellion was appointed chairman of a finance committee to solicit money necessary to stage the protest. Working in conjunction with the finance committee will be Morris Beeber and his committee who will personally visit business men in the State to request their aid in furthering the economic nose that is slowly being tightened about the heads of Hitler and his apostles.

Mr. Beeber will urge all manufacturers to refrain from buying raw materials from Germany or handling any imported ware that is labeled Nazi Germany. He commended the City Hall Hardware Company in removing from their shelves all German-made goods and in refusing to consider those houses who were offering articles of German origin.

Close co-operation is necessary, Mr. Beeber said, if we are to destroy or moderate Hitler's program. And until Hitler changes his policies towards religious sects, we must combat his with our only weapon—an effective boycott that will bring Germany to her economic senses.

Under the direction of Dr. Maurice J. Mellion the following men will work to solicit funds for the mass meeting: Jacob Licht, Samuel Michelson, Mr. Chalick, Harry Beck and Max Berman.

Reports from Germany during the past week indicate that Hitler and company have merely lowered the curtain for the first act in the drama depicting the conflict of human rights against barbarism. If Providence Jews are lured by news items that Nazi Germany is moderating her vicious policies they need only to recall events of two years ago and conclude that Hitler will not stop until he is either overcome by economic collapse of his shaky empire or manages through some miracle or other, to lead the German people from their present misfortunes. Contribute financially or morally and aid the Jews in Germany.

Anti-Jewish Activities Protested

Polish Jews Unite in Boycott Against German Goods

WARSAW (JTA) — A huge mass meeting was held here last week in protest against the anti-Jewish atrocities in Germany.

Leaders of Polish Jewry and Sejm deputies addressed the meeting. Resolutions calling for a united boycott action against Nazi Germany and for foreign intervention to curb the anti-Semitic excesses, were called to the Board of Jewish Deputies in London, as well as to the League of Nations, which was also asked to protect German-Jewish refugees.

Meanwhile, the Society for the Defense of Home Industries organized a month ago by Polish Jews to replace the German Boycott Committee which was dissolved by the Polish authorities was legalized by the Government.

The German Boycott Committee was dissolved on the insistence of Germany in the negotiations between Germany and Poland for a renewed trade agreement between the two countries.

Danish Leader in Attack on Bigots

COPENHAGEN (JTA) — "Denmark is not a place for hatred of the Jew," declared Christmas Moeller, leader of the Conservative Party, at an extra session of Parliament. "Anti-Semitism is not tolerated here," he declared.

Moeller attacked Sehester, leader of the Peasant Party, who during the recent peasant march before the King blamed "the might of Jewish capital" for the agricultural depression. Sehester had also spoken of the "unnatural relations between peasants and Jews."

The conservative leader accused Sehester of deals with Jewish financiers at the expense of the farmer. "Is this the right man to speak of hatred of Jews?" Moeller received an ovation from the members at the conclusion of his address.

Move to Expel Polish Jews Living in Saxony

WARSAW (JTA) — Led by the District Chief Mutschmann, a striking campaign is being waged against Polish Jews who settled in Saxony since the war, information received here this week revealed.

According to the report, 70 Jewish families were ordered to leave Saxony immediately. Since German regulations forbid the export of German currency, the refugees are forced to leave all their possessions behind.

They have appealed to the Polish consul against their expulsion and against the confiscation of their property, and it is expected that the consul will intervene on their behalf.

PLANNING FOR DEFENSE
JERUSALEM (JTA) — The British government has ordered the high commissioners of Palestine, Egypt and other near eastern countries to a conference at London to consider measures for near eastern defense in the imminent Italian-Ethiopian war, the Arab press reported this week.

Complete Ousting of Jews from Reich is Goal of Nazis

BERLIN (JTA) — A pogrom atmosphere pervades Berlin throughout the country government officials are rising to new heights of inventive in their campaign to incite the German people against the Jew.

The campaign is bearing its fruits. Last Sunday night storm troopers under the command of Nazi officers demonstrated on the Kurfuerstendamm — Berlin's Broadway — for an hour. They arrived in buses, shouted abusive epithets and picketed cafes patronized by Jews.

The Jewish patrons fled terror-stricken from the section.

The demonstration occurred the same day that Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels had flung his deft to the world:

"No foreign protest will prevent Germany from annihilating the Jew — the enemy of the German state." The next few weeks will show what we will do to the Jews," he exclaimed at a rally in Essen held in observance of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the National Socialist movement in the Ruhr.

At the same time, Goebbels indicated he is not pleased with the attention the world press is giving the Nazis' newest anti-Semitic errors.

"Whenever someone looks cross-eyed at a Jew on the Kurfuerstendamm," he declared, "there is a hullabaloo from London to Peking. But why does the foreign press insist on conversing on Germany. Let it ease about the government and it will readily find topics of greater urgency."

Reichministers Rust and Frank added fuel to the flames with addresses at Essen and Cologne promising that the government will not compromise on its present racial policy and that no let-up can be expected until the Jew is completely eliminated from German life.

Orphanage Outing Tuesday at Pier

The annual outing of the Jewish Orphanage will be held next Tuesday, at Narragansett Pier, under the supervision of Mrs. Ira Marcus, Mrs. Benj. Brier, Mrs. Samuel Ganser and Mrs. Henry M. Goldblatt.

A partial list of patronesses includes: Mesdames Ira Marcus, Henry P. Hirschberg, Maurice Adelman, Samuel Priest, A. O. Josling, B. Silverstein, Irving Glantz, Matthew E. Segool, Benj. Brier, Louis A. Forbes, Samuel Ganser, Henry M. Goldblatt, G. Samperli, B. Gittleman, M. Simmons, J. Dressler, George Gould, M. Fradin, J. Hochberg, Irving Miller, H. Fradin, C. Wexler, B. Efron, James Efron, E. Gold, M. Mellion, A. Siegel, M. Kesterman, A. Kesterman, S. Newbey, M. Chase, M. Cohen, A. Cohen, J. Shore, Raphael Silverstein, E. Port, Max Silverstein, Harry Silverstein, Miss Irene Finklestein and M. Hymen Eskow.

Jewish Philanthropist Honored by Government

BUDAPEST (JTA) — The Government conferred the Hungarian First Class Cross upon Alexander Fleissig, president of the Stock Exchange and president of the British-Hungarian Bank. Fleissig is the second Jew to enjoy the title "excellency." He is known for his philanthropic work among the Jews.

NEW YORK LETTER

By H. W.

The current talk-of-New York town is Reuben Greenspan, 31-year-old navigation officer, mathematician, astronomer, teacher and predictor of earthquakes.

