Garden Party Held For GJC Women

Special Gifts chairmen, workers, area commanders and squadron leaders together with officers of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee enjoyed a garden luncheon at the home of Mrs. Max L. Grant at 90 Hazard Avenue yesterday afternoon. After a luncheon, the hostess extended the hospitality of her home in a cordial welcome to the group. Mrs. Albert Pilavin, chairman of the Women's Division thanked Mrs. Grant on behalf of her co-workers and formally opened the meeting for the afternoon.

A skit entitled, "The Case of the Stubborn Prospect" was presented. The cast included Albert Pilavin, Mrs. Max L. Grant, and Mrs. Martin M. Silverstein. This short, informative and entertaining sketch was directed by Mrs. Martin Silverstein.

Mrs. Nathan Samors, one of the three special gifts chairmen talked briefly on the purpose and methods of her committee in sol-

"Community Trial" for Those Not Giving

MEXICO CITY—Ten members of the Jewish community here were placed on "trial" before a Jewish Community Court for not contributing to the United Jewish Campaign in proportion to their means. Nine of the "defendants" immediately promised to make the contributions expected of them. A scheduled trial of another group of ten Jews will probably be called off in view of the effect of the "trial" of the first ten.

iciting funds, emphasizing the importance of early reservations for the $100 Minimum Gift Luncheon to be held at the Biltmore on Monday, September 20.

Miss Valerie Stone of New York, columnist, radio commentator and staff-member of the United Nations, was introduced by Mrs. Pilavin as the key speaker of the afternoon. In an effective and stimulating message, Miss Stone stressed the need for increased giving in this crucial year.

Silverman to Speak On Israel Program

Archibald Silverman, president of the General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc., will be among the speakers who will participate in a "Salute to Israel" program, sponsored by the United Palestine Appeal at the Copley-Plaza Hotel in Boston, this Sunday.

The affair, which will pay tribute to the gallant defenders of the new Republic of Israel, is scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock. A large group of Providence residents are planning to attend.

Ahavath Sholom Cornerstone Dedication

Cornerstone exercises to be held by the Ahavath Sholom Congregation at the site of its new Synagogue and Talmud Torah at the corner of Rochambeau Avenue and Camp Street, at Cutler-Suwall Memorial Square will take place Sunday, October 10. Since the settlement of labor difficulties several months ago, work on the new edifice has progressed rapidly and the first floor and grounds will be in readiness for the event.

The preliminary committee in charge of the affair is composed of: A. Louis Rosenstein, chairman; Benjamin Winicour, pub-

May Induce Jews On New Frontiers

LONDON—Great Britain intends to recognize Israel before the end of the year, according to government officials, it was revealed this week by the N. Y. Star. They added that the existence of a Jewish state now is an essential factor in Britain's middle eastern policy.

The British plan is to hold the recognition in reserve as trump card to be played when the United Nations Assembly in Paris completes its recommendations for a Palestine settlement. That probably will be in November or December.

The British government believes its tactics will serve two purposes: Recognition can be given as an inducement to the Jews to accept Israeli frontiers as approved by the UN General Assembly.

Recognition can be used to restrain the Arab states, especially Syria and Iraq, from re-opening the war in Palestine.

The Arab nations, British officials say, will realize that the last hope of obtaining British arms to fight the Jews would vanish after Britain recognizes Israel.

Mrs. Sharp to Speak at Hadassah Meeting

Mrs. Waitstill (Martha) Sharp of Boston, Mass., who has just returned from touring Palestine and German DP camps, will be guest speaker at the first regular meeting of the season of the Providence Chapter of Hadassah to be held at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel on Tuesday, September 14. It was announced this week by Mrs. Irwin N. Silverman, president. Everyone interested in the Youth Aliyah movement and the conditions in the new State of Israel is invited to attend.

Mrs. Sharp, a graduate of Pembroke and Radcliffe Colleges, is undoubtedly a most qualified person on the subject of relief and rehabilitation. She has been decorated by the Czechoslovakian, Portuguese and French governments. Mrs. Sharp went to Palestine with a practiced eye, with the approach of a relief expert whose highly

"Year of Destiny" Campaign In Full Swing

Inspired by the tremendous financial response accorded it at last week's Initial Gifts meeting—when more than $600,000 was raised among a group of 300 men—the 1948 "Year of Destiny" General Jewish Committee campaign swung into action on every front this week.

Virtually every day on the remaining September calendar marked a meeting of one or more sub-divisions of the overall Trades and Industries group.

A corps of enthusiastic workers in the Young Adults Division were busy polishing off last-minute details for that group's important Initial Gifts meeting at Ledgemont Country Club, Wednesday, Sept. 15.

The Women's Division too, was a beehive of activity as final plans for the unit's $100 Minimum Luncheon on Sept. 20 were completed yesterday at a meeting of officers and key workers at the home of Mrs. Max Grant.

Mass Meeting Planned

GJC headquarters itself, working at top speed all Summer in anticipation of the most intensive campaign in its history, switched part of its many-faceted activities to preparing for a monster mass meeting, tentatively scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 19, at the R. I. School of Design auditorium.

The community-wide Sept. 19 meeting will feature several outstanding personalities in support of the nation-wide United Jewish Appeal. Among them will be a team of Haganah fighters, direct from the Palestinian fighting front.

