Women's Division Poised for 'M-Day'

All-Day Solicitation Set for Sunday

MRS. HARRY FOWLER

MRS. BURTON FINBERG

MRS. SAMUEL CHERNOV

MRS. MORRIS BARUCH

The 4,600 Jewish women of Providence have been asked to stay in their homes Sunday to await the 400 volunteer workers, who will canvass the entire city in the now famous "M" DAY fund-raising drive. This one-day event has been so highly organized that it is expected that workers will finish with their lists in record time and be back at headquarters to make their reports by noon.

Workers have been asked to report at the Narragansett Hotel at 9 a. m. sharp on Sunday morning. They will be served a buffet breakfast, given a few last-minute instructions and sent off on their missions of mercy. There will be no speakers, nothing to delay these volunteer solicitors in making their rounds.

As soon as the workers have had their breakfast and received their kits they will be driven off by members of the Motor Corps to their respective destinations. Each car will carry five solicitors. Drivers in the Motor Corps have been asked to come to the parking lots at 8:45 A. M. They will be served coffee and doughnuts in their cars by a bevy of twenty "Car Hops" headed by Miss Brenda Low. All drivers have been requested to remain in their cars until given the signal to start. The parking lots adjacent to the Narragansett Hotel have been made available by David and William Meyers.

Workers will be identified by their "M" DAY tags and each car in the Motor Corps will have an "M" DAY sticker on the windshield. A large thermometer set in the ballroom of the hotel will keep onlookers informed of the progress of the one-day drive. Weeks and weeks of solicitation and follow-up visits will be avoided by this intensive fund-raising idea, which was originated last

Men Pledge $450,350 to GJC Campaign

GJC Pleased With Initial Donations

The 1949 fund-raising campaign of the General Jewish Committee of Providence opened last Monday evening at Ledgemont Country Club when approximately 240 contributors pledged a total of $450,350 to the local organization's drive in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and 53 smaller beneficiary agencies.

Following the meeting and the announcement of the total, Alvin A. Sopkin, campaign chairman, said, "We've held the line remarkably well in our contributions and, if the same generous response is evidenced from all other donors, I know that this crucial drive will be a success. Tonight's meeting was most gratifying."

This year's quota of the GJC, set earlier in the year, is $1,350,000.

Roosevelt Speaks

Elliott Roosevelt, introduced by Mr. Sopkin as "the famous son of a famous father," was the principal speaker.

In forthright language, he stated that "Israel represents a bulwark of democracy in the Middle East, and a most stabilizing influence for peace everywhere."

Mincing no words, he charged that the "nearsighted" attitude of the British Foreign Office and, later, Winston Churchill had prevented Israel from becoming a reality as a sovereign state two decades ago.

He revealed how his father, the late president, had pleaded with Churchill for Britain to relinquish its mandate over Palestine—but that the latter had remained adamant in his refusal.

"If peace is to become an actuality in this troubled world, we must throw all our strength and

UJA Dollar Shortage Worries Leaders

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A serious dollar crisis in the United Jewish Appeal involving a very substantial drop in the cash received to date on the 1949 campaign was the subject for far-reaching action at the emergency Conference of the United Jewish Appeal which met last weekend at the Statler Hotel in Washington, D. C.

Deeply concerned over the fate of 71,000 new immigrants who must live in barracks and tents in Israel because of lack of funds, the conference, consisting of 800 delegates from 34 states, adopted a four-point program for the stimulation of cash collections.

The conference approved extraordinary measures after it was told that in the first eight months of 1949 the cash received amounted to $84,189,698 as against $122,540,516 that was received during the same period last year. Last year, with only 52,000 immigrants entering Israel during the first eight months, substantially larger funds were available than this year when no less than 180,000 refugees reached the shores of the Jewish State.

Confronted with this critical financial position of the United Jewish Appeal, the conference adopted a resolution calling for:

1. The launching of extraordinary efforts within the communities to speed the collection of all

Kosher Butchers Form Organization

Irving Mittleman was elected president of the newly-organized Kosher Butchers of Providence at a meeting held Sunday.

