Zionist Council Alarmed About Obvious Bias of State Department

NEW YORK — The following statement was issued this week by Louis Lipsky, Chairman, on behalf of the American Zionist Council which represents all Zionist groups in the United States:

"The American Zionist Council, speaking in the name of hundreds of thousands of American citizens, deeply concerned with the well-being not only of Israel but of all the peoples of the Near East, deplors outbreaks of violence on the borders between Israel and the Arab states.

"We must, however, make it clear that these acts of violence, which have resulted in the loss of many hundreds of innocent lives on both sides, spring from the deliberate policy of the Arab states in maintaining a state of war against Israel five years after their initial aggression and in violation of armistice agreements.

"In these circumstances, we must express our alarm that the Department of State has hastened to single out one side for rebuke on the eve of the Security Council's consideration of the whole problem of Near East tension. In our view, the Department of State has acted with obvious bias, in disregard of the traditional friendship between America and Israel, and contrary to the best interests of the United States. In particular, we regard the Department of State's decision to withhold economic aid from Israel as an unwarranted act of duress.

"This situation underlines the urgent need for peace in the Near East which Israel has sought again and again. We call upon our Government, in concert with other powers, to use its influence with the states of the Near East to convert the armistice agreements into treaties of lasting peace."

Arabs Attempt Political Squeeze

NEW YORK—The Arab States this week attempted a political squeeze play on Israel and threatened military action to prevent "aggression" by the beleaguered Israelis. In a two-pronged politico-strategic offensive against the Jewish State, Syria and Egypt concerted their attacks and mustered support in Washington, London and the United Nations.

In one phase of the diplomatic onslaught, Syria protested that the Huleh drainage project jeopardized the water supply of a large Syrian area and persuaded UN truce chief Major General Vagn Bennike to ask Israel to cease work on the drainage canal until the issue could be studied. When Israel rejected General

Miriam Hospital Appoints New York Physician as Its Executive Director

To Start Duties On November 1

Announcement of the appointment of Dr. I. Herbert Scheffer as executive director of the Miriam Hospital was made today by Benjamin Brier, hospital president.

Dr. Scheffer comes to Providence after having served for four years as senior general medical superintendent and director of the Bureau of Medical and Hospital Services in the New York City Department of Hospitals. He will assume his new duties on Nov. 1. A native of Edmundston, N. B., Canada, Dr. Scheffer graduated from McGill University, Montreal, in 1922, and received his medical degree from the McGill University College of Medicine in 1925. Following his graduation, he served for one year on the staff of McGill University, and then for one year as medical house officer at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

In 1927 Dr. Scheffer entered the service of the City of New York, where he remained, except for military leave, until his appointment to Miriam Hospital.

He served as a physician and later as assistant medical superintendent at Willard Parker Hospital, and was medical superintendent at Kingston Avenue Hospital, Brooklyn, and Metropolitan Hospital, New York City.

In 1948 Dr. Scheffer was appointed general medical superintendent of the New York City Department of Hospitals, and the following year took over as senior general medical superintendent and director, which position he held until now.

As a major and then lieutenant colonel in the Army's Medical Corps during World War II, the new Miriam director served with distinction for four years, receiving

U.S. Leaders Cool to Idea

NEW YORK—Leaders of all major American Jewish organizations and of many Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds have received invitations from Israel's Premier David Ben Gurion to come to Jerusalem for an extraordinary conference.

This conference, which will start on Oct. 25 and will last several days, will really be the first world gathering of Zionists and non-Zionists who are interested in helping Israel. Invited to this parley are not only American Jewish leaders, but also representatives of Jewish communities in Canada, England, South Africa and other democratic countries.

In the United States, the invitations were sent out by Israel Ambassador Abba Eban. Some of the recipients will not be able to go to Israel in view of the short notice. The invitations are addressed to each leader as an individual and not to the organization he represents.

It is understood that the Israel Premier is summoning the Jewish leaders from the various countries to report to them on the progress of the Israeli development program and to ask them for extraordinary measures of support.

To prepare the ground for this request, American Jewish leaders are now being sounded out on a new plan for providing urgent financial aid for Israel which must meet this year short-term loans amounting to more than 100 million dollars.

Under this plan the Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds—the major contributors for Israel through the United Jewish Appeal—will be asked to secure through their local banks loans sufficient to advance to Israel this year the money which they expect to allocate to it in the course of the next five years.

