To Revise GJC By-Laws

There will be a special meeting of the Corporation of the General Jewish Committee on Monday evening, March 8 at 8 o'clock at GJC Headquarters, 203 Strand Building. This meeting is being called for the purpose of voting on certain recommended changes in the present by-laws of the General Jewish Committee. Every contributor to the annual campaign who is over 18 years of age is a member of the corporation.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors, Archibald Silverman, president, was empowered to appoint a By-laws Revision Committee who would review the present by-laws and make recommendations for any changes that are necessary in view of the experience of the organization during the past three years. The present by-laws were written prior to the establishment of the General Jewish Committee. The By-laws Revision Committee, with Jacob

U. S. Dodges Stand on Zion; Presents Ambiguous Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — The United States, avoiding any outright commitment, agreed in the United Nations this week to consult with other great powers on possible use of armed forces to keep the peace during the partition of Palestine.

American Delegate Warren R. Austin proposed to the Security Council the formation of a Big Five committee to determine whether the growing violence in the Holy Land constitutes a threat to world peace.

Austin said that if a majority of the 11-nation Council finds a threat to peace exists, "the United States would be ready to consult under the (U.N.) charter with a view to such action as may be necessary to maintain international peace."

While it implied American support for the use of force if the necessary majority of seven Security Council members decree it, the statement did not commit the United States to do more than "consult" with other members of the U. N.

Austin's Proposals

Austin raised doubts about the legality of imposing the U. N. program by force, but he said the Council was obliged under the charter to "keep the peace" if the trouble in the Holy Land constitutes a threat to world peace.

Austin said that the latest information on the situation in Palestine "would appear to lead to the conclusion that a threat to the peace exists."

The long-awaited statement of American policy laid before the Security Council a three-point program which, it appeared, would sidetrack immediate action on the formal appeal of the U. N. Palestine commission for a full-fledged U. N. army to enforce Holy Land partition.

Questions Proposals

Austin proposed that the Council:

1. Assume responsibility for keeping peace in Palestine, as requested in the original U. N. General Assembly's partition program.
2. Establish a Security Council committee of "the five permanent members"—the Big Five powers—to "look at once into the question of possible threats to international peace arising in connection with the Palestine situation."
3. Call on all governments and peoples, particularly the Arab states, to "take all possible action

Innuendoes In the Press

The nation's press continues to vacillate on important issues, clearing the air for their readers with forthright vision and statesmanship in some cases and beclouding it with subtle viciousness in others. A good example of the latter has been the handling of the surprise Democratic defeat in the Bronx last week.

The story that has been presented to millions of readers, not by direct assertion but by inference goes something like this: The election district in question is in a predominantly Jewish district. The winning candidate is Jewish. The communists, who also abound in this section, played a large part in the upset.

In this way, without coming out and saying so, some newspapers have neatly led many readers to false assumptions. Two and two make four. Jews and Communists live in that district. Therefore, the Jewish vote was a communist vote.

At a time when we need desperately to avoid planting seeds of distrust in the minds of our neighbors here at home and abroad, this vicious journalism is to be deplored. A few examples of the incident are in order:

The Associated Press reported: "The Bronx district has a heavy Jewish population." And a few

Arabs Peddle Arms on "Way of the Cross"

JERUSALEM — Pistol holsters are being sold these days on the "Way of the Cross". Grenades can be had on the Street of David.

These and other articles of war are exchanged openly in the City of Peace, sacred to most of the people of the world, as the Arabs prepare for an armed showdown against partition.

Oranges and Hand Grenades

On the Street of David, a narrow, stinking stairstep lane which leads down from the Jaffa gate to the heart of the old Walled City, an Arab vendor sat cross-legged behind his stand. By his side were oranges and heads of cabbage. On one side of his overturned crate that served as a counter were cigarettes. On the other side were hand grenades, bullets and Bren gun magazines.

Prospective buyers can be seen examining a grenade like an American housewife ponders over a tomato. Grenades sell for 15 piasters (60c) but the supply is limited. Bullets of various calibers now range up to about 8 cents each and there are plenty.

Everybody Has A Gun

Further along the twisted old city streets, close by the Holy Sepulchre, bearded leather workers sit before their shops making holsters and bandoliers. The bandolier will hold 50 rifle clips and fits around your waist, and over your shoulders in a crossed manner like a Sam Browne belt. It costs $5.

Up and down the Via Dolorosa armed men are walking. A man without at least one revolver is rare. Those with rifles or tommyguns are frequent. All apparently have knives in their belts.

U. S. Uniforms Seen

Most are dressed in the usual Arab clothes they wore when there was peace in the land and before partition was voted. Many, however, are smartly uniformed, mostly in surplus clothes of the U. S. Army.

One pair passed with rifles on their shoulders, crossed bandoliers on their chests. Each had a revolver, knife and two grenades hanging from his belt.

short lines later: "(Edward J.) Flynn blamed the result on Communist activity....."

Here in Providence the delineation was drawn even closer. It was stated editorially: "The ALP candidate, a young Jewish lawyer....." And again: "More Communists and extreme leftists live there than in any other part of the city." And still again: "In a section preponderantly Jewish...."

We feel sure there would be emphatic denial of any intent to spread distrust and suspicion through the purely opinionated analysis of the election. Yet, the undeniable fact remains that by putting these statements close together, the Jews of the Bronx and the Communists have been linked together, even as they were "joined" recently on refugee vessels sailing to Palestine.

