Eban Confident In Suez Dispute

NEW YORK CITY (AJP) — Israeli diplomats are engaged in intensive discussions with top officials in the United States, England and France on the issue of implementing the United Nations' order to Egypt to halt its Israel-aimed blockade of Suez Canal shipping, it was learned this week.

It was disclosed that Abba Eban, Israeli ambassador to the United States, had met with George McGhee, Assistant Secretary of State, in a preliminary discussion on the problem.

Eban told a press conference that he felt that the "big powers" really "meant business" in their long-delayed decision to seek an end of the blockade.

Man Shows Up At His Own Funeral

NEW YORK CITY (AJP) — A 78-year-old Bronx Jew showed up after his "funeral" with a question which has baffled his red-faced relatives and police: "Who's that lying in my grave?"

Henry Molnar left home August 13 to buy some cigars. When he did not return, relatives reported him as missing. Shortly thereafter a man answering Molnar's description was killed by a bus. A relative identified the slain man at the morgue as Molnar.

The dead man was buried besides Molnar's wife. Then police

Women Raise $48,697 At GJC Initial Gifts

BV Women Reach $9600

By SELMA NEWMAN

Total contributions at the Initial Gifts affair of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee were $48,697, it was revealed yesterday by Mrs. Archie Fain, general chairman. "This compares very favorably with the contributions made by the same individuals last year," Mrs. Fain said.

"Free dollar aid to Israel is most vital to that country," said Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr., in a speech before more than 350 women at the Initial Gifts Luncheon of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee held at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel last Tuesday afternoon. "Although there will be a loan from the U. S. Government and the Export Bank plus monies received from the Israel Bond Drive, these are insufficient to carry on the vital job which is now only half done. That is why cash contributed to the United Jewish Appeal is so important," he said.

"Israel must absorb 600,000 new exiles in the next three years," he went on to say. "Their welfare is the responsibility of American Jewry because the cost of resettlement and expansion, if to be successful, will cost a billion and one-half dollars. This is beyond the financial ability of Israel itself. It must have outside assistance."

In reference to the relationships of the Arab countries and Israel, Mr. Roosevelt stated that "Israel is surrounded by Arabs in overwhelming numbers who want to destroy Israel democracy. The Arabs feel that Israel is their rightful home. If Israel falls to Arab ambitions, we will have lost an important outpost of democracy."

The problem of refugees in Israel is a difficult one, he said. He compared the problem of their integration to that of the United States having to absorb 75 million refugees within the same period.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Alvin A. Sopkin, co-ordinator and executive vice-chairman of the Women's Division. Mrs. Nathan Samors, chairman of the Initial Gifts Committee, then welcomed the women. She introduced Mrs. Archie Fain, general chairman of the Women's Division, General Jewish Committee, who conducted the meeting.

Mrs. Albert Pilavin, vice-chairman of National Women's Committee, and honorary chairman

YAD Gets $9553 at Initial Gifts; Amount Larger Than a Year Ago

A decided upward trend in contributions was noted by officials of the General Jewish Committee as the Young Adult Division launched its 1951 campaign at the initial gifts dinner Tuesday evening at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

The event, which attracted a gathering of more than 200 persons, was featured by an address by U. S. Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. of New York.

The total of gifts pledged at the dinner was $9553, as compared with some $7,400 donated by the same individual contributors last year.

Even Roosevelt took note of the giving; he remarked that this was one of the most inspiring meetings of young people he ever had attended.

At an earlier press conference, Roosevelt revealed that when he visited Israel, he was surprised at the determined and enthusiastic spirit of the people. "Israel is one of the few countries in the world," he said, "where the people are in front of the government."

The son of the late President also noted that he had expected to find Israel more desert-like than it actually was, and, conversely, that he had not expected to find as much war damage as he did. It (the Israel-Arab hostilities) was a more modern war than he had thought, he added.

