Zionists Plan Private Israel Investment Program

NEW YORK—The launching of a private investment program for Israel, highlighting a nationwide census of the trades, businesses and professions of its membership, was unanimously approved early last week by the Extraordinary Conference of the National Administrative Council, Zionist Organization of America, at the conclusion of its three-day session held in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. More than 500 delegates from all parts of the country attended the Conference.

This was one of a series of major projects adopted by the parley, comprising a new plan designed to mobilize manpower and resources of the Jewish community in the furtherance of economic aid to Israel, promotion of Hebrew education, increased ZOA participation in raising funds for Israel, as well as in the field of youth and chutzot and the strengthening of membership.

The program of an accelerated private investment activity by the ZOA for Israel followed the announcement by Rabbi Irving Miller, president, of the establishment of an Economic Committee and Department by the ZOA to further this objective. Rabbi Miller revealed that this committee is composed of leaders in industry, law, science and housing.

Stressing the projected inventory among the nationwide ZOA constituency, Rabbi Miller stated that these members are to be organized along trade, industrial and professional lines with a view towards setting up a liaison with corresponding trades, businesses, undertakings and professions in Israel. This will enable the economic committee to ascertain more authoritatively what is needed in Israel in terms of machinery, expansion capital and skilled personnel.

Dr. Sidney Marks, national secretary of the ZOA, submitted its program in behalf of the president and the newly established economic committee.

The committee, he said, will cooperate fully in these economic endeavors with the Economic Division of the Israel Government and the Jewish Agency. It will endeavor to enlist the support of the US Government to aid the building of an effective technology in Israel.

Report On Israel Foreign Trade

WASHINGTON — The Department of Commerce has issued a report on Israel's foreign trade during 1951 which indicates that Israel exported more goods than in the preceding year.

The report is based on Israel Finance Ministry figures and shows total imports at 122.6 million Israel pounds and exports of 16.7 million Israel pounds, representing a 19.5 per cent gain in imports and a 27 per cent gain in exports over 1950. Exports constituted 13.6 percent of imports by value, compared with 12.8 percent in 1950.

Vatican Flays Jerusalem As Capital

ROME—High Vatican sources reiterated this week that the Roman Catholic Church does not favor the designation of Jerusalem as the Israel capital and that the Church desires that Jerusalem be internationalized. Vatican officials said this in comment on the publication of an interview given by Israel Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion in Jerusalem in which Mr. Ben-Gurion was quoted as saying, "Jerusalem is again 100 per cent Jewish and is the capital of Israel."

Arabs Cold To New Israel Peace Offer

NEW YORK — Israel's offer of an olive branch to Egypt made during Knesset debate on the conscription law, was praised by the New York Times in an editorial this week, but drew a cool response from the Egyptians.

The newspaper called it a "courageous and heartening gesture." It warned that "somewhere, sometime, somehow, sometime or other, the bitter feelings between the Arabs and Israel, the tensions, the Iron Curtain between them, must come to an end. The alternative would be another war which could only make things infinitely worse."

In Cairo, Premier Aly Maher was quoted as saying that no official overtures had been received. Abdul Rahman Azzam, secretary-general of the Arab League, said it was impossible to expect Egypt to make peace with Israel so long as a million Arabs had been thrown out of their country and lived in miserable conditions and as long, he said, as Israel continued to threaten Syria.

The seven-nation Arab security pact came into force this week and the states are to work out joint defense arrangements. A clause in the pact provides that "any armed aggression against any one or more of the pact's members or its forces is an attack on all to be met with armed force."

The Egyptian radio announced this week establishment by the government of a new commission "to fight Communism and Zionism" and reported that Egypt will protest transfer of Israel's capital to Jerusalem.

British Air Company Ceases Flights

LONDON—The British Overseas Airways Corporation announced that its London-Lydd flight has been suspended because of a reduction of business originating in Israel. A company spokesman denied a Tel Aviv report that the suspension of service was decided on as a protest against the freezing of BOAC's assets of $4,000 by the Israel authorities.

