EXILED MAYOR TO SPEAK HERE

Local Unit Will Elect Congress Delegates

Max Brauer, former mayor of Altona, Germany, and now an exile from Nazi Germany with a price on his head, will bring to Providence Jewry first hand information concerning the Nazi terror when he speaks on behalf of the American Jewish Congress, Tuesday evening, June 2 at the Biltmore Hotel.

As a social democrat, a former member of the Prussian State and one of the presidents of the Federation of German cities, Herr Brauer early aroused the ire of the Nazis because of his opposition to their policies and his friendliness to the Jews. After the Nazi coup, false news of his arrest was broadcast and a public collection for a gallows on which to hang him was even taken up.

The American Jewish Congress, acting as the organizing agency in the United States for the proposed World Jewish Congress, addresses itself to the Jews of America and invites their cooperation in the election of a delegation to represent American Jewry.

Congressman Charles E. Risk in a statement to the press stated, "I am in complete sympathy with the object of the American Jewish Congress. The ever-increasing and growing tendency to persecute particular peoples throughout the world cannot fail to cause the gravest concern among those who cherish the principles of liberty and freedom."

Haile Selassie Lauds Jewish Achievement

Jerusalem (WNS-Palcor Agency)—Declaring that he knows the peacefulness of Jews, Emperor Haile Selassie issued a statement here, after calling Jewish newspapermen to his villa, lauding Jewish achievements in Palestine. In his statement he declared that he was struck by the remarkable development of Palestine since 1924, when he last visited the country.

Referring to the Falashas, dark Jews of Abyssinia, the Negus asserted that they had always lived amicably with their neighbors. He concluded that during the whole of the Ethiopian struggle for independence he had followed with interest the expression of Jewish sympathy on behalf of his country.

Future Settlers Inspect Colony at Hightstown

Hightstown, N. J. (WNS)—With the same hopefulness and eagerness that probably imbued the first Jewish arrivals in this country from the persecution-ridden lands of Eastern Europe two generations ago, 700 Jewish needle trade workers from New York and Philadelphia gathered here to inspect at first hand for the first time the homes they will occupy shortly when the model industrial homestead colony built by the Federal Resettlement Bureau is thrown open to them.

Rambling about the grounds, the future settlers inspected the nearly completed homes, the garment factory covering 22,000 square feet of floor space, the gardens which will furnish them with fresh vegetables, the 150 acres already planted with potatoes, tomatoes and apples and the entire terrain of the settlement which will open new horizons to nearly 1,000 Jews.

The first contingent of settlers is expected to occupy their homes around June 15th. The entire colony will be settled by September 15th. Thus far $882,686 has been spent on the colony. Heads of 198 families have deposited $500 each with a trustee as a guarantee of their future responsibility.

FEIGA IS ELECTED B'NAI BRITH HEAD

Annual Convention Held in Worcester.

At the eighty-fourth annual convention of District Grand Lodge, No. 1, B'nei Brith held at the Baveroff Hotel in Worcester, Mass., over the week-end Wilfred B. Feiga, prominent attorney of that city, was elected president for the coming year.

More than 1000 attended the sessions of the convention which opened on Friday night and reached its climax Sunday evening.

Those attending the convention representing Roger Williams Lodge of this city were H. David Falk, Joseph M. Finkle, Saul E. R. Feinberg, Sydney Hazel all officers of the local lodge. The convention next year will be held in Buffalo, N. Y.

10,000 Attend Funeral for Slain Jews

Jerusalem (WNS-Palcor Agency)—All citizens of Jerusalem were forbidden to use the streets and traffic was completely banned from the hours of 8 p. m. to 6 a. m. as an unprecedented curfew was imposed upon the city as a result of the consternation resulting from the murder of three Jews as they were coming out of the Edison Cinema in the center of Zichron Moshe, Jewish quarter in the heart of Jerusalem.

Constables with machine guns patrolled Jerusalem as police and military took the strongest precautions to guard against the renewal of attacks. The Old City was surrounded with the heaviest patrols.

The cold-blooded murders, when a young Arab emptied a revolver into the crowd emerging from the movie, have aroused the Jewish community of Palestine to a high pitch of tense excitement.

The Government is being held responsible by Jewish leaders for having conducted negotiations with the Arab leaders, thus indicating its weakness to deal with the disorders. So widespread is the bewilderment and uncertainty that the Government is expected to issue a proclamation declaring that a state of emergency exists in Jerusalem, thus virtually putting the Holy City under martial law.