This loan is to be amortized within five years in five equal payments. The basis for this plan is the belief that Israel will within the next five years develop its natural resources to such a point that she will no longer need any financial aid from American Jewry. However, in order to reach this point, concentrated financial efforts are needed now.

So far, the plan does not seem to be received by the American Jewish community leaders with any special enthusiasm.

selected as a member of the Knesset delegation to the Inter-Parliamentary Union meeting which has been convening in Washington this month.

In the Knesset he is a member of the Foreign and Defense Committees, and is also chairman of the Israel Society for Foreign Affairs.

Members of the Young Adults Association will act as hosts and hostesses at the meeting.

Urge Immediate Reservations For Initial Gifts Dinner

Leaders of the General Jewish Committee are preparing for an unusually large turnout at the annual Initial Gifts Dinner on Monday evening, Nov. 2, signalling the start of the 1953 campaign.

Sparked by the scheduled appearance of Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, requests for reservations for the affair, to be held at the Sheraton-Biltmore hotel, are pouring in, and Arthur Kaplan, chairman of the dinner, urged that all who plan to attend act promptly and send in their reservations without delay.

"I have never seen such a response to a speaker in this area," Kaplan said. "The announcement of his acceptance to appear at the Initial Gifts Dinner has touched off an enthusiastic feeling seldom seen in any community affair."

GJC acting president Joseph W. Rens made a similar plea. "The opportunity of hearing one of the foremost Americans of our time is one that cannot be passed up," Rens said. "Certainly everyone who can will want to be present on Nov. 2."

Knesset Leader At JCC Thursday

Rhode Island residents will have the opportunity of hearing one of the leading members of Israel's Parliament explain the inside story of the current Israel-Jordan border incidents at a meeting next Thursday evening at the Jewish Community Center.

Morris Kritzman, JCC executive director, announced Tuesday that Ishar Harari, a native Israeli, will be guest speaker at the meeting, which will be open without charge to all members of the community. The program will start at 8:30 P. M.

Harari is making a surprise visit to Providence through the auspices of the World Affairs Council of R. I. He has just been

To Honor Katz at Testimonial Sunday

A testimonial dinner in honor of George Katz, former probation officer in Rhode Island's juvenile court system, and now executive secretary of the Big Brothers movement, will be held this Sunday evening at the Narragansett Hotel.

The program will start with a reception at 6 P. M., with the dinner scheduled for 6:30.

The speaking program will be headlined by U. S. Senator John O. Pastore. Guests will include Gov. Dennis J. Roberts, representatives of the state's judicial system, members of the clergy, and others.

Judge Francis McCabe, chief of the Juvenile Court, will be toastmaster. Judge McCabe is one of the three co-chairmen of the affair, the others being Miss Alice Hunt, prominent in state and civic affairs, who has been a leader in the juvenile court movement, and Abraham Bellows, local attorney who is a vice-president of Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith, of which Katz is financial secretary.

Max Weiss, PA 3-4406, is in charge of reservations.

While honoring Katz, who has

been active for several years in civic and Jewish affairs, the testimonial will point up the important work of the Juvenile Court system, and will spotlight the work that remains to be done in the newly launched Big Brothers movement in this state.

Yiddish Expressions Invade Wrestling; Israeli is New Star

The English language is constantly being augmented by folksy Yiddish terms and expressions such as "mazuma," "tzimmes," "schlemiel," "kibbitzer," and other colloquialisms have virtually become standard words in our dictionaries. But who would have believed that an Israeli would ever become a medium in bringing new Yiddish idioms to our language? And that is precisely what is happening with the frequent wrestling appearances of Raphael Halpern, the undefeated Israeli wrestling champion who has overcome more than 105 opponents, some of them most formidable figures, in the United States.

Out of sheer curiosity, I recently attended one of his matches and found the arena sprinkled with fans who more properly belong in yeshivah and synagogue. Sprinkled among the burly Irish and dark complexioned Italians were Jews old and young, bearded and in skullcap, whose eyes shone with delight as their idol entered the ring. It was my surmise that most of them were attracted less perhaps by the sport than by the fact that Halpern is a Jew, an Israeli and a graduate of a Jerusalem rabbinical school to boot.

