Israeli Born Aliza Walbrette Teaches Here

Joined Haganah At the Age of 15

Vivacious, blonde Aliza Walbrette when asked in an interview today for The Jewish Herald why she came to this country stated: "I am a teacher and I want to teach Hebrew to children. It is one way of promoting friendship and understanding between Israeli and American Jews." The attractive 26 year old Sabra (native born Israeli) teacher has a class of 18 boys and girls in the kindergarten every week day morning at the Providence Hebrew Day School. In the afternoon she has a class of 9 second grade students in Hebrew where they call her Morah (meaning teacher) and delight in hearing her occasional references to life in Israel when she was a member of Haganah.

Aliza Walbrette was only 15 years old when she joined the Haganah during the days when Britain was the mandatory power in Palestine. Haganah was then not the official army in Israel but an underground movement whose sole purpose was to protect Jewish colonies against Arab depredations and prepare for ultimate defense of the country. When World War II broke out Aliza Walbrette, like many of her Haganah friends, in response to the urgent call of Britain enlisted in the army. She was detained in Cairo and served as instructor in the Signal Corps. During the crucial battle of El Alemain while in Mena (half way between Alexandria and Cairo) when Rommel's German heavy artillery was bombarding Field Marshal Montgomery's Eighth Army, Lieutenant Walbrette evacuated British troops in the famous retreat.

After two years of service in communications for the British Army, Lt. Walbrette joined the

GJC Campaign Reaches $650,000

The 1950 fund-raising campaign of the General Jewish Committee of Providence had passed the $650,000 mark and was climbing toward the $660,000 level as this issue of the Herald went to press.

This encouraging total to date was made possible, GJC officials pointed out this week, because of a substantial amount of increases over 1949 pledges in virtually all brackets of donors.

The Women's Division, for example, had gone over the $90,000 level and shows a 6.4% overall increase over the total pledged by the same number of contributors last year. A gain of 14.9% has been chalked up to date by the Young Adult Division and activity continues in the Men's Division, especially in the Trades and Industry group where several sub-units have already registered new highs.

A Worker's Report Luncheon for all workers and captains in the Trades and Industry Division is scheduled for next Wednesday, Nov. 15, at GJC headquarters at 203 Strand Building.

A "D-Day" canvass in the Men's Division last Sunday added $8,250 to the drive's total.

More than 280 volunteer men workers participated in last Sunday's "D-Day" canvass despite

Re-elected

FRANK F. SWARTZ

Frank Swartz Named To Head Congregation

Frank F. Swartz was unanimously re-elected president of Congregation Sons of Zion at a meeting held Sunday afternoon at the Synagogue. Other officers, all unanimously elected, include:

Morris Feinberg, honorary president for life; Joseph Halprin, first vice-president; Benjamin Fish, second vice-president; Henry Luff, treasurer; R. Maurice Cohen, financial secretary (re-elected); David Richards, recording secretary (re-elected); Manuel Young, assistant recording secretary; Louis Gordon, chairman of the board of directors.

Benjamin Zeidel was elected chairman of the cemetery committee, to be assisted by William Geller of West Warwick and Harry Tanenbaum.

Following the election, Rabbi David Werner gave the benediction to the congregation. The Rabbi expressed thankfulness over President Harry S. Truman's escape from assassination last week and invoked his blessings for the President.

Job Agency Faces Charge of Bias

NEW YORK—Charges of discriminatory employment practices which have been leveled against the Kirk Lucas Employment Agency, were aired before a public hearing in the offices of the New York State Commission Against Discrimination, Edward W. Edwards, chairman of the state agency, announced.

Commissioner Edwards stated that the complainant in the case against the employment agency, John H. Woorm, a Czech-born veteran of the U. S. Army during World War II, alleged that he was asked illegal questions concerning his nationality and religion when he applied in response to an employment advertisement placed by the Lucas agency.

Ben Gurion Selects 13-Man Cabinet

JERUSALEM — David Ben Gurion Monday announced to the Israel Parliament the formation of a 13-man Cabinet following the reaching of an agreement between the Israel Labor Party, Mapai and the Religious Bloc. The Knesset was scheduled to vote on the new government later.