Asked about the chances for peace in the Middle East, Roosevelt commented that two problems first must be solved—resettlement of refugees, both Arab and Jewish, and a general raising of the standard of living throughout that area, along with the es-

Y. and two grandchildren.

HARRY BARIS

Funeral services were held last week for Harry Baris, employed as a chauffeur by the city of Providence, who died suddenly on September 9 at his home, 59 Robinson Street.

Born in Providence, Oct. 19, 1901, a son of Jennie (Bilgor) and the late David Baris, he had been a life-long resident of this city.

Besides his mother, he is survived by two sisters, Bessie and Hilda Baris.

MRS. MIRKA ORODENKER

Funeral services for Mrs. Mirka Orodener, 77, widow of Jonas Orodener, who died September 8, at her home, 240 Baker Street, after a long illness, were held last week at the Max Sugarman Funeral Home. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

She was born in Russia, a daughter of the late David and Miriam Gelman, and had resided in this city for 30 years. She was a member of the South Providence Ladies Aid Association, the Women's Pioneer Association, The Miriam Hospital Association and the South Providence Hebrew Congregation.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Solomon Lightman, and a son, Samuel D. Orodener, both of this city; six grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

NATHAN BROADMAN

Funeral services for Nathan Broadman of 18 Jenckes Street, husband of Shirley (Bromberg) Broadman, took place last Friday at the Max Sugarman Funeral Home. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

He was born in Woonsocket, June 9, 1911, the son of the late Michael and Annie Broadman, and came to Providence at an early age.

In addition to his wife he is survived by three daughters, the Misses Rosalie, Frances and Ivy Broadman; one son, Jerold Broadman; six brothers, Abraham, Israel, Louis, Haskell, Jack and Joseph Broadman, and one sister, Mrs. Edward Kagan, all of Providence.

A training course for school principals, the first in Israel, was undertaken this summer by the School of Education of Hebrew University in Jerusalem. The new program is designed to alleviate Israel's shortage of school principals and supervisors. The National Council of Jewish Women is a sponsor of Hebrew University, donating $50,000 a year to the school of education. The Providence Section of Council helps raise money for this national work by running The Council Thrift Shop which fulfills a two-fold purpose—it obtains money for important local and national projects, and at the same time enables those who have small incomes to obtain good merchandise reasonably.

Ahavath Sholom Talmud Torah

Rabbi Reuben Bodek, supervisor of the Ahavath Sholom Hebrew School at Rochambeau Avenue and Camp Street, has inaugurated the new school term, which started Monday, September 10. A complete course ranging from beginner's Hebrew to post-Bar-Mitzvah studies is now offered, with special classes for Bar Mitzvah students.

Rabbi Bodek is a graduate of Mesivta Rabbi Chaim-Berlin and was previously connected with the West Side Hebrew Institute in St. Paul, Minn. He has completed one year with the Ahavath Sholom Hebrew School.

Registrations are still being accepted, and parents are urged to enroll their children as soon as possible so that proper progress may be made with the classes to which they are assigned. The public is invited to inspect the modern classrooms of the Hebrew School.

BOWLING LEAGUES START

Two bowling leagues swing into operation next week to start the new season. Temple Beth El's Brotherhood League will get under way Thursday, Sept. 20 at the Casino Alleys on Pine Street. Time is 8:45. Cranston's Jewish Community Club league starts its third campaign Tuesday, Sept. 18 at Legion Bowladrome, Park Avenue, Cranston. Complete stories next week.

Foods To Remember

BY LEAH W. LEONARD

(Author of "Jewish Cookery")

If sultry September days drive you to drink, make it any one of the following thirst quenchers that are "drinks with a difference." Let's start with the customary kitchen shelf ingredients like instant coffee, Postum or other coffee substitutes.

