Jewish Grandmaw Tries Channel Swim

Mrs. Betty Cohen, 51-year-old Jewish swimming grandmother from Brooklyn who hopes to cross the English Channel next month receives a warm sendoff from her 2 grandchildren and son before departing for London. The 5' 5", 164 lb. Mrs. Cohen, believed to be the first grandmother to make the Channel swim attempt, is shown holding her granddaughter, Zena (4) while her grandson (7), and her son, Pvt. Bernard (22) look on. Her son was given a special furlough to see her off. Her husband, Dr. Harry Cohen, is her trainer and coach.

His Latest Adventure

Bergson Quits Knesset, Returns To Form Anti-Red World Group

WASHINGTON (AJP)—Stormy Peter Bergson, founder and moving force for a half-dozen pro-Irgun front groups prior to the establishment of Israel, returned "temporarily" to the United States this week and told newsmen he planned a world-wide anti-Communist movement.

The adventurous, much-condemned Bergson disclosed he had quit the Israel Knesset—he represented the right-wing Herut Party, an outgrowth of the Irgun Zvai Leumi—to lead a people's front against Communism.

Bergson proposed that Jerusalem serve as a logical headquarters for his world-wide anti-Red movement in view of its religious significance to the major faiths.

"My idea is this," Bergson told a press conference. "I believe there is a crying need for all people of the free world—I don't mean governments of the various nations, but the people of France, Britain, Israel, and the United States, every free country—to arrive at a better understanding of each other."

He urged a "banding together" by democratic peoples in a great bloc to "refute Moscow's ideology all along the line."

U. S. Studies Suez Blockade Plan

WASHINGTON—The State Department is studying the blockade of the Suez Canal by Egypt to Haifa-bound oil tankers, and a decision on action may be made within a few days, government sources indicated Sunday.

While there is no desire to offend the Arabs, the U.S. may join with Britain at the United Nations this week in an attempt to force Egypt to cease the sabotage of the Haifa refineries through the blockade of the vital Suez link. The Western action has been brought about because the Iranian crisis threatens the Near Eastern oil supply and the Haifa refineries, owned by British and Dutch interests, have been virtually unused since Iraq quit pumping oil to Israel in 1948.

It is considered important that oil be brought to Haifa, the third largest refinery in the Near East, if the supply of Near Eastern oil is to be adequate for Atlantic Pact defense requirements. (A report from London stated that four British destroyers have been ordered from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea to protect British vessels in that area following the boarding July 1 of a British vessel by an Egyptian coastal patrol which took over the ship for twelve hours).

The Department said this weekend Saudi Arabia has been designated as the first Arab country to be included in the Mutual Defense Assistance program and that the U. S. Army will train Saudi Arabian forces in the use of equipment to be provided under the agreement. The Saudi Arabian Government agreed not to undertake any act of aggression against another state.

To Prove Love, Husband Smashes Liquor Stock

WICHITA, KANSAS—To prove to his wife that he was deeply in love with her, Frank L. Cohen, owner of a liquor store here smashed hundreds of bottles of wine, whiskey and champagne as evidence that money wasn't playing a chief role in his life.

Mrs. Cohen, it seems, had been planning to divorce her husband on the ground that he paid too much attention to his business and too little attention to his family affairs. When people who passed the store saw what Cohen was doing, and by that time he ruined over $3,000 worth of merchandise, they called the police, whom he told "I wanted to prove to my wife that I love her and not money and property." The police left, declaring there was no law barring a person from destroying his own property.

Memorial To Jewish Victims Approved

Designs and models for the American Memorial to Six Million Jews, slain by the Nazis, were formally approved by the N. Y. City Art Commission last week. The Memorial, to be located at Riverside Drive between 83rd and 84th Streets, commemorates the Jews who were murdered by Hitler and his followers, including especially the 40,000 Heroes of the Battle of the Warsaw Ghetto, who rose up, with virtually no arms, against the occupying Nazi army and fought until all had been killed.