Reuben's 17th 'quake had just "come in" as per schedule when this New York letter was overcome by curiosity and decided to pay the amazing young man a visit to find out just how he did it — and why he did it. Greenspan explained his method of calling his shots. As he spoke it all sounded quite simple. Quite obviously, however, it isn't so simple for no one has yet been able to do what he has done since last May, when he embarked on his public career — it isn't quite a career yet, he is careful to point out — of telling the world exactly when, where and to what degree of intensity the earth will begin to shiver and shake.

It was while acting as first, second and third officer on ships of the United Fruit Lines that Reuben discovered there was a definite correlation between unusually high and low tides and the conjunction of the moon and other planets. According to Greenspan's definition, an earthquake is a rupture of the weak point on the earth's crust, caused by the combined gravitational pull of two astronomical bodies whose mass are great enough to shift the center of gravity, around which the earth and moon revolve, outward toward the surface.

Having established the one fact by observation and investigation, and knowing the other, Greenspan, who has been a student of astronomy and mathematics for as long back as he can remember, put two things that may possibly develop into practical channels that will save thousands of lives yearly and millions in money.

The youthful 'quake expert depends entirely on government charts and statistics, trigonometry, astronomy, tedious, long research, plus a formula which he has not yet revealed.

First, he explained, he learns the time for the conjunction of the planets — available in government astronomical charts. Second, he computes mathematically over which point of the earth's surface this conjunction will take place in relation to latitude and longitude. Third, he investigates that point by reference to government geological surveys and records of earthquakes dating back hundreds of years, to discover if there is a "crustal fault" or weak point susceptible to "quakes" at that point. Finally, he computes the intensity of the quake to come through a study of the mass of the astronomical bodies involved.

Up to that point, those scientists who have studied Greenspan's predictions, are inclined to agree with him. His formula for arriving at practically the exact time and place of occurrence within a few hours and comparatively few miles, is what baffles them.

Not long ago, the noted Prof. Helmut Landsberg of the Penn State School of Mineral Industries, in an article in Science, stated that "our present knowledge of earthquakes does not permit any prediction of location and time of occurrence of a major earthquake with scientific accuracy."

Prof. Landsberg is beginning to wonder whether he'll have to eat those words.

Greenspan started research on the subject last November. He studied the complete records of hundreds of past earthquakes and found that in 87 percent of the cases they coincided exactly with the conjunction of the planets in 13 percent of the cases, there was a slight variation, but this he ascribes to some inaccuracy in computation.

So convinced did he become during the months of study that he was on the right track to ward solving of a problem that has baffled the scientists of many ages, that he gave up a position he held at the time to devote all of his time to developing proof of his theory.

In May, he was ready to test his theory in practice. He publicly predicted through the medium of a former newspaper woman who time-stamped his prediction and sent it to the press and seismological observatories — in the early part of that month that a 'quake would occur in Persea on May 17. And Persea "quaked" within a few hours of his prediction.

Since that time, he has predicted 17 crack-ups of the earth. His accuracy as to time has been within a few hours; as to the place, from 100 to 1,000 miles.

This he has accomplished without the use of any complicated apparatus. His apartment in Greenwich Village is not the laboratory it has been pictured. He has only a small rotating map of the globe, government charts and maps to work with. He plans some day to equip himself with a specially made solar system in miniature, equipped with electromagnetic appliances to simulate gravitational pull and stress. With this apparatus he is sure he can bring his predictions down to the exact hour and place.

It is known that governments have already expressed an interest in Greenspan's work. What it will mean to nations in the crustal areas to have such knowledge as Greenspan has, is readily understandable. Large insurance companies have also recognized the value to them of such predictions as he can make and are understood to have made inquiries of Greenspan. How much money his predictions, if their accuracy are proved over a sufficient period of time, can save insurance companies, can also readily be appreciated.

Orthodox Leader in Radio Broadcast

Rabbi William Margolis, a member of the administrative council of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, will be the center in a series of speakers, next Wednesday evening at 8.30 o'clock, in a discussion of "The Jewish Viewpoint," over WJON WPRO and the associated stations of the Inter-City Group.

In the first broadcast last Wednesday, Dr. Samuel Margoshes, editor of the Day and vice president of the American Jewish Congress, spoke on "The Cauldron of Europe from the Outside." Upon his return from Europe, several weeks hence, he will again be heard speaking, then on "The Inside of the Cauldron."

Others booked for early appearances on this new program include John Haynes Holmes, noted civic leader, J. David Stern, New York and Philadelphia newspaper publisher and Irene Kahn, feature writer on the World-Telegram.

Survey Shows Extent of Japan Dumping

JERUSALEM (JTA) — The full extent of Japanese dumping in Palestine was revealed this week when the Customs Department published an official report for exports and imports for the month of March.

The report reveals that while Japan imported from Palestine only 35 worth of goods during the month, it dumped goods to the value of $82,477, close to a half million dollars, during the same period.

Charges were made by the owners of the "Meahi" silk mills, owned by A. S. Sachs of Passaic, N. J., which were forced to shut down last week as a result of Japanese dumping, that every type and quality of silks manufactured by local importers, and that huge quantities of silks copied from the Palestine product, were then shipped from Japan to Palestine.

Admit 3,222 Jews Here in 5 Months

NEW YORK (JTA) — A total of 3,222 Jewish aliens arrived in the United States between January 1 and May 31 of this year, according to a report made public by the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society this week.

Of the total, 1,815 were immigrants, the report stated. The HIAS took custody over 1,732 Jewish aliens pending contact with their relatives.

It was revealed that 47,370 persons had applied to the HIAS information bureau during the first half of this year. In addition requests were received from 3,750 persons abroad to locate relatives here.

The Ellis Island Bureau had 3,568 inquiries and served 7,649 kosher meals to those detained on the island. The Shelter Department provided 185,188 meals and 21,000 nights of shelter to Jewish homeless and unemployed.

Before the youthful Jewish scientist is ready or willing to capitalize on his knowledge, however, he is intent first on proving his theory and method correct beyond a shadow of doubt and to the satisfaction of the most skeptical of scientists.

Greenspan was born in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, and was graduated from Louisiana State University — before it came under the influence of Huey Long. He received his B. S. from the famous Armour Technical Institute in Chicago in 1932. He's a slim, unassuming young man, blue-eyed, hollow-cheeked and not too fastidious a dresser. He has been married just one month and his pretty young wife, Mim, refused to state whether Reuben had been able to predict that event long before it happened.

Predicting a situation, as he calls it, is far from being undidled pleasure. Greenspan says he has to work on the average of 16 hours at steady computation before he is prepared to call his shot, as the billiardists say.