The truth, as has fortunately been reported in responsible and perceptive newspapers is that this was not a sign of Communist strength or of a Red tieup with the Jewish people. Rather, it was an emphatic protest by the voters of that district that they were dissatisfied with their conditions under the present administration. Remember—there was no national election at stake. It was purely a local matter.

The political analysts completely overlook a fact that was expressed by residents of the Bronx—that public disgust and indignation ran high over the inefficient handling of snow and garbage removal since the record December snowstorm and that the election result was the people's way of registering its protest.

Jewish Women Seen Converting

LONDON—Seven thousand young women from Poland who were saved from Nazi concentration camps and brought to Sweden are on the verge of mass conversion to Christianity, according to an urgent appeal issued by Chief Rabbi Jacobson to the London Rabbinate. Hundreds of these women have already married non-Jews, with and without conversion, and others certainly will follow, the report of the Chief Rabbi states.

Much of the movement is, however, due to the general trend to complete assimilation which is now going on all over Europe, including Sweden, according to Rabbi Jacobson. Many Jews are now seeking to escape a repetition of the personal Jewish tragedy during the Nazi regime by escaping from Judaism.

Claim Jews Did Not Cross Red Sea

CAIRO—A new archeological discovery at the northern end of the Red Sea which tends to indicate that the Jews during their exodus from Egypt did not cross that body of water but another lake, was reported recently.

The remains of a town which existed about 3500 years ago were discovered at the northern end of the Red Sea, proving that the Sea did not extend further north than that. The Biblical account describes the itinerary of the Jews as having passed further north than the present top end of the Red Sea. Scholars had previously assumed that the Sea extended further north about 3000 years ago, at about the time that Moses led the Jews out of Egypt. It is thought that the Israelites actually crossed a body of water referred to in ancient Egyptian documents as the Lake of Reeds, a name which more recently has been applied to the Red Sea.

Our Film Folk

By LEON GUTTERMAN

Henry (Here's) Morgan has finished his movie called "So This Is New York" and is now back East. The popular network humorist said that he was sorry to leave Hollywood and explained that there are so many New York people out here it reminds him of Atlantic City.

Radio's ace comic described Hollywood as a place populated largely by people whose ulcers come from Cartier's. He goes on to say that most of the citizens aren't happy here, but probably wouldn't be happy any place. "If they ever get to Heaven, they'll demand redecorations and a lease."

Asked about the novel he is at work on called "Home Is Where You Hang Yourself," Morgan told me he has begun writing the foreword and that his publisher has given him permission to disclose the first word of it.

"The first word is going to be 'the.' At least that's the way it stands now. Some pressure groups are trying to get me to change it to 'a,' but I'm standing firm. You can tell 'the' lovers that the foreword is definitely and irrevocably going to begin with 'the.'"

What's the book going to be about?" I asked. "About important things," said Morgan. About life and love and beauty. About the laughter of little children, about the whining of parents. Also about the decline and fall of the Greco-Roman style of bagel baking. There'll be nothing colossal about it. It'll merely be imperishable."

Morgan, whose new radio show starts the end of this month on the network that first gave birth to his tremendous popularity, ABC, goes on to talk about various writers he has met in Hollywood and about their work habits. He said he ran across a woman who had asked him how many words there were in a novel and that he had told her approximately 75,000. Whereupon she said, "Oh, then I'm finished!"

According to Morgan, he was born of mixed parentage—man and woman—on the day before April Fool's Day, 1915. A native New Yorker, he started poking fun at radio years ago when, at the age of 17, he went to work as a page boy for a radio station in New York at eight dollars a week. He soon discovered that page boys' opinions were not solicited concerning programs, announcers or talent. To avoid trouble with his comments, he developed a horrible leer, which made everything perfectly clear as to the Morgan opinion.

Later he became an announcer, chief announcer then program director. Working at night gave him the opportunity to attend law school during the day, but law school was his downfall. Instead of cutting classes, he cut a broadcast one night to take his law examination. They gave him a black mark, and he was expelled—from the station.

A New York station decided to give Morgan a once-a-week program on which he would be allowed to do all the kidding he wanted. That was the beginning of his famous program, "Meet Mr. Morgan," later expanded to three-a-week and re-titled "Here's Morgan." This series became so successful that it went on a six-day-a-week basis. At long last "The Henry Morgan Show" went on ABC for a national sponsor and Henry hit the fame and fortune jackpot. He was made.

What's A Jew?

Reprinted from
The Israelite

By AL SEGAL

Dear Mr. Segal: You made a bad mistake in reporting sympathetically, as you did, the story of the girl being accepted into Judaism at the Hebrew Union College. I fear it will tend to encourage inter-marriage since the girl took the Jewish faith in defence to the young Jewish man she was about to marry. Young Jewish men, thinking of inter-marriage, may say: "Well, that's an idea. I'll have my girl turn Jewish and that's enough, and then it will be all right for me to marry her."

Don't you think that to be a Jew is more than a matter of taking the faith? It has to do with a great history, with an outlook of life, with a common blood stream. You can't really be a Jew unless you are part of the social, historical and biological complex that goes with being a Jew.

And to think of the Hebrew Union College—a seat of Judaism—giving its blessing to a conversion that, as it should know, can't convert a Gentile into a Jew.—E. B., Chicago.