As Halpern entered the ring, the arena resounded with Yiddish colloquial exhortations that must have puzzled the surrounding fans. "Gib ihm a zets," "gib ihm a buchtze," "gib ihm a chmaize," they shouted enthusiastically. The rest of the folk good humoredly tried to repeat the expressions, but they naturally came out distorted and sounded as if they were from a different world even to an ear attuned to their sound. While watching the match it occurred to me that here was a young man, Raphael Halpern, who was perhaps not only destined to become the wrestling champion of the world but to influence the American sports language as well. I am no authority on wrestling, but I must admit guilt of chauvinism, for I was a proud man indeed when deafening cheers broke out for the Israeli strong man as he pinned his heavier opponent more with brain, as well as brawn.

"Israel - True Haven of Human Liberty"

Says
WALTER
SUNDLUN

My recent visit to Israel was enthralling. I found Israel a country of great activity and promise in all phases of its national life. I questioned many people from all walks of life. A deep rooted feeling throbs at the hearts of the people of Israel that the nationhood of Israel shall not fail, and that Israel shall be developed as a true haven of human liberty for all the people who come to live within its borders.

I am delighted to be able to say to all my fellow American citizens of Jewish faith in Rhode Island that all who contributed in the past may have joy and peace in knowing that they were a great contributing factor in helping to establish and develop Israel as a small but vigorous living democracy among the nations of the world.

I urge every person - young and old - who is at all capable of making a contribution to the United Jewish Appeal to do so gladly and as generously as he or she can.

Israel shall be a great nation!

Permanent Waving
 HAS BEEN
Revolutionized!
 NEW PROFESSIONAL
PERMANENT WAVE
 Developed By Hairdresser.

An entirely new method of permanent waving has been developed by a hairdresser with many years experience in the permanent waving business. This new permanent wave, NU-JET, is as modern as the name implies. Ladies hair may now be waved as nature intended wavy hair. Not just tightly curled ends, as in other methods, but the same from scalp to ends in a soft natural look that cannot be told from a natural wave.

Because the hair is wound with plain water instead of harsh chemicals is the reason for the excellent condition of the hair after a NU-JET wave.

This new wave was especially developed to protect bleached, dyed, and sun damaged hair and to restore to its natural beauty hair that has been damaged thru the use of home treatments, dyes, and home waves. The solutions that are used to produce this beautiful new permanent wave are carbonated with the same CO2 that is used to put the sparkle and life in our modern soft drinks. It is also widely used by the medical profession to treat many skin disorders and as an aid in healing wounds.

Because of the exceptionally natural condition of the hair after a NU-JET permanent wave, home care will be much easier.

This process is being used exclusively by all the Anton's House of Beauty Salons... and is standard price.

of the Cranston Jewish Center women's league, was on the phone this week with an idea for a tournament among all the Jewish girls' leagues in operation. The Cranston damsels have talked it over, and would like to act as hostesses for this tournament, which would be the first of its kind around here. The Herald sponsors an annual girls' league tourney, but to date that affair has remained the only inter-league bowling competition among the femmes.

Anyway, gals, here is your opportunity. Every league should delegate someone to call Gert at WI 1-7409. Once the contacts are made, the tourney should start to take form.

New Forms for Columns
While on the subject of bowling, we might as well break the news that there soon will be a new format for the bowling columns and news appearing in the Herald. As this was written, Murray Trinkle, president of the Bowling Congress, was studying a sample bowling score sheet which, when printed by the Herald, will be passed out to all bowling leagues.

Each correspondent will fill in the vital statistics in spaces reserved for such information, and will then mail the results to this newspaper. The news about leagues in the congress then will be compiled weekly into one standard report, and will appear in the same place, near this column and other sports news. Non-Congress leagues also will fill in the same form, so that, at last, all bowling reports will be standardized.

More on this subject when the forms are prepared, and the new plan is actually organized. It shouldn't be more than a few weeks, however.

Information Please
From Harvey Friedman of 93 Summit Street, Pawtucket comes a request for information about Jewish baseball players who are active today or have played in the past.

Well, Harvey, I was glad to get your note, but that is a pretty tall order. In the past I have written several columns on Jewish players, going back many years in my research to include such players who assumed other names in the big leagues.

The list is longer than you probably realize; however, I plan to continue my investigations into that field this winter, and eventually to come up with an alphabetical list of every Jewish player I can find who ever dressed in a big league uniform.

If you can wait a couple of months for this, OK. If not, or if there is some particular information that you would like to know now, drop me another note. Then I'll dig up the material and mail it to you.

