Re-Elect Max Winograd As Head Of Jewish Home For The Aged

Max Winograd was re-elected for his fourth term as president of the Jewish Home for the Aged at the twenty-sixth annual meeting which was held at the Home on Nov. 16.

Other officers who were re-elected include Alexander Rumpel, Irving I. Pain and Maurice Fox, vice-presidents; Charles Brier, treasurer; Samuel Michaelson, assistant treasurer; Dudley J. Block, financial secretary, and Morris S. Waldman, recording secretary. Mrs. Saul Seigle, president of the Ladies Association, was also elected as an officer.

Trustees Re-elected

All present trustees were re-elected. Added to the number of trustees were Joseph Engle, Mrs. Max Leach, Samuel Malkin, Irving L. Shein, Sol J. Schiff, Mitchell Sherwin and Morton Smith.

District representatives who were reelected are Herman N. Silverman, East Greenwich; Mrs. Max Adelson and Edwin Josephson, Newport; Herbert Pansy and Ben Sinel, Pawtucket; Max Margolis, West Warwick; Arthur I. Darman, Benjamin M. Falk, Philip J. Macktez, Israel Medoff, and Samuel J. Medoff. Additional representative for the Woonsocket area is Paul Bernon and for Westerly, Philip R. Leibovitz.

Jacob I. Felder, honorary president, reported for the nominating committee and Joseph Ress installed the officers and members of the board of trustees.

Reports Deficit

Maurice Fox, chairman of the budget committee, reported that the expenses for the year ending Sept. 30, 1958, amounted to $212,833. Depreciation of building and equipment came to $22,897. Income was $216,282, leaving a deficit of $19,442.

Mr. Winograd, in his annual report said "our policy now includes the admission and care of the chronically ill, the physically handicapped, the feeble and the distraught, many of whom are bed-ridden and crippled." He continued "we are now planning the establishment of special quarters in the Home building as a department of physical therapy and rehabilitation. This department will require much additional equipment and will be operated on a much larger scale than heretofore. It will provide greater attention to the needs of our residents in this aspect of their ailments."

134 Live in Home

Max Alexander, executive director, reported the present population of the home at 134 which is an all-time high.

Despite enlarging the infirmary to 56 beds, this number is already insufficient "and unless we can expand the number of available beds, the applicants who are in need of infirmary care will have to wait until a vacancy occurs," Mr. Alexander said.

Mrs. Ben Poulten, retiring president of the Ladies Association said that $26,000 was contributed to the home during the past year.

Present Plaque

A plaque was presented to Samuel Rosen in appreciation of his work as chairman of the 1957 Silver Anniversary committee.

The audience stood in silence out of respect for deceased board members, Jacob Berkelhammer and Saul E. R. Feinberg.

Rabbi Abraham I. Jacobson of Temple Beth David gave the invocation and the benediction was given by Rabbi Jacob Freedman of Temple Beth Shalom. Mrs. Samuel Ganzner served as hostess at the social hour which followed the meeting.

Propaganda Grows In United States

WASHINGTON — Anti-Israel propaganda activities are mounting in the United States, according to a new study released here by the American Zionist Committee for Public Affairs.

A committee memorandum predicted "in the coming months there will be propaganda pressure for an Arab-Israel 'solution' — concessions by Israel to appease Arab appetites."

The memorandum described Israel as a special target of the Arabs in their anti-Western drive. It called for a U.S. policy strengthening militarily and economically "the free world family in the Near East." Members of this family were listed as including Jordan and Lebanon as well as Israel, Turkey, Iran, Sudan, Ethiopia and Tunisia. "Military aid should be given where their commitment to democracy and to peace is beyond challenge," said the memorandum.

The memorandum called for firmer commitments on existing frontiers, regional development, resistance of appeasement tendencies, preservation of oil resources from UAR - domination, and facilitation of Arab-Israel peace through denial of one-way concession at Israel expense.

Braude, host rabbi, will lead in the benediction and grace after meals. Benjamin Efron, chairman of the School Council, will preside.

Says Discrimination In New Hampshire Worse

CONCORD, N. H. — New Hampshire's record of discrimination has become worse in the past decade, witnesses appearing before the New Hampshire Advisory Committee of Civil Rights revealed.