Oh, my dear E. B., I am awfully sorry to hear you speaking almost like Hitler in his racial bigotry. He, too, said that being a Jew was a separate blood identity that must be set apart. He, too, spoke of blood as a test of merit. He scoffed at claims of Jewish identity based on religion. He thought of Germans as a special essence whose blood might not be contaminated by other bloods. (Mind you, E. B., I am opposed to intermarriage in principle but for other reasons than alleged blood differences).

Similar to Hitler

I have reason to know that among Jews you are not alone in your similar ideas—similar to Hitler's, that is—of being Jewish. In their flight from Nazism many of the Jews have taken for protection the very racism that they abhorred in their enemy. In consequence, quite forgotten among many Jews are the things on account of which we used to be proudly Jewish because, we said, these were the essential things in the making of a Jew: That body of ideals we inherited, Torah and prophets, the compassionate spirit, the aspiration toward brotherhood, the social ethics of our teachings.

A Timely Discussion

I thank you, though, for writing this letter. It brings up for most timely discussion the question, What is a Jew? We have become badly mixed up on that. Well, let's take the case of this particular Jew named Segal of whom I can speak from intimate knowledge. What's his idea of being a Jew?

He can't work up any pride of special blood, since he can't be too sure that his blood hasn't been adulterated in the course of the ages. He can be sure only as far back as his great-grandparents. There are no geneological records and he knows no geneologist who could honestly give him a bill of pure blood even unto the beginning of the Christian era.

Segal is sadly conscious of invasions of Romans and Huns who behaved much as soldiers always have. Can he affirm, without prospect of contradiction, that in his blood there is no Roman, no Vandal, that his blood has come down to him in its pristine purity, all the way from Abraham through Moses?

Feels Deeply Jewish

Despite such uncertainty he feels deeply Jewish. He is aware that his feeling of being Jewish has nothing to do with corpuses. If, early in his life, he had been tossed into another environment, regardless of the fact that he had been born a Jew, he might have turned out a cannibal or a head-hunter, or a barbarian member of some amoral tribe, and his having been born a Jew would have had nothing to do with the way of life.

Happily, Segal was brought up as well as born among people who were Jewish in the sense of spiritual and moral values. In the time of his youth being a Jew was an identity that concerned itself very little with the idea of a separate race or nation. He learned that to be a Jew was to live by Torah and prophets. It had to do with God to whom one bowed in the prayers of the morning and evening. On Friday nights a couple of angels were supposed to accompany his father from the synagogue to the Sabbath table.

To be a Jew was a mark that prohibited young Segal from being like some of the bad kids of the neighborhood. If he descended to unbecoming behavior, anyway, he was admonished that this way was no way for a Jewish boy to act. To be a Jew was to be a boy who kept his head high and whose feet walked in a righteous way.

A Way of Social Behavior

Well, that concept of being a Jew has remained with Segal ever since, even though he has been exposed to new ideas of racism and nationalism. He has tried to live Jewishly by this concept, though he avoids the obnoxious pretense of being better than other Jews. There's nothing biological in it, nothing national. Being a Jew is mainly a way of social behavior and of approaching God as far as a poor, weak man can get to God.

In this idea of what it takes to be a Jew, I can welcome to Judaism, as the Hebrew Union College did, the young woman who was not born of us. She can be of Judaism completely if she tries hard to live by its ideals. (I am sorry to say that some Jews born among us are not all of us in the sense of living by the principles of ethical Judaism). The reason I am against intermarriage in principle is the social conflicts. I am happy to say that the fine girl who was taken into Judaism at the Hebrew Union College is measuring up to her religious ordination.

Brotherhood Week?

By BERNARD SEGAL

Miss Brotherhood of 1948 is a pitiful sight. She is, in fact, as sickly looking as her sisters in sentiment, Miss World Peace and the blind-folded lady with the scales of Justice in her hand.

Brotherhood, the very mention of it, is a mockery in China and in India. It is a rare delicacy among the peoples of Europe, and even the Greeks have no word for it. It has been banished from the streets of Jerusalem and the hills of Judea.

Coming closer home, how does Miss Brotherhood fare in these United States?

A recent Gallup poll, released on the very eve of the week in honor of Brotherhood, revealed that at least one third of the nation is "Anti" something or other. The poll breaks it down to so many anti-Jewish, so many anti-Negro, anti-Catholic, anti-Oriental. But the sum total of bigotry must have made Miss Brotherhood very sick indeed as she sat by the radio and listened to her virtues extolled over the networks and from the pulpits of the nation.

Her sky blue garments, if this is the favorite color of Miss Brotherhood, must have been bespattered with the mud of the cities of Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas all during this week dedicated to her. Luckily, she escaped being tarred and feathered, if not lynched by the noble ladies and fine gentlemen of the South.

Didn't we all see the empty table number 23 at the Jefferson-Jackson dinner in the nation's capitol? It was featured right on the front page. The seats were to be occupied by a senator and his lady from the South, who cancelled them for fear that they might be seated next to a Negro guest. The reason for the cancellation was shamelessly given to the press, and the press told the world about it. A brazen contempt for human decency, let alone Brotherhood.

And this just a few days before Brotherhood Week.