Offhand, the only Jewish players I can think of who were active this year in the majors were the incomparable Al Rosen, who undoubtedly will win the American League's most valuable player award; Sid Gordon of the Braves; Saul Rogovin of the White Sox; Lou Kretlow of the Orioles; Cal Abrams of the Pirates and Myron Ginsberg of the Indians. Marv Rotblatt, pint-sized pitcher of a few seasons back, has been serving with the Armed Forces.

Fore!
The Herald's annual golf tournament, now in the final, or should we say semi-final stages at Ledgemont Country Club, has been rolling along very smoothly, thanks to the persistent efforts of the committee and the Ledgemont staff.

I know for a fact that Justin Robinson and Lou Chase have practically lived at their telephones on several nights, making calls to contestants, informing them of their next pairings. Out at the club, Lou Myers, the pro, and his staff have lent their whole-hearted efforts. Everett Irwin, the caddy-master, has phoned in the scores every Monday, if I did not contact him first; and he and his assistant, "Peaches," have been of great help.

We'll have occasion in future weeks to talk of the winners, of course. But for now let's have a word with the losers.

In all the publicity about the tournament, the committee and this column tried to make it plain that those contestants who were beaten in the opening round would still have another match to play—in the beaten eight and beaten sixteen rounds.

The committee went to the trouble of purchasing awards for the winners of these special tournaments. Yet, few matches in these categories have been played to date, and it is like the old adage that the Russians no doubt invented: "You can lead a horse to water, comrade, but you cannot make him drink."

For those who are uncertain about their standing or about their opponents, a call to Everett at Ledgemont will help clear the situation. Or, Justin Robinson will be glad to set you straight. But let's get those beaten eights and sixteens out of the way, lest all of them that remain unplayed have to be forfeited.

Whether a man is still competing in match play or is in the active "beaten" class, he should check the board at Ledgemont to find out whom he plays next. The committee is NOT supposed to call each contestant every week.

Incidentally, out of the 80 golfers who entered the tourney, 79 actually went through with their match play rounds. Only one man failed to swing a club, and he was suffering from a very painful and persistent muscular strain.

Coming Attraction
In case the softball players feel neglected, just hold back the firing, boys. Big doings are cooking in the softball pot. Another week or two, and then we will remove the lid. The result should be a very tasty brew.

George Katz
This last local note is entirely unsolicited, and nobody knows it is being written. George Katz, one of the nicest guys this column knows—and everyone who knows George must concur in that statement—is going to be honored at a testimonial dinner this Sunday evening—at the Narragansett Hotel.

George has been active in the sports world for many years. Of more importance, he has served his community well, and with a tremendous heart, in behalf of kids who don't get the right breaks. That is real service to the world of sports.

Katz deserves all the honors he can get, and all possible support in his work. This column congratulates him, and wishes him success and happiness.

A Legend...

One night in ancient times, three horsemen were riding across a desert. As they crossed the dry bed of a river, out of the darkness a voice called, "Halt!" They obeyed. The voice then told them to dismount, pick up a handful of pebbles, put the pebbles in their pockets and remount. The voice then said, "You have done as I commanded. Tomorrow at sun-up you will be both glad and sorry." Mystified, the horsemen rode on. When the sun rose, they reached into their pockets and found that a miracle had happened. The pebbles had been transformed into diamonds, rubies, and other precious stones. They remembered the warning. They were both glad and sorry — glad they had taken some, and sorry they had not taken more . . .

The Loser--The Jewish Public

New efforts to pave the way for the return of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith to the ranks of the National Community Relations Advisory Council were made shortly before the NCRAC held its annual plenary session in Chicago.

The top leaders of the NCRAC, American Jewish Committee, Anti-Defamation League were brought together by the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds for an informal discussion of the possibilities of reconciliation.

However, the discussion brought no results. Both sides seem to be sticking to their guns, although they do not intend to fight each other. In fact, from time to time they may even be inclined to meet together, under neutral auspices, on special situations which may require united Jewish action.

This, for instance, was the case when Senator Herbert H. Lehman appealed to them to coordinate their campaigns for liberalization of present immigration laws. It was at Sen. Lehman's initiative that the leaders of these two groups agreed to meet for an exchange of views. The meeting took place, however, in "neutral ground"—in one of New York's leading hotels, and not in the offices of any of the organizations.