Reveal Survey Results In Denver

DENVER—Almost half of the Jewish population of Denver—2,200 families out of 4,500—are affiliated with synagogues; more than half the heads of Jewish families in the city are affiliated with B'nai B'rith, and 2,000 women, almost half the Jewish mothers of Denver, belong to Hadassah, Robert Gamzey reported this week in the "Intermountain Jewish News."

"From these evidences of affiliation with the Jewish community," he wrote "we would conclude that about half of Denver Jewry cares about Jewish life and that the other half doesn't."

The Denver editor pointed out that in smaller communities like Cheyenne, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, "the percentage of affiliation soars to almost 100 per cent. In small towns, Jews can't hide under a cloak of anonymity." He urged study by Jewish leadership on "how to convert those who don't care into those who do care."

Israeli Leader Arrested In Prague

JERUSALEM—Mrs. Reja Oren, wife of the leader of the Mapam Party in Israel who has been detained for more than eight months in Prague on charges of conspiracy, received a letter from her husband stating that he "confessed" to charges made against him by Czech authorities. The letter, written in German, was delivered to Mrs. Oren by the Czech legation here. This is the first written word that Mordecai Oren was permitted by the Czech political police to send to his wife.

Boyman Speaks at N. E. Histadrut Outing

Four thousand persons, representing various Greater Boston Organizations and 40 New England communities, participated in the 17th annual Histadrut Outing at the Workmen's Circle Camp last weekend. Alter Boyman, chairman of the Labor Zionist Council of Providence, addressed the assemblage on behalf of Providence and the other New England communities. He assured the audience that the Labor Zionist movement of Providence would increase its support of Histadrut in the coming year. The above picture, taken at the outing shows, left to right, Dr. Louis Silver, N. E. Chairman; Alter Boyman, chairman, Labor Zionist Council of Providence; Carl Cohen, Greater Boston treasurer; Alexander Shapiro, Greater Boston chairman.

Jews Seeking Entry Here Must Give "Ethnic" Data

WASHINGTON—Jews seeking entry into the United States are now being required to identify themselves as Jews in their visa applications under new regulations introduced by the Visa Division of the State Department, it was established this week.

Visa officials originally said with past usage—were dictated by McCarran-Walter Act requirements for "ethnic" data. They subsequently denied the connection. Jewish organizations this week raised the issue with the government.

It was revealed that although the McCarran-Walter Act does not enter into effect until Dec. 24, visa chief Herve J. L'Heureux had already issued preliminary orders to consular officers to elicit information on whether or not applicants are Jewish. The Visa Division has cited section 222-A of the McCarran-Walter Act as its authority. This section requires that each alien "shall state his race and ethnic classification."

In London, a correspondent examining the practice followed by the U. S. Consulate there was informed that applicants for U. S. visas are now being required to state their nationality and race. Officials explained that this means that Jewish applicants are expected to list "Jewish" as their race. Applicants in London are also being required to give information on the race of both parents.

To Ask for "Reports"
As a result of the expose, the State Department announced last week, following hurried conferences by top-level officials, that L'Heureux was cabling American consular officials abroad for "reports" on actions taken on the listing of Jews as such on applications for American visas.

Officials here insisted that the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act is not yet being implemented but that plans for its implementation are being studied and transmitted to consulates in advance of the effective date of the act. It was unofficially admitted here after the disclosures that Jews have been designated as such on applications for some time.

The legal terminology is construed by the Visa Division as requiring the listing of Jews as an ethnic classification. However, private immigration attorneys have commented that nothing in the act or in Congressional history indicates that Congress has made a determination that Jews are an ethnic group, which should be listed as such.

So far as could be learned, there will be no attempt to specify religious faiths such as Catholic, Protestant, and others on visa applications, and the reason for listing Jews was attributed to the "ethnic" requirements.

"Special Group"
A Visa Division source said Jews would be identified as a "special group" but that he did not yet have access to the "new details which are being worked out."

Sailors Seek Asylum In Israel

MONTREAL — Nineteen sailors detained by Canadian immigration authorities for ship-jumping and other violations have applied for Israel citizenship. In a petition forwarded to the Israel Consul here—which noted that they had been placed under detention prior to deportation—the sailors said: "With the greatest interest and enthusiasm, we have read the greatest news in history—that Israel extends naturalization. We have pledged with honesty to abide by all laws and privileges extended to us after a thorough investigation by your officials."