Miss Brotherhood, with all the nice things said about her still ringing in her ears, will grow very pale and dejected as she listens to the story of the pilgrimage of Southern Governors, Senators and political big-wigs to Washington. These gentlemen are converging on the Capitol to prevent the adoption of what they call "a vicious and unconstitutional" Civil Rights program proposed by the President. Measures to prevent lynching is one point in that "vicious" program. The right to vote by all citizens, regardless of color, is another point of the program that angers these gentlemen.

And this on the very week dedicated to the ideals of Brotherhood.

Coming still closer home, in our own State and cities, how does Brotherhood fare here in the cradle of tolerance?

Rhode Island still has no legislation which guarantees work to all who are capable and willing, regardless of race, color, and creed. The Fair Employment Act now pending before the legislature, has already called forth voices of opposition. Impractical, some call it, totalitarianism, cry others. But essentially the opposition is aimed at the most elementary principles of Brotherhood, which is an equal opportunity to all in the shops, in the professions, in the schools and in the arts.

"What good are the fine words to me," says Miss Brotherhood, "when your acts deny me?"

"How many teachers dark of skin are in the ranks of your public school system?"

"How many nurses of black in white care for the sick in your hospitals?"

"How many of your banks, your insurance houses, your public utilities, your shops, your offices can truthfully say: 'We judge applications for jobs on merits only, and are not in the least swayed by the color, the faith, and the name of the applicant.'"

"How many of your schools of higher learning are entirely free from prejudice, and admit students on their scholastic achievements only, and the faith of their fathers does not enter into the decisions of the admitting officers?"

Thus says Miss Brotherhood. But perhaps the ideal of Brotherhood is too much for these times of savage hatreds and bloody strife.

Let us try for smaller stakes, just plain elementary decency in relations of man to man.

Is that too much?

City Council Resolution Asks Lifting of Embargo

A resolution condemning Arab aggression in Palestine and asking that the U. S. arms embargo be lifted was passed unanimously last Thursday night at a meeting of the City Council. Introduced by Joseph Schlossberg, Councilman from the Ninth Ward, the resolution reads as follows:

"WHEREAS, On November 29, 1947, the United Nations General Assembly in an historic action voted for the partition of Palestine. Since the vote, the Arab States, themselves members of the U. N., are deliberately engaging in aggression against the Jews of Palestine. Thus far neither the United Nations nor the United States has done anything to enforce the partition decision.

"WHEREAS, we are, of course, grateful for the action taken by the United Nations on partition, and we appreciate the fact that the United States played the leading part in the deliberations of the U. N., but we cannot lose sight of the fact that unless the United Nations' decision is implemented, the action taken becomes a mockery. As American citizens we feel free to call upon our Government to take such action as will insure the success of the United Nations' partition plan.

"We, therefore, as members of the City Council of the City of Providence Resolve to request

President Truman at the White House and Secretary of State George C. Marshall, State Department, Washington, urging them to support the following measures in the U. N.:

"1. A stern warning to the Arab States calling for an end of the sabotage of the U. N. decision.

"2. Immediate use of the proper U. N. agencies to provide international military protection for Palestine Jewry and make immediately available the necessary military force to implement the U. N. decision on Palestine.

"3. Immediate equipment of the Haganah under U. N. auspices to enable this Jewish constabulary defense force to carry out police powers within Jewish territory in Palestine.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this Resolution be sent to the President and the Secretary of State; Senators J. Howard McGrath and Theodore Francis Green, Senate Office Building, Washington; Congressmen Aime J. Forand and John E. Fogarty, House Office Building, Washington, and Warren E. Austin, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, Lake Success, New York."

Miss Margie Kramer heads the production cast and Gerald A. Oster will direct. Charles Schechtman, J. Joslyn Presser, Paul Litwin and Julian Holland will handle arrangements for the Olympics.

Under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua Society, Rabbi Jacob P. Rudin of Great Neck, N. Y., visited Brown University, on February 23 and 24 to participate in the annual Brown Embassy.

In 1390 he assumed leadership of Temple Beth-El of Great Neck, N. Y., where he is serving at the present time. He was the first Jewish Naval Chaplain to go on duty in the Aleutians.

Planning Your Spring Wardrobe

Here's a guide to what you can do about your wardrobe to avoid too drastic changes, and yet stay in step with the new Spring styles (or as much in step as you may want to).

Many of the suits and dresses displayed by designers and manufacturers in their Spring showings soft-pedaled the extreme lines that aroused so much controversy last season. This modification enables you to adapt much of your present clothes by comparatively simple touches.

Almost any skirt you have will still be in style, from straight and narrow to the widely-flared (fulness has been modified). Length, of course, is up to you and you can show as much or as little calf as you choose and still be in fashion.

If you need to add length to last Spring's dress, use one of the tricks suggested here in recent articles. (Two inches of black net at the bottom of last year's crepe may do the trick, for example.)

¶ A wide leather belt or draped cummerbund sash can give a dress a small-waist look

¶ If the jacket of an old Spring suit is still good, use a contrasting skirt for a new-looking outfit.

Add Late Style Touches Yourself

You can use a wide leather belt for a small-waist look, as shown in this $79.95 dress from Joseph Halpert.

¶ Faille peplums, collars and tunics, which are shown on some of the new Spring dresses, indicate they can be added to some of your things. You can make faille peplum or apron tunic to tie over either a plain or full skirt. A little stand-up collar and matching cuffs of the same fabric can make over another dress.