It is obvious that both groups in the dispute will continue their independent action. Nothing will be done to eliminate duplication of effort. The loser in the argument is the Jewish public who will be forced to finance the work of all these groups without concern as to whether their dollars are employed efficiently.

Arab-Israel Relations Deteriorate

Monitor Correspondent's Disturbing Revelations

A most disturbing report on the deteriorating Arab-Israel relations was sent this week to the Christian Science Monitor by Francis Ofner, the Monitor's correspondent in Israel. Mr. Ofner, one of the ablest foreign correspondents in the Jewish state, writes as follows from Jerusalem:

Increased agitation among Israel's 175,000 Arab population is casting shadows on the efforts to build friendly Arab-Jewish relations in Israel.

Recently some Israel Arabs have cooperated with armed attackers from across the border. As a result, the Israel Government has answered by tightening up irritating security measures in some Arab areas.

Relations began to take a turn for the worse last June when a Circassian Moslem leader known for his pro-Israel sympathies was killed by unknown men at his home at Rehania, a tiny village in eastern Galilee. Unexpectedly, the villagers refused to cooperate with Israel authorities in the search for the murderers, and in their silent demonstration went as far as boycotting the victim's burial.

A few days later, a group of armed Arabs attacked the Jewish townlet of Rosh Pinah, not far from the place of the first murder. Tracks led to Rehania, whose inhabitants again refused to disclose any information to the investigating authorities.

INCIDENTS
Since then a number of similar incidents have taken place, including the firing of rifle shots at a low-flying Israel Army plane. The last significant incident occurred in the outskirts of Jerusalem, near the Arab town of Abu Gosh, where grenades were thrown at a Jewish youth camp. As in other places, the village elders remained silent about the circumstances which might have shed some light on the incident.

A delegation of Israel Arabs recently appeared in the Knesset (Parliament) and independently of the eight Arab Knesset members, presented a number of complaints to the steering committee. At the same time, El Rabita, the monthly magazine of Gre'e k Catholic Archbishop George Hakim, began a series of attacks against what is termed Israel's policy toward the Arab minority.

Public meetings were held simultaneously in Arab-inhabited areas, mainly under the intellectual leadership of Elias N. Koussa, a Haifa lawyer.

LAND ACQUISITION
All these demonstrations have advocated the canceling of military government and travel restrictions in Arab areas; the abolition of the per capita education tax; and the abrogation of the Land Acquisition Law as well as handing back all abandoned property owned by Israel Arabs.

The Israel Government, however, has considered itself unable to yield to these demands. "The unstable security situation and closeness to the enemy border are objective reasons for maintaining restrictions," officials in charge of Arab affairs are stating.

They say they are making serious efforts to secure "the greatest possible degree of normalcy" in the country's life. Some 80 per cent of requests for travel permits have been approved, while the remainder were refused for security reasons only.

PROPERTY TAX
With regard to education, a field in which the Arabs have remained somewhat apathetic, the Israel administration tried to encourage them to bear locally half of the financial burden, as the Jews are doing. When, however, most Arab municipalities and local councils ignored these appeals, the Israel Government came forward by paying most of the Arabs' educational expenses, and on Arab suggestion, has gradually introduced a "per capita" education tax.

Arab reluctance to share the financial burden is reflected in last year's figure of property tax. About 54,000 Israel pounds were paid by Israel's Arabs, less than one-third of a pound per person, while Jews paid an average of 2.5 pounds, amounting in all to 3,000,000 pounds.

Similarly, Israel officials reject criticism of the Land Acquisition Law, which they call "fair and realistic." They quote the law's explanatory note which says: "The object of this bill is to compensate owners of acquired land fairly either in cash or in substitute land or in both ways."

Yehoshua Palmont, the Prime Minister's adviser on Arab affairs and main architect of this law, stated that "abandoned Arab property cannot be returned to former owners without danger to security and economic and social hardships." He added, however, that "this law has ended the absentee status of Arabs in Israel, while enabling them to enjoy all its benefits." Nevertheless, political agitation on the surface of Arab life in Israel continues.

Tents on the Mall

There was a nip in the air, and an autumn breeze was playing with the pennants above the Red Feather tent village on the Mall. The blare of music, the gay flags, hundreds of them criss-crossing above the tent tops, gave the Mall a carnival air.

But once you entered the gates of the tent village, you knew that this was serious business. Each exhibit, each chart, each demonstration spoke of the very serious business of guiding a family that needs guidance, finding a home for a child that needs a home, healing the wounds of men and women whose body and soul must be healed. The serious business of hospitals, centers, homes for aged, clubs.