At the time of the interview, he didn't have a single prediction on tap. There was one, however, he admitted he would like very much to be able to make. He would be happy if he had occasion, he said, to predict a rather violent upheaval in the immediate vicinity of a fellow by the name of Adolf Hitler, former house painter and no-friend-to-the-Jews. But, he remarked ruefully, there is no crustal fault in Germany, with the exception of Upper Silesia.

JEWISH SPORT NOTES

By MORRIS WEINER

Greenberg Voted Outstanding Jewish Player

Hank Greenberg, slugging first sacker of the Detroit Tigers, has been chosen the outstanding Jewish baseball player in the major league circuits as a result of the nationwide poll conducted by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency. This is the second time in as many years that the Bronx bambino has rated this honor.

Hundreds of letters were received in this annual baseball contest from all over the country. Hank Greenberg, 23-year-old player, was the unanimous choice of each writer.

Mr. Robert Brodwin, 514 Tasker St., Philadelphia, Pa., was selected as the writer of the best letter and the winner of the J. T. A. prize. He will be awarded a choice pair of seats for the 1935 World Series.

The Winning Letter
Mr. Brodwin's winning letter follows:

"Hank Greenberg, of the Detroit Tigers, is my selection as the outstanding Jewish baseball player in the big leagues today. This choice was not hard to make. On consideration, the field of contestants is immediately narrowed down to Greenberg, Myers, Danning, Weintraub and Manush. The last named, Manush, of the Senators, is a veteran, whose base days are behind him. Harry Danning is coming along fast but still has to prove his sale. Weintraub falls by the wayside.

It is the record of Hank Greenberg, alone, that is most impressive. This youngster from the Bronx has been in the American League for three seasons. In his first year he made the grade. Last year he proved what a slugger he could be. His baseball achievements this season are exceptional. His home run clouts, 26 to date, make him the leader in both leagues. His record of doubles, triples, and runs batted in make him one of the most formidable hitters in both leagues.

But what is most important to my mind, he is a timely hitter. Greenberg has become one of the most dependable men in big league baseball. Bucky Harris testifies to the fact that Hank is the most feared batter in the leagues today. Mickey Cochrane, Hank's boss, calls the Bronx athlete "the sparkling of my team."

"Last year, Greenberg averaged a high fielding percentage. Thus far this season, he is way out in front of his average for the same time in 1934."

"It is amazing that a man 23 years old and a big leaguer for only three years, should be the home run king. What is more unbelievable is the fact that this man should handle the first-base post with the dexterity, the precision, and the coolness of a Lou Gehrig, a veteran of the major leagues for ten years."

"Therefore, because Hank Greenberg, star first sacker for the American League leaders, has proved that his hitting is well nigh incomparable, that his fielding is far above par, that he stands head and shoulders over Manush, Myers, Danning and Weintraub, he is my choice as the outstanding Jewish baseball player in the major leagues today."

Honorable Mentions Awarded
Six other letters submitted in this contest were selected by the judges as deserving of honorable mention. The writers of these letters were:

Irving Cantor, 2009 Waverly St., Seasideville, Pa.; Sidney Garfinkel, 138 Howard St., Millers, Pa.; Joel Aarons, 3761 North Dixie Highway, Miami, Fla.; Isadore Greenspan, 29 Deatur Lane, Boston, Mass.; Morris Cohen, 1908 Atlantic St., Louisville, Ky.; Macy Levine, 222 Union St., Johnstown, Pa.

Greenberg's Comments on Decision
Hank Greenberg, winner of the J. T. A. contest, was found at his home in the Bronx. Hank always visits his parents when the Tigers are in New York for a "crucial series" with the Yankees.

"You can tell all your readers that I'm very grateful to them. The fact that I was picked for the second time as the 'Outstanding Jewish Baseball Player in the Major Leagues Today' makes me very happy. I still have the certificate presented to me by the United States Maccabi Association last year when I was chosen. It's framed in my room and my mom polishes the glass every day. She claims it's almost as good as a college diploma. She's having a difficult time keeping Jerry, my kid brother, in N. Y. U. He's always ready to bust out and become a big league player, too. But, I think one ball player in the family is enough."

You're absolutely right, Hank, one ball player in any family as good as you are is enough. At least, we think it will be enough for the Tigers to cop the American League pennant once again this season.

Jewish Leaders Note Growth of Anti-Semitism Throughout Jugo-Slavia

BEIRGRADE (JTA) — Grand Rabbi Dr. Isak Alkalaj, president of the Sephardic Jewish community, and Dr. Buki Mjadia have interviewed the new premier, Dr. Milan Stojanovic, to warn him against the growing anti-Semitism in the country.

The premier agreed with the views of the Jewish leaders and promised to do everything possible to satisfy the demands of the Jewish leaders.

Mrs. Moses Einstein Reviews Jewish Progress in City

As spectator and actor in the cavalcade of Jewish progress in Providence, Mrs. Moses Einstein of Irving Ave., has witnessed an increase of Jewish population from 20 families to 10,000 persons. Growing up with the influx of new Jews, Mrs. Einstein realized the attendant problems that lockedstep each development and expansion and by instigating aid to the less fortunate she became the first Jewish social welfare worker in Providence, a task she continued for 27 years.

The nucleus of the Jewish community in Providence was in 1860 when 20 families, most of whom had immigrated from Holland, settled in what is now known as lower North Main St., and opened small stores. Here was demonstration of an inherent trait — assertion of self-dependence.

It was about this time, Mrs. Einstein recalled, that the community invited Abraham Jacobs, son of Troy, N. Y., to become their first rabbi. This invitation was directly responsible for Mrs. Einstein's presence in Providence for Rabbi Jacobs was her grandfather.

Form Temple and Engage Rabbi

Services during the following precarious years were held wherever convenient in homes, or in stores. Despite the limitations of definite locality and membership, the Congregation Sons of Israel, better known now as Temple Beth-El, slowly increased its active membership and in 1877, under the spiritual guidance of Job Vorsanger who later founded famed synagogues in Houston, Texas, and San Francisco, the congregation turned to reform Judaism.

But as this spiritual advance was occurring brutal anti-Semitic outbreaks in Russia, Lithuania and other European countries reverberated here and the following 20 years witnessed a wave of refugees. Harsh and ragged, the pogrom victims embarked on sailing vessels for New York. Arriving in this country they slowly filtered through New York to Providence and Boston.

Refugees Arrive in 1881

It was her experience with these helpless visitors, Mrs. Einstein said, that projected in her mind and in others the need of concerted action by women to alleviate suffering and misery. The first refugee reached Providence in 1881. His arrival

Soviet Oust Nazi for His 'Prussianism'

MOSCOW (JTA) — Karl Hack, a mill-specialist from Germany, was ordered deported from the Soviet Union because of actions reminiscent of his Nazi fatherland.