Meanwhile, Jack Gering, a non-party member and prominent South African financial expert, agreed to join the Cabinet following a conference with leaders of the Mapai who pledged that reservations which he had concerning his prerogatives as Minister of Trade and Industry would be settled after he joins the government.

A joint statement issued by the Mapai and the Religious Bloc said that they agreed to support the coalition government until January, 1953, when elections will be held. The agreement was also signed by Dr. Pinhas Rosen, leader of the Progressive Party, who has acted as mediator between the two parties. The agreement is considered by observers here as a victory for Premier Ben Gurion.

The joint statement said that the parties had agreed: to maintain the status quo in religious practices; to proclaim freedom of conscience; to import kosher meat only with the agreement of the Supply Minister and the Religious Bloc. In the event of disagreement, the matter would be decided by the full Cabinet. The Mizrahi reversed the position which it took and promised to vote for the new Cabinet.

A trophy in the form of a clock has been acquired by the Touro Fraternal Association to present to the most deserving member of the association at the end of the year. It will be on display at Touro Hall.

All members are eligible for this trophy, with the exception of the officers. A committee is now planning the program for the award, as well as the selection of the most deserving member.

Los Angeles Police Probe Vandalism

LOS ANGELES—Two acts of vandalism in a single month against Sinai Temple, one of the largest Jewish houses of worship in the city, has the Jewish Community here up in arms.

The first incident occurred recently when several swastikas were found painted on the sides of the building. The second desecration occurred a few weeks later when gray paint was splashed over the building and a paint jar was hurled through an expensive stained glass window into the lobby.

Mrs. Israel Press is the chairman for the Cranston workers, and Mrs. Morris Pritsker is the Pawtucket leader.

Mrs. Irving Abrams of Boston, national vice president of the Women's Committee of Brandeis and president of the Greater Boston Chapter, spoke to the campaign workers, stressing the essential democracy of Brandeis and the high caliber of both the student body and faculty.

Steel From U. S. Helps Arab Boycott

WASHINGTON—An American steel shipment is on its way to the Near East for the construction of an oil pipeline which will by-pass the Haifa refineries and permit oil from the fields of Iraq to flow to the Eastern Mediterranean without passing through Israel territory, it was learned last week. The line would duplicate facilities presently terminating in Haifa.

The shipment, existence of which was admitted by the Commerce Department only after repeated inquiries will aid the Arab economic boycott of the Jewish state.

Completion of the new line would practically kill all hope of ever reopening the existing pipeline to Haifa and would have a disastrous effect on the future operation of the Haifa refineries, which are now operating at only one-third capacity because of the boycott.

Education Corps, of the newly organized Jewish Brigade. She did "Personnel" work between Israel, Egypt and Italy. When asked whether personnel work involved working with the underground smuggling Jews into Palestine, Aliza Walbrette smiled enigmatically and said "Oh, it wasn't too exciting!" One wonders if this is an example of Israeli understatement!

Since her evacuation in 1945, Miss Walbrette has been teaching Hebrew and related subjects in New Orleans, Louisiana and Boston, Mass. and now has joined the staff of the Providence Hebrew Day School. When asked why she decided to teach in such schools, she answered "Because this is the most effective way to bring Jewish children closer to Judaism."

Back home in Israel, Aliza has parents, grandparents, sisters and brothers-in-law. She does not know how long she will remain in America. "My plans are not definite, but I enjoy living in Providence."

GJC Campaign Hits $650,000

the rainy weather, and more than 1200 cards were reported on before the solicitation was over.

Alvin A. Sopkin, GJC president, stated this week: "I am gratified at the campaign's standing at this stage of the drive. I feel that this very respectable total is a tribute both to the workers who have given so unselfishly of their time and energy and to the donors in all divisions who have heeded the plea of Israel's people to aid them in keeping their new ship of state from foundering!"

"More than half a hundred highly worthy agencies are dependent, in whole or in part, upon the GJC's annual campaign for their operating budgets."

Joseph W. Ress, campaign chairman, this week emphasized that the drive would continue "until every outstanding card is covered."

"The final result of our drive will be measured in terms of how well we cover the cards that remain unpledged. Results to date have been heartening but card coverage throughout the rest of the campaign is the only guarantee of an ultimate total that will tell whether we have adequately met the responsibility placed upon us by events in Israel and elsewhere," he warned.

