De Gaulle Promises Support To Israel In Case Of Need

TEL AVIV — Israel had a promise last week from President Charles De Gaulle of France of active French support if Israel again faced danger. The promise was conveyed by Guy Mollet, who was Premier of France at the time of the Suez campaign.

In a speech before a mass meeting sponsored by the Israeli-French Friendship League, Mollet said President De Gaulle had asked him to convey to Israel a message of friendship from the French nation—also that France would come to Israel's aid if Israel were endangered.

The French President also said, according to Mollet, that Israel could rely on French help in its constructive efforts. "President De Gaulle wanted the people of Israel to know that though he had not been in power during 1956, he had supported fully the French decisions on aid to Israel and on French participation in the Suez campaign," Mollet said.

Pierre Gilbert, French Ambassador to Israel, described Mollet as the "man who threw a lifeline to Israel" during the decisive Suez days.

HOLDS PARADE

TEL AVIV — Ninety jet military planes roared through Tel Aviv skies while 100 tanks rolled through the streets here in Israel's Independence Day military parade. An estimated half million Israelis, tourists and official guests watched the parade.

Eight French-built Super Mysteres and 26 French-built Vautors, took part in the first display of Israel's latest air acquisitions.

To Hold Rally For BIG Day Volunteers

A BIG Day volunteer rally, featuring a musical program, will be held Monday evening, in the Providence Journal Auditorium at 75 Fountain Street. It was announced yesterday by Martin M. Temkin and Mrs. Beryl Segal, co-chairmen of BIG Day.

On BIG Day, Sunday, June 7, men and women volunteers will visit Jewish homes throughout Providence to sell Israel Bonds. Investment funds from the Bonds are channeled into industrial development of Israel.

Entertainment star at the rally will be Mira Gilbert and her guitar, in a presentation of interpretations of folksongs from many lands. Miss Gilbert's repertoire includes folksongs sung in Hebrew, Yiddish, Tartar, English, French and Spanish.

Beth El Choral Group To Present Concert

The Temple Beth El Choral Society will present a Pops Concert on Tuesday at 8:30 P.M. in the Meeting Hall of Temple Beth El. The host group will be assisted by the Veterans' Choral Association, an all-male Negro chorus of twenty-five voices. The two groups will join for performance of selections from George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." Both groups also will sing together a Hebrew prayer, "Hashkivenu".

The Veterans' Choral Association is presently directed by James L. Fletcher, with Mrs. Linnear Horne as accompanist and Mrs. Eileen Hosley, soprano soloist. Truman A. Johnson serves as its business manager.

In addition to the special features, each singing group will present its own numbers. For the combined choruses and the Temple group's own songs, Benjamin Premack, director of the Temple Choral Society will direct, and Mrs. Beatrice Warden Roberts will be accompanist. In its own groups of songs, Mr. Fletcher will direct the Veterans' Choral Association while Mrs. Horne will be accompanist.

The committee for the Pops Concert, composed of members of the Temple Beth El Choral Society, consists of Mesdames William Bojar, chairman; Jacob Klein, tickets; Seebert J. Goldowsky and Archie M. Finkle, publicity; J. Joslyn Presser, arrangements; Stanley Grossman, refreshments; Charles Shapiro, ushers; Morris Baruch, chairman for the Sisterhood. In charge of production are Stanley Grossman, stage crew; Joseph Presel, lighting, and Mrs. Walter H. Strauss, staging.

Reports Rumania May Permit Resumption Of Migration

BUCHAREST, Rumania — Western diplomats hope the Rumanian Government will soon permit the resumption of Jewish migration to Israel on a sizable scale according to Paul Underwood in the New York Times. The movement has been down to a trickle since February.

The hopes, says Mr. Underwood, are based on a belief that the same "humanitarian consideration" that caused the Bucharest regime to facilitate the migration earlier would bring about its resumption.

Particular concern is felt for the 14,000 Jews who had made all the necessary preparations to leave but were caught by the slowdown. These people had already given up their Rumanian citizenship and disposed of their property.

People Lack Jobs

"Now they are caught hanging in mid-air," one diplomat said. "They have no jobs and no homes of their own."

Under Government regulations, emigrating Jews may leave with no more than the equivalent of 154 pounds of personal belongings.

The earlier flow of Rumanian Jews to Israel began last September. In January more than 8,000 left the country. However, news of the movement brought strong protests from the Arab countries.