Hack was invited to the Soviet Union by the Soviet flour mill "Glaznitsa." He was to work in the mills and instruct the Russian workers in the methods of production.

Claiming that Soviet laws do not apply to him, he conducted himself in true Nazi fashion, cursing and groaning the workers and even striking women. He was especially harsh with Jewish workers whom he treated in the characteristic anti-Semitic manner.

He was accordingly arraigned before the authorities and sentenced to two years imprisonment. A high court, however, suspended the sentence and ordered Hack deported from the Soviet Union.

Numerous Problems Beset Lives of the Colony's Pioneers

aroused the sympathetic interest of the entire Jewish community and from him they learned of the horrible role he and his fellow Jews had been forced to play.

There was little difficulty in aiding this first refugee. Questioning disclosed that he had been a goldsmith; he was interviewed by a representative from Gorham's, situated then at North Main St., corner of Steeple St., who, satisfied as to his capabilities, hired him.

But with the solution of this individual problem there arose one of confusion and vexation. A steady stream of refugees poured into New York and then, taking advantage of a 50 cent boat fare to Providence, the overflow continued on hopeful that they would find relief here.

Attempts to Settle Immigrants

It was impossible to handle all the cases, Mrs. Einstein said. Few jobs were available and the Jewish community itself was financially unable to carry a continuous burden. Attempts were made to distribute the families in the rural districts of upper New England. But the desire to be amongst Jews caused the "pioneers" to return. Other redistribution efforts, such as chartering boats to take refugees westward to Texas and California, failed. The majority made their weary way eastward.

It was at this time that the Montefiore Ladies Hebrew Benevolent Association, founded in 1877, with Mrs. David Frank as president and Mrs. Anna Rosenfeld as vice president, purchased furniture, clothing, and by sifting industrial opportunities, succeeded in placing many in permanent jobs.

For those whose talents and training had no outlet in Providence, transportation was furnished to other cities. It was this organization, combining with the South Providence Ladies Aid Society, that formed the present Jewish Family Welfare so prominent in local activities today.

But here Mrs. Einstein discontinued her discussion of welfare problems to comment about the first Kosher meat market which was opened in 1871 by Maurice Cohen. Previously, all Kosher meat was purchased in Boston, available once a week. During the summer the lack of refrigeration necessitated a vegetable diet.

Recalls Vivid Personalities

Fitting through her story as she discussed the founding of the meat market were names such as David Frank who had a dry goods store in the Arcade, Henry Green who ran a clothing store on North Main St.; Solomon Levy, Providence's first Jewish bachelor who was the life of the party at all weddings and gatherings, and of Isaac Hahn who was the first Providence Jew to be elected to the Legislature.

Towards the turn of the century, the Jewish population in Providence had its greatest growth. And in step with this growth was Mrs. Einstein whose activities as social welfare worker were gathering strength and supporters. The essential accomplishments were obtained through the Montefiore organization whom Mrs. Einstein represented. In 1919, however, Mrs. Einstein concluded a private campaign for the establishment of a Jewish Orphanage.

This proved an arduous and oftentimes discouraging task. Her first attempts to place homeless children with private families were a failure. But with the co-operation of St. Mary's Orphanage, all Jewish orphans were cared for the sum of $1.50 per day, except during Easter-time, when they were removed from the orphanage, for at that time the resident Bishop required that all unbaptized children be baptized.

But slowly Mrs. Einstein's efforts to get Providence Jews to support a Jewish Orphanage brought results and in 1919 a two and one-half story house on Orms St., was rented for $30 a month.

With the orphanage firmly established, Mrs. Einstein slowly withdrew from active participation in welfare work. She still retains membership on the executive board of the Traveler's Aid Society, the Rhode Island Society for the Blind, Temple Beth-El Sisterhood and the Jewish Family Welfare Society.

Her reminiscences, however, paralleling a kaleidoscopic train of events, now become a historical picture of progress of Providence Jews.

Nazism May Split British Legion Ranks

LONDON (JTA) — A split in the ranks of the British Legion is believed to be inevitable as a result of the pro-Nazi sentiment which Major Francis Fetherstone-Godley, chairman of the veterans' delegation that recently returned from a visit to Germany, it was reported in the London Daily Herald.

The Herald reported that the Major's statements had stirred a revolt in the Legion.

RABBIS PROTEST ANTI-SEMITISM IN LITHUANIA

KATINAS, Lithuania (JTA) — A delegation of rabbis recently visited the Lithuanian President Antanas Smetona, and submitted to him a complaint about the growing anti-Semitic movement in the country.

The delegation pointed out to the President that recently a number of decrees were issued, depriving Jews of their livelihoods. The delegation also emphasized the difficulties which the Jewish population of Lithuania is now facing in connection with the assistance which government departments are giving to anti-Semitic organizations in their work of converting Jews from trade and commerce.

ARRANGING CARNIVAL

Lipson, Max Zarovin, E. Lubor, R. Goldenberg, I. Cohen, P. K. Goodman, A. Goodman, H. Goldenberg, J. Schenagel, I. Houlder, S. Zarchen and J. Foreealy.

FUNERAL FOR VICTIMS

WARSAW (JTA) — A huge cortege followed the heaves of the six victims of the collapse of the old house of Mrs. Curie, co-discoverer of Radium, in the Jewish quarter here. Government authorities and representatives of the Jewish communities and the rabbinat participated in the ceremonies. Shops were closed on the streets where the procession passed.

SUNK WITH SUBMARINE

MOSCOW (JTA) — Two Jews, Shleima Harzman, a marine officer, and Michael Faingersh, a sailor, were among the 35 who perished in the recent Soviet submarine disaster.

CHANGE OF HEART

By NINA KAYE

A far-away look in her dark eyes, Anne Warsaw stood at the hotel window and gazed unseeing at the soothing traffic below. Behind her in the room, her aunt Helen went on and on.

"Larry is very nice, Anne. But don't forget you're engaged to Stanley. You wouldn't even know Larry if we didn't come to New York to your trousseau. Besides, what future has Larry got? And even if he did make a lot of money, he would never hold on to it the way Stanley does. He can't afford to take us out the way he does. He's not reliable," Anne. Not steady like Stanley.

"Anne swung from the window. "Don't you ever think of anything but money, Aunt Helen?"

"I'm older than you, Anne. I know you will get over your feeling for Larry. I don't want you to do anything you'll be sorry for later!"

The ringing of the telephone prevented Anne from replying.

"Anne, my child," Larry said wryly over the telephone, "your aunt is a grand old girl, but don't you think we're big enough to go out alone? I'm down in the lobby. What's the chances of your breaking away?"