The agency, directed by Richard F. Upton of this city, is acting as an advisory agency of the United States Committee on Civil Rights in order to establish the facts concerning the extent of discrimination in New Hampshire.

Jason R. Silverman of Newton, Mass., Counsel for the New England Regional office of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, was invited by the Committee to consult with it and lend it advice based upon the many studies and exhaustive files assembled by the League.

Mr. Silverman revealed to the Committee:

1. that 51% of New Hampshire resorts pursue a discriminatory policy.

2. over 100 case examples were in the hands of the ADL and would be filed with the Committee evidencing blatant expressions of discrimination like "Hebrew patronage not solicited," "we do not accommodate Jewish Clientele."

3. that public and legislative apathy lends a negative climate conducive to continued discrimination.

4. that increased Negro personnel at the military bases brought corresponding difficulty for Negro servicemen as well as Jews.

5. that the Federal Constitution was being violated at Hampton Beach by a policy of property leases which bar "Americans of Jewish persuasion, Americans with dark skin and Americans of Greek descent."

6. that a "restricted white colony" was being established in Munsonville, New Hampshire.

7. that citizens of French-Canadian descent meet employment discrimination in the building trades.

Mr. Silverman pointed out that the League had worked with many law enforcement offices and found them most cooperative but their efforts were retarded by the lack of anti-discrimination laws in the state.

Supporting Mr. Silverman's testimony were Abraham Bresnick and Karl Heuman, both of Manchester. Mr. Bresnick is the New Hampshire state B'nai B'rith social action chairman and Mr. Heuman is the state president of B'nai B'rith. Each described the well organized program of B'nai B'rith and its efforts over a 12 year period to arouse public opinion towards corrective action. They revealed that hundreds of individual complaints have been received by them during this period.

Also appearing before the Advisory group were representatives from Negro and Catholic groups. Rev. Francis Curran of Keene described personal insults he received as a result of his support of anti-discrimination laws. He urged that the committee seek adoption of anti-discrimination laws for New Hampshire.

Representatives for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People appeared and testified that the growing Negro population in New Hampshire, mostly military, has brought with it many problems.

Prime Minister MacMillan Pays Public Tribute To Israel

LONDON — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, in an unprecedented public tribute to Israel, recently hailed "the qualities of energy, social and scientific progress and sheer physical achievement" recorded by Israel in the first decade of Statehood. He spoke before a distinguished dinner audience of British leaders.

In an impromptu remark after the dinner, Macmillan said that "never have relations between Israel and the United Kingdom been better since the establishment of the State."

Macmillan, joined by Labor chief Hugh Gaitskill and Liberal party leader Jo Grimmond, paid tribute to Ambassador Eliahu Elath of Israel. The British political leaders spoke at a banquet at Grosvenor House sponsored by the Board of Deputies of British Jews in observance of Israel's 10th anniversary and as a personal tribute to the Ambassador. Macmillan's participation represented the first time in many years that a Prime Minister had so honored an Ambassador not leaving his post.

In his address, the Prime Minister said that in this year, when Israel was celebrating its 10th anniversary, "even its critics must concede these qualities."

Surveying the Middle East, Macmillan said "the real and vital need of all the Arab peoples, which I would list as peace, economic progress and social development, can easily be affected by political and propaganda excitement but I am persuaded that all people of the Middle East yearn for stability and growth."

Recalling the visit by Mrs. Golda Meir, Israel's Foreign Minister to London, Macmillan deplored the fact that he was absent from London at the time. He stressed that the result of Mrs. Meir's visit was that "a good many misunderstandings have been removed and a great deal of suspicion and doubt have been cleared up."

Recommend Special UJA Rescue Fund

JERUSALEM — A special rescue fund to help bring Jews to Israel from Eastern Europe was recommended here by a United Jewish Appeal mission. The money would be raised during 1959, in addition to the regular U. J. A. campaign.

At least 30,000 immigrants are expected by Israel during the next six months. A large part of these will be from Eastern Europe, where restrictions on emigration to Israel have been eased.

Israel's immigrant absorption plans for the year did not originally include these people.

$450,000 Reached In GJC Campaign

The 1958 campaign of the General Jewish Committee has reached the $450,000 mark.

Henry J. Hassenfeld, GJC
president, and Joseph K. Levy, general campaign chairman, who announced the new total today, added that this still leaves the drive $116,000 short of last year's total.