Tucker and Dr. James Krassnof, ex-officio.

Hitler's Guards Arrested for Plot Against Nazis

Berlin (WNS)—Reports of growing dissatisfaction with the Hitler regime in Germany were confirmed by the London Daily Herald when it revealed that 200 members of the Schutzstaffel, Hitler's personal bodyguards, have been arrested on a charge of plotting against the Fuehrer. The report adds that the bodyguards have been put in a special concentration camp near Berlin.

Zionist Leader Dead

DR. NAHUM SOKOLOV

London (WNS-Palcor Agency)—Dr. Nahum Sokolow honorary president of the World Zionist Organization and the Jewish Agency for Palestine who was president of these bodies from 1931 to 1935, died here suddenly at the age of 75.

Known as the dean of Hebrew literature and also as one of the foremost diplomats and scholars of the Jewish people in modern times, Dr. Sokolow was one of the three principal Jewish figures at the Paris Peace Conference, who helped not only in obtaining for the Jewish people the right to re-establish the Jewish National Home in Palestine but also aided in drawing up various minority clauses protecting Jews in European countries as part of the post-war settlements.

Royalist Paper Calls for Assassination of Blum

Paris (WNS)—Scores of members of the royalist and anti-Semitic organization, Camelots du Roi, were arrested by the police following the publication of a special edition of L'Action Francaise, royalist organ, containing a plea for the assassination of Leon Blum, premier-designate. The paper suggested that "kitchen knives would be suitable" for Blum.

Jewish Youth in Germany Has No Future, Says Doctor

Jewish youth in Germany has no future, Dr. Werner Segall, recently appointed house physician of the Miriam Hospital, told a JEWISH HERALD reporter in an interview regarding conditions in Germany. Dr. Segall, who studied at the Universities of Berlin, Freiburg and Hamburg, arrived in this country earlier in the month under a plan that brings young Jewish doctors in Nazi Germany to various hospitals throughout the world.

"It is only the Zionist enthusiast," Dr. Segall said, "who looks towards Palestine as a haven. Those who have trained themselves for special professions turn their eyes and hopes elsewhere. South Africa, South America and the United States are the countries they wish to enter."

Although in this country only a few weeks, he spoke an understanding English. He spends all his spare time familiarizing himself with our language. His shy smile, his easy manner thinned the reserve one might expect.

"It is not possible," he continued, "for one to liquidate his property in Germany and then to leave the country. Sixty marks is all that one is permitted to take out. For that reason most of the men and women of middle age prefer to remain in Germany."

Restrictions on the youth make their plight miserable, for education

WORKERS ACCEPT SOCIALISM TENETS

Miss Udin Talks Before Women Pioneers.

The concept of "socialism" among Palestinian workers is no longer confused with "bombs" and "Reds," Miss Sophie Udin, national secretary of the Women Pioneers, declared at a dinner meeting last Sunday night at the Narragansett Hotel.

"Even Mr. Roosevelt," she said, "when he wants to make sure of your votes, must write into his legislation provisions for social justice for the old age pensions and other things that the 'Reds' have been demanding."

Discussing the recent disturbances in Palestine, Miss Udin said that the Jew wants no war with the Arab; he wants to live peacefully there in his work of establishing a new homeland for his race. Jews may take heart, she continued, that the present clashes between Jew and Arab have in no wise been pogroms, for the Jews in Palestine are too solidly united, and have wrought too firm a foundation ever to be dislodged.

Although delayed several hours by an accident, Maxim Brodin, tenor, and former member of the Chicago Opera Company, delighted his audience with an hour of songs. He was accompanied at the piano by Prof. Arthur Einstein.

Mrs. Alter Boyman, as chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Henry Handler, co-chairman; Mrs. Rose Smira, treasurer; Mrs. Morris Becher, secretary; Mrs. Henry Bart, arrangements; and Prof. and Mrs. Arthur Einstein, musical chairman.

Austrian Political Coup Seen as Aiding Jews

Vienna (WNS)—The political upheaval in Austria which eliminated Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, leader of the Fascist Heimwehr, from the government and placed Chancellor Schuschnigg in complete control, is contended on by Jewish leaders here to lead a more friendly attitude by the government toward the Jews.

