"Workers For The Center"

With the rapid development of the Jewish Community Center in the life of the community since the new Center was opened last June, and with a marked increase in activity on all age levels that has resulted since the Center left Benefit Street, a new public awareness of the Center, and greater interest in its operations, have become increasingly evident.

To bring the Center into closer public focus, the Herald herewith inaugurates a series of articles on leading workers at the JCC. The first article follows.

BY SYD COHEN

When Dora Borenstein moved to Providence several years ago and started to become acquainted with the community, one of her first questions was: "Where is the Jewish Community Center?"

She was shocked because so few persons knew what she was talking about—and worse still, that most of those who did tell her about the JCC on Benefit Street did so in an off-hand way after recovering from their surprise at her question.

Such was the attitude toward the Center in many circles of the city as recently as six years ago. Today the Center is becoming more and more the focal point of all Jewish communal life, the place to go; and Dora Borenstein, still up to her ears in Center activity, can look back dispassionately at the long, difficult, uphill fight for a better Center that has dominated these past six years. She has had her part in this development; indeed, her work and her influence are practically everywhere.

Dora is not a member of the staff of "Center," although at times that might seem hard to believe. Follow the trail of this petite human dynamo and

GJC Will Hold D-Day On Sunday, November 30

Sunday, Nov. 30 has been selected as the date of this year's "D-Day" city-wide solicitation in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal by the GJC's Men's Division.

The affair—a one-day canvass of the local Jewish community—is concentrated on contacting those persons who are not listed on the rosters of the various trade, industry and professional groups that make up the General Jewish Committee's Men's division.

In past years, "D-Day" solicitations have enrolled several hundred additional donors on the campaign-giver list, and GJC officials this week were confident that the Nov. 30 canvass would equal, if not surpass, previous "D-Days," both from the standpoint of persons contacted and pledges or gifts received.

The appointment of Joseph K. Levy as chairman of the committee in charge of "D-Day" arrangements was jointly announced this week by Alvin A. Sopkin, GJC president, and Henry J. Hassenfeld, campaign chairman.

Working with Levy as co-chairmen will be Nathaniel Bodner, Archie Fain, Maurice Fox and Bernard Goodman. A list of captains will be announced next week, Levy said today, following

GJC Drive Total Reaches $400,000

With almost $400,000 in cash and pledges received to date in its 1952 fund-raising drive in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and 50 other local, national and overseas agencies, the General Jewish Committee of Providence this week was rolling ahead full speed with a program of activities designed to enroll every member of the local Jewish community as a contributor.

On every front—men, women and young adults—the campaign was rapidly developing, with GJC officials confident that the final total would substantially surpass that of last year's.

Sparked by the $300,000 raised at its Nov. 9 Initial Gifts Dinner, the Men's Division this week staged a series of trade division dinner-meetings.

Report Luncheons

Henry J. Hassenfeld, general chairman, of the Men's Division, announced this week that the first two of a series of streamlined report luncheons will be held at the GJC's Strand Building headquarters on Tuesday, Nov. 25, and Friday, Nov. 28, of next week.

Hassenfeld emphasized that the report luncheons will be geared to a time-saving report-making pattern. "They will begin promptly at

More than 400 workers are expected to participate in the drive.

Intensive preparations for Y-Day have been the theme of this week's activities. All area committees held meetings to arrange

Home For Aged Re-elects Felder

List Plans for Building Program

A spring building program designed to provide 60 additional beds and other facilities at the Jewish Home for the Aged, at a cost of about $400,000, was outlined by Jacob I. Felder, president, at the annual meeting of the Home Sunday afternoon.

Felder was re-elected for his seventh term during the meeting, and Judge Philip C. Joslin was appointed an honorary vice-president for life.

The new facilities, Felder said, will include single rooms, with adjoining lavatory facilities between each two rooms. He remarked that the building planning committee, headed by Alexander Rumpel, has used modern concepts in its plans, in the expectation that most future applicants for admission to the Home will be chronically ill and handicapped.

Other factors listed include the need of older people for privacy, availability of facilities for health, recreation and social activities, and an awareness that this planning program is "not for some un-

A native of Augusta, Georgia, Dr. Masur moved to New York City in his youth and there received his pre-medical training at University College, New York University. He earned his medical degree at Cornell University Medical School in 1932, and interned at Bellevue Hospital for 18 months.

After 3 years' residency in internal medicine at Montefiore Hospital in New York City, Dr. Masur was named its assistant director at the age of 28. In 1941-43, he was executive director of New York's Lebanon Hospital. Joining PHS in 1943, he was assigned to the Office of Civilian Defense as hospital officer, planning emergency base hospitals; in 1944-45, he was chief medical officer, Office of Vocational Rehabilitation; in 1948-51, director of planning and programming for the new Clinical Center at Bethesda, Maryland.