ICED COFFEE VIENNESE

(1 tall glassful)

- 1 heaping tablespoon instant coffee or substitute
- 2 tablespoons boiling water
- 1 tablespoon honey (or brown sugar)
- 1 tablespoon rum, brandy or Cacao Liqueur
- Ice cubes and cold water to fill the tall glass

Combine the instant coffee with boiling water and honey, stirring till well blended. Add the rum, brandy or Liqueur and stir well. Fill the tall glass with ice cubes and cold water and stir once or twice before serving. Or prepare as many portions as desired and store in a covered glass container or jar, then add the ice cubes and cold water to each glass when serving.

Variation: Omit the Liqueur and use vanilla flavoring. Fill glasses half full with ice cubes and ice cold milk. Stir well. Top with a dash of cinnamon or nutmeg if desired.

FRESH PEACH PUNCH

- 8 large fresh peaches, peeled and sliced thin

- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 1 quart strong tea, freshly brewed
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 lemon thinly sliced
- 2 large bottles ginger ale
- Ice cubes
- Fresh mint leaves for garnish

Have all ingredients and the punch bowl well chilled. Place the sliced peaches in the bottom of the punch bowl and sprinkle with sugar. Add the brewed tea through a strainer. Stir in the lemon juice and ginger ale and float the sliced lemon and mint leaves on top. Add the ice cubes and let stand ten minutes before serving. Yields approximately 24 cups.

PINEAPPLE PUNCH WITH A PUNCH

- 1 large can pineapple juice (48-ounce)
- 1 cup sugar (2 cups sugar if unsweetened juice is used)
- 1 cup lemon juice
- 3/4 cup canned crushed pineapple, including juice
- 1 quart ice water colored green with vegetable coloring
- 1/2 cup rum or brandy
- 1 quart chilled ginger ale
- Ice Cubes
- Fresh mint leaves for garnish

Combine the ingredients in the order listed and let stand 5 minutes before serving from the punch bowl. Serves approximately 24.

Error In Year Book

The General Jewish Committee wishes to announce that the contribution of Mr. Samuel Wax of the Trinity Auto Finance Company was erroneously listed in its latest year book. The gift of Mr. Wax to the 1950 GJC Campaign was five hundred dollars ($500.00) and because of a typographical error, it was listed as five dollars ($5.00). Of the 8,670 contributors listed in the year book, this is the only error that has been called to the attention of the GJC office.

32 Golfers In Quarter Finals

Thirty-two golfers were still going strong in the quarter final round of the Jewish Herald Golf Tournament, being held at Ledge-mont Country Club, as this issue went to press. For 30 others, who failed to survive the first round of match play last week, it was "wait until next year."

More than 60 golfers started in the tournament, with 16 each in the first and second flights, and 32 in the third flight. This week marks the end of the second round, with half those numbers battling to stay alive.

Tabulation of all the matches has proved difficult at the start, due to the large number of entries and the rather wide spread of time required for the completion of a match. Here, however, is a partial rundown of the first round played by the first flight:

Dick Loebenberg won over Milt Tinkoff; Murray Trinkle downed Sam Chase; Milt Weisman beat Moe Borod; Julie Bloom defeated Merrill Hassenfeld; Sol Lerman edged Al Taber; Harry Platt was the winner over Milt Stallman; Jerry Shaulson won by default over Barney Efros.

The rest of the results in the first two rounds will appear next week.

Before The Bars of Justice

The disclosure that A. Artukovich had been arrested by U. S. authorities in Los Angeles under extradition proceedings brought by the Yugoslav Government should be good news not only to Jews, but to all elements in the country with a sense of justice.

Artukovich's record is an open book. As Minister of Justice and Minister of Interior in the Croat puppet state he did everything within his power not only to destroy his political opponents but to liquidate—as he frequently boasted—the Jewish problem through the extermination of all Jews under his control. He not only threatened to eradicate the Jewish population—he actually went through with his devilish plan.