This feeling in Jewish circles is widespread notwithstanding the fact that Leopold Klotzchuk, head of the Catholic workers, who is responsible for the recent anti-Jewish campaign, is closely identified with Schuschnigg and to a large extent responsible for the removal of Starhemberg.

Jewish Refugee Threatens Suicide If He's Deported

Montreal (WNS)—Threatened with deportation to Germany following his conviction on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences, Ernest Marcuse, a 38-year-old German Jew, created a sensation in Judge Amedee Monet's court when he threatened to commit suicide rather than return to Nazi Germany.

After listening to a plea for leniency by Marcuse's counsel and witnessing the tears of the defendant, Judge Monet reserved decision until June 1. The crown prosecutor had demanded Marcuse's deportation.

Dr. Jores to Speak Before Union League Members

Dr. Mark H. Jores, of Boston, will be guest speaker at the fifth annual luncheon and entertainment sponsored by the Ladies' Union League for Consumptives Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at Weinstein's Banquet Hall. Dr. Jores a graduate of Tufts Medical School has made the study of tuberculosis his specialty during the past ten years.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Samuel R. Finegold
DEFENSIVE BIDDING
Before commenting on this very important phase of bidding, we were tempted to reproduce the Table of Playing Tricks. But hoping that you have learned that most vital table, we will proceed.

Two Types of Defensive Bids
There are two reasons why a player enters the bidding once his opponent has opened.

1. For defensive purposes.
2. For aggressive purposes.

The purpose of a defensive overcall is to inform the partner of a suit desirable to open; or to find a strong suit in the combined hands in which to accept a PAYING penalty as a sacrifice.

For aggressive purposes the motive is to make a positive score-part, score-game, or even slam, if partner's hand contains sufficient strength to respond.

When to Overcall
Because most penalties are scored by the insertion of weak overcalls, we urge you to, please, proceed with the following very slowly and learn it thoroughly. We believe that this lesson is one of the most important in bridge bidding and hope that you will discard any impressions as to the requirements for defensive bidding which do not coincide with the requirements stated below.

When it is desirable, for one of the above reasons, to overcall it is permissible to make a minimum overcall (non-jump) with:

Overall	at	at	at
	one-odd	two-odd	three-odd
Non-vulnerable	4 winners	5 winners	6 winners
Vulnerable	5 winners	6 winners	7 winners

Overall only when holding the required number of winning tricks and IN ADDITION (1) a five-card or larger holdable suit and A.L.S.O. (2) from 1½ to 3 plus Honor Tricks.

Now if you don't learn anything today, please stop right here and thoroughly learn that table. You will notice that we place greatest stress on the number of winning tricks rather than on the number of Honor Tricks, but emphasizing that you must have the defensive 1½-3 HT AS WELL AS the winning playing tricks.

Now, you may have overcalled with 1½ HT in the past without regard to playing tricks and have probably gotten away with it, but against good opponents you will invariably get doubled, yes, at the range of one or two, for a heavy penalty. Most severe penalties are incurred by doubling at the range of one and two.

The table is not hard to learn. Memorize it this way. You may overcall non-vulnerable at a bid providing you have at least 1½ HT and enough tricks to play with expecting that your partner has three playing tricks for you. In other words for a one bid which requires seven tricks, subtract three, and if you have the balance you may bid.

Likewise for a two bid or three bid, figure the number of tricks, eight or nine, required, subtract three and if you have the balance you may stick in a bid. When vulnerable though, you go thru the same procedure but subtract only TWO instead of three. So that if your partner has nothing for you, your greatest possible set will be 500 points and, as will be discussed in the next issue, according to the rule of two and three.

A continuation of this important lesson will appear next week. Please master the above and refer to it when

Palestine Group Named

Urging the need of a greater membership, Morris Margulies, national secretary of the Zionist Organization of America, last Tuesday night addressed the local convention committee on the tentative schedule for the convention which is to be held in Providence July 5, 6 and 7. Mr. Margulies described recent events in Palestine, remarking that a certain antidote for the disturbances would be a marked increase in Zionist strength—a demonstration of the power behind the movement.

Following Mr. Margulies' talk, Archibald Silverman, local convention committee chairman, announced the members of the New Palestine committee. They are: Benjamin Kane, chairman; Charles Silverman, treasurer; Jacob Ernst, Dr. Ilie Berger, James Goldman, Abe Heller, George Pullman, Samuel Michaelson, Jacob Felder, Louis Hurwitz, Charles Temkin, Samuel Soforenko, Reuben Lipson, Morris Young and Nathan David.