The first indication of the slowdown came in a Rumanian Government statement Feb. 25 that accused Israel and "imperialist circles" of using the migration to create bad blood between the Communist camp and the United Arab Republic.

Some Still Get Permits

The statement declared that while the Government would continue "on humanitarian grounds" to allow Jews to rejoin relatives in Israel, it would do everything to dissuade them, letting them go only if they insisted.

Some Jews have continued to get exit permits, the diplomatic sources said. But almost all of these were said to have declared their intention was to join relatives in the United States or European countries. Only a few have left for Israel.

The number of Jews remaining in Rumania is a matter of dispute. Unofficial Jewish estimates put the figure at between 200,000 and 250,000. However, Bucharest's February statement asserted that in the last Rumanian census only 146,262 persons had registered as Jews and only a small number of those wished to emigrate to Israel.

NINE OUT OF TEN GERMAN students, questioned by a television crew which visited a large number of schools, said they had never heard of Hitler or, if they had, that they believed he had done more good than harm in the world.

AMERICAN INVESTORS WOULD be encouraged to make investments in Israel under a new concept which gained impetus when the U. S. Treasury Department said it would support a Congressional move to provide tax relief for American businessmen, specifically to encourage investment in the Middle East and other under-developed areas.

HISTRADRUT, The ISRAEL Federation of Labor, found out some answers to the question: What's in a name? In compiling its countrywide voters' lists for the federation's national elections, Histadrut discovered that 22,500 of its members are named Cohen. The name Levy comes next, with 15,000 listed. Mizrach, a name meaning East, appears 10,000 times, as does the East European name of Klein.

AN 11 PER CENT INCREASE IN bible sales last year was reported last week at the 71st annual meeting of the Jewish Publication Society in Philadelphia.

ONE OF THOSE RAREST OF birds, a repentant Nazi, confessed voluntarily to the murder of at least 50 concentration camp prisoners.

THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE took pains last week to underline that it has never condoned "nullification" of U. S. anti-bias laws, as charged by the American Jewish Congress.

A PLEA FOR "PARTNERSHIP" between the American Jewish Press and the national Jewish organizations "so as to reach the American Jewish community through the best channel of communication we have for educating our people on the problems confronting us," was voiced at the annual convention of the American Jewish Press Association held in New York, by Philip Klutznick, president of B'nai B'rith.

THE PARIS RADIO REPORTED that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, speaking at a public gathering in an unnamed provincial city in the Soviet Union, declared that every Jew in the USSR desiring to emigrate from the country will be permitted to do so.

In Israel Prime Minister David Ben Gurion, commenting on the statement, said that although the Soviet Premier did not mention the exact time when emigration from Russia would be permitted, "I hope he did not mean this would happen in the Messiah's days."

A TEN-YEAR OLD WESTERN Galilee collective B'nai Tzahal, was re-named Moshav Leeman last week in honor of visiting former Senator Herbert H. Lehman. The Hebrew version of the former Senator's name was taken from the Talmud where it means "harbor" or "anchorage."

JWV Memorial Services Sunday

The Department of R. I. Jewish War Veterans, will conduct its annual memorial service for departed veterans this Sunday, May 31. Services will be held in two phases, starting at 11 o'clock at Lincoln Park Cemetery, and at 12 noon at the Temple Beth El Cemetery.

Included in the program at Lincoln Park Cemetery will be the insertion on the arch in the JWV memorial plot of the names of the following servicemen who have been officially designated as "missing in action": Irving Botvin, Edward Gorodesky, Sidney Jacobson, Maurice Miller, Sanford Reback, and Leonard Hodosh.

Graves of all memorialized veterans will bear floral decorations for the occasion.

The Jewish War Veterans, through the veterans memorial fund, perpetuates the memory of the dead by appropriate ceremonies, shrine and monument erection, and grave decoration and maintenance. Contributions to this fund may be sent to Elliot F. Slack, chairman, 1019 Industrial Bank Building, Providence.

The JWV's annual memorial services normally are held on Memorial Day. Because the holiday falls on Saturday, the program was moved back one day.

Israel Acquires French Jet Planes

TEL AVIV — Ezer Weizman, Commander of the Israel Air Force, disclosed recently that Israel has acquired French Super Mystere jet fighters which he said were "capable of meeting" the Russian-built MIG-17. The MIG-17, supplied by the Russians to some of the Arab countries, are considered the best fighting planes in the Middle East.