Others elected were R. Bazar-sky, vice president; Max Mittleman, treasurer; and Irving Abrams, secretary.

The organization voted to apply for a charter.

Spigel, Sugarman Not Members of Group

In a statement issued this week, Fred Spigel and Myer Sugarman, proprietors of kosher butcher shops on Willard Avenue, made public the fact that they are not members of the newly formed Kosher Butchers Association, and they wish to notify the public that they are under the auspices of the Waad Hacashruth.

Community Calendar

The Jewish Herald is co-operating with the R. I. League of Jewish Women's Organizations in the publication of the Community Calendar.

Dates and clearances for women's organization meetings should be cleared through Mrs. Alfred D. Steiner, Hopkins 1-9510. Organizations are requested to notify Mrs. Steiner of their opening meeting dates.

all our resources behind the democratic nations of the world. I consider Israel to be a striking example of enlightened democracy in action," declared Roosevelt.

Earlier, at an afternoon press conference, the second son of the late FDR had flatly stated that, in his opinion, "every dollar we spent aiding Israel to establish herself is worth $1000 spent in Greece."

To the gathering of key workers and drive officials assembled at Ledgemont, Roosevelt said, "Your generosity and your leadership is making all America aware of its responsibility for the preservation of democracy throughout the world."

Stirring Account

Rabbi Morris Lieberman of Baltimore, famed wartime Army chaplain, gave a stirring account of his recent visit to Israel as a member of a UJA survey mission.

"Final victory is within our grasp," he said, "but unless we take the necessary steps to achieve it, Israel may fall by the wayside. The financial plight of the new state is far graver than we suspect; only our sacrificial assistance can keep it going during the crucial year or two ahead."

Archibald Silverman, GJC president, officially opened the meeting and the 1949 campaign with the prediction that "if our actions are shaped by generosity, sacrifice and good will, we in turn will aid in shaping, for the better, lives of Jews all over the world."

Governor Present

Gov. John O. Pastore described the 1949 campaign as "a demonstration of mature responsibility, motivated by the loftiest of purposes."

Mayor Dennis J. Roberts, Providence chief executive, who also spoke, said that "Israel deserves the fullest support—not only of the Jewish people—but of all peace-loving, democratic-believing people everywhere."

A reception and dinner preceded the speaking program. The calling of pledge cards, which followed, proceeded at a rapid pace.

Benjamin Brier, Joseph W. Ress, Albert Pilavin, Sydney A. Kane and Merrill Hassenfeld, together with Sopkin and Silverman, presided at the card calling.

A few of the larger contributions announced included:

The Sopkin Family, $100,000; Abe C. Fine, $70,000; Silverman Brothers, $25,500; The Kane Family, $13,000; Samuel Rapaport, Jr., $12,500; The Hassenfeld Family, $11,500; Apex Tire Co., $10,000; Samuel Rosen, $8,500; The Salmanson Family, $8,000; Ben and Charles Brier and Bureleigh Greenberg, $8,000; United Public Markets, $7,500; Blacher Brothers, $7,000; Leonard Levin, $7,000; City Hall Hardware Co., $7,000; Archie and Irving Pain, $7,000; Harry Pinkerson, $6,500; Walter I. Sundlun, $5,750; The Philip Weinstein Family, $5,000; Nathan Warren, $5,000; The Jacob Licht Family, $3,600; and Isador Low, $3,500.

Shalshalets Plan Future Activities

Plans concerning membership and future activities were discussed at an executive meeting of the Shalshalets held recently at the home of Miss Rosilyn Schwartz, president.

Other officers are Misses Carole Weiss, vice president; Thelma Levy, secretary; Harriet Curran, treasurer; and Dorothy Schwartz, corresponding secretary.

The first regular meeting will be held Monday at the Jewish Community Center.

Green Asks Support of Softball Affairs

Support of the playoffs and the first annual banquet of the Jewish Softball League were urged this week by Sidney Green, chairman of the league's executive committee.