Words of Caution

Despite the optimistic attitude entertained by most GJC officials as a result of the Sept. 1 Ledgemont meeting when, under the dramatic leadership of the famed Eddie Cantor, $600,000 was pledged to this year's drive, some leaders of the committee cautioned against a letdown in activity.

ously as they have in the past," he added.

"We are extremely anxious to enlist the support of as many individuals as possible on this year's drive," Mr. Schwartz said. "This is not only the biggest but the most important drive we have ever worked on. We, therefore, urge every man who wishes to help us in the big job of solicitation to contact us at our headquarters, Meeting Street, Valley Falls, or call Mr. David Chernack at Blackstone 3220.

Serving on the local drive committee are the following: Harry A. Schwartz, chairman; Mrs. Morris Pritsker, chairman of the Women's Division; Morris Espo, Alex Rumlper, Isaac Cokin, Mrs. Harry Smith, vice-presidents; David Chernack, secretary and publicity; Hyman Cokin, financial secretary; Max Alperin, treasurer; Morris Pritsker, auditor; and on the board of directors: Sam Abramoff, Abe Barnett, Max Berry, Harry Cokin, Louis Cokin, Sam Cokin, Louis Feldman, Will Felner, Mrs. Mitchell Glick, Harry Goldberg, Rabbi Aaron Goldin, Leo Marks, Herbert Pansy, Naham Pansy and Saul Young.

GJC Discrimination

We hate discrimination.

We hate the ugly thing in all its forms, whether in politics, in opportunity to work, or in social relationships.

We resent being the subject of discrimination ourselves.

Particularly do we resent it when the discriminator is a community agency which last year allocated some twenty thousand dollars of its funds to combat discrimination.

This is why we cannot overlook an act of discrimination committed by the General Jewish Committee.

These last two issues of the Jewish Herald carried extensive front page stories of the appearance of Eddie Cantor on behalf of the GJC campaign. The Herald has given the arrival of the guest all the notice due to him as an artist and humanitarian.

And so on the afternoon of Wednesday, September the first, the General Jewish Committee arranged a press conference with the guest. Present at the conference at the Sheraton-Biltmore were staff members of the Providence Journal, the Evening Bulletin, the Pawtucket Times, and the ...

NO, YOU DID NOT GUESS. THE JEWISH HERALD WAS NOT INVITED AND WAS NOT NOTIFIED OF THE TIME OF THE CONFERENCE.

The Herald had assigned two staff reporters for the interview. We had hoped to write an interesting story of this rare occasion. But the General Jewish Committee, who played host to Eddie Cantor during his stay in the city, would not give us the opportunity to be present along with other representatives of the press during the time allotted for the conference.

Why were we left out?

What was the reason for this unjustified discrimination?

During these pre-election weeks, when political parties and groups assemble the members of the local press to issue public statements, the Herald has not been left out of any of these conferences. The Community Chest as well as other civic groups always invite the Herald to be present whenever the press is called upon to help in some drive or project.

Why this unfriendly act on the part of the General Jewish Committee?

The Herald has given generously of its space for every campaign and every action undertaken by the GJC, in past years as well as during the current drive.

The General Jewish Committee owes us and our readers an explanation.

If it was a planned, purposeful act of exclusion, we want to know the reason.

If it was the fault of some underling in the office, then he or she should be taught the fundamentals of fair play.

We should not tolerate discrimination in our midst.

The Poet Was Right

Hjalmar Schacht, the German money wizard who made most of the gold which Hitler needed to make war, has just been acquitted by a German Appeals Court. This doesn't surprise us in the least, for we've always had great faith in a minor German poet named Karl Kindt, who back in 1931—two years before Hitler came to power—published the following in the humor magazine Simplicissimus:

And when we go to war at last,
Just fight and die—you duffer!
For win or lose, the war once past,
Be sure Herr Schacht won't suffer!
So till it comes—that battle day
You'll toil and starve and hope and pray.
When beaten, sore, with crumbling wall,
The wretched Germans flee,
Behind it all, behind it all,
Herr Schacht will hide—you'll see!

Rare insight, indeed! In fact, we've seen twice. For before the Germans acquitted Schacht, the International Military Tribunal at Nuremberg acquitted him two years ago. And after all we can't expect the Germans to be rougher on each other than we are on them.

A Revealing News Item

A small news item in the daily press this past week revealed that the Syrian government and three oil companies have made sizeable contributions to the relief of refugee Arabs from Palestine. What is to be noted here is that two of these oil firms, the Tapline Co. and the Saudi-Arabian Oil Co., are American-owned.

Since these firms are not noted for their contributions and their humanitarianism, it is most revealing to note which group of the world's refugees they chose as their first beneficiaries.

The news report seems to lend credence to the widespread belief that American oil interests in the Middle East, with the tacit approval of certain State Department officials, are lined up solidly with the Arabs in the current Palestine situation. We have noted no similar contributions by these firms for the relief of the thousands of sufferers in the DP camps of Europe.

Apparently, then, oil rights are considered far more important than human rights.

"One Man's Opinion"

Crime, Color, and the Comics

By BERNARD SEGAL

Not to be outdone by the rest of the nation, Rhode Island staged an anti-comic-book crusade all of its own.