The Memorial bears the official approval of Park Commissioner Robert Moses. Its design has been executed by Eric Mendelsohn, architect, and Ivan Mestrovic, sculptor, both internationally famous. They were commissioned by the Memorial's Board of Directors, following a four-year search for the best design, during which a large number of proposals by outstanding architects and sculptors were considered.

'Wholly Inaccurate,' Replies ZOA Leader: Agency Claims ZOA Forfeits Role As American Zionist Spokesman

NEW YORK (AJP)—The vote of the Zionist Organization of America in favor of closer ties with the General Zionist party of Israel means that the ZOA has lost its claim to speak "in the name of the American Zionist movement," a spokesman for the Jewish Agency in Israel declared this week.

That argument, and a parallel assertion that the last ZOA convention had "virtually killed its own chalutz movement" drew heated denials from Dr. Samuel Margoshes, a national vice president of the ZOA.

The statements appeared in the lead article of the current "Zionist Newsletter," published by the Information Department of the Jewish Agency and the World Zionist Organization. The publication is considered an outlet for the Mapai, the dominant labor party in Israel.

The article offered an extended analysis of the debate at the June ZOA convention on the issue of closer affiliation. One third of the delegates voted against the resolution, which the Zionist Newsletter article said "identified the ZOA with a specific political grouping in Israel. To the extent, therefore, that it has declared what kind of a state it would like to see Israel become, the ZOA now knows where it is heading far better than it did before. But in respect of the basic issues of Zionism and the relation of the individual to them, it seems to have increased its own confusion still further."

Declaring that the ZOA, after "having for so long stood above party," had "descended to the level of the other party groupings," the article contended that few ZOA members would understand that the ZOA had become a "political grouping with a definite outlook. One thing is clear. The ZOA will no longer be able to speak, as it once did, in the name of the American Zionist movement."

"Father's Day" Originator Dies

NEW YORK (AJP)—A Jewish bachelor, who originated the idea of Father's Day during a career that led from office boy to leadership in the necktie wear industry, died last week at the age of 76.

Joseph Bernstein, who was president of the Altman Neckwear Corporation for the past 40 years, started with the company 65 years ago at $2 a week.

Five Years of Talmud Study Credited For Sarnoff's Rise

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—The foundations for the amazing rise of David Sarnoff from an East Side tenement to the presidency of the Radio Corporation of America was laid during five years of childhood study of the Talmud.

Descendant of a family of traders through his father and rabbis through his mother, David was the oldest of a poverty-stricken family in Uzlian, in the Russian province of Minsk, according to a cover story in Time magazine last week.

When David was four, his father went to America and mother sent the boy to her uncle, a rabbi who lived in a hermitage in Korma, 150 miles away. The only boy in the hermitage, young David studied for five lonely years from six in the morning until nine at night.

"The greybeards in the hermitage did not teach him to count," the magazine reported, "but those years trained his memory—2,000 words of Talmud a day—and his reasoning powers."

Shortly before the boy's 10th birthday, the father sent for his family. When David, a brother and the mother arrived in New York, they found the father seriously ill and David became the family breadwinner with a variety of jobs. He would arise at 4 a.m. to deliver the Jewish Morning Journal and then run errands for a butcher before going to school.

He managed to save enough money to buy a newsstand and sold papers after school. His fine soprano voice brought him $1.50 a week singing in synagogues. According to the story, he had to quit school when his voice began to change and that source of earnings was wrecked. The event occurred "on the day before he was to get $100 for singing during the Jewish holy days."

From his first full-time job at $2 a week, he saved $1.50 for a telegraph key, taught himself the Morse Code and talked himself into a job with American Marconi.

The next step was the decisive one in his life. "What he did next may have stemmed from the training in the lonely years in the hermitage at Korma: he sat down and thought out a path to his future."

The decision was to remain in the wireless communications field. He worked his way up to commercial manager of Marconi. When RCA was organized, in the response to the determination of the United States Government to break the British monopoly in the field, it took over American Marconi and Sarnoff.