Pointing out that the playoffs will be concluded in about three weeks Green extended a welcome to all fans and members of the league to attend the opening game of the final round this Sunday morning at Hopkins Park. "The championship playoff series will be meaningless," he said, "unless the Jewish sports-minded element gets behind it one hundred per cent."

Green also asked support of the banquet, to be held Tuesday, October 18 at the Coco-Cabana Club. The affair is open to all players and their friends. Those who attend will become "new pioneers of Jewish sports in Rhode Island," he said.

Green urged that the sale of raffle tickets be pushed between now and September 27, when all tickets and money are to be turned in.

funds pledged to the United Jewish Appeal.

2. The initiation wherever possible of supplementary campaigns to provide additional funds for the United Jewish Appeal.

3. The establishment of a formula to assure the allocation of maximum funds and the request that communities suspend all action on allotments until the United Jewish Appeal is heard.

4. That communities make loans from local banks at once to assure a substantial flow of cash.

Old Timers, Comets Duel to Death Sun.

Softball fans have an opportunity this Sunday morning to see not just two, but the best three teams in the Jewish Softball League in action as a result of last Sunday's playoff games. Two games will be played, the first being the rubber match of the three game semi-final series between the Old Timers of Jack Swartz and the Comets of Mal's Baby Stores. The nightcap will find the winner pitted against Miller's Delicatessen in the first game of the final championship series.

The Comets and Old Timers fought it out to the wire by splitting their first two games last week, with the surprising Old Timers pounding out a 7-0 win in the opener and the bouncing Comets rallying for a 10-1 triumph in the nightcap.

Both contests were decided early. The Old Timers clinched their win by scoring all their runs in the first inning. Thereafter, Lefty Davidson and Warren Foster pitched on even terms, with Davidson registering a three-hit shut-out. Ten hits boomed off the Old Timers' bats, with Al Abelson's two-run single and Harold Warren's triple leading the scoring attack.

With Davidson and Foster also twirling the second game, the Swartzmen got away to a first inning lead of one run only to have the Comets break their scoreless streak with six runs in the second. Three more runs followed in the fifth and the final tally in the sixth as the Comets made excellent use of their six hits. The Old Timers collected five off Foster. DelVecchio's bases loaded triple was the big blow.

Sunday's decisive game will start at 9:30, and the first game of the final series will follow shortly after it has been completed.

BERSTEIN-KAPLAN

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Kaplan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Kaplan of Irving Avenue, and Bernard Berstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Berstein of Stanwood Street, took place Sunday at Millis, Mass. Rabbi Nathan Rosen performed the candlelight ceremony. Andy Hughes sang "Oh Promise Me" and "Becahse".

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in a white brocaded satin gown with an illusion neckline and cathedral train. A Spanish comb of seed pearls held her fingertip veil of rose pointe lace, and she carried a white prayer book with a white orchid marker and stephanotis.

Mrs. Albert J. Krasner, sister of the groom, as matron of honor, wore a colonial gown of champagne faille. Her flowers were yellow tea roses.

Isadore Berstein, brother of the groom, was best man.

Mrs. Kaplan chose a gray gown with braid trim and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Berstein, for her son's wedding, selected a honey-beige gown and an orchid corsage.

After a wedding trip to New York and Canada, the couple will reside on Irving Avenue.

The bride is a graduate of Classical High School and Pembroke College. Mr. Berstein, who was Graduated from Hope High School, is a senior at Brown Uni-

Anti-Semitism in Germany

The tale of rising anti-Semitism in Germany is so old that there is an inclination in some circles to completely forget it, or to take it for granted as an irradicable German national trait. It is true that the hate scourge is part and parcel of the foul German soil and soul and that no one is really amazed when it emerges over and again in all its frightfulness and ugliness and in all strata of German society. But, to ignore that occurrence even in a country, which, we hope, will soon have no Jews, is akin to treating a highly communicable disease by ignoring its nature.

