Ben Gurion Pays Tribute To Jews Of All Countries

JERUSALEM—Tribute was paid last week to the Jews of all countries for the role they played in the establishment of the State of Israel, in an Independence Day message issued by Premier David Ben Gurion in connection with the forthcoming celebration of Israel's 10th anniversary.

The message was sent to the American Committee for Israel's Tenth Anniversary Celebration and will be read at each of the celebrations scheduled by more than 200 Jewish communities throughout the United States.

Pointing out that "the United Nations did not lift a finger" when the Arab states attacked Israel during the early days after its establishment ten years ago hoping "to annihilate her," the Israel Premier said:

"One loyal ally arose — the Jewish people in the Diaspora. Volunteers from more than 60 countries came to Israel to participate in the War of Independence, and the help given by the Jewish people to Israel in its defensive war continued to grow, as young, conquering Israel began its great and difficult task of gathering in the exiles and making the desert bloom.

Welcomed One Million

"More than one million Jews were added to the country since the establishment of the State. Whole exiled communities were brought over to Israel, and from 79 countries in all parts of the world, Jews streamed and are continuing to stream to their ancient homeland.

"Tribes of various tongues separated by time and space, distant by hundreds of years and thousands of miles, are mixed in Israel into one nation that once again speaks its Hebrew tongue, that is becoming rooted anew in the soil of its homeland, and is creating by its physical labor and through its spiritual, moral and intellectual ability, an economy and a culture and a society and a science which will be a glory to Jewry wherever it may be.

The Prime Minister in his message painted a picture of continued progress for Israel's second decade in the face of grim opposition, expressing confidence that with the continued support of the peoples of the democratic nations and world Jewry, his country would develop into a "Rock of Israel."

"We know that our work is not finished," he said, "and will not be finished easily or quickly, and it is possible that there await us difficulties and dangers no less great than those we overcame."

Ludwig Zind Appeals Court Decision

OFFENBURG, Germany — Suspended school teacher Ludwig Zind has filed an appeal against the decision of the Offenburg district court last week sentencing him to one year's imprisonment following his conviction on a charge of public defamation of Jews and voicing threats of violence against a Jew.

The Federal constitutional court at Karlsruhe must decide whether to accept the appeal. Meanwhile, the Baden-Wuerttemberg education authorities halted Zind's salary and will expel him if the verdict is allowed to stand.

The verdict of guilty came after six hours of deliberation and a trial which lasted half a week. At the final session, one student had to be ejected for an anti-semitic remark and it was obvious that the sympathy of the townspeople was with the defendant. One witness for Zind was rebuked by the court for stating during his testimony that Offenburgers thought Zind was being persecuted.

Seen as Warning

Demanding the one-year sentence in his summation of the evidence, state prosecutor Dr. H. Maegele said a conviction was not a personal condemnation of Zind but a warning to all anti-Semites in Germany and to protect the youth of Germany from teachings by nazi-minded teachers.

Heinz Galinski, chairman of the Jewish community of Berlin, had joined the prosecution under a recent German court ruling that the Jewish community was entitled to enter into cases of anti-Semitism because of the unique position of the Jews as the first and most severely injured of nazism's victims.

Taking the stand, Galinski said he had become a plaintiff against Zind not for reasons of hatred or revenge but because the few remaining Jews in Germany wanted to be "left in peace." While he granted every man the right to a mistake, he said it was necessary to admit such errors and that mass crimes should never be condoned.

Hailed into court on charges of having told a half-Jew, Kurt Leiser, that "not enough Jews had been gassed" by the nazis and for having threatened to deal with Leiser in similar fashion, Zind first admitted his remarks in court and later quibbled. He also admitted and later denied having said that during the nazi regime he had clubbed hundreds of Jews to death.

Fund Drives Succeed Despite Economic Recession

NEW YORK—Despite economic recession, Jewish fund-raising campaigns this year are generally moving better than originally predicted, it was reported at a meeting of the board of directors of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds held here recently.

Louis J. Fox, chairman of the campaign planning committee, reported that despite economic distress and lack of "crisis headlines," 1958 fund raising campaigns are generally moving better than was originally predicted.

Many top givers have increased their gifts, he reported, and many more are repeating their 1957 gifts. Individuals, trades and cities have been affected with varying degrees of intensity by the economic situation. Yet, he said, there are reports of striking individual gifts even in industries that are hardest hit.

Other community leaders agreed that communities were adjusting to 1958 conditions with "flexibility and imagination." Current stress is on individual solicitation of persons who can give more, and on trades and industries not too sharply affected by economic conditions, they said. Special attention is also being given to education of solicitors, and pace-setting giving by both campaign workers and leaders.

With 33 members from all parts of the country in attendance, the board urged the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives to hold open hearings on pending legislation to broaden social security benefits; authorized on-the-scene consultations in Israel this summer between top CJFWF leaders and Israeli welfare leaders; and took steps to launch a national cultural study under the auspices of the Council.