Anne giggled softly. "I'll try," she answered.

"Larry, I suppose," her aunt commented dryly as Anne turned around.

"Uh-huh," Anne said. "He's waiting for me in the lobby." Then, quite suddenly she burst out, "Aunt Helen, I can't marry Stanley! I don't love him."

"Before you met Larry you did!" "I thought it was love!" She went quickly to the desk in the corner. "I'm going to write to Stanley and tell him!" She lifted her chin proudly. "It wouldn't be fair to marry him, without loving him."

Slowly she drew off her engagement ring, let it slide from her little hand to the desk. It made a hollow little sound, upon a moment, then stopped.

They aunt made an impatient sound behind her, but Anne bent over the desk, her hand racing along the sheet of hotel stationery. It wasn't easy, telling Stanley that she no longer loved him. The letter left her shaken.

"Are you going to send back the ring?" her aunt asked.

"Of course."

"If you want to go with Larry, leave it and I'll take it to the post office. It has to be insured."

Anne came up to her aunt, raised her shining face. "Then you do understand, Aunt Helen?" she whispered. "I'm so glad." She caught up her hat, kissed her aunt on the top of her graying head and danced out of the room.

"Good girl!" Larry greeted her when she stopped from the elevator. "You're not going to bring you back to aunt until this day is done."

"You can't leave your work!" she chided. "Just take me to lunch."

He shrugged. "Work precious hours when I might be alone with you!"

She remembered her aunt's words. "He's not reliable. Not steady like Stanley." But she shook away the unpleasant thoughts. Her feet danced along the sunlit pavement beside Larry's long stride.

"They took a bus. Then they went to the zoo and, like gay and eager children laughed at the serious and the chattering cockatoo. They had lunch at the cafeteria jostled by schoolboys with skates over their shoulders.

Later, side by side in a canoe, they skimmed over the lake, still and darkly shining like an old mirror. Twilight darkened into night. Larry's hand closed over hers, pressed it with sudden fervor. Then, abruptly, he demanded, "Where in your ring?"

She raised her shining eyes to him. "I took it off," she said simply. "I couldn't wear it." Then, for a loveless moment she waited, waited for him to take her in his arms and tell her that he loved her.

The moment seemed endless. Her eyes sought his face. He was staring away across the lake. At last he spoke, without looking at her. "If you're thinking of me, Anne," he said huskily, "I wouldn't. You see, I'm not the marrying kind."

Anne's heart went very cold and still. She had been thinking of him, thinking he loved her. And loving him.

Weinstein's Lake
Pearl Hotel Fine
Vacation Resort

The best place for one to spend a vacation is a problem that confronts one at this time of the year. There seem to be so many places from which to make a choice, yet there are so few places, that suit the vacationist "to a T."

Not far from this city is Weinstein's Hotel, a modern resort situated right on Lake Pearl in Wrentham. The spot is rich in scenic beauty, nestling in a chain of low wooded hills. Yet it is only 40 minutes by machine from Providence, Worcester or Boston.

The rooms are well-furnished. There are attractions for old and young. The bathing and swimming facilities are excellent. The hotel guests have the exclusive use of a fine stretch of beach. The water is warm and serene. Boating and motorboating are additional attractions. A short distance away is Lake Pearl Park with its hundreds of amusements, ballroom and featured attractions.

One of the reasons why Weinstein's has maintained its popularity is the excellence of its cuisine. Take the word of an experienced traveler for that when he states that nowhere has he tasted food as delicious as that which is served at this hotel. All the way from chopped chicken livers to the strouel and tea for desert the meal is one grand delight for the epicure. Try a meal here once and be convinced forever that the kitchen is praised is well deserved.

The rates at Weinstein's Hotel are very reasonable. The sociability shown by the guests makes one feel right at home. If interested in spending an ideal vacation at minimum cost, just follow Route 140 direct on Westminster or Phane Wrentham 8113 Ring 2 for further details.

"Drive Out Jews"

Throughout the country, petty officials are outdoing themselves in their zeal to show they are cooperating in the anti-Semitic campaign.

Total isolation of the Jewish population is reported in several German cities. Deutsche Justiz, the Ministry of Justice organ, comments that "municipal councils who are deciding to isolate the Jews are only acting in accordance with our ultimate aim of preventing the bastardization of the German nation."

In Dresden, public benches have been painted with signs, "Jews prohibited from sitting here."

Employees of the Ministry of Justice cannot wait before submitting names and genealogical histories of prospective mates to the Ministry, it was ordered this week in a move to prevent marriages to Jews.

The Prager Tageblatt, which claims to have the information from authoritative sources, asserts that Streicher's candidacy for this job is being supported by Nazi party headquarters at the Brown House in Munich, although the Foreign Office and the Ministry of Trade are opposed to it for fear of repercussions abroad.

Children to Present
Playlet at Pier

A group of girls whose average age is 12 years and who are spending the summer at Narragansett Pier will present a playlet and several specialty numbers at the Narragansett Casino Ball Room at 8 o'clock next Tuesday evening. All proceeds will go for charitable purposes.

The entertainment is being coached by Mrs. Rosalind Silvestro, the dancer by Mrs. George Gould, assisted by Miss Lillian Zeldi at the piano.

The cast includes June Shore, Rosalind Josias, Bernice Ganzer, Hope B. Marshak, Phyllis R. Sydel, Shirley Ganzer, Sylvia Shore, Dorothy L. Segrow, Shirley B. Glass, Avis I. Forbes, Ruth C. Rotman, Eunice Rosenblatt, Norma Harris, Thelma Curland, Vivian Curland and Shirley L. Gerber.

The OBSERVER

How-di-do, and how-di-doo friends. Here I am back again after a week's vacation or should I say a week of loafing, to tell you a little more about the highlights that are shining at the present time.

First on the menu is Narragansett Pier, that great social spot, where people are gathering from parts east of the sun and west of the moon. There most all the feminine eyes have been fastened on Morris Boker who stayed just long enough to make a few hearts beat out of tune and then left for a more peaceful spot.

It seems that Phil Mactaish has also been doing a bit of galanting and most of the time it is with a cute little blonde. Thy that sweet is the word. Saul Freedman and Ben Wexler have finally acquired a desirable sunburn. Some of our well-knowns from the Woonsocket way are still making their awaited visits, and two of the popular visitors are Ethel Konly and Ruth Brown.

Irving (Red) Lyman, whom you no doubt remember from his "eagle scout" days, came all the way from Michigan State to spend the summer here. Irving Brodsky is one of the best liked individuals here. Seen riding about in her car every night is a Radcliffeite Miss Kaplan.