GJC to Hold D-Day On Sunday, Nov. 30

The pattern of the Nov. 20 solicitation will be the same as in past years. Workers will gather at the Narragansett hotel at 9 A.M. for breakfast and a canvassing briefing. They then will break up into teams of two workers each, assigned to specific areas of the city. Once their cards are covered, they will report back to "D-Day" headquarters at the hotel where a running tabulation of pledges and cash gifts will be maintained.

Through the courtesy of David and William Meyers, free parking facilities adjoining the hotel will be provided all "D-Day" workers.

Levy today issued a call for additional captains and solicitors "in order to assure the widest possible coverage." He asked that all volunteer workers call GJC headquarters at GA 1-4111 in the Strand Building and list their name and address.

At the same time, he sounded a plea to local residents to be prepared on the morning of Sunday, Nov. 20 to receive the solicitor who will call at their homes.

"Every gift that we collect and forward to Israel, as a result of our 'D-Day' solicitation, is another link in the mighty chain that binds Jews together on both sides of the Atlantic," he said.

Pat Nero and his orchestra will play dinner and dance music.

you must wonder where she found time to raise a family of four children, how she has managed to perform the clerical duties of her husband's business, and how in the world she ever manages to squeeze so much activity into one life.

Let's start right at the Center, old and new, and see what part Dora Borenstein has played, and is still playing, there. For the past three years she has been chairman of the Children's Activities Committee. She is a member of the Board of Directors of Center, and a member of the important Personnel and Co-ordinating Committees within the Board.

Then there is Parents Association. Dora served as president for two years, now is a member of the board. She has been a member of the Camping Committee for six years, and she saw Camp Centerland grow from a dream to a limited activity in the back yard at Benefit Street to the present spacious facility in Hope, R. I.

One of the biggest projects at Center is Playschool, which now receives much of Dora's attention. In fact, it was during her term as president of Parents Association that Playschool was started. When Parents Association was revitalized six years ago, the group's first project was Centerland, and Mrs. Borenstein was on the original committee that selected the present camp site. Actually, the camping project coincided with the rebirth of Parents Association. And guess who was a member of the steering committee that participated in that rebirth!

Small wonder that it is said of Dora that she attends meetings at Center every day!

Aided East Side Move

Dora was at the helm of Parents Association last year during the drive to move the Center from Benefit Street to the present site on the East Side. She fought hard in favor of the move, especially at meetings of the Board of Directors. Under her leadership Parents Association circulated a petition throughout the East Side endorsing the recommendations of the Providence Recreation Department regarding East Side playgrounds (these recommendations helped pave the way for the transfer of property between the Center and the City, and made possible the acquisition of the Sessions Street site.)

Programming on a continued, serious basis had its beginnings in Parents Association during the Borenstein administration. Children's activities joined camping on the "must" agenda, and Sunday school classes were promoted, encouraged and abetted. Cultural programs were started among the children, with appropriate celebration of the Jewish holidays and creation of a child study group among the projects.

Last season saw the start of a Sunday Fun-Day set-up. Enrolled in this program at the present time are no less than 280 youngsters. And Parents Association is the sponsoring organization.

All this is on the Center record of Mrs. Leo Borenstein of 34 Marbury Avenue, Pawtucket, mother of children ranging in age from 15 down to six. A stranger might be expected to whistle in amazement and say "Whew! How does she do it?"

Outside Activities

But wait! The story is not yet told. IN ADDITION TO HER CENTER ACTIVITIES, Dora Borenstein also finds time to teach piano and study music herself; she has been a leader of Scout Troop 60 of Pawtucket. Always interested in the dance, she has studied modern interpretive dancing and folk dancing; she took courses in dancing with Erna Lindner at the Center, learned the art of fencing with Steve Siner, also at Center, took swimming lessons, and studied Philosophy and music at Brown University, not to mention art classes at the Center.

She is particularly interested in Jewish crafts, and is working on a tray depicting all the Jewish holidays. She hopes in the future to paint a holiday table cloth, and even has the stencils on hand. She will start this project "when time is available and Center doesn't take too much of my time." Dora recalls that she has been criticized occasionally at the Center as an idealist and a zealot. Her record would seem to indicate that she has a rare intelligence, an endless capacity for work, and a well-rounded personality and cultural background that certainly must be the envy of many.

Mrs. Borenstein explains her philosophy simply. "My one utmost hobby is my children," she says, "and my entire life is bound around them. The welfare of my children, in turn, is bound up in my work at Center, and I am anxious to help create an environment in my community that will enable my children to grow into healthy, well-rounded individuals who will be able and anxious to share their own interests with others. They will be unhappy human beings if they cannot share their thoughts and interests with their friends and neighbors. "My own family will benefit by the things I do in Jewish communal life. These things all have meaning, and are not done because I have time on my hands and nothing to do with it."

Praise for Kritzman

From her extensive background, it seems logical to ask Dora Borenstein for her opinion of the Center's progress, and its deficiencies. She is firm and forthright in expounding her views on these subjects.