It was announced that the program for Jewish Day, July 5, would be staged at Newport. Several prominent speakers have already agreed to participate in the exercises. It is hoped to broadcast the services from the Touro Synagogue over a national hookup.

NEWS AND VIEWS

By Maurice W. Hendel

Isaac and Jacob Stenokowitz had inherited a large estate from their mother, and Isaac, who was rather intelligent, was making good use of his share, while Jake was sort of queer and cranky and inclined to be a spendthrift. Withal this he was good-natured and harmless.

But he thought it would be a good idea to have Jake declared legally incompetent to make contracts, etc. So, he had himself appointed as Jake's guardian. To that effect a notice was published in the paper, stating among other things, that Jake was "Non Compos Mentis" (not of sound mind).
When Jake read that in the paper, it made him hopping mad. He went to see the editor, determined to seek redress for the great injustice and humiliation which he had suffered. He hung around the newspaper office all day, writing on one sheet of paper after another, then tearing it up and writing some more.

Finally, in great triumph, he completed and turned in for publication the following reply to his brother Ike:

"To the Editor, and all those to whom it may concern, especially my friends, greeting: Last week it seems that my brother, Ike, got a smart spell on himself and put a piece in this paper which said his brother, Jake, meaning me, was Non Compos Mentis. This is to inform all my friends that I do not claim to be anything of the kind and, furthermore, I do not believe a word of it!"

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Goldberger of 19 Beaton Avenue will hold open house Wednesday evening from 7 to 11 o'clock in honor of the confirmation of their daughter, Blanche.

Kadimah Choral Concert June 9

Samuel Gardner Guest Soloist; Prof. Einstein Concert Director

Music among Providence Jewry takes a step forward with the announcement that the Kadimah Choral Society, following weeks of tryouts and rehearsals, will present their first concert June 9 at Plantations Auditorium. And word was received today that Samuel Gardner, noted violinist, will be guest soloist.

For years the lack of a capable choral society which could interpret Jewish music and music written by Jewish composers has created a desire to fill this void in the cultural life of Providence. Innumerable previous attempts, more or less uncoordinated, have been futile. But during the past year, under the able leadership of Prof. Arthur Einstein, whose musical abilities are well known, and abetted by the active interests of Mrs. Joseph Webber, Mrs. Charles Brown, Alter Boyman, Mrs. Arthur Einstein and many others whose communal pride was stirred by the proposed program of the Kadimah, the long hoped-for Choral Society became a reality.

An examination of previous issues of the Jewish Herald indicate that Providence Jewry has long desired to have an established choral group. This was evidenced strongly when large hangings were staged and a small choral group provided the musical entertainment. The applause was hearty and appreciative. And many of the guests queried each other on why more of this delightful music wasn't available. The answer was simple. It required a vigorous group of music lovers to create an organization which would authorize the forming of a choral group and to see the matter through.

But now this is all over. Providence

Mrs. Hillel Hassenfeld gave the invocation.

New York (WNS)—Thousands of New York Jews now prominent in business, professions and civic life who got their start in life on the East Side returned to the East Side for the home-coming festival of the Grand Street Boys and spent a whole day reminiscing on the good old ways and re-living old memories with their former neighbors.

Jews and non-Jews mingled in good fellowship as the Works Progress Administration staged a pageant re-creating some of the famous chapters of East Side history.

One of the most poignant incidents of the festival was a speech by Robert McNaught, a non-Jewish alumnus of the East Side, who recalled that he used to make a living as a "Shabbos boy," one of those Gentile boys who lighted fires for Jews on the Sabbath.

SHABUOTH

When the sun sets Tuesday, May 26th, Jews everywhere will usher in the festival of Shabuoth, Feast of Weeks. On this festival they will commemorate the giving of the Law on Mount Sinai.

But apart from this aspect of Pentecost, Shabuoth is significant as the day on which hundreds of synagogues throughout the land hold confirmation ceremonies.

Confirmation in a world turbulent and seething with intolerance and hate imposes greater responsibility than ever upon the confirmant. The symbolism of the confirmation ceremony in the minds and hearts of all Jews today is closely related to our hopes and fears about the future.