The enthusiasm on the part of workers and donors has, in the opinion of Joseph Galkin, GJC executive director, been responsible "for maintaining our drive at such an excellent tempo."

He pointed out that all divisions are concentrating their efforts of covering outstanding cards, now that their schedule of special activities has been completed in most instances.

Weekly report luncheons in the Trades and Industry Division, however, will continue to be held "until all cards are accounted for," he noted.

Galkin also called attention to the Area Division's dinner meeting scheduled for the Cranston district on Wednesday, Nov. 15 at Lindy's Dugout at Park and Reservoir Avenues.

Harold Tregar, chairman of the Cranston section of the Area Division, announced this week that Mollie Gladstone, actress and designer, would be the principal speaker at the Nov. 15 affair.

BOWLING

CRANSTON BOWLING

by Dr. Hayvis Woolf

"Even the best bowlers have a bad night," said Moe Kessler, whose Tigers lost four games to the Braves, guided by Archie Kapstein.

Julian Holland was high man with 127. Other scores were: Morris Cofman 126; Al Levy 122; Harold Aven 122; Ed Lang 118; Bill Deutsch 119; and Spare Ben Mellion 116.

Ed Lang has missed three strings, so far this season by three points; Ed hit 344. Jim Shocket has joined the Phillies as a regular and Morris Lenz moves to the spares as requested. Jacobson dropped out, but there are six spares to replace him. On the absent list are: Joe Potemkin and Hy Katz.

At a special meeting of the board of directors and captains held at Lindy's the following men were named to the nominating committee: Aaron Davis, Ed Charron, Morris Filler, Dr. Burt Litchman and Berym Weller. A slate of officers will be presented at the next meeting.

T.N.T. BOWLING

by Mark Weinberg

Going into the fifth week of bowling, the Giants continue to lead the league, despite their split with George Weinberg's Yanks.

For the second week in a row, Phil Zimberg's Braves dropped a string by one pin. This time it was Max Tetelbaum's double strike in the last two boxes that enabled his Red Sox to salvage one point for their fourth point of the season.

Bernie Kahn continues to be the most improved bowler this year, coming up with a 110 string and three of 303. Other highs for the evening: Bud Zeidel, 124 and 319; Vic Gold, 114 and 319; and Mark Weinberg with 316.

FINEMAN-TRINKLE BOWLING

by Joe Primack

The Reds and Senators jumped into a first place tie with a 12-4 record as the Tigers, who had an 11-1 record the first three weeks, dropped four to the Giants. The Phillies finally got hot after 12 straight losses and took four points from the Pirates.

Sam Tappen had high three for the night with 358. Other good threes were Irving Zlatoff 352, Charlie Steingold 353, Murray Gordon 331 and Les Friedman 319. Steingold had high single, 140, followed by Zlatoff 136, Stu Steingold 133, Gordon 129, Tappen 124, Friedman 124 and George Pollette 125.

A. E. PI BOWLING

by Jerry Freilberg

The underdog Bisons pulled off the upset of the season when they tripped the Indians, 3-1. The defeat plunged the losers into third place, one game off the pace. The Eagles, 3-1 victors over the Flyers, and the Hornets, winners by the same score over the Bears, are now tied for the league lead. The Barons registered the only shut-out of the evening at the expense of the Mohawks. The win propelled the Flink aggregate.

The second annual dinner-dance of the Providence Jewish Softball League will be held next Thursday evening, November 16 at The Farm on Post Road, Warwick. The affair, which will start at 7:30 P.M., is open to the general public as well as the players of the league, their families and friends. Reservations are limited to the seating capacity of The Farm.

In addition to the dinner and dancing, the program will include a floor show and door prizes, plus the presentation of awards to the championship Etcoff Construction Co. team. The speaking program will be brief, according to Harold Moskoff, program chairman.

A large advance sale was listed by Herb Goldis, ticket chairman, at a breakfast meeting of the committee last Sunday morning at the home of Irving (Tex) Rabinowitz. Reservations may be made with Goldis, JA 1-7993, Lou Weiner, who is chairman of the dinner-dance committee, JA 1-4763, and Jack Steiner, HO 1-7884.

Unique Family Choir Sponsored by JWV

A family choir, consisting of father, two sons and four daughters, two of whom are known professionally as the Marlin Sisters, will be brought to Providence on Monday evening, December 4 by the Jewish War Veterans, Department of Rhode Island, for a Chanukah musical concert.