While the cards being turned in are showing good results, they said the campaign is lagging because of slow card coverage. Mr. Hassenfeld and Mr.
Levy urged all workers to concentrate on solicitations the next week and turn in the completed results to GJC leaders without delay.

A pre-Thanksgiving Day report luncheon will be held on Wednesday at the GJC headquarters in downtown Providence.

HENRY BRILL, President

59 ATWELLS AVENUE, Providence

GAspee 1-5812

"ROOST-NO-MORE" is a harmless gelatin compound that birds find very disagreeable underfoot. It is applied only to natural landing places, such as cornices, ledges, window sills, and gutter edges. The birds are effectively prevented from roosting up to one year. Since birds are creatures of habit, they therefore rarely return to a building that once has been treated.

"ROOST-NO-MORE" has been used successfully on thousands of buildings in the New England area. A few of the more prominent ones are

- * City Hall, Boston, Mass.
- * N.E. Telephone and Telegraph Co., Prov.
- * Citizens Savings Bank, Providence

* Unsolicited letters of recommendation are on file in our office, and are available for your inspection.

Norman Atkins

To Feature Baritone At Chanukah Festival

Norman Atkins, baritone, will be the featured performer at the Chanukah Music Festival sponsored by the South Side Jewish Community Center on Sunday evening, Nov. 30 at the Gilbert Stuart Junior High School.

Dr. Abraham Schwartz, chairman of the affair, has announced that the 30 voice Temple Beth El Choral Society and the Providence Israeli Dance Group will also perform.

Mr. Atkins has had a distinguished career since winning the Young Artist Award of the Jewish Center Lecture Bureau in 1948. His versatility and talent have won him acclaim from critics and audiences alike for his performance on the concert stage, T.V., radio and musical comedy. Mr. Atkins possesses a vast repertoire of Jewish music.

Tickets for the concert are now on sale and may be obtained from members of the ticket-selling committee, at either Center building, or at Axelrod's Music Store.

Don't fret over hotel reservations, let the Herald Travel Bureau make them for you, free of any charges. Call PL 1-6498.

The camp program as stated in my previous article should reflect the camp philosophy. It must therefore, take place in an atmosphere as free of tension as possible and with certain worth-while goals in view.

A boys' camp without competitive games would be dull to most children, thus the usual games like baseball, softball, basketball, etc. on first-class facilities should be offered. Greater stress however, should be placed on sports with "carryover" value, such as swimming, tennis, golf, sailing, water skiing and the like, sports that will serve the camper when he is no longer a boy. All campers, regardless of athletic ability must be encouraged to participate in these.

Camp should provide opportunities for cultural development through such media as dramatics, creative arts, and music. Contacts with nature through well planned trips and outdoor explorations are part of a well rounded camp program. Swimming and boating instruction in a safe and professionally supervised area is a must. To help promote individual growth a hobby program giving each child an opportunity to concentrate on those things he prefers to do should be an integral part of camp.

CAMP MENDOTA operates along the lines indicated above. This article outlines the program briefly. I would be happy to discuss this in greater detail with you. Please call JOE SCHEIN GA 1-3943 or write 95 Freeman Parkway, Prov. R. I.

Christmas-Chanukah Again

By BERYL SEGAL

By MORRIS N. KERTZER

Tokyo's Jewish population consists of 150 families, of whom 110 belong to the Jewish Community Center. As in other parts of the world, Jews in Hong Kong, New Delhi and Tokyo are clustered institutionally, largely for social and cultural reasons. The Tokyo Center has many of the marks of a Jewish country club. Staffed by no less than 35 people, the club boasts of superb dining and recreational facilities. Sitting at an umbrella-covered patio table on a July evening, you imagine that you are dining at the Tavern-on-the-Green in New York's Central Park, except that you are enjoying blintzes and sour cream while you look below at the attractive swimming pool.

Next evening, while you sit in the last row of the synagogue, a backward glance into the foyer causes your eyes to fall on the bar, with two attendants. It may seem incongruous for a minyan of Jews to be praying and fasting on Tisha b'Av, the Day of Lamentation, while others enjoy a whisky and soda; or to join a group chanting songs and eating gefulte fish at the kosher table, while a few feet away another group will be playing gin rummy. But the Center, after much travail, has determined to be all things to all Jews.