The past three years have witnessed a significant growth in the Center's Board of Directors, Dora says. Persons who are interested in Center for themselves and their children are displaying an eagerness to accept their responsibilities in the community as members capable of making decisions for themselves, in sharp contrast with the old willingness to sit back and let someone else do the work for them.

"Center has made terrific progress during these three years under the leadership of Morris Kritzman. Morry's foresight in seeing this community in the future, and his creative ability program-wise, are magnificent, without a doubt of anyone who has seen him work."

"To do justice to Mr. Kritzman's genius," Dora asserts, "we must go back to Parents Association, which has grown in the period in question from 75 members when I became president to 500 today. In addition to the activities I mentioned earlier—the contributions to the creation and growth of Camp Centerland, building up of Playschool, sponsorship of Fun-Day—there is the program to supply funds for transportation of youngsters to and from Center, funds which are not available in the budget.

Growth In Communal Interest

"There has been a constant growth of participation through committees in the planning and carrying out of program for the people and the children of the community.

"This is something that Morris Kritzman is responsible for. He has led many persons to the point where they have become willing to accept these and other responsibilities. He has extended to the people the opportunity and the privilege to think and act for themselves, rather than personally planning for them the kind of things he might think they would want.

"This is an indication that Morry Kritzman has helped the people in the community to grow in maturity. The people, in turn, have responded by becoming increasingly more active in Center: (Continued on Page 7)

JCC Approves Health Center Plan

Construction of a health center within the Jewish Community Center became a certainty this week with the announcement that the JCC Board of Directors has stamped its approval on the project and that a contract for the construction will be awarded in a few weeks.

The health center represents the first project to be undertaken by the Men's Association, which was formed at the Center about six months ago.

Officially, it will be known as the George Triedman Memorial Health Center, in memory of the late attorney and special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, who also was a member of the Center Board. Arrangements for the adoption of the new name were completed Monday evening at a meeting of Center and Men's Association officials and the family and friends of Triedman. A considerable portion of the construction costs will be borne by the George Triedman Memorial Fund.

The health center will be located in the spacious basement of the main Center building, and will contain an exercise room, steam room, shower room, locker room and rooms with cots for relaxation, along with a steam box, services of a masseur and other facilities. Membership will be limited to members of the JCC.

A drive for subscribers to the health center services has been under way for some time, and is expected to reach its goal within a few weeks. There will be four rates—$40 for unlimited services for one year, $20 for 25 visits to the center, $10 for 12 visits, and $5 for five visits.

The health center is expected to be in operation within a few months after construction has begun.

The enrollment committee is headed by Manuel Lester, and includes Leon Temkin, secretary of the Men's Association; Saul Geffner, chairman of the board of directors of Men's Association, and the originator of the health center idea; Herbert J. Cohen, Murray Burrows, Saul Berlan, Ben Moskol, Irving Rabinowitz, Dr. Frank Goldstein, Abe Greenberg and Julius Michaelson, president of Men's Association.

Representing the George Triedman Memorial Committee were Henry Hassenfeld, chairman; Merlyn O'Keefe, co-chairman; Saul E. R. Feinberg, JCC president; Herman Rosen, Samuel Rosen, Joseph E. Adelson, vice-president of the JCC; Fred Pinkney, Harry Steinberg of Lawrence, Dr. Albert Holzman of Boston, and Harvey Spear of Washington and Providence.

The Cranston Playhouse, Cranston's first civic theatre, is presenting "The Silver Whistle," Broadway hit of a few seasons ago, tonight and tomorrow evenings at 8:30 P. M. at Hugh B. Bain School, Gansett Avenue off Park Avenue. The play had its premier last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Tennant are co-directors of the Cranston Playhouse for the season, and Mrs. Tennant is directing "The Silver Whistle," in which Mr. Tennant re-creates the role of Oliver Erwenter, played by Jose Ferrer on Broadway. Mrs. Earl Woolf of Cranston has the feminine lead.

The Tennants have had extensive stage and radio experience in Schenectady, N. Y. They were co-heads of the radio department at Emerson College in 1946, where Mrs. Tennant also was a drama instructor. She has appeared in stock companies and civic theatres in New England and New York.

Mrs. Woolf is a graduate of the University of Alabama, where she appeared in several plays and was elected the best radio actress. She came to Cranston following her marriage last January.

fortunate group, but for our parents and relatives, and possibly ourselves."

47 New Applicants
Irving I. Fain of the admissions committee reported that 47 applications for admittance have been received since the last annual meeting. Twenty-four were admitted, two were rejected, four withdrew applications, three died and 14 applications were pending as of Sept. 30, he said. Since then, six additional applications have been received.

Fain spoke of the difficulty in making selections and said the committee has been forced to favor those applicants who were least able to pay, causing discrimination, he said, against persons with better financial position. Completion of the new building program, he said, should help that situation.