The air superiority provided the Arabs by the Russian-built fighter jets was believed to have been offset by the acquisition of the French Super Mysteres. Experts said Israel pilots flying the French-built Mystere-4 jets usually outflow and outfought Arab-piloted MIG-17's, but only because the Israel pilots were better trained.

Among other assets, the MIG-17's had after-burners which gave them exceptional speeds.

The Super Mystere jets, which have been put into operational condition by Israel ground and air crews, also has an after-burner, which enables it to reach super-sonic speeds of 1,200 kilometers an hour.

The new French jets were flown over Tel Aviv for the first time in rehearsal for the Independence Day parade flights which took place this month.

To Open Enrollment In Hebrew Schools

The School Council and the Bureau of Jewish Education have announced that spring enrollment and re-enrollment will take place during the first two weeks in June.

A number of schools have already begun their enrollment program. Early enrollment is advised for children who have never attended a Jewish school before. This will enable the school to organize its new classes more carefully.

Parents whose children have reached or are reaching their eighth birthday should enroll them in mid-week Hebrew School since most of the schools in the state do not offer one-day-a-week Jewish education for children who have passed their eighth birthday. In addition, most schools are requiring candidates for Bar Mitzvah on a Sabbath morning, to be enrolled as a student in mid-week Hebrew School for a period of five years prior to Bar Mitzvah.

The schools affiliated with the Bureau, accepting enrollment for the new term are: Beth Am, Beth David, Beth El, Beth Israel, Beth Shalom, Cranston Jewish Center, Eastward Jewish Center, Emanuel, Ohawe Shalom, in Pawtucket. Others are Providence Hebrew Day School, which offers an English and Hebrew studies program, Shaare Zedek, Temple Sinai, Sons of Abraham, Sons of Jacob and Community High School of Jewish Studies of the Bureau.

Parents should check with individual schools for variations in details of enrollment. For any additional information the office of the Bureau of Jewish Education may be called.

ADMITS ANTI-SEMITISM
 PARIS — Ilya Ehrenburg, well-known Soviet novelist who is now visiting Paris was reported last week as admitting that anti-Semitism still exists in the Soviet Union. He said that he considers himself a Jew only because there is still anti-Semitism in his country. Once anti-Jewish feelings disappeared in the USSR he would see no reason to do so.

THIS WEEK WE ARE HAPPY TO PRESENT

An Orchid To . . .

A Carnation To . . .

Mrs. Harry Schleifer

Lou Chase

One of Mrs. Schleifer's most cherished possessions is a prize she won several years ago for her outstanding work on behalf of Israel. She raised more funds for the 1938 United Palestine Appeal than did any other woman.

Clara Schleifer always has been a hard worker in projects of this sort. She was president of Pioneer Women for two years, secretary before that, and chairman of a few Pioneer Donors affairs. She has helped significantly with the Children's Rescue Building Fund, and in various other Pioneer activities. In addition, she has assisted during campaigns of the General Jewish Committee, and been active in PTA and other community organizations.

The official beginning of the outdoor season focuses attention on the many outdoor sportsmen of the community. A leader among these, an active athlete all his life, and a sensible counselor to all who seek his advice, is Lou Chase.

One of the most popular of Rhode Island's sportsmen, Lou Chase is never too busy to offer a helping hand in the furtherance of any worthwhile sports promotion or community affair. He has served on countless committees, planned innumerable sports affairs, and given wholly of himself in order that others might better enjoy themselves. . . and all with a calm manner and efficient approach.

Nominations for awards may be made to Morrison & Schiff Editor,

DEDICATE MONUMENT
JOHANNESBURG—South African Jewry dedicated an impressive monument to the 6,000,000 Jews annihilated by the Nazis under Hitler. Municipal officials, representatives of Israel, and the leadership of organized Jewry in this country participated in the solemn ritual, at West Park Cemetery. The monument consists of a group of six heroic fists, each holding a great ram's horn (shofar), forming an arch under which the Eternal Light burns.

All organizational news MUST be in the Herald offices before noon of Monday each week. It will NOT appear in that week's paper if it is received later.