It all started in the heat of July when a high school boy from a near-by town suddenly turned from the straight and narrow path and took up a fire arm. He singled out taxi cab drivers as his victims. He would call a cab, ask to be driven to some dark street, and there relieve the driver of his cash. The youth was apprehended after shooting it out with a policeman and getting away with half a dozen robberies. In the course of the trial, the Judge wanted to know whether the delinquent boy ever read the comics. Of course he did. What boy does not? That was all the learned jurist was waiting for. His Honor forthwith lashed out against the comics and their evil influence on the nation's youth. He addressed himself from the bench to the parents of America to wake up and enlist in the crusade against the comics.

Quick Response

The response was immediate. Letters appeared in the readers section of the daily newspapers. Some in defense of the comic, but most in praise of the courageous Judge. The crusade was on. Censor the Comics! Curb the sale of Comics! Down with the Comics!

In the meantime, inside the last page of the same newspaper, Dixie Dugan, the good looking, good hearted, and good doing Dixie, was trying to bring back the snobbish socialite Brenda to her hard working farmer-husband and her child back on the farm. Buz Sawyer, not-too-bright, but always honest Buz, almost got away from the desert island, outwitting the slimy Harry and his two moronic henchmen, and saving a million dollars for the Frontier Oil Company. While Li'l Abner, the one and only pride of the Yokums, mastered the six lessons from Adam Lazonga, which made him the champion lover of Dogpatch and the surrounding universe.

The other comic strips, which I never get to read, were no doubt in the midst of similar silly, innocuous goings on.

And on the front page? On the front page were the pictures of the directors of the I. G. Farben industries of Germany on trial in the de-Nazification courts of the American zone. These merchants of death, manufacturers of lethal gases for the extermination of human beings, international traders in war, were found guilty in mass murder and in using slave labor. Their punishment? Twenty-three of them were found not guilty and innocent as a newly born babe. Thirteen, including the chairman of the board of directors, were sentenced from 18 months to 8 years imprisonment.

Who said crime does not pay?

On the inside pages, Ray Sprigle began his series of stories of life as a Negro in the South. The colored seats in trains and buses. The Negro entrances in railroad stations. The lynchings. The shooting of a Negro just to try out a new gun. The Sheriffs who are elected on their records of the number of Negroes shot.

No comic strip can ever be as indecent, as cruel, and as inhuman as these front page stories.

The comics—they are silly, seldom funny, but they at least do not allow evil to triumph and crime to go unpunished.

Your Honor, the Judge, please let the children read the funnies. Spare them the moral diet of justice coming forth out of Germany and from the Land of Jim Crow.

Sophie Tucker Still Going Strong

By SELMA ROBINSON

When Sophie Tucker returned from London last week we rushed up to her St. Moritz suite to get the lowdown on the higher-ups in British Society. Miss Tucker has been a friend of the Royal Family for 25 years, ever since she taught the then Prince of Wales, David Windsor, how to do the Charleston.

But Miss Tucker, dignified in spite of a bad sunburn that made her face as puffy as an eiderdown quilt, told us nothing doing.

"I don't publicize those things," she boomed in a voice made of thunder. "I don't approve of it. I don't need it. Just say I came back from London."

As a matter of fact, Sophie Tucker herself has always seemed royalty to us, Sophie the Great, Czarina of Broadway, a massive woman with a towering crown of metallic hair, chopping the heads off her subjects with her overpowering voice. Now, however, with her swollen face almost shutting her eyes and her manner distraught over arrival from London and departure for a nation-wide tour, she seemed more like the Duchess in Alice in Wonderland.

What London night club had she appeared in, we asked by way of an opener. Miss Tucker's eyes studied us suspiciously over the hummocks of her sun-damaged cheeks.

"Don't you read the papers?" she demanded imperiously. "I was at the London Casino. It's a theater, not a night club. They don't have no night clubs in London—no food for that. There's no starving to death, you understand. They're meeting all ends and not grumbling about it. There's no country in the world like it."

A leonine murmuring

"You can get all the food you want if you pay for it. The poor fellow can't pay no dollar and a half for steak, same as here. Now let's get away from it because I don't like to talk about it."

She rose heavily from her chair, an expansive, irrepressibly blonde woman in her 60s, to soak two wads of cotton in witch hazel for her sunburn. Her dress, an outsize gray silk printed with sheep and shepherdesses, was slit at the ankle, and her nylons were but the sheerest. Then she sat back in her chair and balanced the dripping cotton pads on her face.

"I was up to Kiamesha Lake for the weekend. The sun was a crime," she murmured in a leonine roar.

She sighed.

"I tell you, dear, I'm a little bit haywire right now. I'm gonna have a home for the first time in my life. Six rooms. On Park Avenue." She waved her hand with a short final gesture. "I don't give no address out."

Her living room would be English, her bedroom modern Chinese, her dining room 18th Century English—"but when I say English I don't mean heavily set with all that antique stuff."

She would eat at home, "do what everybody does," even though she had no family up here. She had one son but no grandchildren, she just wasn't lucky that way. Her son lived in Miami Beach—she bought him a hotel there, the Robert E. Lee, but she stops at another Miami hotel because she does not want to be a "free customer."