It has been months since both deportation and extradition proceedings have been commenced. But even while under direct fire Artukovich had the impudence of applying to our authorities for permission to remain as a Displaced Person. Taking advantage of the current anti-Communist hysteria, he tried to prevail upon our authorities to give him the shelter of our soil as a refugee from Communism. However, his device was quite transparent. He was using the anti-Communist cloak as a means of saving his skin.

We hope that this criminal will be placed before the bars of justice, where he belongs, and that he will ultimately be made to pay the price for his crimes against Jews and humanity.

Novel Describes Refugees' Adjustment

"Room for a Son," a novel by Robert D. Abrahams, is the latest book of the Jewish Publication Society of America, (222 N. 15th, Philadelphia 2). It is the story of a refugee boy who was brought to this country by a Pennsylvania couple whose only son was killed in the U. S. Army's battle against the Nazis.

Aaron Levy, the young boy, is a namesake of the foster father. He comes to America with suspicions. Abrahams' story leads him through the adjustment periods into an acceptance of the American way of life.

While the younger Aaron's early experiences interestingly view the integration of a newcomer into this land and his acceptance by non-Jews as well as Jews, the wholesome attitudes of the foster parents, who were crushed by the death of their own son, forms an important part of the story. Their gifts to the community, their willingness to cooperate in building a better society, win for them the respect of their neighbors.

The fairy tale about a mysterious trunk which arrives prior to Aaron's coming and is taken away unopened when he finally fits into his new environment is not very convincing. But the dreams about the Levy's hero son who offers advice to the refugee fit in well into the story.

Egypt, Syria Plotted Abdullah's Death With Ex-Mufti, Allen Says

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—A grave new threat to Israel was disclosed this week in a report by a leading columnist listing Egypt and Syria as accomplices of the ex-Mufti, sworn enemy of the Jewish State, in the assassination of King Abdullah, in a plot to plunge the Middle East into chaos and war.

Columnist Robert S. Allen reported that the ex-Mufti was busy commuting between Damascus, Cairo and Gaza in Egyptian-held Palestine to carry out the scheme.

Agents of the ex-Mufti are moving into Trans-Jordan to stir up violence among the Arab refugees in a move by the Mufti to force the Trans-Jordan Government to suppress such uprisings. Such action would give the ex-Mufti, an excuse to appeal to other Arab nations, particularly Egypt and Syria, to come to the aid of the refugees.

According to the report, Egypt and Syria would be ready to march in and grab pieces of the Jordan kingdom, which Allen said would inevitably involve Israel, as one of the Mufti's "first victims."

Allen said that reports convinced U. S. intelligence that the Mufti had a direct hand in the assassination of Abdullah and that Egyptian money, weapons and papers were found near the home of the assassin.

"One Man's Opinion"

BY BERNARD SEGAL

While You Were Away

Before you left for that vacation by the seashore or the trip to the mountains, you made sure that your home was safe during your absence. You checked again and again to see that all the windows were tightly closed, the gas was off, the water was shut, and the doors were locked.

Now that you are back, you are glad to find everything in place, and nothing damaged in your house. You remove the dust covers from your furniture, you unroll the rugs on the floors, you air the rooms, and you make the house livable again.

That much for your own home.

What about the home the community built? How did the communal household fare while you were away? Let us check and see.

The Miriam Hospital building on Summit Avenue is like the youngster who left for summer camp a mother's little boy, and returned a young gentleman. Mother herself marvels at the change the summer made in her son. You will marvel at the change the summer months made in the New Miriam.

The building has emerged from the maze of scaffolding, and is now facing the world boldly and openly. Now it is looking more and more like the architect's drawing. Now it is clearly outlined. Now its features are distinct. This is how the New Miriam Hospital will look for many, many years to come. And a lovely sight it is, simple, solid, pleasing, heart warming.

If you have not been near the building since the day of the cornerstone laying ceremony, you want to visit the site again, now that the summer is gone, to see what happened there while you were away.

Also while you were away something exciting happened to the Community Center. After twenty-five years, the J.C.C. is leaving Benefit Street and is moving up to Sessions Street, in the heart of the East Side.