Foods To Remember

Remember the youngsters in your family need an after-school snack. Have something nourishing on hand to go with that glass of milk or other beverage. Following are a few suggestions that always go well with hearty appetites:

For a nourishing as well as tempting after-school accompaniment to drinks, the youngsters will relish these muffins:

- SHTREUSEL TOPPED MUFFINS
 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 3 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 egg
 1/4 cup salad oil
 1 cup milk
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla flavoring

Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt in a mixing bowl. Beat egg in another bowl and stir in salad oil and milk till well blended. Combine the two mixtures, stir in flavoring and turn into well greased muffin pans, filling 2/3 full. Or line muffin pans with fluted paper cups.

While the oven is heating to 350 deg. F, make the topping as follows:

- SHTREUSEL TOPPING FOR MUFFINS
 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 1/2 cup dark brown sugar
 1/2 cup sifted flour
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Melt the butter or margarine in a small saucepan over low heat and stir in the brown sugar, flour and cinnamon till the mixture forms crumbs. Remove from heat and blend with a fork, if desired. Sprinkle some of this on top of the partly filled muffin pans and bake 30 minutes at 350 deg. F or till nicely browned and the edges stand away from sides of muffin pans. Let cool on a wire rack or serve while warm.

Yields 18 muffins.
 Variations can be made by adding either 1/2 cup seedless raisins dusted with flour, or 1 cup well-drained, defrosted, quick-frozen blueberries, also flour dusted, or 1/2 cup finely diced, dried figs or prunes to the muffin batter.

ZEALOTS IN ZION

By THEODORE N. LEWIS

My youthful guide, who listened to the rabbi with reverence and in silence, thought it necessary to provide yet additional and more concrete evidence of the "wickedness" of Ben-Gurion. "Would you like," he asked, "to see a good and pious Jew whom Ben-Gurion keeps in prison?" I assented and he led me to another alley and to an upper floor apartment. There I met a young man in typical Hassidic garb clutching a bag containing a tallis, tephillin, and a siddur, and ready to depart for prison. This was the "famous" prisoner whose picture I had seen in many Israeli papers and who had become a celebrity overnight.

The young Hassid was one of many who had participated in a wild demonstration organized by the Neturai Karta in protest against the Jerusalem swimming pool. The police had warned the leaders that unless written permission for a public demonstration was obtained it would not be permitted. Furthermore, the leaders were assured that the permit was ready for them at police headquarters and would be granted at once, upon application. But a peaceful rally, under police supervision and free of conflict, was precisely what the demonstrators did not want. To put a stop to the frequent demonstrations which invariably led to clashes, the government decided to send the leaders to prison. The man I met was one of these prisoners. He had participated in an unauthorized demonstration, was arrested and sentenced to a year in prison.

How then did the prisoner happen to be at home? It was precisely this which made the newspaper headlines. His wife had given birth to a son, and he was exceedingly anxious to attend the birth. The government obliged and gave him a "leave of absence" from prison so that he could witness the circumcision of his child and participate in the mitzvah. When I mildly suggested that this was rather unusual for a "wicked government," the prisoner and his relatives were anything but convinced. They fiercely insisted that it was unjust to keep a pious Jew in prison.

The fanatical intolerance of the Neturai Karta is terrifying. They are hostile not only to the leaders of the government, but even to the members of the official rabbinate, upon whom they shower epithets similar to those reserved for Ben-Gurion. Even observant Jews who do not agree with them fully are branded heretical and denounced as enemies of Judaism. The "heretics" include a number of prominent rabbis and scholars who are respected in Israel and abroad, and whose "sin" is love for the State of Israel and its government. Just as the late and beloved Chief Rabbi Kook was anathematized by the very extreme religious groups in Palestine for his patience with non-observant Jews, even so do the Neturai Karta denounce in vehement language the quite orthodox Agudath Israel and the Mizrachi for participating in the government.

The motivating power of the sect is hatred for the state and its officials. Nowhere did I see this consuming hatred more sharply than in the large, penetrating eyes of Rabbi Katzenbogen. His entire life appeared to be dedicated to the destruction of the new state. I do not think I am wrong in believing that the Neturai Karta would welcome the disappearance of Israel — which is to them a sinful creation, an abomination which constitutes a defiance of the Divine will.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Singing In Springtime

By BERYL SEGAL

On a wonderful night in May I listened to voices singing sweetly, lovingly. The moon was full, and the stars dotted the skies, and fifty voices of men and women rang in the still night while the trees were swaying in the breeze and the blossoms sent forth their fragrance.