The board also heard reports on the progress of Jewish community campaigns, the national study on services to the chronically ill, and other ongoing communal programs.

In an effort to further passage of legislation to broaden social security benefits, the board urged the House Ways and Means Committee to hold open hearings on several bills pending which would extend benefits to retired people by providing hospital, medical and home nursing care. Stern reported that the Government had revised earlier plans to cut the budget or hold the line on various health and welfare services.

In both hospital construction and child welfare services the Government was now reported to be seeking increased appropriations. In aid for retarded children, the Government failed to request funds this year. Last year it asked for $1.5 million.

It was reported that 218 agencies had taken part in the Council's three year study of coordination of community health services for the chronically ill. The project, which is being financed by the U. S. Public Health Service, is preparing reports on homes for the aged, chronic disease hospitals and psychiatric services in general hospitals.

Dr. Goldstein Urges Zionists To Shun Israeli Politics

NEW YORK. — Zionists living outside of Israel should not "tie on to the apron strings" of Israel's political parties, Dr. Israel Goldstein, a co-chairman of the World Organization of General Zionists, declared last Sunday at a testimonial dinner in honor of Judge Louis E. Levinthal of the Common Pleas Court of Philadelphia County, held at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

The dinner, sponsored by the American Jewish League for Israel on the occasion of Judge Levinthal's 65th birthday year and in celebration of Israel's tenth anniversary, was also addressed by the Honorable Abba Eban, Israel's Ambassador to the United States; Ezra Z. Shapiro of Cleveland, president of the League; Samuel Rothberg, chairman of its Board of Directors, and Louis Lipsky, dean of American Zionists and, with Judge Levinthal, an honorary president of the League.

Dr. Goldstein, who is also president of the American Jewish Congress, asserted that the League for Israel membership "has a better per capita record of constructive service to Israel than any other group in American Jewish life," and gave this as one of the reasons why he recently joined the League. He praised its policy of "shunning alliances with political factions in Israel, while promoting Israeli-American friendship."

Zionists can render specific service to Israel, he insisted, by stimulating immigration — "especially youth settlement" — from western countries and financial investments while leading "a movement of resistance to assimilation at home."

Judge Levinthal, who is a member of the Actions Committee of the World Zionist Organization, called for changes in the Zionist movement, declaring that "its structure must be thoroughly overhauled and its aims redefined." The Zionist movement as such, he said, should not be identified with political factions and electioneering in Israel.

To Celebrate 10th Anniversary At Inter-School Festival

Pupils in the Jewish schools of Rhode Island will celebrate Israel's 10th Anniversary at a state-wide Inter-School Festival this Sunday morning at 10 A.M., at Hope High School, according to an announcement by Alter Boyman, president of the Bureau and Benjamin Efron, chairman of the School Council.

Mrs. Henry W. Markoff, board member of the Bureau, is in charge of the program, which is entitled "Let's Fly to Israel." Mrs. Markoff has written an original script for the program and is directing and supervising the entire production in cooperation with School Council members.

Featured in the program will be the Israeli Dance Group, a choral group from Beth El, an instrumental group and Scout Troop from Temple Emanuel, dramatic groups from Beth Israel and Woonsocket, and a choral group from the Day School. Asya Eliash will serve as accompanist, Sydney Konigsberg and Rabbi Reuben Bodek will assist in the production. Cynthia Zaidman will be in charge of seating. Special lighting effects will be arranged through the courtesy of Harry Finkelstein.

Cantor Jacob Hohenemser will be in charge of community singing. Mr. Boyman will bring greetings and Mrs. Markoff will be narrator of the program.

In connection with the celebration, winners of the 10th Anniversary Israel Essay Contest will be presented at the Festival. A special role in the program will be occupied by Israel M. Barenbaum.

Report Sale Of $89,250 In Bonds

An advance sale of $89,250 in Israel Bonds is reported by the Providence Committee, Israel Bonds co-chairmen, Dr. Ilie Berger and Stanley Grossman, for the forthcoming dinner, celebrating Israel's Tenth Anniversary, Sunday evening, May 4, at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

This total was derived from sales made by members of the Israel Bond Committee and by purchases at a series of informal gatherings, two of which were held within the past week at the home of Sidney A. Kane, and at the Sponsor Tea at the home of Mrs. David Meyers.

Reservations for the dinner can be obtained at Israel Bond headquarters at 32 Custom House Street.