Owen D. Young, as RCA chairman, was so impressed by Sarnoff that he made the 30-year-old enthusiast general manager. Under Sarnoff, radio sets, which he called "music boxes," were sold to the tune of $3,000,000 in three years. He proposed putting radios and phonographs in the same cabinets and the sales were tremendous. At his urging, RCA founded the National Broadcasting Company, the Red network and the Blue network.

Sarnoff's current battle is on color television and while the Federal Communications Commission approved the Columbia Broadcasting System method, Sarnoff is far from finished. RCA has produced a color program which, unlike that of CBS, needs no adapter for sets, and the fight is not over.

RCA still has plenty of plans for the future under Sarnoff, who has fulfilled to an incredible degree a prediction made by a sailor in Latvia 50 years ago.

With his mother and brother, David had boarded a ship in a Latvian port for the trip to the United States. His mother, afraid of forbidden food on the ship, had cooked, according to strict Orthodox rule, a tremendous hamper of bread, cakes and pickled meats, telling her children that this would be their only food on the voyage.

When the boy saw the food

August Registration For Camp Centerland

Milton C. Kay, chairman of the Jewish Community Center Camping Committee, advised this week that the interest of campers at Camp Centerland has been actively sustained through a variety of activities which have been held during the month of July, and that many new children are joining the program for August.

After a beginning, let's get acquainted period, the campers developed programs ranging from working on a frog farm to a camp library, from hobby exhibits to programs jointly planned by several groups such as the gym-antic program, rainy day variety shows, topsy turvy day, etc.

Through the campers' council there has been a healthy exchange of ideas of the kinds of programs wanted by campers themselves. The council is a representative group and consists of Joy Cowen, Harry Mamis, Linda Irving, Martin Lewis, Teddi Reinherz, Howard Goldsmith, Millie Weinberg and Bobbie Kaufman, representing the following groups respectively: Sunshine Girls, Water Belles, Apaches, Mermaids, Muscle Men, Minnemettes, and the Gang.

Such themes as round the world, camp birthday party, centerland carnival, and other camp development programs will highlight activities for August.

Information on camp registration may be obtained by calling the Jewish Community Center, DE 1-6730.

Jewish Community Center Play School

July 30 marks the beginning of the second four week period for children three to five years of age who are participating in the summer playschool program at the Jewish Community Center's redecorated Fieldhouse on Ses-being lowered into the ship's hold, he was seized with fear it would be lost. He dived into the hold, a 50-foot drop, and scrambled around until he found the hamper.

He was rescued by the sailor, who told him: "You'll do all right in America."

He did.

sions Street.

The playschool program has met with parental approval, and the enrollment has been increasing daily.

The playschool program is conducted Mondays through Fridays from 1 to 4:30 P.M. Under the direction of Mrs. Marion Roseman, a trained teaching staff works with the children in such activities as clay play, painting, sand box, water play, singing games, story telling and listening to music.

A large playfield surrounds the building used exclusively by the playschool, and the large covered porch at the front of the building provides a cool shaded area for the playhouse corner, trucks and cars, building blocks, etc.

A mid-afternoon snack of fruit, juices and crackers is served to the children each day, and a rest period on blankets is also a feature of the program.

40 Jewish Scouts Sail for Jamboree

NEW YORK (AJP) — Their knapsacks crammed with kosher food, Jewish songbooks and prayer articles, forty Jewish boy scouts sailed last week for the Seventh World Scouting Jamboree in Austria.

Dr. Harry Lasker, director of the Jewish Relations Committee for the Boy Scouts of America, told the American Jewish Press that services had been arranged for each Friday evening the Jewish scouts would be on shipboard and during their stay in Europe.

More than 15,000 from 26 nations will attend the world event at Bad Ischl, Austria from August 3 to 13. Rabbi Samson Shaim, West Hempstead, L. I., boy scout chaplain, sailed with the Jewish scouts. He will also serve as chaplain for all Jewish scouts at the Jamboree.

The American scouts were a little dubious about getting Jewish food enroute and arrangements were made through the Jewish Welfare Board for the edibles, Dr. Lasker told the AJP.

Arrangements for the Friday evening services were made through the National Jewish Committee on Scouting.