The choir, billed as the Singers of Israel, actually are the family of Cantor Samuel Malavsky, a former pupil of the famous cantor Joseph Rosenblatt, and have been singing together for more than ten years. Mrs. Malavsky, the sole non-singer in the family, gets into the act as accompanist.

The Malavskys have toured extensively throughout the country. They are well versed in Jewish melodies and liturgical music, since every member of the family speaks Hebrew well.

Cantor Malavsky holds the degree of Master of Liturgical Music, has made many popular recordings, and has appeared often on the concert stage as well as in many synagogues. He is the composer of many musical works, recorded as "Cantorial Master-works."

The Marlin Sisters, stars of radio, television and recordings, have a long term contract with Cantorial Records.

This unique family choir will be making their first Rhode Island appearance when they are brought to Veterans Memorial Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Jewish War Veterans.

Tickets for the performance may be obtained at the auditorium or from any member of JWV.

Softball Team Is Feted at Banquet

The Technoprint softball team, which finished in the runner-up spot in both the regular schedule and the playoffs, closed their season officially last Friday evening at a banquet given in their honor at the Narragansett Hotel. Lou Glaser, team sponsor, was host at the banquet.

Sen. Frank Licht, commissioner, headlined the guest list, which also included league officials and managers and representatives of other clubs. Al Abelson, chairman of the executive committee, served as master of ceremonies, and Harold Moskol, manager, of the champion Etcoff team, entertained. Herb Goldis, manager of Technoprint, welcomed the gathering and introduced Abelson. Goldis also presented a gift to Glaser on behalf of his team.

Steve Espo of Technoprint distributed forms which will be sent to all players for the purpose of selecting an All-League team. The results, when compiled, will be announced at the November 16 banquet. Espo also volunteered to serve as the league's public relations director for next year.

Many of the speakers hit a serious note in their talks, with Senator Licht, who announced that he is resigning as commissioner due to lack of time to devote to the position, urging that the players show a greater willingness to assume part of the responsibility for the running of the league.

"The executive committee cannot serve as a mother to baby the league along," Sen. Licht said.

Cranston Women See Musical Film

A musical film program of Ezio Pinza and Joseph Hoffman was the feature of the regular meeting of the Women's division of the Cranston Jewish Community Club which was held Thursday, November 2, at Legion Hall.

Mrs. Charles Brynes was made chairman of the cake sale to be held November 16 at Shepard's. Mrs. Aaron Davis was elected as corresponding secretary. Mrs. Milton Palsner, representative from the League of Women Voters of Rhode Island, stressed the responsibility of each woman to use her privilege to vote.

Hostesses for the evening were Mesdames Morris Cofman, chairman; Joseph Alcott, Edward Charon, Philip Chopak, Joseph Bloomfield, Joseph Balter, Morris Baruck, and Milton Bomes.

"The players tend to lose sight of the league's problems, and throw the full responsibility on the executive committee. They feel they perform their full responsibility merely by playing ball.

"Since the players are not youngsters and since the league is operated for their own recreation, they must assume a share of the burden," the commissioner asserted. He concluded with the wish that an earnest attempt be made to attract younger men to the league.

Additional problems were discussed by the other speakers, along with oddities on the field of play and other highlights.

An Open Letter To MEMBERS OF BOWLING TEAMS AND BOWLERS of the CASINO BOWLING ALLEYS

Gentlemen:

As you know fire last spring damaged the Casino Bowling Alleys, and I want to express my appreciation for your bearing with me while we rebuilt the alleys.

I had the very best and sincerest of intentions to open the Casino Bowling Alleys by September 1, but because of the Korean situation, plus shortages of material and skilled labor, I have had to postpone the opening date. However, we are now almost ready to commence operating again, and I am sure that your patience will be more than compensated for by enjoying the facilities of the newest and most modern bowling recreation center in all New England.

The Casino Alleys will house 26 of the newest and most up-to-date alleys obtainable; a large well-filled snack bar; clean rest-rooms; and all around larger quarters for your convenience and pleasure. We have spared no effort or expense to enlarge our quarters to give our bowlers more room to get together and enjoy a night of good sportsmanship and fun.