She sat upright, and the pads dropped from her face: "Instead of studying my songs I'm studying the damned furnishings," she shouted. "I'm waitin' for the interior decorator now. I'm gonna work on the den—well, it's kind

SYD COHEN:

A Look at Local Sports

LET'S TALK ABOUT:

Softball—In two days the interrupted season begins its final four weeks and then the champions will be crowned. The standings remain as they were in July, which means the teams will pick up where they left off. In case some of you cannot quite understand that, here is the story.

When the softball league was organized last April, it was the consensus of opinion among the league delegates that it would be impractical to schedule games during the hot summer months when most of the men want to be at the beaches or on their vacations. It was agreed to wind up the season in June and then resume in September if that were possible.

The first half of that program worked out all right, despite unforeseen postponements such as the darndest stretch of rainy Sundays on record, Jewish holidays and the SOS drive. The teams played under the impression that the champion would be crowned in early summer. Near the end, however, the delegates got together and decided to extend the season by four Sundays in September so that it would be only one pennant race for the entire outdoor season.

Another Round

That is why the present setup is in operation. Some men wanted split seasons with the two pennant winners clashing for the championship. Others wanted one schedule with a series of playoffs deciding the ultimate winner. Last spring each team played each of the others twice. Now there will be another round wherein each team plays doubleheaders each Sunday—but against two different teams. This arrangement will mean that over the course of four Sundays, another round will have been played, or 21 games in all.

This does not apply to the junior division which wound up its season in July.

Elsewhere in this issue the complete story for Sunday's games will be told. Now, if all clubs watch their rosters and make sure all league regulations are obeyed, we should have an interesting final month.

Football Arrangements

Touch Football—Nothing much here, except that two clubs have practically signified to me their intention of entering the proposed league which I mentioned last week. Arrangements will be completed before the end of the softball season.

Baseball—I intend soon to get together with Warren Walden to see about the requirements for us to get some Jewish teams in the local amateur leagues in 1949, in addition to getting an all-Jewish baseball league in operation.

Golf—great plans were on tap for this sport this summer and it marks the first failure of the expanded sports program. The Herald was ready to sponsor a golf tournament but could not chase the fellows around to organize it. Many participants hesitated to speak up because they were afraid they were not good enough. The wrong attitude.

The scores did not matter to one group of men I know, among them Julian Holland, Harold Aven, Nate Gordon, Haskell Frank and Hy Mandell. These boys were out almost every Sunday morning getting in shape and even took off as many afternoons as possible to polish up their games. As to the rest, we heard nothing from them and did not have the time to try to track them down and talk them into entering a tourney. So—I hope we have at least laid the groundwork this year and that in 1949 we will have a golf tournament.

In the meantime, we get started again with softball—and it is my hope that this Sunday is the start of a year-round schedule of activity for our Jewish athletes.

Sophie Tucker

of a semi-den and guest room, with a semidavenport in it, and a lovely desk and a radio. My office is giving me a Regency television set which I am building into my living room fireplace. Trouble is I have to leave Wednesday for Chicago. I just don't have no time for anything. I'll be in the apartment only from Nov. 7 to January 5, when I play the Latin Quarter. The truth is, I don't have no time from now to 1950."

"I still have to plan my clothes," Miss Tucker shouted confidently. "Clothes, a new hairdo, new jewels—everything new. It's expected of me. I always use black and white—I like something definite." Her 18 gowns ("I have to change them twice nightly because I sweat them out") will be either black or white and they will be made by Florence Lustig, who "understands a woman my size." Her furs will be black and white, too—a Mandarin coat of white Russian broadtail to wear over the white costumes and a pastel mink ("not blue mink, dear") Mandarin coat to go over black.

"I always feature tremendous hairdos; this year I will have a big waterfall effect high on the head," she held her hand about a foot away from her head. "And my jewels will be 150 and 200 carat aquamarines from Van Cleef and Arpels."

We made a stale, feeble remark about her tiring of last year's diamonds and Miss Tucker nodded solemnly.

Like a new model car

"I turn the jewels and the fur coats in every season for something new," she said. Like getting a new model car? She nodded. That was right. Of course, only the big, legitimate houses would do something like that, and then not with all their customers.

Hef maid traveled with her. Did she also take her hairdresser Tucker took the pads off her eyes the better to see us.

"You've never been around, have you?" she accused. Not comalong, we wanted to know. Miss pared with her, we ventured. "Well, she said, "there's a good hairdresser in every town and you just make arrangements with him to come to the theater to do your hair. I don't carry one of them around with me. That's what we call a phony. I've got other things on my mind. Right now I've got to learn half a dozen songs."

Abu Yusuf's Arabs fight for the Jews

Sheik Abu Yusuf, accompanied by 10 of his 13 sons, talks over strategy with a liaison officer of the Israeli Army.

ON PALESTINE'S northern front, the Israeli force is augmented by a band of Bedouin warriors. These are the men of the tribe of Hib whose 70-year-old Sheik Abu Yusuf Ihstein, led them from their homes on the Syrian border to join the Jewish forces. Embittered by an old experience with the Arab National League, who tried to cheat him, of some of his land, Abu Yusuf is convinced that the Jewish cause is right. His men, led by a veteran Jewish officer, have quickly learned methods of modern warfare and, on two occasions, have stood up to major Syrian attacks. Their knowledge of the terrain makes them invaluable in smaller raids on enemy Arab villages on both sides of the border.