To Co-ordinate Community Work

Proposals for the most effective organization and coordination of Jewish community relations work in the United States and for financing of the community relations field will be debated and acted upon at the plenary session of the National Community Relations Advisory Council.

The NCRAC meetings will be held at the Claridge Hotel in Atlantic City Sept. 6 through 8. Irving Kane of Cleveland, NCRAC chairman, announced this week.

Attending the plenary session from Essex County will be Louis J. Cohen, former chairman of the community relations committee of the Jewish Community Council of Essex County and a representative of the Large City Budgeting Conference to the evaluative studies committee of the NCRAC; Herman M. Pekarsky, executive director of the Council, who has been participating in the work of the evaluative studies committee; Adrian M. Unger, chairman of the community relations committee; and Arnold Harris, executive director of the community relations committee.

About 150 delegates from the six national organizations and the 27 community councils which comprise the NCRAC are expected to gather for the session, Kane said.

The forthcoming holiday services will mark the first activity to be held in the Cranston Center building on Park Avenue, now nearing completion.

Dr. Cooke's 'Challenge and Response in the Middle East'

Dr. Hedley V. Cooke, one-time American consul in Turkey and Palestine, former member of the ECA Middle East planning staff, now on the staff of the department of political science at the University of Alabama, is well equipped to deal with the problems of the Middle East, and his book, "Challenge and Response of the Middle East: The Quest for Prosperity, 1919-1951." (Harper), assumes the role of one of the most valuable collections of data available in concrete and factual form.

Dr. Cooke covers the backgrounds, developments and present status of 10 countries—Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Jordan, Lebanon, Syria, Iraq, Israel, Iran, Turkey. He deals with their health problems, their economic positions, their political aspirations. He offers proof to show that with the exception of Turkey and Israel, these lands have retrogressed, that their status is more backward today than it was 30 years ago. It is an appalling picture of an area which is becoming increasingly more important in world affairs.

There are many dangerous internal situations in these lands. But of special interest is this assertion: "It is hardly questionable that Israel's success in altering the face of part of the Middle East has been a potent stimulus to the other nations, from the double viewpoint of rivalry and of showing what could be done with limited resources."

While "a predominantly rural economy prevails in all Middle Eastern countries except Israel," we learn that in the latter four-fifths of the populace is comprised of non-rural elements. As compared with the United States' per capita income of $1,453, Israel's is $389—$81 higher than that in Soviet Russia. Of the Middle East countries, Turkey and Lebanon are next to Israel with $125 each, followed by Egypt and Syria, $100 each; Iran and Iraq, $85 each; Saudi Arabia and Yemen, $40 each.

Throughout this important volume, the phrase "except Israel" appears frequently to show the supremacy of Israel in standards of living and all existing conditions.

We find in Dr. Cooke's summaries substantiation for hope that there is a possibility of peace between Israel and Jordan: "Jordan, according to direct evidence, is the Arab country least disinclined to come to terms with Israel."

The general deterioration of standards of living has affected Israel as well as the other countries, Dr. Cooke points out. "Israel is well qualified for a large program of economic aid. Her case is, however, an atypical one, because the need for technical assistance is negligible as compared with the need for investment funds."

"Challenge and Response of the Middle East" is a must volume for all students of conditions in that area and especially for Jews who are concerned with what is happening in Israel and her neighboring countries. Dispassionate and factual, Dr. Cooke's volume analyzes situations with fairness and with a sense of realism.

Sacks-Herman
Miss Eleanor Thelma Herman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Herman, became the bride of Melvin David Sacks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sacks of Akron, Ohio Monday evening in the Garden Room of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, assisted by Cantor Jacob Hohenemser. A reception and dinner followed.

Escorted by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of slipper satin and Chantilly lace, designed with an illusion off-the-shoulder neckline, a fitted bodice, and long sleeves. The bouffant skirt of lace over satin ended in a cathedral train. Her finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap of lace and satin sewn with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white orchids, lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Mrs. Julian B. Savage, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her gown was of emerald green taffeta and she carried a fan of yellow orchids.