The Jewish scouts took along their talismans. The songbooks will be used when the Jewish scouts

Film Studio Buys Solomon Script; Jessel Is Producer

NEW YORK (AJP) — One of America's largest film studios this week purchased a story outline of the life of Haym Solomon, hero of the Revolutionary War, and Jewish comedian Georgie Jessel has been chosen to serve as producer of the proposed film.

Spokesmen for the 20th Century Fox company disclosed the purchase of the outline and expressed belief that a film version of the noted Jewish patriot of the American Revolution would find public appeal.

Solomon, who gave a private fortune to help finance the Continental Army died at 45 as a result of imprisonment by the British. At least one short subject on his life, starring Claude Rains, was produced some years ago.

from all parts of the world get together.

Ronald Stein, one of the American Jewish scouts from New York, also took an assignment from a New York daily to give a scout's view of the proceedings. The majority of the Jewish scouts, however, were from outside the New York area, some from as far inland as Omaha, Nebraska.

The scouts will sail to Algiers and then go to Italy, then to Austria.

Each scout, as he boarded the S. S. Argentina at Hoboken last Friday, was handed a copy of a message from President Truman, in which the President said the jamboree would be "another living lesson to all nations that boys can work and play, sing and pray together as brothers, just as all men might if an evil-minded minority would only let them."

Thousands of Jews Deported, Vanish

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (JTA) — Hungary and Romania were charged this week before the United Nations with violation of elementary human rights in the uprooting of thousands of Jews from their homes and their deportation to unknown destinations.

The Agudas Israel World Organization, appearing before the Non-Governmental Committee of the Economic and Social Council of the world organization, called on the United Nations to condemn these practices and to take action, including economic sanctions if necessary, to ensure that these deportees are returned to their homes.

The Hungarian government, moving under its "re-settlement" plan, has been evicting Jews from their homes in the major cities of the country and deporting them to undisclosed destinations in the provinces. The Hungarian authorities have failed to reply to proposals made by the Israeli government that these Jews be permitted to leave for Israel.

The Romanian government was reported to be transferring Jews as "unreliable" elements from Touni-Severin, Timisoara and other towns near the Yugoslav-Romanian frontier to other areas where they are reportedly being quartered with "reliable" elements.

A number of Hungarian Jews who had expressed the desire to return to Hungary from Israel, have changed their minds as a result of the anti-Jewish measures now being followed by the Hungarian government. Those who had already filed applications with the Hungarian legation here for their return, were reported to have withdrawn their requests.

Israel Blocks Visas For Red Youth Rally

NEW YORK (AJP)—The Israel government refused to grant visas to a Communist Youth delegation bound for the Third World Festival of Youth and Students for Peace scheduled to open in Berlin on August 5, a Communist news service received here disclosed this week.

The news service, Telepress, originating in Prague, Czechoslovakia, quoted Kol Ha'am (Voice of the People), the organ of the Israeli Communist Party, as charging that "this step was taken after Ben-Gurion's government consulted with the British and American ambassadors."

The organ of the Reds urged the government "to cancel its shameless decision." "The voice of Israel's youth fighting for peace and against the remilitarization of Germany must be heard," the Communist paper concluded according to Telepress.

JPFO Faces N. Y. Ban, Files Appeal

NEW YORK (AJP) — Ordered to liquidate its operations because of Communist ties, the left-wing Jewish Peoples' Fraternal Order, part of the outlawed International Workers' Order, appealed a decision rendered in the case by Judge Henry Clay last week.

More than 35,000 members in New York City alone would be affected by the state-wide ban ordered last week by Judge Greenberg, a spokesman claimed. The JPFO is the Jewish branch of the subversive-cited IWO. The spokesman told an American Jewish Press reporter that JPFO units also functioned in other parts of the State.

The JPFO, as part of the IWO, filed an appeal late this week to set aside the liquidation order. Storm center in a number of communities in recent years, the group, cited as subversive by the Attorney General's office, was ousted from the Los Angeles Jewish Community Council earlier this year.