Please convey this message to your league and also ask them to be patient just a little while longer and as soon as it is humanly possible for me to open, I will notify you at once.

Thanking you again for bearing with me during the period of reconstruction, I remain,

Sincerely

CASINO BOWLING ALLEYS
Leonard Cort

The Jewish Herald invites correspondence on subjects of interest to the Jewish people but disclaims responsibility for an endorsement of the views expressed by the writers.

It Doesn't Add Up

The recent report that the National Conference of Christians and Jews was sponsoring an interfaith program over a Los Angeles radio station whose owner has been accused of allegedly ordering his broadcasters to doctor news along anti-Semitic lines is, to say the least, a bit confusing.

It is true we aren't familiar with all the details of the case against G. A. Richards, owner of the station. But we do know that the American Jewish Congress and other responsible organizations have made the issue a public one, to the extent of asking the Federal Communications Commission to revoke Richards' license. We also know that Richards is currently on trial before a Federal board. This does not of course mean that he is guilty. No man under our system of laws is deemed guilty before he is convicted by a jury of his peers, and we must assume that Richards is innocent till proven otherwise. However, there is an adage where there is smoke there is fire and there has been so much smoke around Richards that we cannot help feeling that somewhere there is fire.

Under these circumstances we feel that the National Conference of Christians and Jews erred in using Richards' radio station facilities even for so noble a purpose as disseminating inter-faith propaganda.

The Jewish community of Detroit disagrees with the saying that "women are the weaker sex." And they have 13,000 good reasons to support this assertion.

For this number represents the total membership of the Women's Division of its Jewish Welfare Federation—13,000 women who have taken an active role in the community's efforts to meet Jewish needs overseas, nationally and at home.

Started four years ago on a permanent basis, Detroit's Women's Division has gained recognition as one of the nation's outstanding women's groups participating in Jewish communal service. Its rapid rise to prominence and success can be directly attributed to its outstanding campaign achievement and to a comprehensive year-round educational program which interprets and pinpoints the responsibilities of Jewish women.

A good index of the division's wide scope of activities is its Annual Institute. The events—specifically planned to give an overall picture of the work of the Jewish Welfare Federation and its local agencies—usually result in overflow crowds. The 1950 Institute was no exception to this rule.

Titled "Projection 1950," the all-day conference featured a luncheon and eight seminar sessions dealing with care of the aged, community relations, planning and budgeting, child care, overseas, Israel, Jewish education, and group work and recreation. Prominent leaders of the Detroit Jewish community and executives from the local service agencies served as discussion leaders for the seminars.

Responsibility for planning the 1950 Institute was entrusted to the Women's Division's Program Committee. Other women's committees which cooperated in making the event a success included Education, Speakers, Publicity and Arrangements.

COMMUNITY BRIEFS: Joining the growing number of country clubs to take such action, Preakness Hills Country Club of Paterson has adopted a resolution to: (1) establish on a permanent basis, the Community Responsibility Committee which will concern itself with support of the community's program, (2) instruct the Membership Committee before passing on new applications to discuss with prospective members their responsibilities to the community.

Baltimore's special gifts campaign for its projected $12,000,000 Jewish Medical Center was resumed last month. The Jewish Medical Center will bring together and coordinate the health and medical facilities of the Associated Jewish Charities including Mt. Sinai Hospital, Levindale Infirmary and Mt. Pleasant Convalescent Home. Following the big gifts drive, a city-wide campaign will be held next year.

Los Angeles' Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, through the donated time of hundreds of outstanding physicians in the community, is increasingly bringing to patients in its free Out-Patient Department the benefits of consultative group conferences. As a result, the collective diagnostic and

Two weeks ago the front pages of the daily newspapers told of an unusual case of close bidding. You will recall how the Providence Bible Institute acquired the Edgewood Junior College by paying one dollar more than the closest bidder. The story was told how the Institute declared a day of rejoicing and thanksgiving, and the president was quoted as saying:

"With the help of God and one dollar we now have a beautiful new campus in Barrington."

Well may the students and faculty and friends of the Bible Institute rejoice and offer thanks. Their prayers have been answered and their toil richly rewarded. I can clearly remember the day, less than twenty-five years ago, when the newspapers carried the story of another purchase. At that time the Bible Institute bought the buildings of the old Lying-in-Hospital on State Street.