¶ Soutache braid can be used to add something new to the old, or to cover up the joining seam where matching material is used to lengthen a dress or coat. But use the braid on collars, cuffs or hipline to tie up the use of the trimming properly.

¶ Use accessory accents at the neckline, such as contrasting grosgrain ribbon or a colorful scarf to freshen up a dress or blouse.

¶ Don't discard an old coat simply because it's an unbecoming length this year. It can be cut to look like one of this season's very brief styles, about wrist-length. If it's full-cut, you can wear it that way short, or pull it in with a belt.

¶ If you like the petticoat fashion, much-promoted now in the stores, you can turn it to use by adding a ruffle, petticoat-fashion, to a too-short dress. Make it from plaid, checked or striped taffeta.

Add soutache to dress up an outfit as suggested in this $110 wool costume from Capri Originals.

Scarfs add interest to Spring outfits. Red crepe tie gives bright touch to suit from Sheila-Lynn, $45.

Recently Married

MR. AND MRS. EMANUEL LEVIN, who were married in Tucson, Arizona on November 23, 1947. Mrs. Levin is the former Miss Rose Irving, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Irving of 18 Emeline street. Mr. Levin is formerly from New York. The couple are making their home in Tucson.

has at too long last opened its gates to men of all races and colors, and through the influence of its patronage is forcing acceptance of its doctrines in the South. Yet, we know that a few years ago there was practically an unwritten law that a negro could not play in organized ball. And negro leagues are not yet admitted to "organized" ball. Other major sports have their troubles in various sections and we still hear of cancelled games because some members of a squad are not acceptable on the home grounds of a rival.

The situation is far improved over what it was at the end of the war. But there is still a long, long way to go. And that is a sad commentary on our American sports scene.

THAT SOFTBALL LEAGUE AGAIN: This column has harped periodically since its inception on the establishment of a softball league for the Jewish community this year. It was realized that a few paragraphs in the column would not result in our door being knocked down in the rush to get the league going. The effort was made as a warm-up gesture, to plant the seed and get some of the boys talking. In that regard I can report success.

Now we pass from the passive to the active stage. One group already is working quietly on preparations for a league. And this column will have an announcement next Friday as to the first step in our active campaign.

Let it be understood that the Herald is not seeking any credit for or dominance of any organization that may result. In fact, if other groups are working on such a league and beat us to it, so much the better. All working together, we should be able to get somewhere. The recipe for this softball broth is complicated and all but forgotten, and we cannot have too many cooks to aid in stirring it up and bringing it to a boil.

Auxiliary to Have Anniversary Luncheon

The 16th anniversary luncheon of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Providence Hebrew Sheltering Society will be held Monday, March 1, at 12:30 o'clock at the Sons of Jacob Synagogue.

Entertainment will be offered by Miss Betty Strauss with a Jewish musical program.

Mrs. I. Grossman and Mrs. G. Zaidman are general chairmen; Mrs. Bernard Perelman and Mrs. Jack Melamut are ticket chairmen, and Mrs. Ben Resnick, treasurer. On the general committee are Mesdames Katie Loeber, Fred Jurmann, S. Ludman, J. Bernstein and Jack Resnick.

The Herald is read by more than 30,000 persons in Rhode Island every week.

THE BASEBALL WORLD is currently in a dither over the remarks of Branch Rickey, wherein he accused the other 15 clubs in the majors of attempting to keep negroes out of organized baseball. The denials have been vehement, of course, but that was to be expected. Right or wrong, Rickey's statements only served to point up a sorry situation that affects this country, the world and all humanity.

All of us grew up under the proud impression that in this nation everyone is equal and that any man is limited only by his own ability. Theoretically, we know that to be true. Actually, in a cold analysis, we realize it is not. We know of discrimination against Catholic, Jew, Protestant and negro.

Even in our fiercely competitive sports arena the competition is often limited far beyond those with the strongest physical attributes and the ability to give and take. This Rickey episode only serves as a reminder that we still have our frailties as a nation and as a people.

The negro problem is but one side of the overall picture of discrimination. The disturbing fact is that we do have religious and racial "tolerance"; but a glance at the nearest dictionary will prove to you that "tolerance" is at best an ugly word and fraught with danger to mankind. We do not have racial acceptance and equality.

Baseball, because of one man,

Penn was paced to its win by J. Dressler who just missed high single with 137 and a fine three string effort of 350. Jack Epstein and Max Levy at 318 and 317 respectively followed in that order for high three. Jack Epstein turned in a good single with 121 and Dave Krasnoff 115.

Center Starts Bus Service

Bus service to and from the Jewish Community Center will be provided for children of the East Side and North End of Providence starting on March 2. Center officials revealed this week. Buses will pick up children at their schools at dismissal time and bring them to the Center. Following their periods of activities there, they will be brought back to their neighborhoods.

The initial schedule calls for transportation on Tuesdays from the various schools of the North End. On Wednesdays buses will call for children at Summit avenue school. Parents who returned their complete "fun" questionnaires, mailed recently by the Center are being notified of their children's bus reservations. A few reservations still are available and may be obtained by contacting the Center.

The program of activities at the Center for these children has been co-ordinated with the interests listed on the applications. Activities cancelled in recent weeks because of weather and travel conditions now are being resumed. A partial list of these events, some of which have been rescheduled, follows:

Tuesday: Tap dancing, creative dramatics, game room and girl scouts.