Max Alexander, executive director, reported that the average population during the year was 88 and the daily cost per resident was $3.34.

Three Changes in Home
There have been three distinct changes in the 20-year history of the home, he said: It no longer is a shelter for the homeless poor, but a living arrangement for those who no longer can get along physically or socially in the community; the home has developed along the line of providing infirmary and recreational facilities with stress on physical rehabilitation; the community attitude has changed to accept the home as a resource for all classes.

During the last two decades, 360 aged men and women have entered the home, he said.

Charles Brier, treasurer, reported that last year's budget was $107,722.38. He estimated that the budget for next year will be $106,878, exclusive of major repairs and building improvements.

Mrs. Samuel Schneider, president of the Ladies Association, pledged co-operation of her group, which has 1350 members, and told of its fund-raising activities. She reported that $25,000 in cash has been turned over to the Home from the Association during the past two years. The Association plans to sponsor a part-time trained occupational therapist or a recreational worker, she added.

Max Winograd reported on behalf of the committee which has been negotiating re-acquisition of the property at 191 Orms Street, the Home for the Aged between 1912 and 1932.

Rabbi Theodore Lewis of Touro Synagogue, Newport, gave the invocation, and Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen of Temple Emanuel installed the

BOWLING

A. E. PI BOWLING

A four way tie for first place was brought about when the league-leading Eagles were trounced by the sixth-place Indians who thus tied the Eagles. The Indians were led by Warren Fish's 375 (132, 97, 146) which tied him with Don Cohen for high three, and Ray Gertz's 310. Ruby Plushner was top man for the losers with 315.

The Bisons also joined the select group by taking the Flyers 3 to 1. The Bisons were led by Irv Berman's 312 and Jerry Port's 309. Babe Gertz' 334 for the Flyers was not enough. The Barons round out the top four after taking the Bears 4-0. Leading the Barons were Owen Kwasha's 310, Lloyd Weiner's 310, and Al Jacobs' 302. For the losers Don Cohen hit 331 and Perry Deitch 320.

The Mohawks and Hornets match produced the closest action of the night with the Mohawks taking pinfall by one point 1501 to 1500, thus taking the match 3-1. Leon Temkin 342 (134,107, 101.), Sid Dressler 317, and Murray Hahn 306 led their team to victory. Charlie Cohen's 353 (132, 120, 101), Burt Himelfarb's 303 and Lennie Lazarus' 301 paced the losers.

by Herman C. Selya
The Cardinals kept their lead by taking three points from the Athletics. M. Freedman's 131 and 319, aided by Babe Chase's 309 and Jules Zucker's 306, were too much for the Athletics who depended on their handicap and two absentee scores to gain the single point.

The Yankees tied for second by taking 3 from the Dodgers. I. Solmer's 144 and 339, aided by N. Perlow and G. Reizen led the way. H. Jagoliner rolled 344 for the Dodgers.

The Indians climbed from eighth to third by taking four from the cellar Pirates. Mel Paynor and B.

The Red Sox lost three to the Cubs, who were paced by TV Miller's 346 and B. Feldman's 324. J. Chaiken's 344 proved to be anchor for the Red Sox. The Tigers took 3 from the Reds to gain a notch in the standings. A Alter's 324 and I. Wolpert's 323 were high for the Tigers while I. Chase and Al Chase paced the Reds. The Browns M. Goldman, D. and the results are seen in this new building, and will eventually grow out of this building."

As for future needs of Center, Dora would like to see acceptance by the Board of Directors of this new concept on the part of the community, the awareness of responsibility. "The members of the Board must learn to recognize this and be ready to receive new leadership," she says. "There is not this willingness at this point."

"At present, there is still the old carry-over idea that the Board should consist of a few chosen people who, because of their status in the community, should make the decisions for all the people in the community.

"The official leadership on the Center Board must learn to recognize and respect the committee structure that has been built up, and not attempt to block it.

"There is not now this recognition and respect, and that constitutes a condition that is contrary to the democratic ideal."

Elsa Lanchester Here Sunday

The Pembroke College Club of Providence will sponsor the Providence appearance of Elsa Lanchester in her Private Music Hall Sunday at 3:30 P. M. at Hope High Auditorium.

Long known as an outstanding portrayer on the screen of off-beat characters, usually in potato-sack type clothes and tousled hair, Elsa Lanchester also emerges as a glamorous figure full of wit and sparkling charm in her "Private Music Hall" production. This musical show is really a new kind of vaudeville, compounded of one part old English music hall, one part new American staging, one part brilliant song numbers and many parts of her vivacious personality.

FEPC Works Well

Seven states and three major cities—Rhode Island among them—having a combined 35,000,800 population, or nearly one-fourth of the people in the United States, are operating under fair employment practices (FEPC) legislation, and the results are impressively good, an article in the current Look magazine declares.