From the rocky retreat where they now live, the Bedouins fight for the Jews.

"Keep the Roly Polys on the Rolling Sea"

NEW YORK—William Greenberger, proprietor of Sig Klein's Fat Men's Shop at 50 Third Avenue and himself a human twig whom most of his customers could hide in their pants, had a message for the Navy recently.

"Adm. Thebaud's tirade on fat naval officers," he buzzed wispishly, "is lousy. It's stupid. I mean it stinks! The fat men are the serene men. We need more fat men in high places, including the Navy, and if Senator Taft only had the couple of hundred more pounds his father had, he'd have that certain oomph and oopla that can carry a man from Capitol Hill to the White House."

Enjoys Big Trade

Here Greenberger, clothier to such large elite as Salvatore Baccaloni, the behemoth of the Metropolitan Opera, and Happy Felton, the laughing mountain of radio, ran out of words. He disappeared behind a few dozen fathoms of blue serge he was trying on a big banker from Bogota.

His ire for Rear Adm. Leo H. Thebaud, inspector-general of the Navy, is based on the admiral's criticism of those naval officers who get too fat. They were ordered to diet and exercise.

"First place," continued Greenberger, "that Navy admiral shows his ignorance of psychology. Has he taken the trouble to study the benefits fat men bring to their fellowmen? No! They don't worry. They laugh. They feel a big, warm bond with the rest of humanity!"

"Si," grinned the banker from Bogota, "un mundo."

Greenberger spat out some pins. "Not only that," he declared, "fat men don't pick fights, but Lord help anyone who starts one with them. They would be a great asset if they were in the Army and Navy by the hundreds."

Large Interruption

"Esplendido!" shouted the big banker from Bogota, "please, let it out a leetle more. Si, just there."

"One more thing," said Greenberger. "If you know this admiral, ask him these questions: Does he know the difference between a fat man in the right clothes and one in the wrong clothes? It's the difference between a worm and a god! Has he ever studied the secondary uses that the Navy could find for fat—I mean really fat—officers?"

Washington, weighed 300 pounds and was thought the better for it. Heavyweights in the Navy have long been valued for ballasting a longboat and tipping ship. There is even a case on record of two fat petty officers linking hands and serving as a collision mat on a damaged destroyer off the New Hebrides.

So they believe it may all be Navy avoirdupois politics. The Thin Brass—like Thebaud—may be jealous of the popularity of the Fat Brass—like Adm. Ingram. And to prove this point, they recall that after William H. Taft climbed to 6,000-foot-high Baguio, when he was governor-general of the Philippines, (of course he was mounted) he later bagged thousands of presidential voters because Elihu Root had voted: "How in hell is the horse?"

Abrams Gives $500 In Memory of Wife

Max Abrams of 240 Gallatin Street announced this week that he will contribute a total of five hundred dollars to various organizations in memory of his wife. The unveiling of her headstone will take place next Sunday afternoon at Lincoln Park Cemetery.

The Pioneer Women, Ahavath Sholom Synagogue, and Jewish Home for the Aged will receive $100 each; Sons of Jacob Synagogue, Hebrew Sheltering Society, Providence Hebrew Day School and the Haganah organization of Israel will each receive $50.

Emanuel Hebrew School Reopens

Registration in the Hebrew School of Temple Emanuel will begin this Sunday, in the vestry of the Temple from 10 o'clock to noon.

The faculty will consist of Aaron Klein, director of religious education, and Mrs. Aaron Klein. Both Mr. and Mrs. Klein have been associated with the school for the past five years. A new personality who will be associated with the School in all its activities will be Temple Emanuel's new rabbi, Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen.

Headstones Deserve Cleaning and Care

Honoring of the dead is one of our functions that has become hallowed with time. It marks the only way that we can keep the memory of our departed loved ones fresh and clear.

Outside of our "Kaddish", the memorial prayer for the dead, our only visible means of respect for those who have passed away is in the maintenance of the burial plots. We erect handsome headstones over the graves and pay to have the graves themselves cared for and kept neat throughout the year.

Yet, we seldom think of the headstone once it is erected; and, actually, these memorial stones deserve as much care as do the grassy plots. They, after all, are the most outstanding physical memorial we have.

The Boston Window and Building Cleaning Company, after much deliberation and at the insistence of many of its customers and friends, instituted a steam cleaning service for headstones last year. It is this firm, it will be recalled, that steam cleaned the City Hall building last year.

This new cleaning service for headstones proved very popular with those who saw it accomplished. It is an easy, swift and efficient operation that is extremely reasonable in price. It makes the headstones, battered and weather-beaten by wind and storm, appear like new—shining beacons that seem to illuminate the final resting places of our loved ones.

Surely it is as important to clean the headstone as it is to remove weeds from around a grave.

Think it over—and then call Henry Brill at the Boston Window and Building Cleaning Company at 118 Empire Street, telephone GA 8581 or GA 0782, for an estimate.