A whole community in the act of being a brother's keeper. You wander from tent to tent. You read the astonishing fact that some 175,000 persons in this community were in one way or another served by the Red Feather agencies in the past year. This service was performed for them by a hundred Community Chest-supported organizations scattered over the state.

You are relieved to note, as you pass on from tent to tent, that not all of these services were cases of aid in distress. Many of the agencies deal in pleasurable services, building character, offering recreation and training.

There are the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts, the camps, the community centers, the Y. M. and Y. W. Associations, the U. S. O. canteens, the youth clubs. Is there a home in the community which has not, in some measure, at some time, benefited by these Red Feather agencies?

The Jewish Angle

At the Miriam Hospital tent, a familiar voice spoke behind me:

"Looking for a story? You ought to find good material for your column here."

"No, I did not come for a story," I said, turning around. "I just came to look and to listen. What more can I add that has not been told already about the activities of the Community Chest? Who can tell the story of the Red Feather agencies more forcefully than these tents, these exhibits here on the Mall?"

My friend would not give up, and he argued:

"But you can write from the Jewish angle, can't you?"

I expected that. My friend, walking beside me through the tent village, was not the first to suggest a Jewish angle to the Red Feather drive. To him, as to the others before him, I have a ready answer:

"There is no Jewish angle. No more than there is an Irish angle or an Italian angle or an Armenian angle to the Red Feather drive. There is only one angle, and that is the community angle. Just as the services of the Community Chest are given to all, so must they be supported by all in the community, without any reference whatsoever to faith or national origin."

Seems so simple a principle and yet too often missed!

Twofold Obligation

An American-Jew has a twofold obligation to perform. The two do not exclude one another, and in no way contradict one another.

When an American-Jew joins a political party, works for a civic project, becomes a member of a trade and professional union, supports a symphony orchestra, runs for office, votes in elections, contributes to a community-wide fund such as the Community Chest drive now in progress, he does so as an American.

When an American-Jew enters a house of worship, gives aid to his oppressed brethren, contributes to schools and academies of Jewish studies, gives to the United Jewish Appeal, helps in the rebuilding of Zion, sponsors the works of Jewish scholars and artists, he then performs his obligations as a Jew.

It is therefore entirely uncalled for to urge the Jews of Providence and wherever they live in this state to be sure and give generously to the Red Feather drive. I cannot think of a Jew who does not contribute his share to this community effort.

As I look through the list of Red Feather agencies I find some designated as Jewish, others are known to be Jewish sponsored. Thus we find in alphabetical order Camp Jori, Jewish Community Center, Jewish Family and Children's Service, Miriam Hospital.

But these four agencies are not the only reason why a Jew contributes to the Red Feather funds. As an American, as a Rhode Islander, he is just as interested in the support of District Nursing services, in Child Guidance clinics, in the Floating Hospital, in the International Institute, and in all the other of the 100 agencies.

If there must be a Jewish angle to Community Chest contribution of gifts, it can be found in this tradition handed down to us by our Rabbis:

There was a place in the Holy Temple called the Chamber of the Silent. In this chamber our charitable forefathers deposited secretly whatever their generous hearts suggested, and from this chamber the poor were maintained with equal secrecy.

This principle of the common concern for the needs of others, the good taste of giving to a common fund instead of individual handouts, is the underlying philosophy of the Community Chests of our own day. In giving the united way, through the common chests, the modern Jew emulates his forefathers in the days of the Temple. He would be unworthy of his ancestry if he did not give to and work for the Community Chest.

Gen. Benneke's request, the United States Department of State and the British Foreign Office interceded to put pressure on Israel to force compliance.

The second prong of the attack came from Egypt which charged that Israeli troops have occupied an area near El Auja in violation of the armistice. In Washington, the Egyptian Embassy disclosed that Egypt will seek action by the United Nations Security Council against Israel's "aggression" on El Auja village.

Why I Like The Home

(By MRS. CLARA GOLDBERG)

Before I entered the Home six years ago, I was for months in a non-Jewish Convalescent Home because of a broken shoulder. Although my shoulder healed, I never regained the use of my left arm, and therefore needed help in dressing and bathing. I did not want to go back to my daughter, with whom I had stayed for four years, since the death of my husband, as I did not want to tie her down. I also wanted the Jewish atmosphere and the synagogue, which I was greatly missing.