But changing streets is in itself a minor incident. With change of location will also come a change in pace, a quickening of tempo, and a widening of horizons.

Never before was the Community Center so well staffed, and so adequately geared for purposes to which it is dedicated, namely: "To serve the Cultural and Social needs of Youth and Adult."

Already committees are dreaming up programs for all age groups, for a wide spectrum of interests to suit the tastes and talents of every one in the community. Already members of the staff are poised for an unprecedented season of activities, both within the Center proper, and in extension centers in South Providence and on the North End. The J.C.C. this year is equipped to give competent guidance and direction to the widest possible program.

I have before me a suggested list of activities for the coming season. There are 73 items on the list designed for the youngster who delights in a children's theater, for the youth who thrills to a basketball game, for the young adult who craves the social contacts of others of the same age level, for the adult who loves music, who takes pleasure in discussion, and who wants to join others in study.

Surely there is something for every one of us in that list of 73 activities.

We will do well to note the change of address, and the change of pace, of the Community Center. The Sessions Street chapter in the life of the J.C.C. was opened while you were away, and it is for you to write the chapter now that you are back.

Nothing spectacular happened at the Home for the Aged while you were away. This Home—the pride of our communal household—spent a quiet summer, with an occasional outing to the seashore, a picnic at the summer home of a friend, and social hours with visitors. The grounds, green and cool and immaculate, were a delight for the eye, and the spacious sun-parlor, pleasantly and comfortably furnished, was favored by many to while away the afternoon hours.

But the Home did gain something while you were away. It is the kind of a gain that cannot be displayed, nor described. It can neither be built nor bought.

The gain of which I speak is human, and it is a rare personality, blessed with a God-given gift. During the summer months Cantor David Einstein came to the Home as Hazan and Reader.

The presence of a man of his caliber at the Home enriches the spiritual life beyond measure. He is a man of learning, and a pious man. It is safe to say that he represents the art of Hazonus at its best. In the sweetness of his singing, in the understanding of the essence of prayer, in his reverence for the traditional music of the Synagogue, Mr. Einstein has no peer. He is truly the dean of the Cantors in our community, and the Home is fortunate indeed to have him at the pulpit.

We could go on checking on the camps, Jori, Centerland and Camptown—and other nooks and corners of our communal household. But enough for today. What we have checked so far looks fine, and should prove that things kept going while you were away.

Anti-Israel Prince Worries Zionists

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—The possibility of ascension to the throne of Jordan by Prince Talal, who reportedly once fired a shot at his father, the assassinated King Abdullah, for being too friendly to the Jews of Palestine, created consternation in Zionist circles this week.

The prince, who has been under treatment for several years in a Swiss sanatorium for a nervous ailment was said to have recovered and plans to return to Jordan soon.

Whether Prince Talal still retains his anti-Jewish, as well as his anti-British feelings, was not known but the prospect of an un-

Asks Partisan Zionism's End

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—Rudolph G. Sonneborn, a leader of the Progressive forces in the Zionist Organization of America, said this week that the ZOA was fading out and engaged in angry debate with a ZOA spokesman.

The clash occurred at a press conference called by Sonneborn, who is chairman of the United Palestine Appeal and who recently returned from a visit to Israel.

Sonneborn made his comment in a statement calling for the dissolution of "partisan Zionism" in the United States. He said the ZOA should be the first to lead "in the drive away from party identification."

He was promptly challenged by Ernest E. Barbarash, long-time editor of the "American Zionist," official organ of the 250,000-member ZOA.

Barbarash said that Sonneborn sounded "like some Israeli left-wing leaders at the Zionist Congress who predicted the doom of American Jewry."

Barbarash asserted that much of what Sonneborn had said was specifically in opposition to the formal stand of the 23rd World Zionist Congress on the question of the responsibility of the Zionist movement in aiding Israel.