Ceder-Berkowitz

At a double-ring, candlelight ceremony in the Garden Room of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel on April 20, Miss Faye Arlene Berkowitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Berkowitz of 95 Lorimer Avenue, was married to Harold Ceder, son of Mrs. Abraham Ceder of 40 Sea Foam Avenue, Winthrop, Mass., and the late Abraham Ceder. Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen of Temple Emanuel and Rabbi Aaron Goldin of the Ohawe Sholom Synagogue, Pawtucket, officiated at the ceremony which was followed by a reception.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of dupioni silk styled with a long torso, a Mayan-age neckline and a bodice trimmed with D'Argentan lace. The bouffant skirt ended in a court train. Her imported silk illusion finger tip veil fell from a cap of matching lace. She carried a Bible with white orchids and streamers of stephanotis.

The maid of honor was Shirley Anne Berkowitz, sister of the bride, who was dressed in a gown of ice blue peau de soie with an off shoulder neckline and a tulip type skirt, caught up and held in front by one ice blue rose. She carried a cascade of pink carnations and white roses. She wore a rhinestone tiara with a short Milan veil.

The bridesmaids, dressed in blue silk and net cocktail gowns with matching caps, were Mrs. Abraham Abrevaya, Mrs. Irwin Kaplan, Mrs. Stanley Bernstein and Miss Sheila Perlow. They carried cascades of pink carnations. Miss Rochelle Ceder was flower girl.

nold Tarr, Howard Oskern and Summer Oskern.

After the reception, the couple left on a three week wedding trip to Florida.

Kelman-Chalfin

Miss Ruth Chalfin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Chalfin of 489 Prospect Street, Woonsocket, became the bride of Burton E. Kelman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kelman of 12 Poplar Street, at a 7 P.M. ceremony on April 20 at Weinstein's Lake Pearl Manor, Wrentham, Mass. Rabbi Pessach Krauss officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a long-sleeved Italian silk taffeta gown with a bateau neckline and princess lines flowing into a cathedral train. Re-embroidered Alencon lace covered the bodice and was appliqued on the skirt. Her illusion veil fell from a pearl trimmed coronet. She carried a Bible with a cascade of stephanotis and a lavender orchid.

Beverly Chalfin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was gowned in ballerina length chiffon in pink fashioned with a shirred bodice topped with a Grecian draped stole. The bouffant skirt had a satin bow and full length streamers. She wore a tiara of iridescent rosettes and seed pearls. She carried dark pink carnations centered with red roses.

The junior bridesmaid, dressed like the maid of honor, was Arlene Chalfin, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Miss Cynthia Kelman, Miss Bette Eisenberg, Miss Judith Simmons and Mrs. Harvey Asher. They wore ballerina length gowns of carnation pink silk taffeta fashioned with a square neckline, short sleeves and gently molded bodice. A partial overskirt in the harem motif covered the sheath skirt. They wore matching headpieces, and carried cascades of light pink carnations and red roses.

Barry Kelman, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Harvey Asher, Irving Levin, Sanford Miller and Everett Glantz.

After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountain in Pennsylvania, the couple will reside at 997 York Avenue, Pawtucket.

Mrs. Albert Pilavin

Beryl Segal

Five years ago Selma Pilavin was elected president of the National Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal. This was no empty honor, since Mrs.

Pilavin's two years as president of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee of Providence had been closely watched and highly successful. The famous "M-Day", conceived during Mrs. Pilavin's administration was adopted enthusiastically by women's groups across the country.

In addition to her active role in several GJC campaigns, Mrs. Pilavin served for many years as vice-president of Hadassah and a vice-president of the World Affairs Council. She conducted several fund-raising affairs for the Council. She is still a member of Mayor Reynolds' Recreation Committee.

During the more than twelve years that Mr. Segal has expressed "One Man's Opinion" in the Jewish Herald, he has done much to stimulate interest and thought in the fields of Jewish education, Jewish letters, and Jewish folklore. Himself, a distinguished teacher in Temple Beth El's religious school, Mr. Segal was a leader — more, a pioneer — in focusing the attention of the community on the need for the Providence Hebrew Day School and the other various religious schools.

Whether it is keeping the community up-to-date on matters pharmaceutical, or helping guide the destinies of the R. I. Jewish Historical Society, of which he is vice-president, Mr. Segal has strived always to be educational as well as entertaining.

A Song of Dayenu To Israel

By BERYL SEGAL

Ten year old Israel, ancient Israel, I will sing you a Dayenu on the day of your rejoicing.

If you had been created ten years ago to fulfill a two thousand year old dream of a people, and had not made a name for yourself among the nations of the world, Dayenu. That in itself would have been enough.

If you had made a good name for yourself among the nations and had not become a haven for the homeless of our people, Dayenu. That in itself would have been enough.

If you had opened your doors to a million wanderers, and had not provided for them as a mother provides for her children, Dayenu. That in itself would have been enough.

If you had given these wanderers homes, and food, and work, and had not reshaped and revived the soul of a people, Dayenu. That in itself would have been enough.

If you had restored the creative spirit of ancient Israel, and had not kept abreast of modern skills and scientific discoveries, Dayenu. That in itself would have been enough.