Germany is in the center of Europe, and once the ugly trademark of Hitlerism is permitted to rise in new vehemence there, it will spread rapidly along the shattered roads of the rest of the world. With Europe's sick social structure amenable to all sorts of psychopathic trends, the danger of Germany again becoming the fuerher of international anti-Semitism is not as remote as it would seem to the foolish and incautious.

It was, therefore, no accident that the theme of anti-Semitism in Germany was given much thought at the world Jewish Congress executive sessions in Paris. The sharpest and clearest expression of apprehension was delivered by Harry Greenstein, U. S. Advisor on Jewish Affairs, when he told the gathering that Germany was reeking with hostility toward Jews and that it might take generations "before the virulent form of Nazi anti-Semitism" spends itself in that country. Coming from a person who is reputed to be extremely cautious and who weighs his words carefully before uttering them, the warning deserves double attention, particularly from the occupation powers who, as Mr. Greenstein pointed out, ought to make it their business to combat the anti-Semitic movement not merely because it is directed against Jews, but because it is an unmistakable sign of the resurgence of German nationalism in its most vicious form.

Temple Beth Israel Holiday Services

A social hour under the auspices of the Sisterhood will precede the service. Rosh Hashanah eve services will be held next Friday night at 7 o'clock. Saturday and Sunday morning services will begin at 8 o'clock.

"One Man's Opinion"

The Man Who Wouldn't Be A Cantor

By BERNARD SEGAL

All along the Avenue they are displayed in store windows and tacked to street poles. Sleek black and white posters, with photos of very trim, very youngish, and very distinguished looking gentlemen in the traditional garb of the Cantor. Some look at you boldly, others present an artistic profile, but all proclaim themselves to be the golden voice singers from Brooklyn, Roxbury, or Hoboken.

These are the cantors who have been engaged to chant in our synagogues during the coming High Holiday season.

As I walked along the Avenue, with the posters of these men in black togas and white scarfs on either side, I thought of the story told to me some time ago by my friend Arthur. It is a story of the cantor who would not chant.

Few men were as respected in the synagogue where my friend worshipped as a young boy, as was Reb Meir. He was a man of learning and great piety, he never missed a Minyan three times a day, and spent most of his time in the study of the Holy Books.

But Reb Meir was as poor as he was pious, and his honesty was only matched by his modesty. A humble man who walked in humility in a world of go-getting and hustle-bustle. Needless to say that life was not easy for Reb Meir and his growing family. But it was well known that no Sabbath and Holiday table in the homes of the rich can measure up to the table at the house of Reb Meir. Though the food was meager, and the delicacies few, the lack of these was amply filled by the songs of praise and the hymns of joy that came forth from the house of this poor man. On the Sabbaths of a Summer night, people would gather by the windows of Reb Meir's house to listen to father and sons raise their voices in song in honor of the Princess Sabbath, to the delight of the neighborhood.

Now, many of his friends and neighbors knew of the plight of Reb Meir, and they came to him, saying:

"Our Synagogue needs a Cantor for the coming Holidays. Last year we paid a goodly sum to a man who was not half as good as you are. Why bring a stranger to chant for us, when we have a good singer like you among us?"

Year after year a committee from the Synagogue came to him, and always Reb Meir hesitated, asked for time to think it over, and in the end always refused.

Year after year the reason for refusing was the same.

"A Cantor is a Shellach Tzibur, a messenger of the congregation. He stands before the assembly and pleads for his people. Good singing is not enough. A pleading voice is not enough. A loving heart is even greater than a sweet voice. A heart full of compassion and forgiveness must go with the chanting. And this is not all. A Cantor is the emissary of the congregation before the Most High. He pleads the cause of the assembly before the Father in Heaven. A man can plead the cause of his fellow men only with their complete consent, or his mission is not favored in the eyes of God, and his pleas are not accepted.

"Am I, a mere son of man, so sure that I love every one who comes to the synagogue on these most holy days? Am I big enough to forgive and to plead for all alike? And who is to say whether every man, woman, and child wants me as a messenger? How can I be the advocate of unwilling clients? So, you see, my friends, why I cannot be your Cantor?"