Boston Archbishop Reveals Jews Major Givers to Catholic Funds

BOSTON—A strong hint that some of the major contributions towards support of the Boston Catholic Archdiocese come from Jews was given here this week by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing.

In an address at St. Columban's Seminary, he urged Catholics to reject all racial and religious prejudices and offered a personal pledge to stop such prejudice.

"If there is any Catholic organization harboring such prejudices, I will assume the responsibility of remedying it," he said.

At this point the church leader revealed that some of the most generous benefactions to the Catholic Church and its institutions in this area come from Jewish sources. Many of the more prominent Jewish philanthropists here include Archbishop Cushing's projects in their regular contributions.

Meet Levinson--of "Impossible Pictures"

HOLLYWOOD—A producer has finally taken the trouble to find out that when a jokeman says "Madman Munts" 75 per cent of the country doesn't know it's a joke.

This will come as a great shock to Hollywood. It's been razzing itself for years secure in the untested conviction that the peasants were rolling in the aisles.

Leonard L. Levinson made the test. The peasants were bored stiff.

Movietown radio studio audiences yak obediently at the mention of The Madman, Honest John, Forest Lawn, Howard Hughes, La Brea Tar Pits and Pershing Square. East of the county line, listeners wonder what all the fuss is about.

Levinson decided to change all that in the "Idiomatic" comic shorts produced by his company, Impossible Pictures.

"I wanted jokes that were funny all over the country," he said. When his survey results came in, he changed the dialogue to fit.

Know Corny

Everybody, Levinson discovered, knows what you mean by corny, a radio commercial, jive, the Brown Derby, the Candid Mike radio show, Acres O'Riley and Heels Beals and Stop the Music.

"With $20,000 a week," Levinson, said, "you achieve instant fame."

Small town fans, Levinson found, don't know Clare Boothe Luce from Elsie the Cow. Neither have they heard of torch singers, be-bop band leader Dizzy Gillespie or gag men.

"Sixty per cent of the people," Levinson advised us, "believe that radio comedians think up their lines as they go along." They don't.

Few outside Chicago, Indianapolis and Los Angeles know that a hot-rod is a hopped-up car, Levinson said. Teen-age columnist Betty Betz is a household word only in Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City. Southerners don't know about Mickey Finns.

Nobody recognizes a movie trailer by that name, Levinson, who burlesques one in an upcoming Jerky Journey, now calls it a "Preview."

He had to forget about marble gambling machines, because he didn't know what to call them.

"The survey showed," he said, "that they were known as ballies in Chicago, flashers and plungers in Texas, pingames in Minneapolis and Nashville, tilters in Arkansas, one-balls and five-balls in Miami and du-wa-ditties in the rest of the South."

Levinson's first impossible cartoon is Romantic Rumbolia, a travelogue about an imaginary is-

Al Rosen Goes on Home Run Hitting Spree

Five home runs in successive times at bat is the latest accomplishment of Al (Flip) Rosen, Cleveland-owned third baseman who was the only member of the American Association's all-star team who gained his position by a unanimous vote.

Writing about Rosen in the Sporting News recently, Ernest Mehl, a Kansas City writer, told about the feat, considered an Association record.

Mehl wrote: "Al had looked on a few days earlier when his chief challenger (for home run honors), Hank Bauer, went on a slugging spree with five circuit blows smashed during a series at home. When the Blues (Kansas City) reached Lexington Park in St. Paul, July 27,

Rosen waved greetings to the Coliseum roof in left field, made his familiar cross at the side of the plate and began swinging.

"Streak in Two Games"

"In five successive trips to the plate, Al clouted that number of swats on the Coliseum roof for what, undoubtedly, is an Association record as the loop's book of statistics reveals nothing equaling the feat.

"In the first game, Al was at bat five times, scoring three runs, getting four hits, the last three of which were homers. He drove in seven tallies and followed the next night by getting two more round-trippers on his first two trips. In that game, he was at bat four times, scoring two runs and getting three hits, a double to go with his homers. He drove in six runs, making a total of 13 runs batted around in two games.

"On two or three previous occasions, Rosen had driven the ball out of the park twice in one game, but his exploits in St. Paul far exceeded any other of his since he was sent to the Blues on option by Cleveland at the start of the season ...

"Rosen's recent drive ... has brought him the league batting leadership. Rosen's runs-batted-in total is second ... and his home run total of 24 is tops ... despite the fact Flip is performing at home in a park where the left field fence is 350 feet from home plate".

Y.A.D. Initial Gifts Dinner Set for Sept. 15

Captain E. M. Ben-Dror, famed desert fighter and Haganah officer, will highlight the Initial Gifts dinner-meeting of the GJC's Young Adult Division at Ledgemont Country Club, Wednesday evening, Sept. 15.

As featured speaker at the Y. A. D. affair, Capt. Ben-Dror will deliver an eye-witness report of the military capacity of the new Republic of Israel and the ability of the Jewish people to defend themselves against aggression while, at the same time, dedicating themselves to the upbuilding of the first democratic state to emerge from World War II.

Born in Siberia, Capt. Ben-Dror is a veteran of both World Wars. His vast military experience in the Middle East began with his service as a mounted gendarmier in Lower Galilee during World War I.