If you had established universities and fostered centers of learning and encouraged the search for truth, but had not restored broken spirits to human dignity, Dayenu. That in itself would have been enough.

If you had taken the rejected and despised into your arms and made them feel wanted, but had neglected to inspire and to fill with pride the hearts of our people everywhere, Dayenu. That in itself would have been enough.

How much more are you to be praised and your name extolled, land of Israel, that you did all these in the first ten years of existence, and even more.

You have become a model of decent living in a sea of ignorance and poverty and disease surrounding you. You have vanquished your enemies twice while you have created a modern republic, dedicated to peace and creativity.

You have reclaimed swamps and wasteland and have sent forth your ships on the seas and your planes on the airwaves, and the products of your land reach many shores.

You have set up centers of learning and of art and of health unknown in the lands of your neighbors.

You have increased your population three-fold in ten years and are still not saying "enough," but keeping your doors wide open and calling for all who seek haven to come and find it within your borders.

All this time your neighbors who would destroy you are letting their kinsmen live in refugee camps, fed by the United Nations, spending days and months and years in idleness, nursing a hatred, bringing up a generation in hopelessness.

You, who had to wrest every acre of land from the desert, provided land and homes for a million, while your neighbors, who have ample land, keep their borders shut in the faces of their brethren.

You have raised the health and culture levels of your population, Jewish and Arab alike, to great heights, while your neighbors, who scheme your destruction, live in unbelievable poverty and are the prey of diseases long eradicated by civilized peoples.

You have created a democracy in a world where absolute kings, and tribal heads, and a dictator, hold the fate of the people in their hands, where the governed are not consulted nor their welfare heeded.

You are digging deep into a sun-baked desert to find oil for the wheels of your industry, while an oil soaked neighbor of yours squanders the wealth of the land on gold plated automobiles and the progeny of a harem.

You are dreaming of irrigation projects, solar power, and the power that comes with knowledge, while your Arab neighbors are selling their freedom and the freedom of generations to come for arms they cannot use and for tools of destruction.

When I look at the men and women who head your government, and place them side by side with the uniformed dictator, the comic opera little kings, and the bribe corrupted sheiks, my lips send their blessing to you, Israel, on the day of your birth.

Unlawful To Ask For Photographs

BOSTON — The practice of schools and colleges of asking student applicants for personal photographs is a violation of the Massachusetts Fair Education Practices Law, according to a ruling by the Attorney General's office.

Samuel W. Gaffer, state assistant attorney general, submitted that opinion to Mrs. Mildred H. Mahoney, chairman of the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination. The ruling was lauded by Morris Michelson, president of the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Boston.

After a study of the commission's bulletin on policies dealing with equality of educational opportunity, Mr. Gaffer wrote that "the statute is intended to prohibit the requirement of any form of information from which an educational institution might determine the race, creed, color or national origin of a student applicant."

Mr. Michelson said that the ruling was of special importance currently because growing enrollments in academic institutions required more vigilance than ever.

Israel's First Ten Years At Sea

By GOTTLIEB HAMMER

Israel went to sea in 1948 out of dire necessity. Hostile neighbors surrounding her on three sides imposed an economic boycott and prevented overland trade. Foreign shipping companies suspended operations to Haifa, Jaffa and Tel Aviv during the Palestine war and were slow to resume them after the war was won. The newly created Jewish State had to bring in food, raw materials, machinery, motor vehicles, pre-fab houses and a multitude of other essentials or face starvation and economic stagnation. Most urgent were the means of transporting tens of thousands of immigrants from Europe and North Africa to their new homeland. All of these needs could be summed up in one word: Ships! And they had to be ships flying the flag of Israel.

Even if no national emergency had existed in 1948 and '49, Israel would have gone to sea. Geography placed her at the eastern rim of the Mediterranean and hemmed her in by a vast desert and semi-desert hinterland. The sea is her natural line of communication to the rest of the world.

The rise and development of Israel's merchant fleet during the last ten years can be divided into three phases. The first phase was an emergency during which the young shipping industry pooled its resources to acquire vessels for the job immediately at hand—the transportation of immigrants and vital import cargoes. The second phase saw the consolidation of Israel's chief maritime services under a single management and the first steps toward the development of new trade routes on a competitive basis. The third phase was a vast modernization program which replaced virtually the entire fleet with fast new ships of the latest design, enabling Israel to expand her maritime services and compete on a basis of equality with the services of other nations.

Throughout this ten year period, the pace of Israel's maritime growth was set by the Zim Israel Navigation Company, Ltd., of Haifa, the country's largest shipping enterprise. The Zim Lines were founded shortly before Statehood was proclaimed. Their initial capital was provided by the Jewish Agency for Palestine and Histadrut. Israel's labor federation. Their total assets consisted of half interest in a small, second-hand ship.