Will our boys and girls who approach the altar of the synagogue to bear witness to the truth of the Jewish religion be able to find a sufficient inner strength to bear the pressure which the outside world exercises on the Jewish race in so many countries? There is no question that a vast educational program to prepare confirmants is needed today more than at any other time in the history of American Jewry.

ALLENBY'S DEATH

The death of Field Marshal Allenby will be mourned by Jews throughout the world. The name of Allenby is identified with the modern conquest of Palestine and its liberation from the Turkish yoke.

Allenby's triumphant military campaign, which resulted in the British occupation of the Holy Land, was one of the most thrilling adventures of the World War.

It was under Allenby's command that three Jewish battalions fought alongside Australian, English and Indian troops in a campaign that eventually made possible the realization of the Balfour Declaration.

Field Marshal Allenby was not only a stately military figure who achieved one of the major successes of World War. In peace time he continued his sympathetic interest in the development of Palestine as the Jewish National Homeland. He was present at the laying of the cornerstone of the Hebrew University and also at the opening of the University in 1925.

At all times was the advocate of a just but stern military administration over Palestine which would keep faith with the tenets of the Balfour Declaration.

It is to his credit that he consistently refused to be inveigled into the many intrigues of British officials who, after the War, tried to reduce the meaning of the Balfour Declaration in favor of Arab demands.

Super Liner Queen Mary's Kitchen

The largest electrically equipped kitchen in the world.

FOOD of the finest quality prepared by expert chefs to delight the palate of the "cruiser" will be provided for the thousands of passengers on the Cunard White Star Line's "Queen Mary," as she races swiftly across the Atlantic.

The main restaurant is the largest room ever built in a ship. It is 160 feet long and is so large that the steamship company's first transatlantic liner, "Britannic," could be placed within it.

There is intense rivalry in the transatlantic trade for supremacy of the sea. This rivalry extends not only to the speed of the ship but to her equipment and the service to passengers. For this reason, the designers of the "Queen Mary" have placed emphasis on her culinary department and have equipped her with what are perhaps the largest completely electrically equipped kitchen in the world.

Here is the last word in Modern Kitchens constructed on a vast scale. Gleaming porcelain enameled ranges, supplied with pure electric heat, and polished metal working surfaces combine to give assurance of cleanliness.

The ship's kitchens would delight the heart of any housewife for they contain every sort of electrical labor saving device. Imagine the complete elimination of the laborious task of peeling and dough making. Machines take care of both operations on the "Queen Mary." Every conceivable electrical device for kitchen efficiency is to be found on the ship, from orange juice extractors to huge ice cream freezers.

Raoul Ricault, born in Mayenne, France, 54 years ago, is the chef who directs her staff of cooks and bakers. M. Ricault had completed his apprenticeship in cooking at the age of 15. He has presided over the kitchens of internationally famous hotels and restaurants. Now, after many years with the Line, he is the proud director of this most modern kitchen. His Cabin Class kitchen contains two large electric ranges, each with 5 ovens, and one smaller range with 3 ovens for the vegetable cook.

The Tourist and Third Class Kitchens are equipped like the Cabin kitchen. In addition, the ship has a large bake shop and a Kosher kitchen where food is prepared according to the Jewish ritual.

The "Queen Mary's" vast cooking department has a total electrical load of 1500 kilowatts.

In speed and comfort this superliner sets new standards in transatlantic travel.

BOOK NOTES

—Esther Levine—

"Education before Verdun." By Arnold Zweig. Translated by Eric Sutton. (Viking Press).

The human race has its many oddities, but, by far, its queerest twist is its morbid desire to wound itself. Take man's attitude towards war. Both mind and body are trained to its brutality, its futility, its horror and its futility. No man of sense wants to kill people who have done him no personal harm. No man chooses to live in mud, crawling with lice, cold, tired, hungry, bewildered, facing, every moment, destruction.

Yet, give a man a catchword, becloud his intelligence, magnify his emotions, put the instrument of death into his hands and at the psychological moment shout into his ear: Kill! —and kill he does, forgetting that repentance will not revive a corpse.

It is heartbreaking to see, in the midst of wholesale misery, the strangeness of pettiness. For the Kaiser to have admitted that the capture of Verdun was a mistake because it brought no advantage would have been damaging to his prestige. What were human lives against prestige? The trees at Doorn were destined to be spared the axe a few years longer.