Wednesday: Arts and crafts, ballet, knitting, game room and gym.

To Present Crowns

At the Temple Beth-El services tonight, Albert Glassman will present a set of Torah crowns in memory of Bernard J. Trinkel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Trinkel, who was killed on Iwo Jima, during the war.

Samuel Moscovitch, a member of the Bar of Montreal, has been awarded one of Canada's highest honors by being named a King's Counsel. One of Canada's leading Jews, he is president of the Montefiore Club, a past president of the Canadian Conference of B'nai B'rith, and chairman of the legal and notarial division of the Combined Jewish Appeal. Mr. Moskovitch is the brother of Mrs. Harvey D. Kelman of 210 Sixth street, this city, and has many friends here in Providence.

Brothers United

Attends Golden Jubilee

Mrs. Israel C. Levin attended the Golden Jubilee dinner tendered the noted Lubavitcher Rabbi, Joseph E. Schneersohn last Sunday evening in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor, New York City. Rabbi Schneersohn was honored on his completion of 50 years of outstanding service for Torah and Jewish education.

Spring Festival To Present Playlet

An original presentation called "The Roads That Lead to Home" will be given at the Spring Festival Luncheon of the Ladies Association of the Jewish Home for the Aged, on Wednesday, March 3, at the Narragansett Hotel. Those taking part are Mrs. Charles Reitman, program chairman, and Mesdames Ephraim Feingold, Mitchell Sherwin, Isaac Gerber, Abraham Percelay, Israel Goldman and Samuel Schneider.

Background music for the presentation will be under the direction of Muriel Halpern Rakatansky.

Olympics to Honor Charter Members

Charter members who were among the founders of the William Gates Cutler Olympic Club 21 years ago will be honored when the Club holds its annual Olympic Night program tomorrow evening at the Jewish Community Center.

Among the charter members still active in the organization are Jack Jacobson, Louis Yosinoff, Haskell Wallick, J. Joslyn Presser, Nathan Schwartz and Ira Stone.

Entertainment, dancing and refreshments will be included on the program, which is under the direction of the social committee. The affair is open to Olympic members, their wives and guests.

Despite the fact that most stocks are worth a fraction of their original value, many dividends are higher than ever. Thornton Wilder's first novel in a dozen years, "Ides of March," about Julius Caesar (Harper's) is the March Book-of-the-Month. Flagstad cancelled two concerts in Atlanta "because of protests" alleging she was a collaborationist. And that's what we like about the South. Those grain speculators (who went in for chicken feed) remind us of that old rhyme: "This little Biggie went to Market." S. Lerman groans (about the New Look); "Long time no knee!"

Some scribes were discussing Margaret Truman's thrashing. "She's good," said a critic, "but she was rushed to the top before she was ready." "Yes," grunted a city editor. "Must be a family trait."

Midtown Vignette: The following was received by a night club owner during his recent (and victorious) battle with a kitchen helpers' union. "Dear Sherman: If you need a good dishwasher, I am unemployed and would like to apply. I expect to leave the Creedmore State hospital soon. Formerly a member of the N. Y. Stock Exchange, I have often been one of your customers. For reference I am a member of the Racquet and Tennis club, National Golf and the Social Register. My income is still over $25,000 per year. I am a graduate of Yale, 1925, B. A."

A national mag features press agent stunts and gives the "nod" to Arthur Franklin for his Chili Williams campaign and the Polka Dot guild. Franklin expects even more publicity (for that group) when his lawsuit comes up for $8,000 back pay.

New York Novelette. It happened at Dinty Moore's, the famed mid-town corned-beef-and-cabbage restaurant. A N. Y. Times feature writer was dining there, and an old waiter got on his nerves with his hard-of-hearing, his slow pace and the way he got orders mixed up. He scolded him gently. Next day he learned that Dinty heard of the "scene" and had fired the old gent. Oh, no! Not that! That's not what he wanted, at all. Oh, for heaven's sakes. The poor man fired. No job in this awful winter, too. He couldn't sleep that night thinking about it. Next day he rushed to Moore's. "Where can I find that waiter you fired on account of me? I didn't sleep over it." "Well," well'd Moore, "let's see. I think you can find him about now at E. F. Hutton's brokerage, where he usually can be found every day until the market closes." The "poor waiter" is worth only half a million smackers.

Kosher Goulash Hits New High

To distraught housewives who have been striving for years to duplicate mother's home-cooking, the advice now seems to be: stop trying! Take meat, for example, or to be more specific, take kosher goulash—good old-fashioned goulash like mother used to make—tender, juicy, and so delicious!

No, this is not news of a miraculous recipe book—just an introduction to Tamar Kosher Goulash. This top quality all-beef product, available now at local grocers and delicatessen stores, proves to be the perfect solution to meal-planning problems. With Tamar Kosher Goulash, you just open the can, heat, add vegetables, then serve. If your dealer can't supply you, advise him to contact his Tamar Distributor, Providence Food and Specialty Co., 102 Charles Street. Advt.

Je Indicts Britain

LAKE SUCCESS—A blistering 12,000 word attack on the one-sided activity of the British government in Palestine since the partition plan was voted into effect in November was handed to the Palestine Commission and Security Council of the United Nations here by the Jewish Agency. The memorandum constituted the first formal indictment of British policy in the Holy Land.