During the emergency phase, the Zim Lines bore the brunt of immigration and established the first cargo lines to Mediterranean ports and Northwest Europe. Zim ships were old, several of them on 11th hour reprieve from the scrapyard. Good tonnage was expensive and in short supply in 1948.

Many of the most famous steamship companies in the world began with second-hand ships and earned their first revenue from immigration. The Zim Lines differed only in that it was performing a national service with little thought of profit. Whatever the company earned in immigrant fares went into a special fund earmarked for future modernization.

The first steps in this direction were taken in 1950 when Zim purchased two newly built fruit carriers for Israel's all-important citrus trade. At the same time, they placed orders in Dutch yards for two similar vessels, the first designed and built specifically for the Israel flag.

In 1952, the Zim Lines entered the North Atlantic trades. This was done through the purchase of two other Israeli shipping lines, the M. Dizengoff Company and the Israel America Line. Zim also purchased the American-Israeli Shipping Company of New York which became their representatives in the U. S. and Canada. Services to North America were streamlined. Uneconomical vessels were replaced by ships better suited to the route. In the spring of 1953, the first Israel-flag passenger liner service between New York and Haifa was established.

The Bonn-Israel reparations pact in 1952 hastened the modernization of the Zim fleet. Through the reparations account, the company was able to finance the construction of fourteen new ships representing an investment of some $35,000,000.

The Zim Lines today own and operate 25 vessels of over 130,000 deadweight tons. They are employed on ten separate services which cover most of Europe and Africa, U. S. Gulf and Eastern Seaboard ports, the Great Lakes and the Far East. These ships presently account for about 33 percent of Israel's exports and 28 percent of her import trade. They carry 85 percent of all passengers travelling to and from Israel.

Illusion and Disillusion

(Last week this entire space was devoted to consigning the Red Sox and White Sox, in that order, to the bottom of the first division. Comes now the reasoning behind my pick of the Tigers to finish second, and why they might give the Yankees quite a run for the pennant.)

The Tigers

Just a year ago, the Detroit club was the darling of the experts, most of whom predicted great things for Jack's Tighers. This column said they had nothing. The team flopped, rolled over and died. So now the experts can't see the Tigers at all; but I think they are the only team in the American League that can possibly extend or beat the Yankees — and if you read last week's opus, you'll recall I rated them a strong second.

Detroit is said to be loaded with question marks, therefore is too unreliable for serious contenders. I'm inclined to pound some of those question marks into exclamation points—most of them emphasizing strong points of the Tigers.

Any analysis of Tighe's Tigers has to be broken down into three major categories — The management, the ball park, the players. Let's take them in that order.

The Management

The field manager, Jack Tighe, is an extraordinarily astute baseball observer. His expressed opinions, his daring, yet intelligent shuffling of players, are comparable to those of Casey Stengel in his early years with the Yankees. I've read a lot of the things Tighe has said. Most of the time I find myself considering his quotes carefully and agreeing with him.

It is said that Tighe gambled by pushing Harvey Kuenn to the outfield and installing Billy Martin at shortstop. Gambled? No, I would say the word should be "experimented". It was no gamble at all! Suppose that Kuenn fails in the pasture. No problem—Harvey always could go back to short, and such as Johnny Groth could go out to center. And if Martin cannot play short and Kuenn can't, either, Milt Bolling is a highly competent shortstop, defensively, and Martin has played both second and third on championship teams. No loss of efficiency, no lack of suitable personnel, no real slowdown of the pennant drive.

For these, and other reasons, then, I am very high on Tighe, and on the intelligent Detroit front office.

The Ball Park

Briggs Stadium is made to order for these rampant Tigers. The fences are convenient — shorter in general than almost any other park in the league. Did you think it an accident or a coincidence that hitters like Ted Williams and Yogi Berra consider Briggs Stadium their favorite hitting park? A moderately deep fly here lands in the upper deck.

Well, the Tigers have the ideal team for such surroundings. Kalline, Boone, Bolling, Maxwell, Hegan, Martin and Kuenn become dangerous sluggers here. Billy, who used to aim for the fences at Yankee Stadium, should go as high as 20 homers this year — maybe a lot more.

Because of their home surroundings, the Tigers have a fine chance to lead their league in hitting and in home runs — and that straightens out a few more question marks.

The Players

Several of the Tigers are underrated and overlooked when question marks are being tagged on to the Briggsadiers. Frank Bolling, the second baseman, for one. Frank is a deadly hitter, who seems to be most dangerous in clutch situations. He hits a mighty long ball mighty often. So is old man Jim Hegan dangerous in the clutch, despite his low average. Besides, he is just what the Tiger pitchers need. Kuenn, ousted from his infield post, is frisky as a colt in center, has his confidence fully restored by the gathering proof that his manager knows what he is doing, and is depending on him to adjust to the new job.