Six Months Ordeal Ends, Jewish GI Returned For Burial

NEW YORK (AJP)—A six-month-long ordeal crowded with hope, dismal and endless heaps of red tape, ended for a Brooklyn Jewish family this week with the burial of their paratrooper son, Pfc. Mitchell S. Weinberg.

Young Weinberg was killed accidentally by a shot which penetrated his right eye. Two days earlier, on Sept. 25th, the Jewish GI had participated in the invasion of Kimpo airfield.

The long ordeal for his parents began last Oct. 1 when his mother, Mrs. Celia Weinberg, received a wire from the Defense Department that her son had been wounded accidentally in the right eye while in Korea. Several days later a letter addressed to the GI was returned. It bore the stamp "deceased."

Still there was no official word of Weinberg's death. Mrs. Weinberg hoped.

Army officials, in answer to an inquiry, set a minor probe in action. Meanwhile an attempt by the Jewish family to contact Army hospitals in Japan and Korea in search of young Mitchell met with failure.

Finally, after days and nights of anxious waiting and praying, the Weinbergs learned officially that their son had been killed by the accidental gun blast. Details were not available.

The site of the youth's grave provided another ordeal. Finally, the family learned he had been buried as an "unknown" in the U.N. cemetery at Inchon. The body was located, brought home and young Weinberg was interred at the United Hebrew Cemetery on Staten Island this week.

In memory of the Jewish GI, his high school, Lafayette in Brooklyn, established an annual Mitch Weinberg medal to be awarded annually to the best all-around athlete.

Workmen's Circle Outing On Aug. 5

Isaac Rottenberg is chairman of the 24th annual outing of the Providence District Committee of the Workmen's Circle, to be held August 5 at the Workmen's Circle Camp, Ashland, Mass. The affair was arranged to coincide with Workmen's Circle Day at the camp, so that those attending both activities could hear the open air concert at Weitzman Park, take part in contests on the athletic field and see fellow members from New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Cars and busses will leave at 10:30 a.m. from the Circle Center, 29 Snow Street on August 5. Reservations for both dinner and transportation can be made by calling: I. Rottenberg, PL 1-9367; J. Pavlow, HO 1-0779; I. Fine, HO 1-2990; Mrs. D. Goldman, ST 1-3922; and Mrs. A. Cherniak, GA 1-5077.

The Jewish Herald invites correspondence on subjects of interest to the Jewish people but disclaims responsibility for an endorsement of the views expressed by the writers.

The Ancient Ogre--Censorship

Ah, nourishment for the aesthetic soul—but what is good for the goose may fricassee the gander.

The inconsistent noose of censorship is causing motion picture producers to trip the light fantastic, as a Jewish group, on the one hand, fights for release of a film that has been called objectionable by Catholics, and a Jewish group, on the other hand, fights to have "Oliver Twist" banned and double-banned from here to the Sandwich Isles, and back.

Thus, again, the ancient ogre of censorship rears its pock-marked countenance to confuse issues and muddle clear thinking.

The point is, just who can rightfully determine for a community, region, or nation, what is "bad" and what is tolerable? The question has been haggled in the Supreme Court, there especially over literary works and art exhibits.

Will the stereotyped Jew in "Oliver Twist" reawaken the dead counterpart that "existed" in the minds of Americans? No, because that counterpart—that stereotype, which blocks the consideration of an individual as an individual—that picture that was impressed on the Gentile mind in childhood—is not yet erased. Blurred, perhaps, but erased—no.

As a thoughtful educator once put it, you can't teach tolerance in the classroom. No need then for sweaty panic over what might—or might not—be an objectionable bit of art or entertainment. If there's something shameful there, stop it in real life, then fret about the make-believe.

Let's look at the scale of reason. Doesn't the publicity of attempting to block the movie cause more harm than the movie itself?

On The Bookshelf

Israel '50, "The Wall", In Newsweek's History

Unlike its counterpart which covered the events of 1949, the second volume of Newsweek's "History of Our Times," covering 1950 events, (Funk & Wagnalls, Publishers, 153 E 24th NYC 10) contains very little material about Israel. The reason is obvious: Israel is firmly established and events were less exciting last year than in the previous one.