The building and spacious grounds were acquired a few years ago, when Tokyo was still licking its bomb wounds inflicted by Doolittle's B-29's, and their value has increased 1,000 percent. I would hazard the guess that each member has an equity of over $5,000 in the real estate alone.

The Tokyo community is constituted almost entirely of Russian Jews, who formerly lived in Shanghai, Tientsin, and the Manchurian cities of Dairen and Mukden. They are successful importers and exporters, and find their relaxation in being together, enjoying Jewish food, conversing in Russian and Yiddish, and playing cards. Here, as in many such communities, the bridge table is the main hallmark of Jewish life. The attractive library has many books, but almost none of Jewish content. I was tempted to change the sign at the gateway to read: Tokyo Jewish-Style Community Center.

Religious life was probably enhanced by the arrival of a rabbi from England, in time for the High Holy Days of 1958. He is Orthodox, and his lot will not be an easy one, faced, as he will be, with the task of reconciling different outlooks. No Jewish community is too small for the widest sort of religious spectrum. One of my tablemates at the Tokyo Center, quoting liberally from the Talmud, informed me that he had been boycotting the religious services for over a year — and was adopting a "wait and see" attitude about the new rabbi.

On one Friday evening in August, half of the worshippers were non-Jewish Japanese; among them, the now famous Professor Kobayashi, Shlomo Nishiyama, and a 21-year old girl, Nabuko Uchida. Each of the three represents a different aspect of the newly discovered interest in Judaism among the Japanese.

Much has been written about Professor Masayuki Kobayashi, professor of European history in of the holiday. It does not require a holy convocation or cessation of work as the other holidays do.

There is no more reason why the American public school should mark the war of the Maccabees against the Greco-Syrian armies, and the liberation of Judea than there is for the celebration of the battle of Waterloo, and the defeat of Napoleon.

Christmas, on the other hand, has come to be a national holiday. It is a mood of the season of the year. It is part of American culture. The public school would be untrue to itself if it were to shut its doors to this season of song, of color, of legend, and of high moral pitch that pervades the air of the land. Teachers and students alike will tell you that the Christmas celebrations in the school have no intimation of religiosity in them. It is American folklore.

These celebrations have no greater relation to the Christian faith than the programs of carol singing on radio and television, or the reading of Charles Dickens' Christmas story at this time of the year, or the Christmas decorations in the department stores and public squares.

The current issue of the Reconstructionist carries an article by Arthur Gilbert entitled "The Season of Good Will and Inter-Religious Tension". I urge you to read it. It presents cases of inter-religious tensions caused by this Christmas-Chanukah confusion. Read it and think about it. After telling about the unpleasant tensions created in many communities, especially in the suburbs, the author poses the question: Will the battle always be worth the war? Are we to risk good community relations because of a notion that has no logical basis?

Good Christian parents will not be satisfied with the Christmas programs presented in the school auditorium. They will bring in the holiday spirit into their homes. It is at home that the religious fervor of the season will be impressed on the heart and mind of the child.

So must the Jewish parent do with Chanukah. Do not throw it all in the lap of the public school. Chanukah, like the Sabbath and all the other holidays, belongs to the home. If you are sincerely concerned about the observance of the holidays, then illumine your homes with the light of the festivals and fill your homes with their spirit. Then and only then you will have no fear of your child singing the Christmas carols or your daughter playing the part of Mary.

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

CALIFORNIA REJECTS TAX

LOS ANGELES — California voters decisively rejected a proposition to reinstate a property tax on private and parochial schools which presumably would also have applied to the Jewish schools in the state.

Judaism in Japan

Japan's largest college, Waseda University. I met with him frequently and I learned that his concern for Jews was both academic — getting the historical facts straight — and in community relations. He ardently sought a saner and healthier attitude of the Japanese toward Jews and Judaism. As Professor Kublin and Rabbi Max Eichhorn have written, the professor learned about the Jewish plight through his European studies in which he concentrated upon minority problems. Since his field was that of religious toleration, it was natural, he said, that "I turned eventually to the history of the Jewish people as the most typical minority in world history." One of his teachers Professor Kazutami Ukita, a Yale alumnus, a famous publicist of a generation ago, once told him that "the most rational religion in the world was Judaism."