Warning that a full scale attack "upon the United Nations decision" could be expected at an early date unless "preventive action is taken internationally", the Agency charged that the Arabs are allowed to enter Palestine in large numbers while, at the same time, Jews are forbidden to enter and suffer severe reprisals for any such attempts.

This "atmosphere of tolerance and relative impunity with which they have been able to operate" has "powerfully encouraged" the Arabs, the statement said. Specific instances where the British arrested and disarmed Jewish groups serving only as escorts and guards at Jewish institutions even in the face of Arab attacks also were brought to the Council's attention with the reminder that in none of these cases was any attempt made to arrest Arabs.

Pointing to British refusal to adopt the UN recommendation to allow Jewish immigration after February 1 while allowing Arab forces "free rein" in their sorties across the border, the statement asserted that Britain's reason for such refusal, "that the increase of Jewish refugee immigration would imperil security, can hardly sound convincing."

While closing its eyes to Arab activities, it added, Britain has taken "determined, expensive and intricate measures by land, sea, air and through diplomatic action to prevent the helpless victims of Nazi persecution, including women and children, from entering Palestine".

Encouraging Reports On New Synagogue

Encouraging reports on the progress of the construction of the new Ahavath Shalom Synagogue and Talmud Torah were given at a breakfast meeting of the board of directors last Sunday morning.

The unanimous opinion was expressed that the first floor of the new building will be completed by next September. This floor will include the Talmud Torah and Sunday School rooms, an auditorium with a seating capacity of 1600, the Beth Hemed-rash, library and recreation rooms.

Because of the multiple activities connected with the construction program, the directors voted to hold the breakfast meetings on the first and third Sundays of each month.

Feature Records From Palestine

For the first time in Providence it is possible to obtain records made and recorded by noted musical artists in Palestine. Many Palestinian records have arrived at the Beacon Shops, 905 North Main Street and, according to Milton Israeloff, proprietor, include opera, cantorial and many other musical compositions of interest to Jews everywhere.

For example, a few of the artistic groups who may be heard now on records made in Palestine include the Tel Aviv Opera Company, the chorus and orchestra and the cantors of that city's largest synagogues.

These records, and many others, may be heard at Beacon Shops, home of the most complete collection of Jewish records in R. I. Advt.

The Herald is your best bet for advertising.

Networks Ban New Song

HOLLYWOOD — Radio networks have barred Red Ingle's latest record as immoral and insulting to their biggest sponsors, the bandleader claimed this week.

Ingle, who drove the country crazy with Timtayshun, has popped up with a catchy little ditty on Cigareets, Whuskey, and Wild Wild, Wimmen. He and his "Natural Seven" corn it up good, with drums and tambourines and all the hand-clapping and bellowing of a corner revival meetin'.

"Evangelist" Ingle boomed out with a preachment against "Johnny Barleycorn, nicotine, and the temptations of Eve."

He sent the record to all the networks. The censors took one quick listen and paled. Never, they ruled, would Cigareets, Whuskey, and Wild, Wild Wimmen tinkle on their networks.

"Why not?" demanded Red. The lyrics, reproved the censors. Take that verse (reprinted by permission of the Tim Spencer Music Publishers):

Once I was happy and had a good wife—with plenty of money to last me for life,

But I met a gal and we went on a spree—she taught me to smoke and to drink whuskee-e-e-e.

"Immoral," ruled the censors. "Sinful and wicked."

Hebrew Day School Briefs

A requisite of democracy is the training of its citizens to think clearly, to acquaint them truthfully and without prejudice with the ideals and purposes of their Government. The United States is a great democracy because its system of education has included the greatest number of its young citizens.

The Jewish people, however, were proponents of a system of universal education long before America was discovered. Every father personally took care of the education of his child in accord with the Biblical command "Thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children".

The prophet Isaiah speaks of the ideal when he says "All thy children are learned of the Lords." Bearing in mind the circumstances of Jewish life in this country, by what method can we transmit to our children the glorious heritage of Israel?

First of all, we must realize that education must not be restricted to formal schooling. Education is a lifelong process and the best results are obtained by that type of schooling that teaches a way of life. To begin a child's Jewish education when he has already passed his regular school age causes him to miss valuable schooling and places the Jewish education in an inferior position, producing a negative attitude in the mind of the child.

By enrolling a child in a day school such as the Providence Hebrew Day School one makes provision for his child to gain a way of life consistent with the ideals of democracy. It will produce a member of the Jewish community who will translate our historic dreams into the living reality of an enthusiastic and well-educated community.

Temple Brotherhood To Conduct Services

Services at Temple Beth-El next Friday evening will be conducted entirely by the Temple Brotherhood, according to Dr. Walter J. Nelson, who is in charge of the evening's program. This annual service, originally planned for February 13, was re-scheduled to March 5 because of inclement weather and will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Irving Jay Fain will deliver the sermon on the subject "The Fifth Freedom: The Right to Work". Members of the Brotherhood who will participate in the religious service include George Dann, Hyman S. Goodwin, William I. Matzner and John Sapinsley. Ushers will be Millard Block, Leo Kaufman and Robert Klein. An Oneg Shabbat will follow in the vestry.

PIONEER MEETING

Miss Ruth Coombs, readers' advisor at the Providence Public Library, will review several books at the regular meeting of the Pioneer Women's Club this Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel. Mrs. Harry Schleifer will preside.