Others of the younger set at the beach are Bea Feldstein and Teddy Kritz. And closing the news end of the Pier we wish Rose Lisler a speedy recovery from her recent operation, and we also send carloads of arches to Shirley Stranick who will receive her due award in a not too distant future.

MUMBLINGS AND MUTTERINGS

All those who have ridden Saugie Miller's radiator please raise their hand. Yes, I guess everyone has had the privilege of riding in what we have named the "royal chariot," and what a handy thing indeed it has proven itself. Much has been seen of Bert Litchman, who I think is one of the swiftest guys that ever trod the residential section of Edgewood. Another of that section is Joe Kaplan, who, methinks, will have his heart doing tricks this week.

Have you noticed one of the younger and prettier Bostonians now visiting Providence? Rosalie Cooper is the name and very sweet, too, says R. E. I saw the performance of Fred Allen's amateurs and seem to have recognized one of the three Hebrew faces that are appearing in the act. Perhaps you met him at the same convention I did. He is the singing half of the music composing team who hail from New York University. P. S. Thanks to Dave Wallick for that ride. Better late than never.

RECEIVE FELICITATIONS

Mr. and Mrs. Irving S. Nager of Savoy St., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on Aug. 6, at the Lying-in Hospital.

OBITUARIES

HARRY BRAID

Funeral services for Harry Braid of 25 Temple St., who died at the Rhode Island State Hospital after a brief illness were conducted from the Max Sugarman Funeral Parlors last Friday afternoon. Mr. Braid, a resident of Providence for many years is survived by his wife, Katie (Ulof) Braid.

DONALD L. JACOBSON

The funeral of Donald Leon Jacobson was held last Monday afternoon from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jacobson of 176 Somerset St. Donald, who would have been four years old next Sunday was run down by an automobile on Broad St., last Sunday afternoon. Burial was in the Elmwood Ave. Cemetery.

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. J. William Goldstein have opened their home on Lancaster St.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crovitz of West Ave., Pawtucket, announce the birth of a daughter, Sandra Eileen, on August 2. Mrs. Crovitz is the former Natalie T. Turick.

Miss Martha Siegle of Knowlton St., returned from a week's vacation at Old Orchard Beach, Me., and left last Monday to join her mother, Mrs. Bernard Siegle, and her sister, Rose, who are staying at Saratoga Springs for the month.

Albert Gerber, son of Dr. and Mrs. Isaac Gerber of Providence, who has been spending the past month at the Bay Voyage, was guest of honor at a dinner party last Wednesday evening in honor of his 17th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Goldenberg of Highland Ave., Barrington, had as house guest last week, Miss Betty Kaplan of Central Falls, Mrs. S. Robino of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Miss Enid Goldstein of Hartford, Conn.

A family picnic was held last Sunday at Goddard Park by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Diamond, Charles Diamond, Mr. and Mrs. Max Rotvin, Mr. and Mrs. William Rose, Mr. and Mrs. George Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rose and Mr. and Mrs. Simon Miller and their families.

A benefit bridge for the Talmud Torah of the Ahavath Sholem Synagogue will be held next Tuesday on the lawn of Mrs. H. Priest's home, 18 Dudley St., Conimicut. Refreshments will be served and prizes awarded.

Mrs. Fish, chairman, will be assisted by Mesdames J. Adler, E. Copeland, N. Davis, D. Perlman, J. Pressed, G. Morse, G. Diman, E. Diman and H. Priest.

"ME AND GOD"

In such words Hitler and his apostles sanctify persecutions of religious sects in Germany. Hitler's illusions of grandeur have ascended to a pitch where he assumes godliness. He and God can do no wrong. But should his policies by chance, conflict with the commandments of God, then, through the medium of "If I Were God . . ." he offers explanation for his actions. Hitler, then, in his own eyes, is a substitute for God.

This idea, or new religion, is being forced upon the German people to inculcate a willingness to die for Hitler and the Krupp on the battlefield for the glory of a greater Reich. The way to God, Nazi apostles cry, is the way Der Fuehrer has shown us, namely, the road to the Third Reich. You must reach your personal God by this road; you cannot accept a portion only and refuse the rest. The great men of our country, they continue, have not found the way to God in the church of pews but on the battlefield of the nation.

In forcing these twisted beliefs on the German people, Nazi propagandists have assured the world of its success. An examination of their principles that are fostered readily, supposedly through the voices of their blood, to their usual capacity audiences, are only logical to the unthinking hooligans who are swayed to brutal and violent action purposefully directed to minimize the approaching economic collapse. The beliefs, listed below, are so vulnerable they appear pitiful:

"We believe that God is revealed to us in our German blood, our German conscience, our German home, and in German history. This is our German faith. That is why we call ourselves German Pagans. The word 'Pagan' is not a term of abuse for us but a title of honor. We are proud of our German faith and our Northern Paganism.

"We do not recognize any international human religion because peoples and races differ from one another. That is why we German Pagans do not desire any foreign Jewish faith in Germany. We believe in the Holy Blood — that is, German blood.

"Jewish Christianity says 'Sin and Redemption.' Nordic Paganism says 'Blood and Honor'.

"The youth of Germany do not find their ethical hold in the Bible today but in their knowledge of heredity and race and in their faith in Germany."

But Hitler has disregarded his recent experiences with substitutes. The German people have already expressed their dissatisfaction with material substitutes. And further, if Der Fuehrer knew his history he would have learned that Prince Bismarck, his great predecessor, failed in his fight against religion. What chance has Hitler then of outdoing the creator of the modern German empire?

she never knew. But she did. "Well," she said, praying he wouldn't read the heartbreak behind her gayety, "of all the conceits! I couldn't wear my ring because the stone is loose and I was afraid of losing it. And you actually took it for a proposal! Must be the effect of the moon. Better take me back to the hotel, I think."

Socially she kept up the light banter, until he had seen her into the elevator and the door slid closed between them. And then, one hand held pressed against the pain in her heart, she began to tremble.

In the corridor she fought to compose herself. She dragged to the door, fumbled with the key in the lock.

"Anne!" her aunt exclaimed, hurrying to her as she stepped into the room, "what happened to you? You look so white!"

But Anne did not answer. For behind the ample figure, she saw Stanley Ratnoff.

"Stan!" Her voice broke in stammering tears and before she knew what she was doing she ran into his outstretched arms, pressed her face into the tweed of his suit. When her sobs had ceased, when she was quiet again, Anne remembered the letter she had written him at noon, remembered the ring she had sent back to him. They had gone to him, while he was coming here to her!

"They're happy, so I take it you're glad to see me!"

"I am glad! So glad!" she exclaimed fervently, realizing all at once how much he meant to her. But there was the letter, waiting for him home! And the ring!