And that bench! Do you realize that Detroit can throw Gus Zernial and Lou Skizas and Earl Torgeson into the breach—just to name three?

The pitching staff is solid, if not the deepest in the league. I think you'll find at season's end that Lary, Bunning, Hoeft, Foytack and Morgan have better records (both won-lost and earned run) than the top five of the highly touted White Sox. Hoeft and Lary, in particular, should be outstanding. Don't expect much from rookie Shaw; he may have worked himself out in winter ball (he won 16 games).

The Tigers have taken to their new leader, Billy Martin, like ducks to water. Such a club can overcome many of its faults with the kind of spirit and enthusiasm that is being generated under the amazing Martin.

The Yankees

With the Yanks there are no weaknesses — of player personnel, that is; but there are handicaps for the team to overcome. First among these is the mammoth Yankee Stadium, where alone of all parks the fences have not been brought in. To point out this handicap is also to show the Yanks' strength; for despite the harmful effect the huge Stadium has on the players' batting averages, this team still led its league (Continued on Page 15)

Predicts That U.S. Jewish Population Will Drop

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The number of Jews in the United States will drop below 5,000,000 by 1975 and their percentages within the entire population will decline by nearly one-third, Dr. Arthur T. Jacobs, administrative secretary of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, declared here last week at the five-day meeting of the National Association of Temple Secretaries of the Reform movement.

Drawing on a recent Federal Census Bureau survey of the population, Dr. Jacobs said that while Protestants and Catholics were increasing in numbers and percentages, Jews were failing to maintain their own position and would, in less than 20 years, decline from 3.5% of the population to 2.2%.

The Census Bureau's survey was the first in which a representative population sample was asked: "What is your religion?"

Other than increasing the birth rate, Dr. Jacobs pointed out, two possibilities exist for increasing the number of Jews: through immigration or conversion of Christians. He said large-scale Jewish immigration was "beyond the realm of our expectations" but replacement of the McCarran-Walter Act by a "decent immigration law" might swell the "present trickle of Jewish immigration into a small stream."

'Depends on Rabbis'

Dr. Jacobs expressed the opinion that there are hundreds of thousands of nominal Christians who would find Reform Judaism a "satisfying religion," but it could not come about "unless our rabbis come to believe it necessary and are given time and tools to do the job," he said.

He noted that population statistics highlighted another important congregational problem — service to aging Jews. The latest statistics, he pointed out, showed that over 37% of American Jews were past 45 and that there were already an excess of 43,000 Jewish women over Jewish men in the age groups past 65. He warned that unless the Reform congregations became "sensitive to this problem," they would "either lose this older group or retain them as nominal members" but fail to serve them adequately.

Dr. Jacobs dwelt, too, on the plight of Reform synagogues which find themselves isolated in rapidly changing and deteriorating neighborhoods. While this is a prime problem of city temples, he noted, the suburban temple's face similar situations. Finally, Dr. Jacobs warned that the exploding scientific and technological forces of American society would in the coming two decades present the religious movement with untold new moral and spiritual problems.

WRITES NEW SONG
NEW YORK—Composer Murry Kopita has written a new song, "God Bless the Land of Israel," as his contribution to Israel's 10th anniversary.

CLEANLINESS IS NEXT TO OUR HEARTS

Most of the time we're pretty agreeable people... but sometimes we're cranks! And you can be glad of it! For we're downright cranks when it comes to keeping everything clean. ## Senior Citizens To Settle In Israel

NEW YORK — A plan that will enable retired American Jews to spend their "golden years" in pleasant surroundings in Israel has been brought to the United States by Zev Winer, director of Mishan, the mutual aid fund of Histadrut. Based on the principle that men and women in the over-65 age group still have the capacity to live meaningful lives, the Mishan program already covers 300 veteran Israelis. It is being expanded to accommodate about 800 elderly men and women by the end of 1958.

Situated in Jerusalem, Haifa and Holon, a suburb of Tel Aviv, Mishan's three existing Homes of the Elders are model communities where senior citizens live in dignity amid modern physical and psychological surroundings, at a pace suited to their status. Among the residents are some of the foremost pioneers of Israel, who have given their prime years to the development of the country.

A handful of retired Americans already dwell in these homes, and places will be available to new applicants. It has been found that an American can live quite comfortably on his social security income, after payment of the modest entrance fee of $1,000, or $2,000 if accompanied by his wife.

The communities are run in two different styles. The Jerusalem set-up is more individualistic, with housekeeping units for single persons or couples available at $30 per month per person. In the co-operative style, such as at Holon or Haifa, five meals are provided daily, as well as laundry service and other amenities, at a fee of $75 monthly.

American Jewish Year Book Reports More Inter-marriage

NEW YORK — Estimating that there are now 5,255,000 Jews in the United States — a slight increase over last year — the American Jewish Year Book published jointly by the American Jewish Committee and the Jewish Publication Society, reported that about 5.3% of the total Jewish population had intermarried.