In the course of these years the Institute grew from a small school with a student body of 45, to a large institution of religious instruction with an enrollment of 470 men and women coming here from many parts of the country and from abroad. The Institute now occupies two city blocks with twenty-seven buildings for classrooms and living quarters for students and faculty.

Only a few years ago the Institute established a radio station of its own, the first FM station in the state. Not content with these remarkable strides, the Bible Institute is now in the midst of a million dollar expansion program, aiming to make the school into a college of higher learning, out of which will come preachers and teachers and zealous workers in the Protestant church. The purchase of the Edgewood Junior College in Barrington is the first step in this direction.

An envious achievement in twenty-five years.

Then one recalls that in about the same segment of time the Catholics of our state have also laid the foundations and have achieved great results in their educational endeavors. A little over twenty-five years ago Providence College in the North End of the city graduated the first class. A handful of students comprised the student body of the college, and few people in the city therapeutic opinion of specialists in major medical fields is now available to the needy sick under treatment in the Cardiac, Chest, Dermatology, Diabetes, Eye-Ear-and-Nose, Gastro-Intestinal, General Medicine, Orthopedic, Pediatrics, Rehabilitation, Thyroid and Tumor Clinic.

Plans for a community-wide recreational program for older persons in the community are now being formed by Albany's Jewish Community Council. A Committee on Aged composed of representatives from the Community Council, Jewish Social Service and Home for the Aged is working out the details of the project which will utilize the facilities of the Community Center.

"One Man's Opinion"

BY BERNARD SEGAL

Twenty-five Years After could direct you to the campus of the school at that time.

No need to go into details about what Providence College is today. It is a University of a high reputation with a student body close to two thousand, and still growing.

Thus the Protestant and the Catholics of Providence have established houses of learning within the past quarter of a century, and are now reaping an abundant harvest.

What About the Jews?
What about the third religious group in the city? What about the Jews of Providence? What have we planted, and reared, and brought to fruition in the field of education during that same span of time?

Well, about twenty-five years ago we had a communal Talmud Torah in South Providence with close to two hundred pupils. The house on Chester Avenue today is a sad reminder of a shattered dream. During that period also the Talmud Torah on the North End, once the pride of the community, has gone down the hill, and is now nothing but an empty shell.

O, yes, the Jewish Community Center. The stationery of the J.C.C. this year carries the reminder that this is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Center. Twenty-five years ago the J.C.C. made its home on Benefit Street. The anniversary will and should be observed. But the fact remains that now, twenty-five years after, the Center is still on Benefit Street with facilities no greater than before, though the needs have far outdistanced them. Where is the growth, where the widening horizons, where the deeper furrows?

The Providence Bible Institute, the Providence College, and the Providence Jewish ... What? What can we name to compare with these?

The Protestants and the Catholics have built fortresses for their convictions; where is ours?

At the P.B.I. and the P.C. ways of thinking and ways of living are nurtured and perpetuated. Will our springs go dry?

Believe me, this is not written in reproach of anybody. It is a reproach to myself and to all of us. We are all guilty. We are all paying the penalty of the guilt.

Is it too late now?

TEST yourself in the FACT FORUM

How many wires can be contained in a telephone cable?

Answer: 4,242 individual wires, or 2,121 "pairs" can today be placed in a telephone cable about the diameter of a baseball bat.

When was the first football game broadcast by telephone and radio?

Answer: The first football game to be broadcast by telephone and radio was Princeton vs. University of Chicago on October 28, 1922.

How much coffee did it take to pay a $5.00 telephone bill in 1940? How much in 1950?

Answer: If you were paying a $5.00 telephone bill in coffee it would have taken about 24 pounds at 21 cents a pound in 1940—but it would only take a little over 6 pounds today with coffee costing 79 cents a pound. Today you get a much bigger value "per pound" in your telephone service because it is better—faster—more extensive. And, the cost has increased only a few cents a day—far less than most things you buy.

About Our Exhibit Of Ceremonial Objects

The current exhibit of Jewish Ceremonial Objects at the J.C.C. is a treasure trove of 17th, 18th, and 19th century Jewish life in Europe in the form of a collection of Jewish religious objects stolen by the Nazis from synagogues they destroyed. These objects were later rescued by the Jewish community of Nuremberg, Germany, and are now in the possession of the National Jewish Welfare Board, and will be on display at the Center until November 15.