Professor Kobayashi was incensed at the rise of anti-Semitism among Japan's intellectuals (the masses have never heard of Jews or Judaism), and he traced the disease to Nazi propaganda that had been superimposed on Czarist teachings, which included the spread of the anti-Semitic forgery known as the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion."

Pleasant associations with American Jewish military personnel, especially chaplains, and through them with some outstanding Jewish literature, strengthened Professor Kobayashi's resolve to become a one-man public-relations agency on behalf of Judaism. He has mastered enough Hebrew to feel at home with the traditional prayerbook, and probably has a record of regular synagogue attendance since 1952 to match the most observant Jew. He loves "the delicious Hebrew melodies of the Rosh Hashana service." He finds in Jewish teachings "besides high ethical teachings, a kind of sane rationalism and elasticity which I couldn't find in Christianity." What he admired most in Jews was "the firm and self-confident attitude that they could hold even after the greatest disaster they suffered over these twenty centuries."

Dr. Kobayashi's major ambition today is to make available the treasures of Judaism to the Japanese-reading world. The visit of Dr. Maurice N. Eisendrath to Japan, early in 1958, an exciting event in Dr. Kobayashi's life, brought promises of a steady stream of religious literature, which has already begun to arrive. He has translated some of Professor Harry Orlinsky's works into his native tongue, and is now engaged in a Japanese edition of this writer's book, "What is a Jew."

Shlomo (formerly, Shigeru) Nishiyama is a personable young man, who is about to become a resident of an Israeli kibbutz. At worship I noticed that he followed the Hebrew text. He is director of the Japan-Israel Association, whose main concerns center on relations between the Japanese and Israeli peoples rather than on Judaism.

(To be concluded next week)

DENY RUMORS

JERUSALEM — Informed sources here denied recently persistent reports from Washington that the United States had "warned" Israel against taking action against the Kingdom of Jordan. The Arab States have been asserting that Israel intended to attack Jordan following withdrawal of the British troops there and to annex the Jordan-held territory on the west bank of the Jordan River.

Much MORE life insurance at much LOWER cost

Sun Life's new Family Security Benefit can give the family man a lot more life insurance when he needs it most. This is extra life insurance at low cost.

Family Security Benefit, available with the purchase of new insurance on certain standard plans, provides extra protection up to twice the amount of the basic policy. For example a new $5,000 policy on the Life Paid Up At 90 Plan entitles you to include as much as $10,000 extra insurance at a low rate.

Family Security Benefit need not run out. It can be continued to age 65 by renewal every five years and it can also be converted at any time until age 57 into permanent life insurance — without evidence of good health.

Let me give you full particulars of this new benefit.

Off Season Gossip

Baseball is now rated as a year-round sport, with its winter activities commanding a goodly share of the sports pages. But it is the little noted, off-beat items that sometimes turn up that make life worthwhile during the hibernating period between the World Series and spring training.

For instance, there's the story of Milt Pappas, Baltimore's sensational rookie hurler, a bonus baby, who picked up quite a bundle of green cabbage when he signed. Late last season the kid was offered a substantial salary boost by the Orioles' president, Pappas said no, thanks — "I don't want to get into the $30,000 class too soon."

Less amusing is the note about a player who was a major league star just one year ago. Now he has been turned loose for potential buyers in baseball's draft, which comes up shortly.

Bob Hazle was not highly regarded in the Milwaukee farm system when he was called up by General Manager John Quinn in mid-season of 1957. In fact, no major league club had thought enough of his chances to pick him up on the draft list the previous winter. Yet Quinn saw something that impelled him to call Hazle up ahead of other more promising Braves' outfielders.

Bob clicked right away, hit over .400 for the rest of the year, and was a holy terror who did much to propel the Braves to the pennant. He was helpful in the World Series, too, as the Braves won the title. Now, one year later, Hazle apparently is through. He is on the Charleston roster, and Milwaukee doesn't care whether he is drafted or not.

Red Sox in the News

Hold your hats! Unbelievable news comes from Boston, the land of the untouchable kingdom of Cronin's Cronies. The portly general manager himself says that he has made several trade propositions to other American League teams.