The maid of honor, Miss Cynthia J. Sacks, sister of the groom, wore a crushed raspberry taffeta gown. She carried a cascade of pink sweetheart roses.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Bernard D. Sadow of New Bedford, Mass., cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Oscar Starobin of Boston, a college classmate of the bride. They wore crushed raspberry taffeta gowns with tiaras of pink sweetheart roses. They carried nosegays of the same flowers. Mr. Morris Sacks, father of the groom, was best man for his son. Ushers were Julian B. Savage, brother-in-law of the bride, Marvin Kraus of Cincinnati, Ohio, college classmate of the groom; James H. Nobil of New York City and James S. Polshek of New Haven, Conn.

The mother of the bride chose an azure chiffon gown over taffeta with a matching shoulder stole. The mother of the groom was attired in a portrait gown of iridescent hyacinth rose taffeta. Both wore white orchid corsages.

The bride was graduated from Smith College in June. The groom was graduated from Harvard University in 1951 and is now attending Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Bermuda. They will reside in Boston during the coming year.

Braude officiated at the afternoon ceremony, which took place Sunday, August 31 in the Garden Room of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

The bride wore a gown of accordion pleated chantilly lace with a fingertip veil of French illusion. Mrs. Albert Chase, who attended her sister as matron of honor, was attired in a nylon net gown of blush pink. The entire motif of the wedding was carried out in pink and white.

performed by Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, assisted by Cantor Jacob Hohenemser. A reception followed in the vestry.

The bride's gown had a bodice of imported French lace over satin and a bouffant nylon tulle skirt en train. Her veil was a silk tulle and lace mantilla fashioned from lace of her mother's wedding gown. She carried a satin-covered Bible marked with white orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Joyce Eleanor Zucker of Wollaston, Mass., maid of honor, wore a gown styled with a white lace bodice and pink nylon tulle skirt and lavender stole. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of lavender and pink asters with a matching hair garland.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Anne Foxman Sirkis, college roommate of the bride, wore a gown of pink lace and tulle. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of pink roses and blue delphiniums with a matching hair garland.

The flower-girl was Barbara Ann Harris, cousin of the bride. She wore a bouffant pink tulle dress with matching sweetheart bonnet. Her basket was filled with pink and white carnations.

Ring-bearer was Andrew Gerson Sholes, cousin of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a rose organza gown with shirred bodice, halter neckline and matching lace Spencer. Her corsage was of pink and white orchids.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Morris B. Sholes, wore a gown of mauve lace and chiffon. Mrs. Fannie Lipson, the bride's paternal grandmother, wore a gown of blue crepe and lace. Both wore orchid corsages.

Gilbert Friedman was his brother's best man. Ushers were Edward H. Lipson, brother of the bride; Elliot Harris of Newton Center, Mass.; Samuel Friedman, Charles Friedman and Seymour Kaber, all of Newport and Dr. Merrill Baratz of New Haven, Conn.

Celebrating their wedding anniversaries were Mr. and Mrs. Morris B. Sholes of Hills Grove, the bride's maternal grandparents, their fifty-third; Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Aron of New Haven and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Zucker of Wollaston, aunts and uncles of the bride, their twenty-fifth.

The bride, a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music, is a lyric soprano now doing graduate work in Boston. Dr. Friedman, a graduate of the University of Rochester Medical School, is now on the staff of Rhode Island Hospital.

Jobless Demonstrate At Haifa Exchange

JERUSALEM—Several hundred unemployed persons demonstrated outside the Haifa Labor Exchange office here demanding work. Police were called after several of the demonstrators broke into the Council's offices. A number of persons were arrested. Large sections of the Israel population do not receive sufficient nutritional foods, since they depend solely on the regular rations prevalent today in Israel, a medical advisory council on nutrition declared here last weekend. Although the group said there were no traces in Israel of malnutrition, nor had any diseases been detected owing to the present food shortage, it urged the government to increase the nutritional value of rationed foods.

To House Nazi Victim Records

BONN—A three-story building was dedicated this week in Arolson, near Kassel, to house the archives of the International Tracing Service which contain records and names of millions of persons annihilated by the Nazis or held by them in concentration camps. The card files also list 960,000 orphaned children, 14,000 of whom are known to be missing.