But pettiness was not reserved for only royalty. Young Christoph Kroysing was murdered because he protested against the officers taking the food sent down for the men. "No-blessed oblivion" was to him a living phrase. Vengeance for his death was left to Werner Bertin.

Bertin, the author of a best seller, was a private in the A. S. C. He felt it his duty to bring the facts which brought about Christoph's death to the attention of the proper authorities. He brought Christoph's letter drenched with illegibility with the youngster's blood to Lieutenant Kroysing, the older brother.

Eberhard Kroysing, fearless and of sterner stuff than his brother, found in war an outlet for his strength. Its brutality was not revulsion but a challenge to him. He plotted revenge against the weak, thieving Captain Niggel. It mattered little to him that Niggel was a pawn of forces much larger than himself—the forces of greed. Nations—nations of other nations' soldiers strip the dead, Kroysing wanted someone tangible upon whom to vent his wrath.

Thru the sensitive reactions of Bertin, Mr. Zweig analyzes the weariness which war brings upon those who swing it. Bodily fatigue for some, for others a sickness of the soul. For the man of intelligence, once the hysteria was over, there was no answer anywhere to the inevitable question: why?

Three men, soldiers, standing at attention by the side of the road while a great Nations' contest for other nations' soldiers strip the dead, Kroysing wanted someone tangible upon whom to vent his wrath.

FEMINE LAMENT

Some girls get orchids and diamonds, Others get gowns from Chanel's; I get a chocolate soda; They never do wrong by Nell.

Here and There

I envy the perennial smile on Lester Emers who bumped into me with the news that he was on his own now as a broker in general insurance. If personality counts, it should make him many an account. If Roland Koppelman finds that his new department in the Outlet is taking up too much of his time, I'll be glad to exercise his mighty yacht any weekend he'd like. Up on Hope Street the other day Mascie indignantly told me that his name wasn't Rosen but Rosenberg, and wanted me to assure all his friends that his delicatessen shop is the tops.

Dinner Dancing

Over at the Roosevelt Lodge affair the other evening, the squires arrived with their fair ladies for dinner and dancing. They drifted in wearing chiffon, fine laces, and subtle taffetas. Jack Greenstein was there with a charming Boston girl; Natalie Emers wearing black taffeta; the All Shores—Lady Shore wearing a print dress that looked like a Spring flower; Abe Blackman who in the prize walk with a charming lady in white; Bloude Frances Goldstein in blue lace with man-about-town; Whitney Giamman, the Lew Rosen gliding along; and as I passed the Bernie Shases I didn't stop to wonder whether or not they were enjoying themselves...a million dollar smile on both their faces... everybody voted to thank up success for the evening.

Something Old

Was it Bacon who said something about "Old wine to drink, old friend to have, old authors to read"—and that reminds me of that pleasant house that Jay Fishbein is the proud possessor of...his Treasure Island...rare pieces such as swords of every description, garnered from old American tribes, opium pipes, figures in Jade, nut-crackers from South America, plaques, books, and bookcase that is a treat for any lover of antiques, rugs that you sink into, lovely tapestries to gaze upon. All in all a modest show place that our friend Jay keeps to himself. His latest addition is a boat model, a work of real beauty, a gift from a very grateful patient.

He and Jake Conn

You all remember Jake Conn, that rather sporting egotist who claimed that the three great men of history all had the same initials, J. C.—Jesus Christ, Julius Caesar and Jacob Conn. Well, Jake, after a hectic career in Providence as real estate operator, motion picture owner, politician, radio station owner, announcer, speaker and singer, and who finally attempted to crown his career with what is now the Metropolitan Theatre...Most of you know the story, but here is a bit of a postscript. I think we ought to add, I met Jake the day he left town...with $400 in his pocket... and in a half hour he gave Providence and some of its people one grand roasting. His ceaseless tirade against Providence and some of its worthy citizens was finally cut short by the trainman's "All Aboard", but from the steps of the train he yelled, "Tell them that Captain Conn will come back and buy and sell the whole town."

"Captain" Conn

"The he always made a lot of noise and was always called captain (for what reason no one seemed to know) Jake was soon forgotten and only occasionally one would refer to him as you would an old joke that was always good for a laugh...This past week on the marquee of the R.K.O. Theatre a poster read "Born to Fight" with Frankie Darro...In good bold letters on the bottom of the poster "Produced by the Conn Picture Co."...A wire to Hollywood confirmed my suspicion, Jake and his son Mort, are producing pictures, and he seems on the way to complete financial recovery. It would be funny to see Jake back here as owner of the Metropolitan Theatre again.