Sensational news! Cheers! Huzzah! Only one thing wrong — Joe is still waiting for replies. In other words, his propositions are not exactly raising the blood pressure of any other general manager in the league. And the line has not yet formed — to the right or elsewhere. Depending on the point of view, it still looks like a long winter.

On the subject of trades, here is an item which should amaze everyone. It really sounds unbelievable. Most American League clubs, it is said, prefer to deal with the Yankees' George Weiss than with any other (including Frank Lane), despite Weiss' reputation for shrewdness. One owner, who is not named in the story I read, had this to say:

"Weiss and the Yankees are extremely fair in their dealings. They give you value for value and don't insult you by offering garbage for your best players."

This latter is said to be the principal reason for Cronin's usual inability in the trade marts.

Important Red Sox note: Billy Consolo is out of the Army, for physical reasons, and will be available for spring training a few months hence. This means that very shortly we will be hearing from Mike Higgins that Consolo will be given a complete and thorough trial at shortstop. Happens every year; why should 1959 be any different?

And here's a note of even more importance. Higgins may be unable to include Willard Nixon among his staff of starting pitchers. This, as you know, has long been a time-honored custom in Boston. Willard has real trouble with his arm, and doesn't know whether it will come back before spring training. He was unable to pitch during most of the past season.

For years — ever since he first came up — Nixon has had little but potential, but lots of that. Now, even his potential is slipping!

And finally, as far as Red Sox notes are concerned, here is a direct quote from a column written by a Washington columnist. It appears here without further comment.

"A couple of Red Sox players privately think Boston could be a pennant contender if the boys had a bit more discipline . . . The 'too-easy' charge was hurled at Manager Mike Higgins when he was rehired before the end of the season . . . However, when Boston finished third, the critics were silenced . . . Still, a couple of Boston players maintain their teammates are interested only in collecting their pay checks . . ."

Around the National League, the San Francisco Giants are favorites to win the 1959 pennant. That's right — the Braves and Pirates trail in these off-season ratings.

While the American League doesn't normally concern itself with such questions, several of the most prominent members of the Yankees are convinced that Cleveland, and not Chicago, will provide New York's major opposition next year.

Class A Baseball

Talk of a Class A baseball team coming to Rhode Island reminds me of the time the Providence Chiefs operated out of Cranston Stadium after World II. This column appeared in another newspaper at the time, and took in quite a few games. There was one in particular that sticks in my memory, mostly for just one little incident that it contained.

Buzz Boyle was managing the Chiefs at the time, and when the umpire at home plate called "Ball 3" on what everybody else knew was actually Ball 4, Boyle started to buzz. It was quite simple — somehow, the ump had lost track of the count. It can happen. So the argument raged loud and long. After all, the Chiefs had a rally going, and that base on balls could turn out to be an important one, if they got it.

The umpire walked down the line to first base, with Boyle following, and screaming at him: "Ask the base umpire!" Then the ump turned and walked back to the plate, with Buzz still yelling and asking for justice.

Up and down, back and forth, time after time, for some 20 minutes, this show went on, with the base umpire stolidly staring straight ahead midway between first and second, and the chief umpire refusing Boyle's pleas for a conference.

Finally, the Providence manager retreated to the dugout, and the game went on. The pitcher wound up and threw . . . BALL FOUR!

To Try Israeli Colonel Shadmi For 1956 Shooting Of 43 Arabs

TEL AVIV — Col. Issachar Shadmi will be tried for murder in connection with the fatal shooting of 43 Israeli Arabs by frontier policemen during a curfew two years ago, it was announced by Israeli Army headquarters.

Eight subordinates have been sentenced to between seven and seventeen years' imprisonment for the killings Oct. 29, 1956 at the village of Kafr Kassem on the Jordanian border. The incident occurred on the day the Israeli Army moved against Egypt in the Sinai Desert. Colonel Shadmi was not included in the original indictment.

The military tribunal that convicted his subordinates on Oct. 16 found that the illegal order to shoot curfew-violators had been issued by Colonel Shadmi.

Maj. Shmuel Malinki, the officer who commanded the battalion involved, said during the trial that he asked Colonel Shadmi what should be done with villagers who were returning home from the fields unaware of the curfew, and received the reply: "May Allah have mercy on their souls." Major Malinki is beginning a sentence of seventeen years.