J. C. Furnas, the writer, who analyzed what has occurred in the states and communities where FEPC measures have been adopted, says that employers who were originally doubtful about the program have been surprised at the public's and employees' ready acceptance of Negro workers, as an example. In the South, progress in the last 15 years has been nothing short of "startling," he contends.

On only five occasions have FEPC bodies resorted to public hearings on complaints of discrimination, the records show, and only four cases have wound up in the courts. Education and persuasion, rather than compulsion, are the chief weapons of enforcement.

The article is a timely and able summary of the FEPC story to date. It should lend encouragement to those people who support FEPC legislation, both in Rhode Island and on the federal level; just as it refutes the arguments of those who oppose FEPC for reasons that have been demonstrated to be groundless.

12 noon and, while returns are being announced, workers will be provided a sandwich buffet. Speeches will be dispensed with, and the sole order of business will be the return of canvassed cards and the tabulation of division standings," he stressed.

He urged all solicitors, particularly those in the Trade and Industry Division, to "stop in at these luncheons—even if only for the few minutes needed to turn in cards already covered—so that we may concentrate as much of our future effort possible on contacting potential donors not yet listed on our rolls."

This week's schedule of activity in the Men's Division was highlighted by three well-attended T and I dinner-meetings on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening at the Narragansett Hotel. More than a score of prominent trade and industry sub-divisions were combined at these affairs at which Ralph J. Kaplan, dynamic young founder and head of Tel Aviv's Universal College, was the featured speaker.

The schedule of groups and their chairmen included:

Monday, Nov. 17: Automotive, Max Botvin; Coal, Oil and Ice, Arthur Galkin; Builders and Plumbers, Louis Strauss; Metals and Cables, John Sapinsky; Hardware and Electric, Irving I. Coken.

Tuesday, Nov. 18: Advertisers, Printers and Stationers, Abraham E. Goldstein; Real Estate, Investment and Insurance, Paul Robin; Furniture, Restaurant Equipment, Home Utilities and Rugs, Louis Goldstein and Michael Cohen, co-chairmen.

Wednesday, Nov. 19: Women's Wear, Samuel Berman; Shoes, Barney Kay; Leather Goods, Sol Koffler; Men's Clothing, Al Taber; Textiles, Nathan Samors.

Lozow-Fedman Family Elects Officers

The Lozow-Fedman Family Circle elected the following officers at a meeting held Nov. 9 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Price: Harry Platt, president; Mitchell Chalek, vice-president; Mrs. Sylvia Price, secretary; Sherman Price, treasurer, and Mrs. Edith Korb, hospitality chairman. The new board of directors includes Oscar Klemmer, Mrs. Kraner Riseberg, Joseph Lozow, Rob Robin and Mrs. Eve Katz.

Hostesses were Mesdames A. Tanenbaum, Sam Price, Sherman Price, R. Robin and J. Lozow.

"One Man's Opinion"

BY BERYL SEGAL

Forever Students

I can remember them clearly now.

I see them crowding into the Beth Hamidroh, the House of Study, of a Sabbath afternoon. Two are seated in a seat made for one. They lean against the walls, and they stand in the aisles. The younger ones are perched on the window sills. Late comers sit on the long, hard benches in the outer corridor.

Inside, by the desk in the center of the Beth Hamidroh, the Baal Darshon, the speaker, holds forth in a sing-song voice. He reproaches, he threatens, he pleads, he poses difficult questions, and solves them triumphantly. His accents, more often Lithuanian (for the Litvaks were adept in the art of the Baal Darshon, and out of Lithuania came most of the traveling speakers), ring out over the heads of the listeners below. Now he speaks in anger, now his voice changes to a soft, soothing undertone.

Hour after hour the people of my home town listen in silence to words of wisdom, to gems of Torah on Sabbath afternoons.

I can see myself entering a small House of Study in a darkened street, in a strange town, in a distant land, where I was kept as a prisoner of war. I was attracted to the House of Study by the many candle lights showing through the windows, and by the haunting sing-song of the Gemoro on which I grew up since early childhood.

I stood at the door, a stranger, in the threadbare uniform of an enemy soldier, my feet hesitant to cross the threshold of a Synagogue after years of soldiering and months of crouching in the trenches of the battle-field. The Shamosh came over, held a candle to my face, and asking no further questions, led me to a place by the long table of the learners, and planted the candle before me.

I opened the Gemoro, and before I knew it my voice mingled with the voices of the men around the table, and my body swayed to the rhythms of the sing-song, and the wavering of the flame of the candle.

Late into the night a prisoner of war, a defeated enemy, sat at the study table with men of the land of his captivity. The captive and the captors sat together for a night of study in a little town of Hungary, while the big guns boomed in the distance not many miles away.

If anyone were to come to the people crowding the Beth Hamidroh of my home town, and would say to them: "Do you know what you are doing? You are listening to a lecture!" Oh, how they would shake their heads and smack their lips, and shrug their shoulders!