Dimmed Lights

At the Barker Playhouse Monday night, the Repertory Players presented A. A. Milne's "Mr. Pim Passes By". Although the play is not of the best, it was expertly handled and presented by the Repertory cast...Harriet Levy as Olivia, Nathan Grossman as George, very competently shouldered the bulk of the action. Frances S. Pritsker as Dinah and Mr. Goldsmith as Brian Strange excellently portrayed the juvenile love theme. Mr. Kinsley as Garroway Pim was just what you imagined Mr. Pim to be. Evelyn Snelg as Lady Marden gave an enjoyable performance...From the opening curtain when Reelha Hartman as the maid showed Mr. Pim in until he finally passes by, an appreciative audience closely followed the English comedy "Mr. Pim" closes the season for the Repertory Players, and it is with eagerness that all of us will await the opening play in the fall.

Down the Aisles

Before and between acts a string ensemble played...Such regulars as the Charles Browns, the Dave Dwares, the Abe Blackmans and the Ben Rakatansky's were all seated expectantly when we arrived. Between acts Arthur Newman roamed around. Sally Brown smoked cigarettes, Jim Krastoff and wife and the Milton Sapiensleys exchanged greetings. ## Group Theatre Prepares Season for Pine Brook

The Group Theatre, an offspring of the New York Theatre Guild, which three years ago produced the Pulitzer prize-winner, "Men in White," will establish summer quarters at the Pine Brook Country Club at Nichols, and will try out at least three new plays during its three months' stay in this countryside. This news will be of tremendous interest to theatre-goers for the Group Theatre has produced many fine plays on Broadway since its institution five years ago.

Three new plays to be produced on Broadway next season will be performed on alternate Wednesday evenings in a new playhouse now being constructed on the grounds of the Pine Brook club, and the other weekly productions will be chosen from the Group's repertoire which includes Odeys "Awake and Sing," "Paradise Lost" and "Waiting for Lefty." Maxwell Anderson's "Night Over Taos," Paul Green's "The House of Connelly" and Dawn Powell's "Success Story."

The guests at the country club will be invited to the performances but whether or not the public will be admitted has not yet been disclosed.

Meanwhile there is much activity at the Nichols club preparing for the arrival of the company of 35 actors, directors, writers and technicians by Memorial Day. A troupe is about to leave New York for a short road tour in "Awake and Sing" and will come directly to Nichols at the conclusion of the season. A rehearsal hall is being built for the company which will be housed in 18 new bungalows.

"Sons O' Guns" Opens at Majestic Today

"Sons O' Guns," Joe E. Brown's latest Warner Bros. comedy frolic, based on the hilarious Broadway musical comedy hit by Fred Thompson and Jack Donaghy, opens at the Majestic Theatre today.

Besides the mirth stirring antics of the wide mouthed comedian, the picture is spiced with the famous martial airs of the original stage play, with tuneful new songs by Harry Warren and Al Dubin sung by Joe E., Joan Blondell, Winifred Shaw and the Chambers Male Chorus, and riotous dance numbers, all staged by the famous musical comedy producer, Bobby Connolly.

The story is a rollicking comedy romance dealing with the humorous side of doughboy life in France during the World War. The picture is said to be most colorful and picturesque, and lavish in production values, staged with more elaborateness than any previous Joe E. Brown comedy.

Miss Blondell, Miss Shaw and Beverly Roberts are Joe's three war-time sweethearts while others in the cast include Eric Blore, Craig Reynolds, Joseph King, Robert Barrat, G. P. Huntley, Jr. and Frank Mitchell.

"Show Boat" Held Over for 2nd Week at Fays

Termed the grandest show afloat, "Show Boat," with Irene Dunne and featuring such artists as Charles Winninger, Helen Morgan, Paul Robeson, is held over for a second week at Fays Theatre.

The curtain opens on romance and drama, on music that echoes back to the show boat on the old Mississippi, when Captain Andy Hawk's show boat, with whistles blowing and flags flying, is welcomed by an enthusiastic shore crowd.

"Topics in Rhythm" is the stage presentation.