And Reb Meir continued to chant sweetly for himself, and a Cantor from another town, not half as good as he was, stood before the Holy Ark and pleaded for the Congregation on New Year and on Yom Kippur.

Now, please do not misunderstand me. I do not for a minute suggest that our Cantors who are to chant in our Synagogues this year, go around and take a popularity poll among the members. Perish the thought.

I merely wanted to tell you about Reb Meir because it is good to know that such men once lived with us.

And who knows? They might still be among us even today. We have but to seek them out.

Women's Division Poised for 'M' Day

year here in Providence.

Mrs. Albert Pilavin, overall chairman of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee declares that, "This year may well be the glorious homecoming promised to the long-homeless and desperate DP's now arriving by the thousands in Israel. Providence women have the opportunity this Sunday to save lives right on their own doorsteps by contributing generously to our great cause."

Last Wednesday several hundred volunteer solicitors were briefed at a "Workers' Institute" held at The Narragansett Hotel. At this time, workers made their own pledges so that they might start right out on Sunday. A substantial increase was noted in the workers' contributions at this time.

The four "M" DAY Chairmen, Mrs. Harry Fowler, Mrs. Burton Finberg, Mrs. Samuel Chernov and Mrs. Morris Baruch have been busy all summer long organizing procedure for Sunday. This day will climax the entire campaign of the Women's Division. Mrs. Norman Fain and Mrs. Joseph E. Adelson are in charge of the fleet of more than 100 drivers and cars which comprise the Motor Corps. And Mrs. Ephraim Feingold organized the teen-age "Car Hops", who will serve breakfast to the drivers. Breakfast and lunch will be served under the supervision of the Special Assignments and Arrangements Committee consisting of Mrs. Samuel Schneider, Mrs. Herbert M. Wolf, Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Joseph J. Seffer, Mrs. Barney Kay, Mrs. Archie Albert and Mrs. Ephraim Feingold. Miss Gertrude Tarnapol will be in charge of office control.

"Money Moves Millions", the slogan for "M" DAY signifies the purpose of the Women's Division campaign. It is hoped that the money contributed by the Jewish women of Providence will move the millions of desperate men, women and children now huddled into tents in Israel—that this money will move them into homes where they can find peace and happiness at last. The women of Providence aim to make "M" DAY, "One Great Day of Giving to make Jewish Life Worth Living!"

Adventure In Israel

By MARTIN TEMKIN

(The following letter was written by Mr. Temkin, 20 years old, a senior at Brown University, who spent several weeks in Israel. His description of the country and some of his experiences are related in the letter, which was addressed to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Temkin, of Wayland Avenue.)

August 16

Dear Family—

Here I am in Israel—little did I think when I landed in England that I would be going this far into a different continent!

I took the 7 A. M. plane out of Rome and finally arrived in sight of Israel at about 4:30 P. M. The biggest thrill of my entire trip overseas was the sight of Palestine as the plane passed over its shores. I just sat up straight in my seat completely thrilled by first the sight of the white breakers breaking upon the sandy shores, then the wide, barren desert-like land, followed by land sparsely broken by little clumps of bushes; and as we moved further inland, I saw more cultivated land, with many large groves of trees, and I couldn't help thinking of all the work which Dad, Grandpa, and everybody else did to make all these groves possible. And believe me, as the plane lowered its altitude and banked its wings, and then as the wheels of the plane touched the ground a wonderful feeling of I don't know what swelled up in me and many thoughts raced through my mind—one of which I remembered was that I wished that all the rest of you could experience this feeling.

When the plane stopped, a pretty girl climbed aboard and said, first in Hebrew and then in English.

"Ladies and Gentlemen, Welcome to Israel." And it made me feel funny being welcomed here to a land about which I had studied for years in Sunday School, in Hebrew School and about which for the last couple of years had read so much about—but I was here.