The collection was brought to this country by Chaplain Isiah Rackovsky, to whom the religious objects were given by Nuremberg's Jewish community as a gift to American Jewry.

Thirty-six pieces from the original collection of 149 items have been selected for exhibit purposes. They have been classified into three groups: items relating to Jewish festivals; pieces relating to the Torah; and objects used in the synagogue.

Among the various items are Menorahs, havdalah plates, Sabbath lamps, Torah breastplates, curtains for the Ark, Seder plates, shofars, spice boxes, Kiddush cups, Megilloth, Torah crowns and Mezuzahs.

Some of the pieces have parts

Van Paassen To Review His Latest Book Here

The Jewish Community Center will participate in the observance of Jewish Book Month, Nov. 11 to Dec. 11, by sponsoring a lecture by Pierre Van Paassen, noted author and lecturer on Sunday evening, Nov. 26, it has been announced by John Sapinsley, chairman of Adult Activities, and Bernard Segal, chairman of the Jewish Culture series.

Van Paassen will speak on his new book, "Jerusalem Calling" and will discuss the whole question of the proposed internationalization of Jerusalem, which is currently before the United Nations for action.

Pierre Van Paassen first visited Palestine in 1925 and immediately became an ardent champion of Zionism. He worked for that cause when it was extremely unpopular, roaming the ghettos of

Symposium: "What Is A Jew?" Will Be Presented Sunday Evening

Rabbi, Philosopher
And Anthropologist
To Head Panel

A symposium on the question "What Is A Jew?" will take place at the Jewish Community Center this Sunday evening, November 12. The Symposium is being held in connection with Jewish Book Month, which is to be observed from November 11 to December 11.

A rabbi, a philosopher and an anthropologist, each with his particular training and different approach, will look at the same profound and crucial question: What is a Jew?

The three members of the panel include: Dr. Bernard Lander of Hunter College; Dr. Ralph G. Ross of New York University and Dr. Melvin Tumin of Princeton University. They will discuss such questions as: Is there such a thing as Jewish culture? If so, can one be "culturally Jewish" without being "religiously Jewish?" What is the nature of the contributions made by Jews to modern society? Are there definable Jewish ideals? What are the various meanings given to the term "JEW" by the non-Jewish community? Also many other vital questions on the subject.

DR. RALPH G. ROSS

The three members of the panel have somewhat divergent views on the major questions of the symposium and hence provide a most stimulating session.

Dr. Lander, an ordained rabbi, is Associate Director of the Mayor's Committee on Unity of New York City. Instructor in Sociology and Anthropology at Hunter College, he is a former consultant to the Baltimore Youth Commission. As a Rabbi, Dr. Lander has occupied a pulpit at Baltimore, and has lectured extensively in the areas of Jewish contemporary problems, Jewish philosophy, and human relations and social problems. He is presently engaged in research on race relations and the sociological aspects of the American Jewish community.

Dr. Ross, Adjunct Associate Professor of Philosophy at New York University, is a specialist in social and political philosophy. He has lectured extensively on social, political and educational problems of our day and is in charge of the Program in Humanities, Division of General Education, New York University.

Dr. Melvin M. Tumin is Assistant Professor of Sociology and Anthropology at Princeton University, the same post he previously held at Wayne University, Detroit. Formerly Director of Research, Mayor's Committee on Race and Intercultural Relations, Dr. Tumin has directed a workshop in Intercultural Relations, Denver University, and has worked intensively in the field of race and cultural relations in Latin America. He is now engaged in research bearing on the phenomena of the "marginal men" in human society.

DUPLICATE BRIDGE

For those who do and those who don't... now is the time to learn! DUPLICATE BRIDGE sessions under the guiding eye of Providence's brilliant player and kibitzer, Mr. Bob Starr. Register now, it's later than you think. Classes held on Nov. 16 and 30 at 7:45 o'clock. A nominal fee of 50 cents for members and $1.00 for non-members is being charged.

Teen-Topics & Center Club Life

The Roger Williams AZA Conclave held last Sunday was termed most successful by those attending. Several hundred teenagers raised Hallowe'en whoopee at the Center Gym following a day of serious discussions in Sapinsley Hall.