SUNDAY'S SCHEDULE

Technoprint vs Natcor at Hopkins Park
 M&F Insurance vs Broadway Auto at Roger Williams Park
 Cranston JCC vs Waldorf Tuxedo at Aqueduct Park, Cranston

SUNDAY'S RESULTS

Waldorf took the first game from Technoprint 8-7 after each team had a chance to ice the game in every inning. Errors, Alphonse-and-Gaston acts, and even a pair of base runners on third base at one time enlivened the game. Abe Lobel, winning pitcher, hit a long home run, as did Earl Tetreault with one on for the winning margin. Weintraub also hit well.

The nightcap was a scoreless affair for six innings, as Lobel, trying an iron man stunt, and Marty Brown matched goose eggs. In the seventh, a walk and hits by Weintraub and Rodman drove in a pair of Waldorf runs, but the printers came back with two tallies concocted out of two hits, a passed ball, wild pitch and a ground out. Jimmy Baron's single and steal of second, followed by Hilty Rifkin's hit, won the game for Technoprint.

Cranston and M & F split their crucial two games, Cranston taking the first 7-6. This was another ding-dong affair with the lead changing hands often. Going into the seventh M & F led 6-4, but Nocky Rappoport's pinch hit with the bases loaded drove in three runs and won the game. Albie Samdperil and Harold Warren hit well for the Center boys, while Gersten, Rose and Erenkrantz were M & F's best.

M & F took the second game as Ludman bested Cranston for the second time this week, 4-3. This was also a see-saw game with M & F a little steadier in the clutch. Ludman had a homer and Levin drove in the winning run. Rappoport and Davidson were Cranston's hitters.

Jack Steiner pulled a successful iron man stunt, beating Natcor twice for Broadway Auto, 3-0 and 7-5. Goldis' shutout, a 5-hitter, was the league's first this year. The Goldis boys went on the war-path in the opener, Bobby leading the way with a home run, while Bill and Herb had two hits each.

A big lead let Steiner coast to his second win in the nightcap. Bobby Goldis slugged another homer, while Bill Goldis and Paul Paris hit well. Abedon of Natcor also homered.

Cranston took a one-game lead over Waldorf by taking two games from Natcor, 13-7 and 13-2. In the first game Cranston romped to the win behind a big early lead that included home runs by Warren, Mickler and Stepak.

The nightcap saw a barrage of homers, including two by Warren, a grand slammer by Mickler, and others by Stepak, Rappoport and Poster. Krasner and Al Samdperil shone in the field. Rothschild and Grysk hit well for Natcor.

Waldorf and M&F split their pair, the insurance men taking the opener 11-7 and Waldorf taking the second game 7-6. M&F got off to a 6-run first inning as Waldorf came up with the jitters, with four of its men in Texas. The Tuxedomen came back, however, with runs in the second, then M&F cemented the decision with another four in the fifth. Gersten and Ludman had homers for the winners, Holt and Rodman for the losers.

Waldorf took an early lead in the nightcap on Ludman's wildness and just hung on to win. The game ended on a spectacular note as Ludman was out at the plate trying to stretch a triple into a home run that would have tied the score in the last of the seventh. Stan Lobel, Leonard and Weintraub paced the winners at bat.

Technoprint and Broadway Auto had their twin bill postponed.

EARLY AMERICAN

designed by CONANT BALL

When an Early American craftsman designed and carved a piece of furniture, it was purely a piece for the home. For years Conant Ball designers have been combing the countryside, seeking specimens of perfect traditional furniture. This search has not been in vain—for Conant Ball has selected the best of collectors' and museum pieces, and has faithfully reproduced or adapted these pieces in solid rock maple so that, at moderate price, homes of today can be graced with the true rich charm that is so much the character of Early American art.

Whether you're thinking of furniture for your home now, or for "some day", come in and let us show you our outstanding new display, both modern and traditional. We've a complimentary copy of Conant Ball's catalogue, illustrating the complete Early American showing. Modern is open Mondays all day, Friday evenings until 9 P. M., and Wednesdays until noon. Loads of free parking rear of our store.