Sonneborn also asserted that no single group "reflects the attitude or opinions of American Jewry and it is a presumption of any group to say that it does."

He said that 98 per cent of American Jews supported Israel with financial help without regard to Zionist parties.

Barbarash asked who had organized the aid and channeled it for Israel's benefit.

Sonneborn also announced that a national conference would be held in Washington, D. C., shortly to consider a blue print establishing the UPA as the central fundraising agency in the United States for Israel immigration, resettlement and rehabilitation.

Cantor Receives Service Award

MIAMI BEACH, FLA.—Eddie Cantor, world-famed entertainment artist of stage, screen, radio and television, has received the 1951 National Service Award of Phi Epsilon Pi Fraternity. Announcement of Cantor's selection as the person who in the past year has made "the finest contribution to the essential Jewish life of America," was made tonight by Judge Samuel I. Rosenman of New York City, former U. S. presidential advisor and chairman of the selection committee, in a report to the organization's 47th Anniversary Convention at the Roney Plaza Hotel.

Levy-Ritter

At a candlelight double ring ceremony at Temple Beth El on August 18, Miss Elaine Ann Ritter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Ritter of 573 Highland Avenue, Fall River, became the bride of Jack Kirstein Levy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Levy of 6 George Street, Pawtucket. A dinner followed in the vestry.

The bride was attired in nylon mousseline-de-soie, fashioned with a sheer yoke neckline, long tapering sleeves and bouffant skirt with wide flounced ruffles at the hemline continuing into an aisle-wide train. Her imported fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a half crown of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible marked with a white orchid, lilies-of-the-valley and streamers of stephanotis.

Mrs. Sophie Blistein of Pawtucket, cousin of the groom, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow taffeta gown and carried a cascade of red roses. Miss Carol Ruth Epstein of Providence, cousin of the bride, and junior bridesmaid, was gowned in yellow marquisette with a head piece of rosettes, and carried an old fashioned bouquet.

Gerald Leon Ritter, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers included Robert Goldman, Jack Epstein, Irving Brodsky and Michael Buccell, all of Providence; Jerome Ritter of Fall River, and Donald Jacobs of Cranston. David and Richard Brodsky, cousins of the bride, were ring bearers.

The couple left for a honeymoon in Bermuda and Canada.

The groom is a graduate of Pawtucket West High, University of R. I. and Bryant College (in accounting and finance). He is an accountant with Senak Co. of America.

The bride is a graduate of Durfee High School, Fall River, the Conservatory of Music and Cincinnati College of Music. She is a music teacher and active in radio circles.

Israel Can Become Workshop For Middle East, Says Albert

Israel can become the industrial workshop for the entire Middle East with the aid of investment capital provided through the $500,000,000 State of Israel Bond Issue, Benjamin R. Albert stated today in announcing plans for the first National Economic Conference for Israel, to be held in Washington, D. C. from September 20 through 23. Mr. Albert will be a member of Providence's delegation to the Conference, which will include Dr. Ilie Berger, Mr. Jacob Shore and Mr. Saul Abrams.

"In a little more than three years of Statehood," Mr. Albert said, "Israel has made substantial economic strides. Its old industries have grown, and new ones are being founded almost every day. Automobiles are coming off the assembly line in Haifa, refrigerators are being manufactured, a complete industrialization of the country is in the making.

"Israel has already far outstripped other Middle Eastern countries in its economic advance," Mr. Albert pointed out. "With the aid of the State of Israel Bond Issue, she can continue to grow at a rapid rate." Mr. Albert emphasized that speedy expansion of Israel's industrial and agricultural production has been made essential by the hundreds of thousands of immigrants streaming to her shores. "At the Conference in Washington," he said, "we shall develop plans to step up the pace of the Israel Bond drive, so that Israel may have the resources she needs to carry on with her crucial program of economic development and immigrant absorption."