And even now I can still hear their voices and I can see the rapt faces of the singers and I know what they meant when they sang the Negro Spirituelle:

"I feel a little wheel turning, turning in my heart. I feel like singing, singing in my heart."

These were the voices of the combined choral groups, preparing a program of song for June 2, at Temple Beth El.

The members of the two groups are true lovers of singing. They are hard working people by day and take delight in singing during their leisure hours. This delight in singing was the force that brought them together in planning the concert.

The Beth El Choral Group was organized nine years ago by women of the Sisterhood who loved singing. They have attracted others in the community, and together they have been singing all these years.

Also during all these nine years they have enjoyed the teaching and the direction of Mr. Benjamin Primack and the piano accompanist, Miss Violet B. Marks. Those of us who remember the beginnings of the choral group can measure the great advances the singers have made, and they are tremendous.

The guest singers who will join the Beth El Choral group for the concert on the night of June 2, are the All-male Veterans Choral Association. This group of Negro singers, pursuing their various occupations during the working hours come together on evenings and week-ends to sing with their leader Mr. James L. Fletcher. In the course of the years this group sang at churches and social organizations here and in other communities.

In the program which the two choral groups are preparing for the concert they will sing separately and jointly.

Together they will sing Hashkivenu, an evening prayer of the Synagogue, and a favorite of cantors and composers. To hear the full choir lifting their voices in prayer for peace and the guardianship of God is a thrilling experience:

"Be Thou a shield about us, Remove from us every enemy, pestilence, sword, famine and sorrow."

How tearfully the cantors would chant these words. And the young lady who is the soloist in the Hashkivenu in this concert captures the mood of this ancient prayer and touches the heart of the listener.

Together the two choral groups will sing a medley of songs from Porgy and Bess, the Gershwin classic, and the all-time favorite of the American theater. You will be captivated, as I was, by the singing of the soloist in Summer-time.

This young, graceful woman has a magic in her voice, and she sings with great ease and charm. I hope there is a talent scout in the audience during the concert to discover this talented lady. I wish there were in our community someone with the necessary means and the influence to give this young singer the opportunity she deserves. Our local TV (Continued on Page 11)

Pericles Wrote A Gettysburg Address

BY HARRY GOLDEN

When Abraham Lincoln was asked to speak at Gettysburg, he knew it was only a polite invitation. He was, after all, the President of the country and it was a necessary function of his office that he be there. The principal speaker was Edward Everett, a Unitarian clergyman and now United States Senator. Everett was the best speaker of his day and Lincoln had no wish to encroach upon what would no doubt be a milestone in American letters.

Lincoln's few words were only protocol. At the ceremonies, Everett spoke for three hours and Lincoln for a few minutes, and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address will live forever. Yet, to Everett's credit, he was the first to realize that Lincoln had transcended politics, protocol, and matters of state and had entered history and literature. Everett understood at once the supreme eloquence of the President and in praising the Address, which met with only desultory applause, said it was a second Periclean Funeral Oration.

What Everett referred to was the speech Pericles delivered when he spoke over the mass grave of the Athenians who had first fallen against the Spartans.

The war was the Peloponnesian War (Peloponnesus was the Peninsula of which Sparta was the capital) and the year was 431 B. C., the first year of the war.

The Athenians, following their custom, gave a public funeral for soldiers who had died in battle. All of these soldiers were laid in a public sepulcher, each in a separate coffin. There was always one extra coffin, which represented all the missing soldiers — our unknown soldier is a tradition we have borrowed from the Greeks. After the prayers and benediction, a prominent citizen was asked to read a eulogy. Pericles, who had been, and was to be again, the ruler of Athens, was asked to fulfill this routine formality. Next to the Gettysburg Address, Pericles' is the shortest funeral oration on record (it is about four pages long) and it and the Gettysburg Address are two of the greatest expressions of the human intellect.

Pericles started by saying that he wished the reputation of the many brave men were not imperilled in his mouth to stand or fall as he spoke good or ill. He went on from there to praise Athens which, he said, was "the school of Hellas." "We throw open our city to the world," he said, "and never by alien acts exclude foreigners from any opportunity of learning or observing, although the eyes of the enemy may occasionally profit from our liberality. . . . We cultivate refinement without extravagance and knowledge without effeminacy, wealth we employ more for use than for show, and place the real disgrace of poverty not in owning to the fact but in declining to struggle against it."