McCarran Act In Operation

When the McCarran-Walter Omnibus Immigration Bill was passed into law over a Presidential veto, Senator Herbert Lehman, of New York, left the floor with tears streaming from his eyes.

Lehman spoke of second class citizens and dubbed the monstrous legislation America's first Nuremberg laws. Critics of Harry Truman, unaware of all the intricacies and foibles making up the act, overrode the veto simply as a means of attacking him.

Within a few short weeks, the almost unmentionable results of the McCarran-Walter legislation have come to light. Designed to favor those bred from the venerable "Anglo-Saxon" race and to look upon others with untouchable superiority, the law now requires Jews seeking visas here to stipulate their "ethnic origin".

This is tantamount to regarding Jews and other minorities as specific races. While our venerable Congressmen, most assuredly, deplored such practices (at least on the record) in Nazi Germany, they are currently guilty of establishing similar machinery for discriminating against people on arbitrary grounds.

Senator Lehman was right. The unfortunate aspect of the events attending the passage of the McCarran-Walter Law is that more consideration was given to the rebuking of President Truman's administration than to the law's outrageous qualities.

John Rankin Passes

Representative John Rankin, of Mississippi, will no longer besmirch the halls of Congress. He was defeated by a "close friend", Thomas Abernethy, in the state's First Congressional District elections.

No properly intelligent soul can bemoan the passing of Rankin's 32-year-old Career based on the philosophy of white supremacy. The bigotry spewed by him on the floor of the House finds little parallel. His was an attitude of social reaction and pre-Civil War feudalism that belied all intergroup relations progress made in America during the past several decades.

The Congressional Record shows that he has opposed, with rare exception, every bit of forward-looking legislation suggested by his colleagues. To boot, Rankin's anti-Semitic stand will place him in the nation's history as a tasteless malcontent who bridled at the poverty and underprivilege of the state he represented and who sought to disguise their negative effect on him through bitter sensationalism.

As much to be considered with Rankin's passing is the man who takes his place. We can only hope that Abernethy scores a more palatable political record; his avowed friendship for the deposed incumbent does not, we fear, lend too much strength to such hopes.

"One Man's Opinion"

BY BERYL SEGAL

Glad To Be Back

Now that your vacation tan is beginning to fade, and the exciting things you did and the lovely places you visited during the summer are receding into the background as pleasant memories, let us settle down to city life. Except for the few fortunate ones who will follow the sun to Florida and points South, all the rest of us will stay here to work and play and to partake of anything the community has to offer, till vacation time rolls 'round again.

What are some of the things the community will offer for our pleasure during the coming season?

Already executive directors of community agencies are unfolding their plans before boards and trustees. Already special committees are holding council and setting dates for this and that affair. Already secretaries are keeping the mimeograph machines humming, turning out announcements for the events of the coming season. We can expect a goodly number of concerts and lecture series, luncheons and dances, shows and festivals to suit the tastes and the pockets of every one of us.

All of them, the executive directors, the boards and trustees, the committees and the secretaries are counting on you and me for assistance, for encouragement, and for participation. It is only fair that we do so. They toil not for themselves alone, but for the well being of the community in which we live.

Then, the coming year will bring to us moments of great historic significance. These are the kind of moments that come to us once in a lifetime. We will, in the year ahead of us, stand witnesses to the beginnings of communal enterprises that may well mold the character of coming generations and give flavor to our community life. Four such moments come to my mind, and all four of them will add stature to the Jewish community of the state. May we, too, grow in maturity and understanding that we may be able to view these four events in their proper perspective and importance.

1. The New Miriam Hospital.

At this moment the cement mixers and the bulldozers are gone from the grounds of the new structure. The scaffoldings no longer cling to the walls and roof of the building. Landscape artists are now adding the fine details to the outdoors that look so attractive in the architect's drawings. All the activities now are concentrated on the interior and the staffing of the new hospital. It will not be long now before the doors are opened to admit the mother who will give birth to the first Miriam baby.

But before that, we may expect invitations to a ceremony that will mark this great moment as the occasion well deserves. We will do well to be present, all of us, the old and the young among us, so that we and our children may remember this day and this dedication. We hope to be there and to record this historic event when that day arrives.