Delegates to the conference will include leaders of national Jewish organizations and of communities from coast to coast. Among them will be Henry Morgenthau, Jr., chairman of the Board of Governors of the national Israel Bond drive organization; Rudolf G. Sonneborn, its president; James G. McDonald, first U. S. Ambassador to Israel, who is chairman of the Bond organization's Advisory Council; Julian B. Venezky, chairman of its executive committee and Henry Montor, its vice-president.

Safari On the Sands at Narragansett Pier

with fred kelman

Like the first robin in the spring, the two beach pictures in last week's issue served notice that the Herald's annual photographic tour of the beach at Narragansett Pier would soon appear. Now that the weather has turned cool, it's nice to look back at those pleasant, warm days, when lolling on the sand was a pleasure.

How to enjoy your day at the beach: Sandy Frank recommends bringing along the knitting, while Audrey Blau curls up with a good book.

Nothing like a cooling draught along with a warm breeze, according to Yvette Greifer and Carol Carondo, sitting, and Hannah Goldstein.

Toby Brown and Rhoda Guy keep up with their swing music while absorbing plenty of sunshine.

Chatting on the boardwalk as the camera swings by are Avis Ginsberg, Rose Kadsivitz, Sylvia Kadsivitz and Marcia Zakoff.

Physician's Service Drive Under Way

The first statewide opportunity to join Physicians Service on a non-group basis now under way, will continue through Saturday, September 22. Enrollment may be made in person at Physicians Service-Blue Cross headquarters, 31 Canal Street, Providence, by mail, or at any one of 15 enrollment centers established throughout the State.

Physicians Service is the R. I.

Medical Society's plan for surgical medical care; and enrollment opportunities will be extended to those self-employed, unemployed, retired or employed by firms with ten or less employees.

At the same time, an opportunity to join Blue Cross, the non profit plan for prepaid hospital care, will be offered to the same group of people.

Enrollment by groups has been conducted in Physicians Service over the past 20 months and totals 175,000 members, or 23 percent of the State's population, at the present time.

Literature and application cards will also be available at all drug stores.

Benefits under Physicians Service provide protection for surgery in home, office, or hospital, for the reduction of fractures or dislocations, for the services Assisting of the Surgeon, Physician Anesthetist, Physician - Transfusionist, during operative procedures, and for delivery in maternity cases.

Subscribers within certain income limits are entitled to these benefits covered in full. The limits are $3600 for subscriber who has enrolled two or more family members; $3000 for subscriber who has enrolled one family member; $2400 for subscriber who has enrolled himself only. Members who earn more than these income limits are entitled to liberal cash allowances up to $290.

In addition, full coverage is provided in member and service-benefit hospitals for the use of the operating room as often as necessary, ordinary medicines and surgical dressings, laboratory examinations, basal metabolism tests, oxygen and serums, and physical therapy. Maternity benefits up to $75 are available after 7 months of continuous family membership.

Beth David Talmud Torah

DEAR FRIENDS:

Beth David Is Proud To Announce
The Opening Of Its Talmud Torah To All Children
Of School Age

You have a wonderful opportunity to register your child in a four day a week Hebrew School, Mon., Tues., Wed., and Thurs. from 4:15 P. M. to 5:30 P. M. The most capable teachers available will instruct your child in the fundamental Hebrew educational requirements that have been so sorely lacking in this neighborhood. In order that your child may receive the full benefit of our first semester, register your child as soon as possible in order for him to participate in the first class which will begin on Sept. 24, 1951.

Registration will take place Sunday, Sept. 16, 1951, from 9:00 A. M. to 11:00 A. M. at our Synagogue, 145 Oakland Avenue. Also Mon., Tues., Wed., and Thurs. evenings, Sept. 17, 18, 19 and 20th from 7:30 to 9:00 P. M. The weekly tuition fee per pupil has been established as $3.00.

Celebrate Rosh Hashanah by registering your child in our school.