It was during this period that the Jewish homeland in Palestine began to take shape and Capt. Ben-Dror played a prominent role in the earliest days of the Zionist movement there.

As early as 1936, Capt. Ben-Dror helped organize the Haganah defenses of Jewish settlements in the Jerusalem area. Charged with the training of the Jewish settlement police force, he participated in numerous skirmishes with marauding Arab bands during the ensuing years.

As commanding officer of a Palestinian company serving with the British Eighth Army, Capt. Ben-Dror was part of the heroic troops that stemmed Rommel's Africa Corps at the historic battle of El Alemain. At the conclusion of the war, he returned to his home in Palestine to organize and strengthen Haganah for the struggle to establish a Jewish homeland.

Capt. Ben-Dror is now in this country on a flying trip in behalf of the nation-wide $250,000,000 United Jewish Appeal campaign for refugees, overseas needs and Palestine.

Enthusiasm Stirred

News of his appearance here on Sept. 15 has stirred considerable enthusiasm among the young adults of greater Providence and officials of the Division are looking forward to the most successful Initial Gifts dinner-meeting ever staged by this comparatively new division of the General Jewish Committee.

Ira Rakatansky, chairman, and Jacob N. Temkin, co-chairman, joined with Bernard E. Bell and Ronald Sopkin, co-chairmen of the Initial Gifts Committee, in urging immediate return of all acceptance cards to the Ledgemont affair, in order that accurate reservations may be made as soon as possible.

Audience of 300 Seen

An audience of 300 young adults is expected to be on hand to greet Capt. Ben-Dror at the meeting, which is slated to begin promptly at 6:30 o'clock with a buffet supper in charge of Mrs. Ronald Sopkin and Mrs. Leonard Chaset.

Mrs. Peter Bardach and Milton Stallman, who are handling transportation arrangements, reiterated this week that those guests who are without transportation to Ledgemont on Sept. 15 will be taken care of by calling Mrs. Bardach at Williams 4563 or Stallman at Gaspee 4891.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory satin gown with cathedral train, bertha and peplum trimmed with crystal beads and seed pearls. Her finger tip veil of French illusion fell from a crown with side clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a prayerbook marked with orchids and stephanotis.

ILGWU Aide Asks Entry of DP Tailors

WASHINGTON—A New York union official this week criticized the Justice Department for failure to act on a year-old request by the garment industry for admission of 10,000 skilled immigrant tailors from Europe.

James Lipsig, assistant executive secretary of the AFL International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, said the recently-enacted Displaced Persons Law would help in relieving the industry's "critical" labor shortage.

He told a Senate judiciary subcommittee that Canada, with a much smaller garment industry, has admitted 2100 European tailors. These needed tailors, he said, are barred by restrictions in the DP Act and present immigration quotas.

Many Poles Barred

Lipsig said most skilled tailors "come from eastern Europe, chiefly Poland. Poles, who went to the allied zones of Germany and Austria after Dec. 22, 1945 are eliminated by that cut-off date in the statute."

Future Golf Champs

It looks as if the young set is finally becoming enthusiastic about golf. Barbara Röss, Rene Rapporte and Phyllis Feldman are just a few of the many young people seen at Ledgemont recently. Ten-year-old Alan Samdperil is proving the old proverb, "the younger you are, the quicker you learn." Before taking his first golf lesson, Alan informed the Pro: "After this I'm going on the course to play!"

Visits Boston

Friends are seeing very little of Leila Sadler these days. Leila is more often in Boston than in Providence. Wonder what Boston has that Providence has not?

Engagement Party

Last Sunday a party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Orodener in honor of the engagement of their daughter, Vivian, to Ralph Kolodny of Fall River. Dinner was held at Lake Pearl Manor, Lake Pearl, and was followed by a reception at the Orodeners' summer home in Riverview. Ralph, a graduate of Brown, will attend Columbia University. Viv will transfer from Syracuse to Rhode Island State.

Returned from School

Speaking of Syracuse, Betsy Goldsmith returned last Friday after taking a summer course there.

In California

Mendy Robinson, Howie Saltzman and Bert Kessler arrived in California last Saturday and from what I hear they're having a grand time. They're trying to see all they can in a brief stay.

Recent Engagements

Congratulations to Gloria Markoff and James Winston, who recently became engaged... also to Dick Paster and his fiancée, Elaine Frank.

Returned from vacation.

The Nathan Curlands have returned after a three week vacation at the Pines Hotel in Digby, Nova Scotia.

Tough Decision

Ruth Borod and her fiancé, Bunty Wattman, will be married in a few weeks, but still (at this writing) haven't decided where to go for their honeymoon.

Birthday gift

Reva Steingold, who'll be sixteen October 18, is glowing with excitement these days—and with good reason! Reva's received a premature birthday gift from her parents—a beautiful 1948 gray Chevrolet convertible. Reva can hardly wait until she's sixteen so that she can drive it!

Softball Resumes Sun. New Race Is Planned

(Note—Syd Cohen's column, appearing on Page 10, was written before the Tuesday meeting of the softball league delegates at which a change in the existing championship system was voted. The following story, written after the Herald's deadline upon receipt of a report of that meeting, explains the procedure that will be in effect starting this Sunday.)