It was for Athens that these soldiers, he went on, had died. "But," he said, "heroes have the whole earth for their tomb and it is only the love of honor that never grows old, and honor it is, not gain, that rejoices the heart of age and helplessness."

His speech concludes with: "My task is now finished. I have performed it to the best of my ability, and in words, at least, the requirements of the law are now satisfied. If deeds be in question, those who are here interred have received part of their honors already, and for the rest, their children will be brought up till manhood at public expense: the state thus offers a valuable prize, as the garland of victory in this race of valor, for the reward both of those who have fallen and their survivors. And where the rewards for merit are greatest, there are found the best citizens."

"And now that you have brought to a close your lamentations for your relatives, you may depart."

The speech is preserved for us in the History of the Peloponnesian War by Thucydides. Thucydides was a general in this war, but was later fired by the Athenians for arriving late at a battle. It was no fault of his own, but in his History he does not excuse himself. He is an historian much like Sir Winston Churchill, writing flawlessly about a war in which he played a major part. What makes Thucydides the Father of History, however, is his unique dramatic sense. Lionel Trilling remarked of Thucydides' History that it is really built along the lines of a Grecian tragedy. Athens is the hero, doomed to lose, proud to the very end.

When Pericles finished his oration, the mourners turned and walked away, just as they did when Lincoln finished. Both men, so aptly compared by Edward Everett, were by destiny the leaders of their nation and both were eventually sacrificed. And both walked into literature by performing in a simple way a minor duty of state, a eulogy over the dead.

Crestwood--They Said It Couldn't Be Done

When the creators of the Crestwood Country Club first announced their plans several months ago — late last fall, to be exact — there were, quite naturally, murmurs of disbelief from several sources. The plans looked good on paper, but translating them to reality, and making the project actually come alive, that would be a different story. So said many with experience in such matters.

So it is with considerable pride that the members of Crestwood point to the tour of inspection of their beautiful new club in Rehoboth on Sunday, June 6. The impossible has been completed after all!

Crestwood will not open officially until July 1; but it will be completed well before that date, and activities will be in full bloom before the end of June.

Members and potential new members will be provided a guided tour of inspection on June 6. Here is a preview of what they will see.

The glamorous clubhouse will be almost completed by June 6; only the easily completed finishing touches will be in process. The swimming pool, which seems likely to be the pride and joy of Crestwood's families, is one of the largest and most unique in the East, if not indeed the country. There is also a small pool for children, plus an adjoining sand box area.

The spacious locker rooms contain individual lockers for each of 350 members and their ladies. Back in the clubhouse are a dining room, two grill rooms and a bar. This phase of the Crestwood operation will be under the operation and supervision of Joseph Keenan of the Dinty Moore Restaurant in East Providence.

Furnishings and decorations for the clubhouse, by the way, are being created by B. Altman & Co. of New York, who are famous for their country club stylings.

Probably the best news right now, as far as Crestwood members is concerned, is that concerning the golf course, and golf itself. The 18-hole championship course is nearing completion, and expert observers already are tabbing it one of the nation's finest.

While this course will not be ready for play until the spring of next year, there will be golf for Crestwood members — at the nearby Sun Valley course. The golfers can dress in their own locker rooms, drive the short mile and a half to Sun Valley (arrangements have been made to accommodate Crestwood's golfers), play their rounds, then return to their own locker rooms for showers, snacks, or a dip in the pool with their families. Certainly this must be regarded as next best to playing on your own course.

But wait! That is not all the news on golf. The driving range will be open early next month; and Eddie Zaretsky, the Crestwood pro, already is on hand, planning free clinics, and arranging classes for golf lessons. Some classes are nearly filled.

Two weekend golf tournaments already have been held for the membership at Sun Valley; a third is planned for this coming weekend. A mixed scotch foursome now is being arranged. And under the Calloway system of handicapping, all contestants have a fair chance.

In charge of assorted splashing at the pool will be Joe Delaney, assistant principal at Hope High School, who formerly was superintendent at Scarborough State Beach.

Sort of enough for an opening in such a short space of time, no? Don't forget — the land for Crestwood was not purchased until January of this year, and the ground breaking took place some time later. Now, at the end of May in the same year, the new Club is getting ready to go into operation. Quite an accomplishment, to say the least!

Baseball vs Hurling

From the editors of the magazine Sports Illustrated comes a preview of an article on sports in Israel that appears in the current issue. Even though the magazine is already on the newstands while this is being written, I don't mind at all calling your attention to it.