TALMUD TORAH COMMITTEE

P. S. Registration for Sunday School will take place at the same time.

Paradox of the High Salaries

It came as a sickening shock to this fan to hear the news that Hal Newhouser may be through as a major leaguer and that Charley Keller may retire after the end of this season.

If Newhouser is dropped by the Tigers, as General Manager Charley Gehringer said recently, it will be mainly because of Hal's tremendous salary, not because he is all washed up.

That fact should, but probably won't, serve as a warning to all ball players who think their talents entitle them to $40,000 instead of $35,000. It should teach them that they are not necessarily protecting their future when they ask for and get big money.

The simple truth, in the light of recent developments in the big leagues, is that the high salaried star is most likely to be unemployed long before his time, while his mates of lesser abilities and lesser pay checks are still collecting big league money and cheers.

It is a startling economic paradox for which nobody, apparently, is to blame.

Because of their salaries, men like Johnny Mize and Johnny Sain and Hal Newhouser and, to a lesser degree, Charley Keller, must be cut adrift. The same thing soon must happen to men like Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio (unless they retire first) and Dom DiMaggio and Phil Rizzuto and Bob Elliott and Sid Gordon and Vern Stephens and a couple of dozen more. Few, if any, outfits will be willing to trade for them because their salaries come so high.

All of these men won't wait for the ax to fall. But how about the others—those who still have definite major league talent, who want to play, to remain in the game? The stark and naked fact is that they, and all the others to follow, are victims of their own security regulation—the rule that says a player may not be cut in salary by more than 25 percent in any given year.

Just a few weeks ago the Braves, losing a reputed half million dollars for the season, started their economy campaign by waiving John Sain to the Yankees.

Getting waivers was easy. No rival manager had been impressed by the Sain he had seen this year. But, even if one of them had wanted to take the risk no sensible business manager would have permitted the deal. They say Sain was getting $30,000. Under baseball law, he could be cut no more than 25 percent in 1952, which would mean he must be paid $22,500. Too much of a gamble on a player in his 30's.

Had the same general manager been permitted to offer Johnny a conditional contract, based on performance, you may rest assured that waivers would not have been so easily obtained.

At that, Sain was lucky. The Yankees wanted him, the Indians would have taken him. He profited handsomely by the deal. The only sufferers were the other clubs in the American League who must face Johnny's still effective curves.

Hal Newhouser, however, doesn't figure to be so lucky. The star left hander may be near the end of the trail at the age of 30, all because of the curse of that salary reduction law.

Prince Hal has a sore arm. Whether it will ever be sound again is not known. At best, it will be an expensive proposition, with trips to clinics, costly treatments, etc. At about $50,000 per, that arm is not worth the gamble. Again, a conditional contract could save Hal's career. He could work all winter on his arm (probably with the club's financial help) and, if it recovered its former magic, remain with Detroit at a decent, if more modest, salary.

Not so under present regulations. Hal, say the Tigers, will be dropped. He loses not 25 percent of his pay, but all of it, as well as the only life and friends he has ever known. Unlike Sain, he probably will not be picked up by another club. Once released, he must shift for himself. If he tries to come back, he will have to cure his arm at his own expense, and then beg for a tryout with any outfit that will let him pitch to the batters, in the manner of a beggar asking for a handout.

The announced retirement of Keller, one of the great clutch hitters in all baseball history, is a relief to the Tigers, who would have to drop the highly paid King Kong otherwise. Charley is a wonderful asset as a pinch hitter and part time performer, even at 34—but not at that salary. So the Tigers will accept his resignation—with "regrets," but also "godspeed."

Having shed appropriate tears for the individual players who are "afflicted" with huge salaries (I hear shouts of "how can I pick up that affliction in a hurry"), let's also remember that the balance of a league is upset when the Yankees come up with a Mize and Hopp and Sain. Other clubs that would like to assume their services simply cannot afford them. So the rich keep winning and the poor remain in the second division.