Or if anyone would come to the men around the study table on that night in far-away Hungary, and would say to them—"You are engaged in adult education"—My, what devastating looks they would turn on him, what smiles they would hide under their cupped hands.

Lecturers? Adult Education? What is this?

What these people were doing has been done among Jews every day, all through the year. Studying, increasing knowledge, learning from everyone who can teach, thankful for every new word, for every new phrase, for new revelations.

Study—daily study throughout life—was as important to Jews as prayers, as charity. Learning began at the age of three, and never stopped as long as your legs could carry you to the House of Study, and your ears could hear the voice of the teacher.

Children had to learn. Grown-ups wanted to learn. Those who could, pursued knowledge by themselves. Those who wanted to give and to take, sought out the company of others to study in a group.

Those who could do neither, sat at the feet of the learned and the wise.

What we call now by such fancy names as Lecture Courses, and Adult Education, was an accepted, every day commonplace among our people. The study of the Torah never stopped at Bar Mitzvah, at the ripe age of 13. It did not stop at confirmation when you are all of 16. Not even at graduation when you are sent off with a diploma in your hands, does your study come to an end: Education in the Jewish way of life is a continuous activity, a lifetime occupation, a never-ending task.

This idea, this tradition of learning through a lifetime, is in some measure fostered by the Institute of Jewish Studies for Adults at Temple Emanuel.

The Institute, now in its 25th year, keeps reminding the adults of the community that always there is something more they can learn. Never say enough. Never tell yourself that you are too old, or too wise to learn more. To the adults who crave the refreshing waters of new knowledge, the Institute takes the place of the Baal Darshon on a Sabbath afternoon, and the study table by candle light. The vessel, to be sure, is new and different, but the idea is the same. Man's school days are never over.

The Institute, established 25 years ago by Rabbi Israel Goldmann, and continued by Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, follows a definite pattern. The sessions last over a period of six weeks. Six consecutive Wednesdays are Institute nights.

The first hour of each weekly session is given to class work. Thus, during the current Institute sessions, Rabbi Bohnen teaches Shulchon Aruch, the basic code of conduct for a Jew from rising up in the morning to his lying down at night, from his first steps in life to the last breath. To many, the book was known by name only. Most of the people in the Rabbi's class have never laid their eyes on this fundamental book.

Another group studies Elementary Hebrew with Mrs. Aaron Klein, the teacher of the Temple school. Still another group listens to chapters of the history of Jewish Education from Mr. Aaron Klein, the principal of the Temple school. Cantor Jacob Hohenemser sings new songs of Israel to another group of students.

Thus goes the first part of the session.

The second half of the session brings together all the study groups into the lecture hall to listen to an invited guest speaker, the Baal Darshon of the week. Altogether the Institute presents six such guests, each distinguished in some phase of Jewish learning, each contributing his point of view to the general topic of the Institute.

This year, for instance, the general topic of studies considers the "Jew in the 20th Century." The guest speakers are called upon to develop one phase of this topic. The speakers, of course, are selected because of the contributions they themselves have made to the topic on hand.

And we find the art critic and curator of the Jewish Art Museum of New York, Julius Kaiser, talking on the meaning of Jewish art. Dr. Solomon Grayzel, author and editor of the Jewish Publication Society, the foremost Jewish publishing house in America, gave his views on the Literary Prospects for the Contemporary Jew. Dr. Abraham Neuman, president of Dropsie College, discusses the "Three Greatest Jews of the 20th Century." Rabbi Friedman is to throw some light on the "Modern Jew in Search of Himself," while Judith Eisenstein will demonstrate present day trends in Jewish Music.

Thus the talks by the different guests are inter-related and follow a defined path. Their views need not necessarily be of one mind, but the general topic assigned for the year keeps them from straying into uncharted courses.

Twenty-five years of continuous call to study is in itself an accomplishment. Too often such efforts at adult education come and go, are renewed periodically and die away for lack of design or purpose.

The Institute of Jewish Studies for Adults at Temple Emanuel is as old as the Temple itself, and is considered by the Temple as an arm of Temple activity. This is as it should be. A Jewish House of Prayers was always a House of Study as well. The Holy Ark of the Torah scrolls in the Eastern wall, and the book-studded cases at the Western wall were both the characteristic features of a Schul.

Jewelry Division To Meet Tuesday

Samuel Rapaport Jr., chairman of the key Jewelry Division of the 1952 GJC's overall Trades and Industry Division, announced a novel type of meeting featuring "local talent" for next Tuesday evening, Nov. 25, at the Sheraton-Biltmore hotel.

The Jewelry Division affair is slated to begin promptly at 6 P. M. at the hotel's State Suite on the 12th floor.

Most T and I meetings feature a "name" speaker, usually an Israeli celebrity, as the highlight of their gathering where afterwards, cards are distributed for an industry-wide canvass.