The tribunal accepted his evidence, but found that he had extended the scope of the unlawful order to include women and children.

Colonel Shadmi is being charged with the murder of the men only. He is also being charged with having exceeded his authority.

He was on a mission to the United States when the military tribunal issued its judgment.

Syd Cohen

After all the fuss, and the delay, and the agitation, the Chiefs still got the base on balls! Insignificant, this story. But one that I always recall when I think back to that era.

It would be nice to have a baseball team again, but would it prosper? Only, I feel, if it were an outstanding team, and a winner. It's a tough proposition, and I admire those with the guts to try to make it work.

Pattern Appears In Southern Bombings

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—New York Senator Jacob K. Javits and Senator-elect Kenneth Keating, both Republicans, completing a three-day visit to Southern cities where synagogues or schools had been bombed, said that there appeared to be a definite pattern to the dynamitings. They visited Jacksonville, Fla., Atlanta, Ga., and Birmingham in fulfillment of a campaign promise by Keating.

A suggestion by Javits and Keating for Federal legislation aimed specifically at hate bombings were received coolly and Southern newspapers and politicians viewed the visit as "politics." Javits had stated earlier that they hoped to obtain information on this trip which would aid in drafting their legislation against bombings and the dissemination of hate literature.

To Study Reasons For Israeli Emigration

JERUSALEM — Minister of the Interior Israel Bar Yehuda has appointed a special committee to study the reasons motivating Jews to emigrate from Israel to overseas lands, it was disclosed recently. The committee was also charged with the task of making recommendations for the elimination of the conditions leading to emigration.

In the 10 years of Israel's existence, about 63,000 Jews emigrated legally. Several thousand more, who left Israel as tourists, have not returned to Israel and have presumably settled overseas. Since almost a million immigrants arrived in the country during the same period, the emigration amounts to about seven to eight per cent, which is regarded as much lower than the customary figure for countries of mass immigration.

Israel, however, does not consider the arrival of newcomers immigration so much as a return to the homeland and therefore considers the percentage of emigration too high.

The investigating committee will ask all applicants for emigration visas to indicate the reasons why they wish to leave Israel.

Embassy Questions Anti-Israel Office

LONDON — The Israel Embassy has approached the British Foreign Office in an effort to determine the conditions under which an Arab League anti-Israel Boycott Office has been opened in the British protectorate of Bahrain and in Kuwait. The foreign affairs office in Kuwait is directed by a British political agent.

It was reported that while British Foreign Office inquiries into the development had not been completed, both Israel and British officials here were understood to believe that the new Arab League office had a strictly symbolic value. First reports showed that the new office has neither funds nor working staff.

France, Israel Sign Trade Agreement

PARIS — A new trade agreement between France and Israel was heading for signature recently, after two weeks of negotiations, providing for a 10% increase in volume of Israel exports which will reach a total of $11 million by the end of 1959.

Under the pact, France for the first time will purchase irrigation equipment from Israel and will boost imports of Israeli citrus and peanuts. France also agreed to give Israel a loan of five billion francs.

TO ATTEND N.E.C. MEETING
Abraham Goldstein, commander of the Department of R. I. Jewish War Veterans of the U. S., and Samuel Wilk, national executive committeeman, will attend the N. E. C. meeting in Washington, D. C. on Nov. 22 and 23. Appointments of national officers will take place at this meeting. Included on the agenda will be a report on the J. W. V. action taken on the current distribution of "hate" literature and the recent series of bombings of Synagogues and Temples.

PROCLAMATION

THANKSGIVING DAY

By Dennis J. Roberts

Governor

As autumn, Nature's season of maturity, of spectacular beauty; of glorious abundance, gradually draws to a close in this year 1958, we, the inhabitants of the United States of America, gratefully look forward to a day of thanksgiving, a time when the entrance of God into our homes, our hearts, and our thoughts, humbles, yet strengthens us. On this day we meditate on the comparatively short, yet rich history of our cherished nation; we thank Him for the myriad blessings that enrich our lives today; and we pray that His love, guidance, and mercy will forever sustain all righteous people.

Faith in the benevolence of the Lord enabled our Pilgrim forefathers to lay the foundation of the leading nation in the world today—our nation—America. As our country developed, its builders, its people, became more and more diverse in nationality and background; yet all were united by one common goal—the construction of a society in which all men are considered equal, share equal opportunities, and enjoy equal rights as free citizens. Let us thank God for the perseverance, valor, and wisdom which enabled these men to develop such a society.