From the airport we took a taxi to the American Hotel which was recommended to me at the airport. They had no room but stuck me in the sun room on a cot—very clean and nice place—had supper

I walked down to Allenby Street, which is the main street of Tel Aviv, and I luckily came at a good time. Today was Herzl day—his body was flown in from Paris and there was a big to-do here.

A big black-clothed platform upon which was a stand with the Coffin on it, backed by seven tall candelabras—each about 25 feet tall—was at the foot of Allenby Road, near the beach, and each side of Allenby Road was lined by Israeli flags. Rabbi Herzog, Ben Gurion, and all the others were here—a very impressive sight.

Also before this, I had talked my way into the Knesseth (Parliament) and gone through it.

August 21—7 P. M.

I am now sitting in the train heading for Paris, having left Rome at 6:50 P. M.—that explains the time and travel situation.

When I wrote last I was undecided as to whether I was going from Tel Aviv on to Haifa or to Jerusalem. Well, I woke up Wednesday morning and got ready for my trip. I started by walking through Tel Aviv to the Haifa Road. I walked on the Haifa Road to an Army tramping station—tramping is what we call hitch-hiking, only everyone, man and woman does it in Israel because of the very poor transportation system.

Center Parents Urge Jewish Education

Jewish parents were urged by the Parent's Association of the Jewish Community Center to enroll their children in Jewish educational agencies during Jewish Education Month, which began on September 15. Mrs. Dora Borenstein, president of the Parent's Association, issued a call which read as follows:

This is a call to Jewish parents, upon the approach of a new school year, to consider the education of their children in terms of their personal happiness, in terms of the historic times in which we live, in terms of an understanding of their heritage, in terms of synthesizing their lives as Jews and as citizens in democratic America.

The Parent's Association believes that the Jewish child cannot achieve personal happiness without an understanding of his life as a Jew. He will gain such understanding only through Jewish education. Without it, that which should be a source of security to him may become a source of insecurity, unbalance, inferiority and escapism. Without it, the spiritual bond between parent and child, between his past and present, are severed.

The Jewish Community Center joins groups throughout the country in observing Jewish Education Month, which began on September 15 and culminates in Jewish Education Week which ends October 23.

If your child already attends a Jewish religious school, make sure that this education is continued. If he is not yet enrolled, enroll him now.

Dedication services of the Congregation B'nai Israel, Woonsocket, Jewish Community Center were held Sunday at the new building (shown above) on Hamlet Avenue. ## 500 Attend Dedication Of Woonsocket JCC

Religious leaders of all faiths joined with other dignitaries Sunday afternoon in dedicating the Congregation B'nai Israel's new Jewish Community Center on Hamlet Avenue, Woonsocket. The ceremonies were attended by more than 500 persons.

Speakers repeatedly called attention to the attractiveness of the building and the way in which it could serve the Woonsocket community, while Mayor Guillaume L. Parent termed it "the most beautiful center I have seen in New England."

Other congratulatory messages were delivered by the Rev. William M. Delaney, diocesan director of the Catholic Youth Organization; the Rev. Marvin H. Green, president of the Woonsocket Ministers' Association, and members of the congregation.

Invocation was given by Rabbi Aaron Goldin, president of the Rhode Island Rabbinical Association, and benediction by the Rev. Harold G. Whitmarsh, rector of St. James Episcopal Church.

"As representative of Bishop McVinney," Father Delaney told the group, "I congratulate you in Woonsocket for a fine job." He pointed to the work of his CYO and said that Jews and Protestants were always welcome to join in the activities.

Congregation B'nai Israel's spiritual leader, Rabbi Felix Aber, and its educational director, Morris W. Shoham, both reviewed past activities and looked forward to the role the new structure would play in the lives of the community. Rabbi Aber's dedicatory message stressed the need of worshipping God in everyday life as well as at religious services.

There were two key ceremonies, the first in which Philip J. Mackteiz, chairman of the building committee, handed over the keys to the building to President Coleman P. Falk, and the second in which the president turned over the key to his brother, Frank H. Falk. The latter had coordinated the multiple activities attendant to the renovation.

President Falk praised all the members of the committees, which he said, had done six months' work in three in order to get the building ready for the fall and winter programs.