"It's a good thing you came, Stanley," her aunt said, and Anne waited in hopeless desperation for her to finish, "because Anne is a very careless girl. Do you know she went out shopping today and left her ring on the wash basin? Lucky I found it before one of the maids did!"

Like a dream, Anne saw her aunt holding out her hand and in her palm lay the ring. Her eyes leaped swiftly to the desk and her aunt glanced knowingly toward the wastebasket.

A welling relief surged through Anne as Stanley laid the ring on her finger again. Relief, and infinite gratitude for her very wise aunt, who hadn't mailed the letter or the ring to Stanley.

But Anne never knew how very wise her aunt was. She never knew that in Stanley's pocket was the telegram her aunt had sent him, saying, "Come at once by plane, will explain when you arrive."

Around The Town

With JOSEPH M. FINKLE

BETHLEHEM, N. H. — Here I am, vacationing at Bethlehem in the midst of the White Mountains, many miles from Exchange Place and the every-day routine of the city. This is my seventh year at this vacation spot, over 3000 feet above sea level and where thousands come every year for rest and relaxation. Bethlehem is nestled between Franconia Notch and the town of Littleton, which is really the county seat and the shopping center of the neighborhood.

Here in Littleton, one finds a theater, a Woolworth store, specialty shops, and everything else a big city could boast of. Bethlehem itself has more than 30 hotels with five or six catering to our own people. Each hotel vies for the patronage of the summer visitors, offering every possible attraction for young and old. Every hotel has a fine orchestra and social staff. The visitor, whether there for a rest or for a bit of excitement finds what he or she desires. Two Summer or "Lite Group" theaters offer the successes of the legitimate stage. In fact one group calling themselves "The Forty-Niners" presented "Camille" last week with Frances Williams, well-known Broadway star.

Lovers of polo gather every Sunday at Whitefield, 6 miles from here to witness this sport. A fine synagogue with services every morning, under the spiritual direction of a rabbi from the Jewish Theological Seminary, supplies the religious needs of the community. Automobiles bearing the registration plates from nearly every state in the Union, bear testimony to the unusual attractions of this spot.

A Personal Philosophy of Happiness

A guest of Maplehurst where I am stopping has presented me with his rules for happiness, and as we all pursue happiness in our own way, I offer them to you with the hope that they probably will be of some good, so here they are.

- (1) Be satisfied with your own looks.
- (2) Do not worry about being weak or sickly.
- (3) Take charge of situations where you can and willingly follow the leader if you must.
- (4) Charm the opposite sex as much as you desire.
- (5) Ask no more of the future than you can reasonably expect of that future.
- (6) Establish your own philosophy about death and future life.

Remain contented along these points and my good friend says that you never will go crazy. So there, these are some good facts to remember and I pass them on to you for what they are worth.

PASSING BY

Here at Bethlehem I note that many of our own locals are partaking of the same pleasures as myself. Among those seen are Mrs. Albert Eydine and daughter Mildred, Mrs. Harry Katz, Anne Goldman and Rose Cohen. The Charles Strasniels left yesterday for home and friend Charlie established new records with the red and reel and on one evening his catch graced the table of Maplehurst.

Mrs. Samuel Littman and daughter Phyllis also left reluctantly yesterday. . . . Woonsocketers are here in numbers, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kornstein.

Phil Macktaz, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Eisenberg and friend Joe is doing a nice job as president of the synagogue in his home town. . . . Coleman Falk drove down over the week-end for mother. . . . Here also from Providence I find genial Pat Fain who will return with his mother who has enjoyed a few weeks here. . . . and last week Dorothy Markoff and party passed through this village on their way back from Canada. . . . also Howard Presel with sisters Charlotte and Rose. . . . in their party was Aaron Roitman.

Phil Glanzman in company of Saul Feinberg and Syd Hanzel are making low scores at the local golf course. . . . members of B'nai Brith will be interested to learn that Frank Goldman, prominent Lowell attorney and past grand president of District 1 is also here. . . . Mr. Goldman was instrumental in the forming of our own local lodge, Roger Williams B'nai Brith. . . . here also I see Sarah Brinson with cousin Elinor Fink of Boston.

TID-BITS

I understand that Woonsocket is negotiating for a permanent Rabbi for its synagogue. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Abe Fink has just returned from Casco, Maine, after visiting the children at camp there. . . . my scouts report that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown and the Arthur Basoks enjoyed a stay at Wentworth Hall, that smart vacation place at Jackson, N. H. . . . an item of interest is that the Bronfman brothers, of Montreal control seagram's one of the greatest concerns selling liquors in the U. S. A. . . . Barney Kenner arrived here on Saturday to join friend wife. . . . Arthur Kornstein follows me here with a card from Lake Spofford. . . . Dr. Stephen S. Wise will join the Palestine Labor Party reports are true.

The only Jewish actor who can play baseball is George Jessel. . . . Irving Thalberg, movie producer and husband of Norma Shearer is most active in the 1935 Hollywood United Jewish Welfare Fund. . . . Benjamin Warner, father of the movie famous Warner Brothers is one of the directors of the Western Jewish Institute in Los Angeles. . . . and Louis B. Mayer, great movie producer and confidante of Herbert Hoover is a member of the executive committee of the American Jewish Committee. . . . They say that Sally Eilers goes to the synagogue on Yom Kippur, which makes her probably one of us. . . . Samuel Untermyer, internationally famous lawyer is now working on his autobiography. . . . this will prove interesting reading for those of us who know somewhat of the activities of this great man.

A report from Warsaw tells us that polygamy for Palestine Jews is being urged so that the birth rate of our people will equal that of the Arabs. . . . I wonder how this will work out. . . . Ten years ago the late Louis Marshall appointed a committee of non-Zionists with a view of working out a plan whereby non-Zionist organizations may participate in the Jewish Agency.

. . . Louis Marshall is dead but his great work lives on. . . . Tuesday morning as I write this, the weather is cool and clear — last night an extra blanket was necessary. . . . welcome reminder of the hot, sultry days of the city last week. . . . here is the last dinner bell. . . . and then for a trip to Lost River. . . . Don't you envy us here? . . . but next week back to the city and work. . . . greetings to all and I'll see you soon.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Perhaps with an eye to the headlines that such a story, though false, would call forth in America, Berlin correspondents, who by now should be able to read between the lines of Nazi reports, two weeks ago permitted themselves to be duped into flashing the news that Nazi chiefs, in council with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, decided to call off their drive on "enemies of the State."

At a meeting, which was attended by General Werner von Blomberg, Minister of War; Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Minister of Air, and others, the Nazi leaders allegedly discussed the effects of the unfavorable reactions abroad to the Nazi drive against Jews and Catholics. Special attention was reported to have been paid to sentiment in Great Britain, and to LaGuardia's refusal to grant a German masseur a license and the Bremen riot in New York.