Today we American citizens enjoy the religious and political freedoms that flow through every root of our country's structure. America abounds with social benefits for those who seek them. Rich soil, abundant natural resources, a fine educational system, a high standard of living, ever-broadening paths to new knowledge—let us not take these blessings for granted. Let us look to God with prayer, humility, and gratitude. Let us seek His assistance in destroying those evils of social injustice, bigotry, and intolerance that often seep through the walls of righteousness. Let us praise Him for our innumerable blessings that are manifestations of His love. Let us pray for the wisdom and strength to preserve and enhance goodness on earth; AND NOW, THEREFORE, DO I, DENNIS J. ROBERTS, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS, PROCLAIM and I urge the inhabitants of this state to offer prayer and thanksgiving to God, according to their individual religious beliefs, for the love, guidance, and blessings which He has bestowed upon this nation and its people. May we seek a future blessed with peace, brotherhood, plenty, and justice for all mankind.

THURSDAY, THE 27th OF NOVEMBER, 1958, AS

THANKSGIVING DAY,

By the Governor

Governor

Secretary of State

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the State to be affixed this 25th day of November, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and fifty-eight and of Independence the one hundred and eighty-third.

Dayan Not Eager For Knesset Seat

TEL AVIV—"I am not too much interested in a seat in the Knesset," stated Moshe Dayan, former Israeli Chief of Staff, in an interview with a Davar Correspondent. Asked whether he is being considered for a ministerial post, Mr. Dayan implied that this would come about, in perhaps a year's time, and that he would consider such a development "worthwhile".

As to his future plans, Mr. Dayan stressed his resolve to concentrate on political activities among new immigrants and youth, elements which he considers the most important factors bearing on Israel's future.

Israeli Air Force Takes Pride In Achievement Over 10 Years

JERUSALEM — The Air Force of Israel is proud of its achievements. Starting from practically nothing 10 years ago, it showed its mettle in the Sinai campaign, and even before it.

The debt which Israel owes its pilots and the ground crews of the Air Force bases is longer, and although there is a longer and much cherished tradition of Israel defence on the ground, the airman does not go short of respect and regard commented the Jerusalem Post.

Praise Air Chiefs

Highest praise should go to the air chiefs of Israel for their achievement in training the personnel, both pilots and ground crews, to such good effect that ever since the Mahal foreign volunteer days, Israel planes have been piloted and maintained solely by Israel personnel, the Post added.

The enormous strain of keeping up with aviation progress, the Post observed, becomes fully evident only when one realizes the disparity of conditions here and in the Arab countries. The Arabs receive their planes, as everything else, practically for nothing. Israel has had to pay for all its aircraft, from the Austers in the War of Independence to the recently acquired jets and helicopters.

"Our pilots do not think of what they will do when they are too old to fly. Happy to be able to take to the air often enough to test their energy and zest, they live in the present, glad to be making a most vital contribution to the security of the nation," the Post stated. The Post article continues:

Future Forgotten

Ingenuity and perseverance are expected of our pilots. When the Mysteres were acquired not even the French had a clear idea of their tactical possibilities, for they had never been tried out in combat. The manner in which they were used over Sinai was partly an Israeli Air Force development.

Mahal Instruction

Training the pilots has always been the major concern of the Air Force chiefs. They fully acknowledge the debt Israel owes to volunteers from abroad — Mahalniks, as they were called during the War of Independence — but their happiest day was when the first group of locally trained airmen received their wings. Today these make up almost the entire Air Force.

Theoretically, a reservist is expected to be available for service for so many days a year in order to keep fit for emergencies. In the jet age this is no longer possible.

Senior air officers always stress the importance of signing on airmen for long periods and give them many incentives such as comfortable houses near the bases and financial assistance in furnishing them and bringing up their children. But the inducements of the civilian market are extremely great: El Al and Arkia offer good opportunities for flyers, whose wives are often a major factor in their decision to move into civvy street.

The Herald finds it necessary many times to edit or omit news releases submitted for publication. The choice of articles to be omitted is purely arbitrary. Omissions are due to lack of space.