The reason why I like the Home is that I have the care that I need, the kosher food that I enjoy, and the synagogue. I also like the parties and entertainment which the Ladies Association provides, the knitting classes in which I participate, despite my crippled arm. I also make myself useful by helping in the diet kitchen and helping the nurses feed some patients who cannot feed themselves. I am getting great enjoyment of being helpful to others.

I also look forward to the visits of Mr. Felder, our President, who greets us with a smile on his face. I want to thank the Board of Directors and the management for their kindness and the wonderful treatment. I can truthfully say that after six years in the Home, I still enjoy being here, and despite my handicap and disappointments, I still feel that I am useful. My children and grandchildren are wonderful to me; but I am sure they could not give me the companionship and the attention that I need.

May God bless the Board of Directors and the Ladies Association for the wonderful work that they are doing and the comforts and security they give to me and the other 90 residents at the Home!

Living

This man started out for himself many years ago, and soon established a successful one-man business. Then came the problem that after his death his widow might be obliged to sell the business at a loss. Sun Life of Canada Business Insurance solved this. Now the enterprise will be purchased from his widow by senior employees at a figure set during his lifetime.

'UJA Stands as Their
BEACON LIGHT'

Says DR. ILIE BERGER

I had the rare privilege of returning to Israel after an absence of 16 years. The progress is phenomenal and the development I saw is almost beyond description. However, you can imagine the hardship and problems facing the leaders of the new nation due to the tremendous influx of immigration since the declaration of the state. Over a quarter million Jews are still living in the Reception Centers, or the Maharoth. Most of these people are broken in health and spirit. Their morale is shattered. These unfortunate Jews are looking desperately for that one chance that will give them living quarters, and the opportunity to earn their own livelihood and become useful citizens.

The United Jewish Appeal stands as their beacon light. They look upon the success of this drive as their only salvation. We cannot ignore their appeal to us — we must give larger sums.

Bloom Makes Golf Finals

Two years ago, in the last Jewish Herald Golf Tournament, Dick Loebenberg and Julie Bloom battled it out for the championship. This year, barring a last-minute upset, it will be the same two men competing in the final round of the championship division.

Bloom is already assured of going into the finals, since he downed his old rival, Murray Trinkle, 2-1 in their semi-final match last week. Loebenberg, who romped through his early rounds, now is favored to defeat Saul Lerman and move into the finals with Bloom. Lerman qualified for the job of trying to stop Dick by edging Ralph Semonoff 2-1.

Here are last week's results:
First Flight—Lloyd Turoff beat Bill Gollis 2-1, Howard Fain downed Milt Wintman 3-1, Max Bender scored over Mal Paynor 4-3, and Moe Kessler took Sam Chase 6-5.

Second Flight—Milton Isserlis beat Leonard Abrams 3-2, Joe Chernick won over Harold Leavitt 4-2, and Ben Weiner got by Dick Chase 4-3. Walter Serge and Harry Chase had not yet completed their match.

This week in the First Flight, the pairings are Turoff vs Fain, and Bender vs Kessler. Second Flight—The Serge-Chase winner vs Isserlis, and Chernick vs Weiner.

Beaten eight and sixteen rounds are coming slowly. Results to date are sparse. First Flight—Jack Billow over Joe Stanzler 4-3, Ben Abrams over Nat Linder 8-7, Darman over Norman Horvitz 6-5, Dr. S. Lenzner over Howie Weiner by default, and Mel Frank over Sid Lovett by default. Second Flight—Jack Broadman over S. Steingold 3-2, Gene Aaronson over Harvey Cooper 6-5, Don Cohen over Walter Rutman by default, Paul Heymann over Sherman Price by default, H. Shore over Al Samdperil 1 up in 19 holes, and George Reizen over Mat Golden 5-4.

Unplayed matches are between Lester Bernstein and Phil Shaulson, George Gerber and Howie Nelson, Moe Borad and Maurice Frank in First Flight, and Nat Alterman and Peter Bardach, Warren Foster and Judah Semonoff in Second Flight. No results were reported from the beaten eight group of the championship group.

BIDDY BASKETBALL LEAGUE

A Biddy Basketball League has been formed at the Jewish Community Center by Abe Lobel, physical education and health director. Boys from 7-8 years of age will meet from 1 to 2 P. M. on Sundays, and 8-9 year olds from 2 to 3.