But how naive these "hard boiled" correspondents proved to be! According to their own reports, the meeting re-echoed the cryptic decree issued a day earlier by the notorious pogrom-leader Count Wolf von Helldorf, new police president in Berlin, banning only individual acts of terrorism and making it plain that further pressure against Jews, bolsheviks, and other "enemies" would be in the hands of the State. "The fight against Jewry," said the edict, "will be conducted by the state Nazi movement in another way."

How State Went About its Fight on Jews

What this outwailing of "individual acts" meant for German Jewry, and how the State Nazi movement would prosecute its fight against the Jews "in another way," soon became evident.

In Berlin a warning was issued to Jews from the provinces not to come to the capital city. It is estimated by the Nazis that about 20,000 Jews have settled in Berlin in the last year. Forced out of their businesses and professions in the provinces, and subject to uncontrolled anti-Semitic persecutions in the smaller communities, thousands have flocked to Berlin in the hope that the bigger city would offer some sort of refuge. Many of them have come to Berlin in order to utilize the services of the Central Jewish Emigration Advisory offices and other Jewish aid institutions, and have abandoned their original intentions of emigrating, remaining in Berlin.

This influx of Jews into Berlin, says the official decree, "is entirely undesirable and contrary to the Reich Government's measures." In the future, therefore, such needy Jews will be sent to the local workhouse, where they will be supplied only the barest necessities, and they will be sent out of the city as soon as possible.

Reich Unconcerned as to Where Jew Go

Where they will go is a problem with which the Reich leaders are little concerned, for similar decrees, prohibiting Jews from settling within their city limits have been adopted by a number of German communities, especially in the Mosel district, and official notices in Berlin stress extension of the same policy throughout the Reich.

At the same time the anti-Jewish boycott is being pressed on all fronts. Jewish shops are being attacked and windows broken. Pickets are posted before Jewish shops to warn customers away. Names of "Aryans" caught dealing with Jews are published in local papers, and in many cases photographs of "Aryans" in the doorway of Jewish establishments are prominently posted.

Jewish stores all over the country are being forced to shut down, while others are barely hanging on. Saar Nazis Take Anti-Jewish Drive Into Open

The renewal of open anti-Semitic manifestations in the Saar this week only bring to the surface what has been going on ever since the Nazis took over the territory. The outbreak at the public baths in Saarbrieken are added proof that the Nazis ignore completely every treaty and agreement with respect to the rights of minorities in the Saar.

It is a known fact that some of the former Jewish leaders in the Saar, and some of the Jewish youth leaders in the district are now in prison. The Chief Rabbi, Dr. Rothchild, was also thrown in prison, but is now reported to have been released. Jewish shops are being boycotted, and Jews and Catholics are being persecuted in every way.

Like AN OLD SONG mellowed by years

The years impart a quality to old songs that endears them to the hearts of millions.

So it is with Narragansett, a fine old Ale.

Brewed with infinite skill of choicest ingredients, with hops and malt in perfect proportion, it still requires long ageing and maturing to impart to every drop that rich, creamy mellowness that makes Narragansett New England's preferred ale. Money can buy no better.

cotted, and Jews and Catholics are being persecuted in every way.

But although these accusations have been made openly by time and again, the League of Nations continues to be assured by the Nazi Saar Commissar Buerckel that the treaty is being lived up to, and therefore will not take the pains to investigate the charges.

Danzig Nazis Resume Threatening Activities

In Danzig, too, the Nazis, desperate over the economic catastrophe which they themselves have precipitated, have turned to fomenting anti-Jewish sentiment again. About fifty trucks filled with Nazis paraded through the streets of the Free City this week, shouting vituperations against the Jews and brandishing stilettoes at Jewish passers-by.

Observers acquainted with the political and economic situation in Danzig are inclined to believe that the Nazis there are preparing a putsch to capture the Free City and annex it to Germany before the world can be aware of what took place.

Flaming World Congress

Since the principle work of the Congress is done in committee sessions, and since the committees are made up according to party representation, it is evident that a resolution passed in a committee will usually also pass on the floor, the vote usually being on the same order as in the committee sessions.

Nevertheless, debates are usually quite lively and interesting, and when an important resolution comes up for a vote, the atmosphere is tense. Delegates will not dare be absent when an important resolution comes up, for resolutions have sometimes failed simply because the interested party was minus the few votes of its absentee delegates.

Atmosphere at the Congress The atmosphere attending a Congress is quite festive. Thousands of guests from all over the world come especially to witness its proceedings. There are even those who have never missed a Congress. All types can be found in the Congress hall—men with great plans for the salvation of Jewry or for the acceleration of Zionist work, trunks with panaceas for all Jewish ills, as well as hosts of students and Jewish youth. Every means of transportation is utilized to come to the Congress. Many even hike or hitchhike through several European countries to get there.

During the weeks of the Congress, numerous lectures are held. Artists arrange exhibitions of their works. Dramatic performances are given in various languages. Booksellers display interesting Judaica. Hawkers sell souvenirs. Palestine products are on sale everywhere.

This whole huge mass mingles and intermingles with the delegates and press-representatives, advancing pet ideas, and awaiting eagerly, excitedly, every bit of news filtering through from "the inside" about party negotiations and expected results.

Immediately after the close of the Congress, there is also a session of the Jewish Agency, and numerous other conferences. By various Zionist bodies are held.

One feels, that here veritably is the Jewish National Congress in embryo — a Congress reflecting the pomposity of parliamentary bodies of other nations, but so much more colorful and so much more exciting.

No Such Thing as "A Pure Jew," According to Cornell Univ. Pedant

NEW YORK (GTA) — No living Jew can claim pure Jewish blood, according to Dr. Nathaniel Schmidt, Professor Emeritus of Semitic Languages and Oriental History at Cornell University.

No Jew, Prof. Schmidt declared, knows enough about his lineage to affirm that he is a descendant of those who first adopted the language of Canaan in Palestine, without any admixture of foreign blood.

He declared that it was impossible to speak ethnically of an "Aryan" or a Jewish race today.

Tracing the history of the Jews and the Germans, Dr. Schmidt said the "Aryans" probably originated in western Europe between the Baltic and the Black Seas.

Their speech, he continued, was carried into Palestine about 2200 B. C. Although the vast majority of Jewish people speak Indo-European languages that may be traced to the early "Aryans," he said, others have descended from the Semites who ruled over a great empire in Assyria.

The early Westphalian dialect of the Germans became the Yiddish of the Semitic people when they came to Germany centuries ago as fugitives from depression, he declared.