Welcome to the "Comet-tees," a new group organized by the Comettes, a Center Young Adult women's group.

Thirty-five boys and girls from Nathaniel Greene Jr. High (9-B, 201) held a Hallowe'en party last Wednesday evening in Sapinsley Hall.

The Narragansett AZA Mystery Ride and Barn dance conducted at Camp Centerland was a most rewarding adventure to teen-agers in attendance. The Center hopes other groups will avail themselves of the facilities of Camp Centerland.

Young Judaea Leaders Council, under the guidance of Bill Melzer, conducted its meeting last Tuesday at the Center.

The Shalshalettes (teen age girls club) have resumed meeting at the Center this year and are planning a most active program.

The Comettes will hold their annual membership tea on Nov. 26 from 2-5 P.M. at the Center.

The world. The book underscores the eternal association of the Jewish people with Jerusalem, and is particularly timely now.

Yiddish Film

The Jewish Community Center proudly presents a YIDDISH FILM entitled "Overture To Glory" on Sunday, November 19, at 2 o'clock. The film features the beloved Moishe Oysher and Helen Beverly in the starring roles.

Known also as "Viina Balabusi", the story was written by Ossip Dymow with original music by Alexander Olshanetsky. It tells of the Cantor who goes to the city to become a concert singer. Background music includes pieces from Beethoven and Chopin.

SYD COHEN:

It's Different In Europe

It is a peculiar fact that while American athletes win so many events in track and field, their success is generally limited to the shorter distances. The U. S. wins practically all the sprints and middle distance runs, but loses the long events.

From 1500 meters (roughly a mile) up, the Finnish athletes take over the leadership, while such peoples as the Japanese and the Koreans dominate the marathon, or really long distances.

The average American sports follower may admit the foregoing, but add that there is nothing startling about it. Well, why shouldn't it be startling? Americans live better, eat better, are taller and stronger physically, and devote more time to sports participation than any other nation on earth. Yet our dominance is limited to events that require lesser amounts of endurance. Why?

Are we soft from too much easy living? Hardly, since we overwhelm the rest of the world in international matches most of the time. And we crack world records with monotonous regularity. What is the answer? Possibly that our athletes don't spend as much time and effort on the distances as they do on the shorter events.

Cantor Jacob Hohenemser

thinks that it may be our motorization which has hurt us. The English, for example, excel in walking, which in America is not considered a sport (mostly a drudge, to be indulged in only when the family car is not available). Yet walking there is in the competitive category. The cardinal rule is that the heel of the foot must touch the ground on every step. Outside of that there are no restrictions to flying low.

In European countries, the masses cannot afford (financially or socially) to participate in all the sports which attract Americans. Tennis and golf, to name a few, generally are out of the range of the so-called common man. Outside of boating, most sports are played in the high schools and clubs, not in the universities, as is the custom here.

Compare that system with our own, and you wonder why we ever lose a race or a game to non-Americans. Our boys start their competitive life in the playgrounds and in junior high. It continues through high school and college and there is a wide field in the professional world for those with above average ability. Few, if any, of our world family can match that.

Most sports on the continent are maintained on an amateur basis. Even the international favorite, soccer, is an amateur game everywhere but in England, and it is the only professional sport in that nation.

Which brings us to Cantor Hohenemser's astute observation of the differences between amateur and professional sports:

"There is more perfection in the pro game, but more sport in the amateur," he says.

Despite the emphasis on baseball in this country, and the gradual spread of the national game due to our roaming military, there is little interest in that game among Europeans. Instead, they read about soccer, and are probably better acquainted with the exploits of the Fall River and Tiverton teams than we are. The Ponta Delgadas are internationally renowned, but this column isn't even sure of the correct spelling of the team's name. Even the foreign language newspapers printed in this country still emphasize soccer in preference to other games.

When the U. S. soccer team lost to Italy by 1-0 in the 1936 Olympics, the world was shocked. It was considered a stunning upset that the Americans should even come so close. Americans took no notice.

When the U. S. team defeated Britain 1-0 this past season in South America, the amazement in soccer circles knew no bounds. club loses the pennant!

The Americans were carried from the field on the shoulders of the fans. Back in England one newspaper carried the upset as a front page story, with a black bordered box of mourning to report the sad news. And we think we get excited when our favorite ball