"The rate of intermarriage," the report said, "tended to increase among native-born children of native-born parents, reaching a proportion of about 7.4% of the population." Surveys in three middle-sized cities show that between 77 and 83% of the Jewish population there were native born, the report stated, adding that "every passing decade sees a smaller and smaller proportion of foreign born among the Jewish population."

At the same time, the American Jewish Year Book reported that more than 80% of the total Jewish population in the United States — about 4,000,000 American Jews — are "regarded as basically within the synagogue." About 60%, or three million Jews, are formally affiliated with the synagogue and are divided about equally in their adherence to the Orthodox, Conservative and Reform branches of Judaism.

Rise in School Enrollment

Enrollment in both Jewish day and Sunday schools has doubled during the past decade, growing from 231,000 to a current total of approximately 490,000 students, the book said. The sharp increase took place during the period when the Jewish population in this country grew only by about 15 to 20%. Morris Fine is editor and Jacob Sloan, co-editor of the year book.

The year book report singled out as one of the contributory factors in growth of enrollment the "increase in the average length of time children attended Jewish schools. Based on surveys in five major cities, the report disclosed that the average length of stay had increased about 50% from about one-and-a-half years to an average mean of three years and one month. One-quarter of the children stayed in Jewish schools five years and three months, or longer.

In a report on "hate mongers' activities," the book disclosed that anti-Semitic literature has been gravitating "to certain areas of the South especially those where the resentment of white supremacists is likely to erupt in violence." The vast bulk of anti-Semitic and anti-Negro literature in the South in the past year was published by agitators from non-Southern regions. Extensive dissemination of this literature "was mainly due to the efforts of elements within the White Citizens Council movement and the Ku Klux Klan and their sympathizers who have purchased the propaganda in bulk."

In a report on world Jewish population, the book said, there is a total Jewish population of 12,350,000, a slight increase over last year. Of this number, about half — some six million Jews — live in North and South America, about 3,466,000 live in Europe, while Asia has about 1,855,000. Some 585,000 Jews reside in Africa. About 61,000 are in Australia and New Zealand.

Criticizes Israeli Writers' Subjects

TEL AVIV — Modern Hebrew literature is "detached from the urgent problems of the State of Israel," Prime Minister David Ben Gurion declared last week in a letter to the Israeli Writers Conference which convened here at the new Israeli Writers House here, named after the late, famous poet, Saul Tchernichovsky.

Modern literature in this country, Ben Gurion wrote, "has not echoed the revolutionary and fateful event of the ingathering of a million Jews." The Premier told the writers he would not "dare" tell them what their intellectual contribution should be but he would "allow" himself to present the question as to whether modern literature is identifying itself with the subjects "most fateful to the State."

Ben Gurion also pointed out that too small a percentage of Oriental Jews in this country are studying in the higher institutions of learning here.

Sees No Rebirth Of Nazi Feelings

LONDON — Neither informed Jewish nor German opinion views the Ludwig Zind case as indicative of a resurgence of anti-Semitism in Germany, the Daily Telegraph reported in a dispatch this week from its Bonn correspondent.

The reported noted that from time to time "relatively minor" expressions of anti-Semitism occur in bars and the offenders are treated "with comparative severity" by the German courts. It cited a recent three-week jail sentence for a German who shouted anti-Semitic remarks during the showing of an anti-fascist film and a two-week term for a disabled German war veteran who had shouted anti-Jewish insults at a Jewish colleague in the course of a personal argument.

The Bonn correspondent quoted Dr. H. G. van Dam, secretary general of the Central Council of Jews in Germany, as stating that suspended schoolteacher Zind was a "pathological and untypical case." Nevertheless, it was disturbing, the Jewish leader told the correspondent, that Zind was permitted to hold his teaching post.

German opinion varies, the dispatch pointed out, and though sympathy in Offenburg was with Zind, "enlightened opinion" in Germany considers the sentence just and necessary to reaffirm Germany's reformed character to the world. Enlightened Germans, including Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, are "painfully anxious to make amends to the Jews. They feel their record on restitution is good," the Daily Telegraph report concluded.

in hitting last year, and by a comfortable six points.

Put the Yanks in the Detroit ball park for 77 home games, and there would be no pennant race at all. This is a collection of real long ball hitters who cannot possibly show to their best advantage when they play at home. In fact, the club is always happy to go on the road after a long home stand. This is fact, not my imagination.

Another major handicap is one that goes with so much success. The Yankees face better pitching day by day than any team in history ever did before. Every club in the league saves its best hurlers—or those who give New York the most trouble—to throw against them. This, too, of course is ruinous on a team's hitting. No other team gets to face so many really good pitchers so often.