Rapaport, however, said this week: "We jewelers seldom have an opportunity to get together for a social evening, it seems. So we're going to take advantage of next Tuesday's affair to combine an evening of good fellowship with our campaign solicitation in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal."

"There will be no formal or lengthy speaking program and the emphasis will be on our divisional canvass. What talent is presented will be local in nature. I know I can assure all Jewelry Division members that an enjoyable evening is in store for them."

THANKSGIVING PROGRAM
Children of the Providence Hebrew Day School will be entertained with a Thanksgiving program of songs and skits at 2:15 P. M. Tuesday. The public is invited to attend.

Memorials in the new Miriam Hospital will serve as a lasting remembrance of cherished names, honoring both the donor and those in whose name the gifts are made.

Galkin Named Exhibit Judge

Joseph Galkin, executive director of the General Jewish Committee of Providence, has been named an exhibit judge by the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds for its 21st General Assembly at Boston this weekend.

Julian Freeman, of Indianapolis, CJFWF president, said: "Galkin will be one of four lay and professional leaders who have been invited to serve on the Judges Committee." The committee will weigh the merits of scores of entries interpreting welfare fund activities throughout the nation, and award prizes to the winners in the various categories.

Prizes will be awarded to the best yearbooks, community newspapers and year-round interpretation material, as well as individual sets of specific campaign material, on the basis of originality and effectiveness of presentation.

A CJFWF bulletin last month singled out the yearbook recently prepared by the local GJC as "a first-class production with a number of outstanding features, including attractive design, crisp copy and an excellent lay-out."

The CJFWF's 21st annual assembly opened in Boston today and will conclude Sunday afternoon.

All I know is, I want to SAVE

Investing money is "out of my line"

Maybe I'm like you. I can make fairly good money at my own trade, but—

But I've always been puzzled about how to invest my savings. Until lately.

I tried all kinds of "schemes." Lost money on all of 'em. And every time I tried the stock market, I came out wrong.

Then I tried a good savings and loan association like First Federal Savings and found what I wanted.

This gives me basic safety, and my savings at First Federal Savings are also insured up to $10,000 by an agency of the U. S. Government. And it gives me fair dividends without tying up my savings for 10 years or any set period, unless I want 'em to. (First Federal's assets are over $12 million.)

The telephone is vital to Brown & Sharpe assembly lines.

Telephones HELP KEEP RHODE ISLAND DEFENSE PRODUCTION LINES MOVING

The plants of Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Company are busy these days producing precision machines, tools and many other defense items. Production lines are moving at top speed—and the telephone helps to "keep 'em rolling".

Extensive telephone installations in Brown & Sharpe plants make it easy to check through on every step of vital defense work. Assembly goes smoothly—production stays high. Slowdowns and breakdowns are kept to a minimum.

MEETING NEW ENGLAND'S TELEPHONE NEEDS

Throughout New England the ever-increasing telephone needs of manufacturers of radar and electronic equipment, precision tools, drills, textile machinery— to name but a few—are being met in record time.

Today—industry, the military and the public are more dependent than ever on the telephone and only a financially strong company, with a sound rate structure, can provide these groups with the fast, accurate telephone service that they must have.

THE NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH CO.

DEFENSE ORDERS are increasing the need for telephone facilities throughout New England. To speed production of portable radio military telephones, the busy Raytheon plant in Waltham, Massachusetts, has also added much new telephone equipment.

WHEN CALLING OUT-OF-TOWN, remember that such calls go through twice as fast when placed by number. When you give Long Distance the number you want, she can put your call through without first calling information at the distant city.

"Skies Unlimited" Fund Reaches $3000

Purchase and installation of an 80-person-capacity modern Spitz planetarium in a wing of the Roger Williams Park Museum was foreseen this week by officials of "Skies Unlimited," statewide fund-raising project to raise $10,000 for a public planetarium, following the announcement that the $3,000 mark has been reached.

Frank L. Martin, treasurer of the fund, warned, however, that "several thousand contributions of at least $1 each, and several hundred more of $5 and up must be received if our campaign is to be successful." All donors are given a "deed of sale" as purchasers of "a piece of the sky."

The drive is sponsored by a group of citizens called "Friends of the Park Museum, Inc." Donations should be addressed to "Skies Unlimited" or Martin at the Museum.

SYD COHEN:

A Letter For Pat Egan

Ordinarily, this column steers clear of subject matter which has been worked over for a week or two in the daily press. Let it not be said, however, that I am looking the other way when an opportunity arises to cast a few pointed remarks in the direction of the misfit moguls who "lead" the American Hockey League.

Just another voice in the Rhode Island wilderness, if you will; but how can you make an impression on men of the small-bore caliber of Emory Jones of St. Louis if not by sheer weight of numbers? Maybe even that is ineffectual; yet silence now would amount to treason for anyone who professes to be a hockey fan. So here goes.