The 1950 Israel events are limited to the internal political struggle, to the truce with the Arabs and to the economic difficulties of the young state. The points are made that the Israel pound sold for less, that "a querulous truce" was maintained with the Arabs, that "dollar contributions from the United States had dwindled."

A long paragraph covers the story of the naming of Jack Gerling to the post of Minister of Commerce and Industry by Premier David Ben-Gurion, the rock-jawed snow-haired leader of the Mapai (Socialist Party), the first defeat of Ben-Gurion by the Knessett, the patching up of a compromise by Pinhas Rosen, the continuation of Ben-Gurion in office, Gering's changing of his name to Gery "lest he remind his fellow cabinet members of the Nazi Hermann Goering." The second defeat of Ben-Gurion in the Knessett took place in 1951, necessitating the forthcoming election.

Newsweek's second volume of "History of Our Times" has an interesting resume of General MacArthur's activities in the Eastern zones and his meeting with President Truman.

International and national affairs; arts, sciences, business, education, religion, books, movies, the theatre are covered in this historical analysis.

The book section makes this interesting reference to John Hersey's "The Wall": "A novel of the Warsaw ghetto under the Nazis, though it was burdened with an awkward form—the papers of an imagined historian of the ghetto—nevertheless evoked the heroic resistance of a doomed people. As an attempt to get inside the psychology of the Jews under Hitler, and to face the overwhelming horror of the concentration camps and the extermination factories, it was a work of great imaginative courage and steady balance."

TRUMAN RETAINS NILES

WASHINGTON (AJP)—President Truman at a press conference this week sidestepped queries on appointment of a successor to Jewish presidential advisor David Niles and indicated he expected Niles to return to duty in the near future.

Niles, an advisor to the President on minorities and credited with guiding the chief executive to victory throughout the hectic 1948 presidential campaign, recently resigned in order to rest in Israel.

"JEWISH EDUCATION IN PROVIDENCE"

"JEWISH EDUCATION IN PROVIDENCE"

(This is the next to the last in a series of articles specially prepared for the Herald by the General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc. They are founded upon a recently compiled report which, in turn, is based upon the findings and recommendations of a committee appointed in November, 1949, to conduct a thorough survey of Jewish education facilities in Providence. The survey was directed by, and the report prepared with the assistance of Dr. Uriah Z. Engelman of the American Association of Jewish Education.)

Any comprehensive survey of Jewish education facilities in Providence—or, for that matter, any study of any type of educational system—must include a frank analysis of the qualifications of the teaching personnel involved.

For "it is painfully self-evident that one cannot conduct good schools without good teachers."

The above statement was made by the Committee on Personnel and Finances—the third of the GJC's three major sub-committees, whose intensive surveys and findings provided the foundation on which were housed the observations and recommendations of the over-all committee's recently issued final report.

Headed by Frank Licht as chairman, this particular self-study group concerned itself solely with the qualifications of the teachers and the physical accommodations of the six elementary weekday afternoon schools, the one all-day school, and the six Sunday schools that make up the Jewish educational system in Providence.

Looking first at the weekday schools, the committee notes that their faculty falls into two classes: The professional and the non-professional teachers.

Comment On Teachers

"The competence of the professional teachers is satisfactory, of some even very good, but the number of professional teachers is very small: Only five indicated that Jewish teaching is their sole source of livelihood," succinctly points out the committee.

In commenting upon the qualifications of the non-professional teachers, the committee's report minces no words.

"They lack the ability to engage the children's interest, and their methods of teaching are extremely wasteful of the children's time."

"The general educational background of most of the teachers is unsatisfactory. Only about a third have had a college education.

"Undoubtedly one of the major reasons for the present low level of Hebrew education in Providence is the lack of a sufficiently professional staff of teachers."

The report then goes on to observe: "If the Jewish weekday schools of Providence are to improve . . . they will have to attract a number of energetic, idealistic young men and women brought up in American schools, as well as in colleges of higher Jewish learning, who will consecrate themselves to the cause of Jewish teaching."

Then, somewhat rhetorically, the report asks: "But how can Providence attract such teachers?"