A third handicap is the manager, Casey Stengel. I am alone in this opinion. Casey is getting old, and sick. He is not at all well, and had a rough spring, although nothing was said of it in the press. Up to now the Yanks have managed to keep it a secret, or at least, well played down.

A manager who is not well cannot but hurt his team. In his pain and his weariness, he will make mistakes that he would not make when well and alert.

For example—in his early years with the Yankees, Casey scorned the Fenway wall and ridiculed clubs that loaded up on right hand hitters to take advantage of it.

Now, though, Casey has gone back. He cannot resist the Wall, and he loads his lineup with any and all right handers. Seldom does the maneuver succeed. The Yanks win their share in Boston, but not because of the dents they put in the Wall. They simply make it easier for the Sox right hand pitchers.

These three handicaps are mentioned because they can adversely affect the Yankees. Play-erwise, the team has no weaknesses. There is so much talent that not even injuries can bother them.

Jim Coates, the Richmond pitcher, stopped the Red Sox cold the day before the season started. Zack Munroe did not allow a single run throughout spring training. These two are ready to pitch big league ball, but cannot crack the solid staff in Yankee Stadium. Johnny Blanchard, American Association's leading catcher last year, is back in the minors. Simply no room for him. Dick Sanders, a third baseman-outfielder, is a terrific hitter who outclassed Harry Anderson by a wide margin in the minors. Anderson is a star with the talent-hungry Phils. Sanders can't even get a chance to make the Yanks.

New York is so strong that where to play Kubeck every day is a problem; and how to give Elston Howard and slugger Marv Throneberry some work is another.

The only hope the American League has is that the ganging up on the Yanks and the team's handicaps in its own park will slow up the perennial champs enough for a spirited, rollicking, heavy-hitting pack of Tigers to make things interesting—and possibly sneak through to win the pennant.

They are the only club capable of beating New York out of the pennant—should the Yanks stumble, and the Tigers go along at top speed all year.

But it doesn't figure to happen.

Propaganda Sparks Demonstration

GAZA STRIP — Spurred on by propaganda from Cairo, thousands of Palestinian refugees engaged in a wild demonstration against Jordan's King Hussein here last week. A refugee leader, Sheikh Abdullah Abou Setta, called for the entrance of Col. Nasser's United Arab Republic troops into the strip.

A general strike of the entire town of Khan Yunis lasted for several hours as an estimated 10,000 demonstrators denounced Hussein and his army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Habes Majali. The crowd shouted its support of the UAR in front of the house of the city's governor.

The Cairo radio and press have been engaged in a heated attack against Hussein for several days, charging that he has tried to turn the Arab refugees against the UAR. They also charged that Hussein was going to hand over Mt. Scopus to Israel. It was also felt that the Egyptians were trying to start a chain reaction among the refugees on the other side of Israel in Jordan.

Meanwhile, Lebanon, one of the most pro-Western of the Arab states, faced a possible civil war sparked by pro-Nasser elements, as protests increased against the policies of Dr. Charles Malik, looked on by his opponents as the "pro-American" foreign minister. Lebanese troops in the north of the country were guarding against possible tribal attacks supported by Syrians.

Urges Repayment To Nazi Victims

LONDON — A plea for Austrian Government recognition of its responsibility toward Jewish victims of the Nazis was voiced recently by Barnett Jannet, president of the Board of Deputies of British Jews, at a meeting of the board.

He noted that 20 years after the "Anschluss" of Nazi Germany and Austria, when the Austrian population had welcomed and cooperated with the Nazis, nothing had been done to "remedy the wrongs inflicted upon the Jews." He pointed out that the German Government claimed it was not responsible for Nazi doings in Austria, while the Austrian Government conveniently forgot the popular Austrian acceptance of the Nazi regime.

The Council of Jews from Austria in Britain condemned the Austrian Parliament for its failure in 13 years to pass "any comprehensive law to indemnify Jews from Austria" for wrongs suffered during the Nazi regime in that country.

Acting on the twentieth anniversary of the establishment of the Nazi regime in Austria, the organization declared that "a considerable proportion of the Austrian people, by reason of its conduct before, during and after" the Nazi regime, was "responsible for it and for the ensuing persecution of Austrian Jews."

The resolution also emphasized that provisions for Nazi victims in the Austrian state treaty of June 1955 had not been put into effect and measures taken so far by the Austrian Government, "welcome as they are, represent an entirely insufficient beginning of a solution."

Israel Remains Best Customer

OTTAWA — Israel retained in 1957 its position as Canada's best customer in the Middle East, data published by the Canadian Bureau of Statistics revealed. It established that Canada's export trade to Israel during the year amounted to more than $5,000,000. Total export figures for Turkey, Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Iran, Iraq, Arabia and Jordan from Canada equalled $8,178,000.

As in previous years, Canadian wheat was the leading product purchased by Israel. Some 1,307,000 bushels of wheat were sold for a total of $2,118,845.