2. The Bureau of Jewish Education.

By forming this agency, the General Jewish Committee of Providence may well have put up a milestone in our educational activities. The entire project deserves a detailed consideration, which we hope to do soon. It is a new project in Providence. Other communities have had many years of experience with the working of such Bureaus. In some cities the Bureau brought a new day to Jewish Education; in others the agency turned out to be just another name on the glass door of an office, an empty name on stationery, with as much influence and effectiveness as a blank sheet of stationery.

Which shall it be in Providence? This is entirely in our own hands. No director is capable enough, no program is powerful enough, no work without the consent and the acceptance and the wholehearted approval of the communal mind.

In the meantime, the founding of the Bureau has put the whole matter of Jewish Education for children, for youth, and for adults, on the order of the day. This in itself is an accomplishment. It is now a matter to be discussed, to be planned, and to be guided. A good beginning. A desirable start. We shall watch every step, every act of this young agency, and we shall hold the spotlight on it. It is that important.

3. The Jewish Community Center.

Though officially opened last year, this is really the first full season in the life of the Center. It is the season that will prove the mettle of the Center. Last season was half gone before the J.C.C. moved from Benefit Street to the new quarters on Sessions Street. The remainder of the season was well taken up by dedications, opening celebrations, and adjustments to the new surroundings.

Anyone who would judge the Center by the work of last season would be unfair. We can say "dayenu," good enough, to any work performed during that hectic year. But this coming season should be the acid test for the Jewish Community Center. The scope of the program of activities, and the wisdom and the tact of those entrusted with the program, will determine the place of the J.C.C. in the life of the community.

Will it be a place of honor, at the head of our communal table, or will the Center be pushed aside to a secondary position or even to a lesser state? The community mind watches, and weighs, and measures, and assigns to each of its agencies its proper rung on the community ladder.

3. Cranston Community Center. We are told that the Center up there across the city line is being readied for the first High Holiday observance. In a guter sho. After the holidays, the Center will embark on a program of social, cultural and recreational activities that will truly reflect the life of the Jewish community in Cranston.

Here is an event of historic significance that few are privileged to witness in the course of a lifetime. Before our eyes, this building community, this colony of Providence, slowly weaned away from the mother-city, and is now standing up on its feet. Like Pawtucket and Woonsocket, Bristol and Westerly, it will in time become a Jewish community with a life of its own, just as the greater community of Cranston is an entity in itself.

We will be watching Cranston, across the Park from now on. This first year of the Declaration of Independence is for Cranston a time of great import. During that year the course will be set, and the pattern will be indicated. Much can be expected from Cranston. It is a young community. Young, literally. The members of the Jewish Community Center of Cranston are in the main young people with a fresh start in family life, in business and in the professions, as well as in communal living.

Young people may, and often do, depart from old established patterns. We hope they do just that in Cranston. They must not necessarily repeat the follies of their mother-city. Follies of duplications of institutions, follies of strife and jealousies, follies of snobbery of one part of the city towards the ones who live on the other side of the avenue, follies of neglect of Jewish learning, and many others, must not be admitted across the doorsteps of the new Jewish Community Center of Cranston. Crush them before they can gain a foothold in your midst.

Thus we start another season of reporting and commenting on the goings-on in our community. As in the past we work on the premise that community affairs are your affairs, community business is your business, and community agencies are your servants. Decisions made by these agencies, and acts performed by them are your concern. We must see to it that the community is well informed, well consulted, and well served by the agencies it supports and maintains.

This we shall do to the best of our abilities. Glad to be back.

The Old Timers Game

Why don't the Red Sox do it? Why don't the Braves do it? Why, for that matter, doesn't every major league baseball club present an Old Timers game every year?

Which is one way to relate that while in New York during that miserable Labor Day weekend I saw the Old Timers game presented by the Yankees last Saturday; and without injecting partisan feeling into the picture, that spectacle was something to see.

Are you a Red Sox fan? Well, wouldn't you be interested in one game a year at which the famous outfield of Speaker, Hooper and Duffy would don uniforms and trot out to their old positions? And if you are a couple of generations younger, how about a two inning pitching exhibition by Lefty Grove, with Joe Cronin behind him at shortstop and Jimmy Foxx at first, and maybe Doc Cramer in center field? Wouldn't it be nice having Bobby Doerr back for a visit, for a shot at second base? How about Wes Ferrell and Pinky Higgins and fellows like that?