(Editor's note: The answer to this question is included in the combined recommendations of the over-all committee, which will be dealt with in next week's concluding article.)

Sunday School Facilities

The faculty of the Sunday Schools comes in for similar criticism. In forthright language, the report states:

"They (the Sunday Schools teachers) lack the knowledge of the Jewish subjects they are to teach.

"They lack training in how to teach the little they know.

"It is evident that Sunday School teachers who have an inadequate—to put it mildly—Jewish background, and have no pedagogic preparation, are unequipped to be Jewish teachers."

As the report philosophically notes, there is more to being a Jewish teacher than teaching Jewish "subjects."

"The Jewish Sunday School teacher, willy-nilly, helps shape the child's Jewish attitudes. He does this with the skill with which he teaches, with the enthusiasm he inspires, with the moral and intellectual conviction his teaching carries.

"The Sunday School teacher, immature and with only a very superficial knowledge of the subject matter he is supposed to teach, lacks any real sense of the importance of his work.

"And a Jewish teacher without knowledge is a poor teacher indeed."

Here, the report pauses to make certain concrete recommendations—among them an "institute" that would train Sunday School teachers in service, as well as new instructors. It also recommends that a committee for "certification" of Sunday School teachers be organized, and a code of "personnel practices" be adopted.

Then, turning to the second phase of its assigned audit, the committee underlines the observation that the Providence Jewish community "distinctly lacks school facilities."

"Almost all schools have inadequate and insufficient facilities," it flatly states.

School Housing Poor

Noting that only two schools—the Providence Hebrew Day School and Ahavath Sholom—have separate school buildings, the report points out that all others meet in congregational and non-congregational buildings which were not originally designed for school use.

One school is housed in a depressing, dilapidated frame structure.

"In another school, the classrooms are in the basement—and one of these classrooms is too small to allow for a teacher's desk.

"A third held classes in the large synagogue auditorium without partitions separating the classes from one another," the report points out. And two other schools hold some of their classes in the building of a public high school, it adds.

With the exception of the Sons of Abraham and Ahavath Sholom, all the schools are located in residential sections. Two schools—Temple Emanuel and Ahavath Sholom—are in neighborhoods in which the Jewish population is growing.

But two other schools are located in a neighborhood from which the Jewish population is gradually moving out, the report observes.

It concludes its study of school "facilities" by noting that most of the children of the Providence Hebrew Day School and Temple Beth El do not live within walking distance of their respective schools.

"The children of the former are brought to school by a chartered bus; of the latter by public bus and private car."

No further comment is made of the physical facilities of the schools that make up the Jewish education system in this city, but the report's declarative statements add up to an inescapable conclusion: From the standpoint of physical environment, there is also considerable room for improvement.

Ex-Nazi's Rumored Tour Stirs Concern

NEW YORK (AJP)—A columnist's report that the ex-Nazi financial genius Dr. Hjalmar Schacht planned an American tour next fall sent a number of Jewish organizations scurrying for further data this week.

Disclosure that such a lecture tour was under consideration was made by Broadway columnist Danton Walker this week. Walker later told the American Jewish Press that no further information was available at this time and that the reported tour came to his office as a "tip".

Spokesmen for Jewish organizations indicated that any such tour of America by the former Nazi finance minister last reported vacationing in Italy would be met with sharp protests.

Schacht recently refused to confirm or deny a report that he had accepted a top position in the Indonesian financial administration.

Jewish Athlete Heads For Pacific Tour

SAN FRANCISCO (AJP) — A Jewish athlete and former Yale star was among 15 American athletes who left here this week on a "good will" tour of the Hawaiian Islands and Japan under the auspices of the National AAU.

The star, Vic Frank Jr., of Philadelphia, will participate in 13 track meets in Honolulu, Tokyo and other Japanese centers.

All 15 athletes were winners of first or second place in recent AAU meets conducted in California.

Young Frank is expected to star in the shot put and discuss events.

Young Jewish Scout Fights Flames To Save Two Torahs

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AJP) — A young Jewish Boy Scout's heroism in defying a raging fire to save two Torahs in a smoke-engulfed Orthodox synagogue here earned the youth a special citation and plaque this week from the National Boy Scouts of America headquarters.