Hillel Observes Brotherhood Week

Brotherhood Week was celebrated by the Hillel Foundation at a brunch held last Sunday at the Pembroke Field House. The brunch was sponsored by the past presidents of the Roger Williams Chapter B'nai B'rith Women. Those on the committee were Mesdames Joseph Seefer, David Litchman, William Meyers, Irwin Cort, Phillip Dorenbaum and David Meyers.

The feature of the brunch was the entertainment by the Newman Club, the Brown Christian Association and several students from China, Hawaiian Islands and West Africa.

Emanu-El Bowling

By JACK PLATKIN

President Henry Markoff called the meeting of the bowlers together last Monday night. A motion was made and quickly seconded that Henry capture the high single for the season, which he did to the tune of 159, one point above the high previously held by Lou Chase. Another motion was made that he also take the high three. This he did with possibly the highest single three in bowling history, 417, and that is a lot of pin fall. Then the Red Sox decided that the high team three belonged to them, went on and bowled what will probably stand for years to come, a total of 1653, eclipsing the previous mark of Kramer's Athletics of 1599.

Yes there was plenty of motion in Henry Markoff's right arm last Monday night. The team scores of the record breaking Red Sox were as follows: for three strings Markoff 417, Levine 289, Kagan 300, Lipson 318 and Maxwell Waldman 329.

Goralnick bowled three strings for 379, and appears to be headed for top bowling honors, but don't get thinking that the old timers are on their way out, because just as the pressure is there Lou Chase strikes back with 384, Mickey Cohen 340, Ed Lang 336, Irv Chase 320, Miles Goldberg 331.

I predict—that my next weeks selection will name the bowling champs for this season—and it will not be the Red Sox..... Sorry, Messrs Kagan and Markoff.

Touro to Honor David C. Adelman

David C. Adelman will be honored at a testimonial dinner on March 10 in celebration of his 20 years of affiliation with the Touro Fraternal Association and his past service as president and chairman of the board. Dr. Albert Berger will act as master of ceremonies. The place where the testimonial will be held will be announced next week.

LEAP YEAR DANCE

A Leap Year Dance will be featured by the Kozy Korner Kanteen of the Jewish Community Center tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Sons of Abraham Synagogue.

Queen Esther Contest Is On

Applications for the Queen Esther contest to be held at the Jewish Community Center's 15th annual Queen Esther Purim Dance on Thursday evening, March 25 in the ballroom of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel already have started to arrive, according to official reports.

The election of Queen Esther will highlight the evening's festivities, which will include dancing to the music of Carl Tatz and his orchestra. The Queen and her court will receive gifts of value. Contestants must be at least 17 years of age, Jewish and a resident of any of the cities in southern New England. No entrance fee is required.

Miss Avis Swartz, last year's Queen Esther, is chairman of the Queen's committee. She has urged all prospective candidates to file their applications as early as possible. Official blanks may be obtained by writing Miss Swartz at Swartz Insurance Agency, 48 Custom House street, or the Jewish Community Center, 65 Benefit street.

Planning Your Spring Wardrobe

Here's a guide to what you can do about your wardrobe to avoid too drastic changes, and yet stay in step with the new Spring styles (or as much in step as you may want to).

Many of the suits and dresses displayed by designers and manufacturers in their Spring showings soft-pedaled the extreme lines that aroused so much controversy last season. This modification enables you to adapt much of your present clothes by comparatively simple touches.

Almost any skirt you have will still be in style, from straight and narrow to the widely-flared (fulness has been modified). Length, of course, is up to you and you can show as much or as little calf as you choose and still be in fashion.

If you need to add length to last Spring's dress, use one of the tricks suggested here in recent articles. (Two inches of black net at the bottom of last year's crepe may do the trick, for example.)

¶ A wide leather belt or draped cummerbund sash can give a dress a small-waist look

¶ If the jacket of an old Spring suit is still good, use a contrasting skirt for a new-looking outfit.

Add Late Style Touches Yourself

¶ Faille peplums, collars and tunics, which are shown on some of the new Spring dresses, indicate they can be added to some of your things. You can make faille peplum or apron tunic to tie over either a plain or full skirt. A little stand-up collar and matching cuffs of the same fabric can make over another dress.

¶ Soutache braid can be used to add something new to the old, or to cover up the joining seam where matching material is used to lengthen a dress or coat. But use the braid on collars, cuffs or hipline to tie up the use of the trimming properly.

¶ Use accessory accents at the neckline, such as contrasting grosgrain ribbon or a colorful scarf to freshen up a dress or blouse.

¶ Don't discard an old coat simply because it's an unbecoming length this year. It can be cut to look like one of this season's very brief styles, about wrist-length. If it's full-cut, you can wear it that way short, or pull it in with a belt.

¶ If you like the petticoat fashion, much-promoted now in the stores, you can turn it to use by adding a ruffle, petticoat-fashion, to a too-short dress. Make it from plaid, checked or striped taffeta.

You can use a wide leather belt for a small-waist look, as shown in this $79.95 dress from Joseph Halpert.

Add soutache to dress up an outfit as suggested in this $110 wool costume from Capri Originals.

Scarves add interest to Spring outfits. Red crepe tie gives bright touch to suit from Sheila-Lynn, $45.