You like the Braves? A couple of those pitchers who won the 1914 World Series from the fabulous Athletics in four straight games are still alive—Tyler and James, I believe. Wally Berger would be a welcome sight at bat, and Ed Brandt, whom Johnny Mize termed only a few weeks ago as one of the toughest pitchers he ever had to face, would bring back memories—along with Rabbit Maranville, who could make one of his patented vest pocket catches.

It isn't necessary for you to be an old timer in order to catch the spirit of an old-timers game. Baseball fans live with records and past history. It's always a thrill to see the men whose names are forever part of the game, no matter if you are only 15, or 25, 35 or 55.

Baseball is missing a wonderful bet in not sponsoring the Old Timers game every year, in every city.

Let me describe the game at Yankee Stadium last week, not as a Yankee fan, but as an illustration of how it might work with your own favorites, in their own stamping grounds.

First off, Mel Allen introduced the men who were to play in the Old Timers game, which preceded the regular contest with Washington. The catchers were Wally Schang and Bill Dickey; the first basemen, Wally Pipp, whose job Lou Gehrig took, and Buddy Hasset; at second, Joe Gordon and Lyn Lary; at short, Frankie Crosetti and Roger Peckinpaugh; at third, Red Rolfe and Jumpin' Joe Duggan. The rival outfields had DiMaggio, Henrich, Keller, Earle Combs, the Red Sox coach, and Whitey Witt, along with one other who will be named later.

If you don't think it was a thrill to see the battery of Ruffing and Dickey again, or to watch Bob Shawkey and Waite Hoyt breaking off hooks, you just aren't a ball fan. All those men are ball players we enjoyed watching in their prime, or wish we had been around to see.

The Old Timers game had plenty of comedy. The umpire behind the plate was the famous Al Schacht, still the king of baseball comedians. Al was worth the price of admission all by himself. Introduced as the umpire who would call balls and strikes, Schacht trotted out resplendent in his formal swallow tail coat (with red lapels, no less), Yankee baseball pants and a top hat. He appeared with a cane in his hand, and groped his way to the plate as if he were blind. Once there, he had to be guided to his proper position.

His mimicry of how the umpires signal whether the pitch is a strike drew plenty of laughs . . . when Dickey turned around to protest a call, Schacht drew back and kicked him in the seat of the pants . . . when Shawkey threw three wide ones to Joe D. Schacht rushed out to the hill and administered a violent massage to Bob's pitching arm . . . The fans wanted to see DiMag hit one, so when the succeeding pitches also were beyond reach, Al called them strikes to keep Joe up there . . . Schacht "jawed" violently with one hitter, pretended to limp off the field in fear after a foul tip skipped off his foot—all in all, he was immense.

Red Ruffing who pitched for one of the old timers clubs, batted eighth in the order, and that seemed funny until the ninth hitter was introduced. Mel Allen put it this way: "Playing left field for the Yankee 'All-Timers, but still, as always, batting ninth, Lefty Gomez." To those who remember Gomez, that drew a big laugh. Lefty, over his own protests, was considered the poorest hitter in the majors while he was up there.

The Yankees have made a big thing out of their annual Old Timers game. There is a new gimmick every year. Early this spring, for example, the New York club sponsored the selection of an all-time, All-Yankee club — and this outfit, with substitutions listed for those members who are not alive or could not be present, comprised one of the teams that took the field in the two-and-a-half inning game last week. The other team was selected from among another group of ex-Yanks who were not voted to all-star rating.

Well, the Yankees have been doing this sort of thing for six years now, and not a single other ball club has followed suit. Isn't it surprising? Every team in the majors has had its heroes, its candidates for the Hall of Fame and top baseball honors. Why don't they adopt the idea of the Old Timers game, even if they decide to do it differently? The Yanks ought to invite all the club presidents to attend their next Old Timers festival, along with their former stars. Maybe then we fans in New England would have a similar occasion to look forward to every summer.