The scout, Herbert Seltzer, 16, a member of Troop 8, a scout group sponsored by the Tifereth Israel synagogue here, was attending his weekly scout meeting at the Community Center when a passer-by rushed into the room to report a fire in the next door Ahavas Achim Synagogue.

Seltzer turned in the alarm, then with a fireman rushed through the burning synagogue to carry the Torahs to safety. The youth was nearly overcome by the smoke, but managed to escape the building with the aid of the firemen.

In recognition of his bravery, Seltzer was awarded a special citation by Dr. Harry Lasker, director of the Jewish Relations Committee of the Boy Scouts of America. A Life Scout, young

Announcement of the identity of the speaker rounds out the entertainment program that will feature Molly Picon, diminutive idol of Second Avenue and Broadway, Tova Ronni, Israeli entertainer and singer of folk songs, and many others prominent in the theatre and television.

The program, free to the public, is sponsored by the Rhode Island committee for the Bonds of Israel Government.

Mr. Lowenthal, a graduate of Yale University, has toured this country to explain the needs of the Jews in Israel, and the current economic and social situation in the Holy Land. In order to aid in the rapid absorption of hundreds of thousands of newcomers to Israel, Lowenthal, together with other prominent American leaders, met with Israel government officials in Jerusalem to evolve a three-year development program for Israel. The major financing for this program will come from the Bond Issue, which will aid in the realization of Israel's potential as the key industrial nation of the Middle East.

SYD COHEN:

Extra! -- Man Bites Dog!

The life of the baseball manager is not an easy lot. That is an accepted fact on the part of players and fans alike. It is commonly known that when a club is not going good, the owner will fire the manager, when actually he should fire a pack of his players and get the manager something good to work with.

Newspaper men will tell their readers that a manager has little to do with the actual playing of the game, that his strategy follows a routine course that any other manager would adopt. They sum it up that it is not the manager's fault if the club goes sour, in most cases—therefore, why fire the manager?

So it goes, and the best sort of proof seems to be that a manager with good material usually finishes at or around the top, while a manager with not-so-good material finishes not-so-good.

The foregoing is brought out just to set the theme. But now something phenomenal has begun to happen. The managers, who up to now have suffered in silence when their fortunes changed from better to worse, and sat back on their reputations and their high standing with their players, owners and the newspapermen, suddenly have started to fight back.

It is as if some of these men have set up their extensive press clippings as bibles, and feel that

Recent Bar Mitzvah

ARNOLD MORTON SPAHN, son of Mrs. Celia Spahn of Rugby Street who was Bar Mitzvah recently. Mrs. Spahn held open house. Guests included her brothers and sisters-in-law, Major and Mrs. Arthur Greenberg of Independence, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon K. Greenberg of Orangebury, N. Y., and Max Zusman of Waterbury, Conn.

Arnold is the paternal grandson of Mrs. Fannie Spahn. His maternal grandparent is Mrs. Samuel Greenberg.

Now this might be in order except that everyone except Sawyer seems to know that the Phillies were over their heads last year, and even so, barely won the pennant on the last day of the season—that it took the miracle of Konstanty to put them over in 1950 despite their overall play. Curt Simmons is gone, and the team just cannot generate the sort of spirit that carried it along last year.

Sawyer really has no explaining to do. His job is secure and his team has no pitcher to offset

Now comes the sad tale of Eddie Sawyer, a gent who in the past few years has been accustomed to a giant share of the headlines. When this affable native of Westerly reads his press notices, he finds that he is a wonderful guy, a resourceful manager, has a wonderful way with youngsters, that his players worship him and would gladly jump into the path of a runaway locomotive at his behest.

Poor Eddie. Last year he had to fight off the writers who wanted daily interviews about what he had for breakfast and how many times he normally yawns in the morning. This season, along with Jim Konstanty, he is the forgotten man. The limelight was sweet and habit-forming. Sawyer doesn't like the change. So he tries to get back by laying the blame on his team.