I hope that some of this Providence spirit somehow seeps through Mr. Jones' noggin. We have a hallowed and time-honored hockey tradition here. We undoubtedly still will be in business long after he has retired to a position where he can do less damage to the reputation of what once was a proud sport.

I won't rehash the arguments of the Egan case, save for the reminder that the accused man got no hearing, that prejudiced testimony was used against him, that there was no personal meeting of the Board of Governors. According to reports, the suspension decision was reached by the president following a "poll" of the other directors. In other words, the affair was not hashed out by the Board sitting in session, but by one man alone, and without a unanimous vote.

In further words, the affair smells. They just don't seem to want Providence in the league.

Well, what could you expect in the light of last year's prize incident of two pucks on the ice, when even the referee declared the goal that was scored against the Reds should not have been allowed?

What can you expect from a league that for years refused to permit its linesmen to call penalties when it was absolutely impossible for the one referee to detect and prevent violations all by himself?

What can you expect from a league whose referees so often let games get out of hand because they just don't know what to do... whose linesmen for years officiated only in their home towns?

What can you expect from a league which instructs its officials not to interfere in a fight on the ice, where a swinging stick could put out an eye or crack a skull or split a face? What other sport would, or could afford to, permit this sort of donnybrook as a matter of policy?

All of these things, and more, are part and parcel of the American Hockey League. All are a part of the price hockey fans must pay for being hockey fans. Yet we keep coming back and buying tickets, and our team continues to maintain its dignity, its place, its leadership.

The western bloc won't get the Reds out of the league by trying to break their spirit. Lou Pieri and the fans can withstand a lot of breaking.

The absolute proof that Pat Egan is innocent is that he was judged guilty by the president of the American Hockey League. Proof enough for any man.

If some stray readers have followed me this far and are wondering why all the fuss over something that already has had adequate coverage, please forgive me. This one, you see, is being mailed to St. Louis as my contribution to the avalanche of mail on behalf of Pat Egan.

New Bowling Tourney

Last spring, prior to the Herald's annual bowling tournaments, representatives of several men's bowling leagues met in the Herald office to set up regulations and dates for the various tourneys that were in the planning stage. It was agreed then that a permanent year-round committee should be formed to plan bowling activity around the calendar.

Well, here it is the middle of the new season, and Murray Trinkle, ace of the Temple Beth El Kegling Korps, reminds this column of the previous plans. So here goes with the first call to arms to all the men's leagues.

One of the projects mentioned at earlier meetings was the sponsorship of an open bowling tourney on an individual, not a team basis... Strictly a personal affair, with every man on an equal footing... Trophies would be given for keeps.

An affair of this sort probably would require two or three or more nights, with registration in advance. Lots of planning and work must go into it; and this work must be done by a well-organized committee composed of representatives of the present bowling leagues.

The Herald does not desire or intend to set up the rules. To start the ball rolling, let's suggest that each league prepare to name two delegates to attend a conference in this office in the near future. The best time probably would be Saturday morning in the Herald office, or Sunday morning at the Jewish Community Center.

To carry it further, how about the week after Thanksgiving? If the leagues will appoint their delegates and have same contact me, we can determine what date, time and place will best suit the group, and lay definite plans for this meeting. A phone call or post card will do, but let's get at it.

"Please, God, let him be aboard"

ALONGSIDE THE DOCK at Haifa a ship is tying up, its rails lined with immigrants. From behind the gates on shore anxious eyes search for the faces of loved ones. Pounding hearts beseech:

"Please, God, let him be aboard."

A clatter of chains and the gangplank comes down—weary men, worn women, bewildered children stream onto the blessed soil of Israel.

The waiting crowd surges forward. There is the heart-rending cry of recognition, the frantic embrace. For some, this is the longed-for moment of reunion—in the bright light of freedom.

For some!

Others in the crowd watch silently, but with trembling lips. Finally they turn and trudge away. Hope is fainter now, but alive. Perhaps the next boat . . .

Yes, the next boat, provided—provided you help put the passengers aboard.

In four years your support of the United Jewish Appeal has spelled rescue and homecoming for 700,000 homeless Jews brought to a new life from DP camps, Iron Curtain countries, ghastly ghettos in Arab lands.

This year, many more must be saved.

But the homecoming is not all. We must follow it by a great home making. Hands must be made useful, lives worth living.

Give through your local campaign, for those who wait at the gates—and those who wait for deliverance. Give your best—more than ever before.

To strengthen Israel's economy and aid democracy elsewhere, UJA must: HELP BUILD 10,000 housing units for immigrants; ESTABLISH 50 rural settlements for 25,000 newcomers; EXPAND agriculture so Israel can produce 70 per cent of its food requirements; HELP IRRIGATE an additional 30,000 acres of land; CARE FOR 13,000 handicapped immigrants; RESCUE many more thousands of Jews from danger areas; AID 160,000 distressed Jews in European and Moslem lands, and ASSIST thousands of Jewish DP's in the U.S.A.