"It remains for us to dedicate ourselves to the building, rather than for us just to dedicate the building," he said. Falk also outlined plans for further development.

Choir selections were given under the direction of Philip Mackteiz, while there were recitations by Arnold H. Macktaz and Barbara Ann Israel.

Joseph Shorr, congregation vice president, served as master of ceremonies.

SYD COHEN:

Our Rising Leadership

Usually, a review of past accomplishments, or the lack of them, appears in the newspapers during the last week of the calendar year. I've followed that custom myself in the past. But here is Rosh Hashanah just one week away, and with it comes the changing of the seasons and the conclusion of the summer sports program. Technically, the Jewish year ends next Friday; but that day also is the "eve" of the New Year. This column will treat it as "getaway" day, and will start the year off by making public for the first time the latest sports project that will be sponsored here in Providence and vicinity. So here we are, sort of closing out the books on a most eventful year, one that could have been better, yet showed more actual accomplishment and promise for the future than any other I can remember. We still are somewhat behind the times in providing for the athletic needs and desires of our youngsters from five to fifty, but at least we are finally showing signs of developing the type of interest and leadership that will bring us up-to-date. And when these two qualities get to a certain peak, ingenuity and accomplishment will follow in their natural order.

A New Leadership

What's it all about—that we had a strong softball league and also a successful golf tournament? Nope, that's not the answer—just a couple of healthy symptoms. The real story is that this community is now coming alive with a new class of leaders, men—young men from their late twenties to their early forties—who are determined to make this a better community for the kids who are now growing up as well as for themselves, on a limited scale; who want the youngsters to have every possible facility and opportunity to stimulate their mental and physical growth and add to their enjoyment. It's like a father who had no education or record of achievement getting a terrific kick out of the education and exploits of his son, and feeling tremendous pride in the part he played in bringing this career to life.

It isn't entirely unselfish. These men are still young enough to benefit themselves from a sound, comprehensive sports program, so they have even more incentive to get the ball rolling.

So it is that one large group of men is working hard and often on the development and growth of the softball league, on its insurance and annual banquet, (the first of which will be held Tuesday October 18 at the Coco-Cabana Club.

So it is that the golfers are forming a permanent and truly representative committee, which will not only plan and run the annual Jewish Open, but will keep a collective eye on the future and the possibility of some day—soon—establishing another Jewish Country Club for the benefit of at least a couple of hundred more golfers and their families who do not now have the facilities they would like to be available.

This latter thought is no pipe dream and is not a trumped up project. The matter already has been discussed and the matters of feasibility and possibility explored.

More will definitely be heard on that subject.

So it is that a group of fathers and uncles, and others who do not fall into these categories but who love to do things for kids, are planning to get together, form an organization and get to work on a sports project that they may be very proud of. That, too, has been discussed, and will be the subject of next week's column.

All this should be evidence of some sort that a new leadership is arising; a leadership with a new spirit—a leadership that says that what was good enough for their fathers isn't necessarily good enough for them and certainly isn't good enough for their kids. That must be the attitude if there is to be progress and growth and an end to stagnation.

NO PICTURE IS BIG ENOUGH!

No picture is big enough to describe the drama of the emptying of the D. P. camps. No picture is big enough to depict the mass transfer of 250,000 Jews from Europe to Israel. No picture is big enough to tell the great homecoming story of the 25,000 pouring into the Jewish state each month.

No single picture can encompass the far-reaching activities that girdle the globe—relief in North Africa—reconstruction in Eastern Europe—settlement in Israel—refugee adjustment in the United States—all supported through the United Jewish Appeal.

And no picture can fully convey the urgency and the compelling summons of history to give new life and hope to people who have at long last reached the port of embarkation for freedom.

Are we BIG enough to give the help that is needed for the greatest homecoming in history? Are we big enough to deal with opportunities that we have finally attained through more than a decade of giving and service? In a big moment we must not be found wanting. Let the stature of our action measure up to the size of the great challenge that faces us today.