All teams will start from scratch this Sunday in a brand new pennant race for the second half championship, Irving (Tex) Rabinowitz, commissioner of the Centre Softball League, announced Tuesday night following a meeting with delegates from the senior division teams.

The decision to make a new race of the fall season constituted an abrupt about face from the previous policy, which would have had the clubs picking up where they left off last spring. It followed considerable discussion during the summer months among team members who thought a split season should be in effect.

Under the new plan, the eight teams will play one round in the next four Sundays. Each club will play two games against different teams for three weeks, then a single game with the seventh outfit on the fourth Sunday.

For the resumption of play this week, two fields will be in use. At Bucklin Park, East Side Pharmacy will oppose Mal's Baby Shoppe on one diamond while Sackin-Shockett plays Arden Mfg Capitols on the other. Then the teams will switch, Mal's squaring off against the Caps while Sackin-Shockett engages East Side Pharmacy. At Hopkins Park it will be Gob Shop vs Berry Clothing and Jake Kaplan's Olympics vs Blazers in the openers, and Gob Shop vs Blazers and Olympics vs Berry Clothing in the nightcaps.

Teams may submit new rosters by game time Sunday, these rosters to remain in effect for the rest of the season.

As far as playoffs are concerned, arrangements for them will be made following the end of the "new" season. Rabinowitz said, however, that the four first division teams will play one-game elimination series to decide the championships.

Largest A.E. Pi Conclave on Tap at the Pier

Climaxing ten month's preparation, the arrival last night and early this morning of over 300 members of A. E. Pi at the Beachwood Hotel in Narragansett ensured the success of the 35th Anniversary Convention of the Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity. This is the largest gathering in the history of A. E. Pi, now the largest Jewish fraternity in the U. S. with 44 chapters in this country and Canada.

Of especial interest to the assembled conferees was the delegation from Texas, replete in tennegallon hats and chaps and fully equipped with six-shooters. At the business session tomorrow morning, the Texas delegation will make its bid to sponsor next year's convention. The Lone Staters lost last year to the convincing arguments of Jacob N. Temkin of Providence, the present convention chairman.

Among the many other groups adding considerable local color is the delegation from Florida. Arriving early this morning with what appeared to be an entire citrus grove, the Florida lads firmly established Miami as the scene of the next convention by distributing free orange juice from an ingeniously contrived stand in the lobby.

MAL HALLET

Wives of the delegates and members were not altogether forgotten, and almost 100 of them boarded busses this morning for a trip to Newport and luncheon at the Cliff House. Later this evening, a Rhode Island clam bake followed by dancing and entertainment will take place on the hotel lawn. And tomorrow night the casino will be the scene of the informal dinner dance.

Highlight of the dance will be the crowning of the first national "Sweetheart of A. E. Pi." Of the 20 chapters entered in the contest, two are represented by Providence girls. Miss Jane Lee Cohen will appear for the chapter at Rhode Island State College, and Helene Friedman will represent the chapter at Worcester Polytechnic Institute. They will join girls from as far distant as Los Angeles, Albuquerque, Seattle, Atlanta and Miami, among others.

Valuable gift prizes have been offered by the members to the winner and her court.

Judges of the contest are Louis Heller of Milwaukee, national president; S. Harrison Kahn of Washington, member of the Supreme Board of Governors, and Mal Hallet, popular orchestra leader who will furnish music for the affair.

Edgar A. Barwood of Providence will serve as master of ceremonies and make the award presentations.

The three-day conclave will conclude late Sunday afternoon following the annual banquet. Awards will be presented to many individuals and chapters for meritorious work in many fields of endeavor during the previous year. Principle speaker will be Dr. Warren D. Smith of Rhode Island State College. Dr. Smith, an instructor of English serves the local chapter in the capacity of faculty advisor.

S. Harrison Kahn of Washington, D. C., will be toastmaster and other speakers will include Edgar A. Barwood, vice president of the Providence Alumni Club; Jacob N. Temkin, convention chairman; and Louis V. Heller of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, national president of A. E. Pi.

PLATFORM of M. LOUIS ABEDON
2nd column candidate for Attorney General

If nominated and elected, my objective shall be a department which is efficient, honest, fair, fearless, just, and possessing a high sense of public duty.

To that end:

- (1) I shall remove the department completely from politics.
- (2) I shall press for legislative authority for a within-the-department organization of trained personnel which could initiate independently of other agencies the department's own program and the detection of crime and investigation of complaints and detected crimes.
- (3) The department's function will not be limited to prosecution of cases referred by the police.
- (4) The public may rely on the fact that the department will always be open to hear complaints of all people.
- (5) And such complaints shall be promptly and efficiently investigated and prosecuted.
- (6) The department shall always work closely with the several police departments of the state.
- (7) A member of the department will be assigned to every important case from the moment it breaks until its successful conclusion.
- (8) The department will not be satisfied with conviction of the "small fry." If necessary, the department will attempt to secure reduced sentences for minor offenders in order to obtain testimony against the "big shots."
- (9) The protection of the innocent will be as important to the department as the punishment of the guilty.

The voters of Rhode Island who want a department which is the servant of the public—not its master—can enable me to carry out my platform by voting for me in the forthcoming primaries on September 20th.

Sincerely yours,
M. Louis Abedon, 2nd Column