This is no ordinary piece with the familiar tone of great accomplishments in Israel, and about the impressions of American tourists. The author is Gerald Holland, and while that name sounds Jewish, he actually is, in his own words, a second generation Irishman.

So here is a new twist — an Irishman journeying to Israel to inspect the sports situation. How he happened to make the trip, and some of the things that occurred, make for interesting and amusing reading. Here are a few highlights to show what I mean.

Holland was intrigued during his visit by the sight of an Israeli lieutenant and a sergeant, on duty at the troubled Gaza border, playing soccer at sundown, while their sub-machine gun lies handy and the UN outpost soldiers look on, even kicking the ball back when it spins over the border.

So great is the influence of sports on the nation, and so avid is the population for news of sports, that a sporting newspaper now is published three times a week, he reports.

But the episodes that had me chuckling as I read involved the attempts of two Americans — a Jew and an Irishman — to interest the planners of the Israeli sports program in the sports that they consider ideal for the sports-minded Israelis.

Colonel Harry Henshel of New York, chairman of the United States Committee for Sports in Israel, made the tour with Holland. Col. Henshel, who was on General Bradley's staff during World War II, wants to bring baseball to Israel. Every time he brings the matter up, native Israelis are polite but unimpressed. They think the descriptions show up baseball as being too slow for their people. The Colonel persists at various times during the story, and always meets the same response. There is no enthusiasm for baseball, although everyone is too polite to say no openly.

Every time that happens, the Irishman Holland offers his own suggestion for a sport that would interest the Israelis. That is the national game of Ireland—hurling. And here is how he describes it.

"Visualize the sport of field hockey, only much faster. Add something of lacrosse. Hitting the ball like a baseball, running with the ball held on the stick, great body contact, cracking of heads and so forth."

And you know what? The Israelis were more interested in this sport of hurling than they were in baseball!

It is really a splendid article throughout, with a far different approach than that we are accustomed to getting from Israel, yet informative, amusing and entertaining.

The outgoing board will serve as hostesses at the coffee hour which will follow the installation.

TEMPLE SINAI

"The Role of Man and God as Expressed in Current Theater and in the Best Sellers of the Year" will be the subject of Rabbi Robert Schenkerman's sermon tonight at Temple Sinai's regular Friday night service held at the Greenwood Country Club.

A special Oneg Shabbat will be held in honor of the coming marriage of Rabbi Schenkerman and Miss Arlene Bloom. Members and guests are invited to attend.

stations could bring to the national singing world a brilliant talent by "discovering" her and giving her a chance to sing before a larger audience.

I had my share of listening to singers on many a TV show, and in my opinion she is even now superior to some of the singers in these shows.

And speaking of TV shows, take my advice and skip them on the night of June 2, even though a highly exciting Western might be among them. Come to the concert at Beth El instead.

You will be rewarded by the grandeur of the singing of these two choral groups, and you might even discover the thrill of watching real people, live people, sing. We have almost forgotten what people look like when they sing, as we see them with our own eyes and not through the camera and the TV tube.

As the commercials usually say:

You will be glad you came.

The Lyons Den

Lady Astor, who relishes publicity, made world-wide news last week without doing anything controversial. She merely celebrated her 80th birthday. There were references to a story that G. B. Shaw once considered marrying her. The story originated with my first visit to Shaw at Ayot St. Lawrence. Lady Astor was there and suggested: "Ask him if it's true he's going to marry me." I asked the question and Shaw was dismayed. "I care too much about my three remaining teeth to marry you," GBS told her, "I know your temper. If I married you I'd soon lose my teeth."

The late Harold Laski said of Lady Astor: "Her entrance into British politics was America's revenge for George III." Warned on the eve of her return to her native America that she'd need a smallpox vaccination, she said: "Nonsense. The Langhorne-Astor blood is pure and there's no chance of infecting it." She once failed to appear at a lecture where her topic was to be "What Every Woman Knows," and explained: "What every man ought to know is that you rarely can depend on a woman's promise to be there."

"I'm for the uncommon man," she announced in Washington. "I believe the uncommon man should rule." She suggested that America imitate Britain's award of peerages: "You do the same thing by handing out ambassadorships to those who contribute heavily to political campaigns. You would do better to give peerages to those who give away money wisely. It's harmless, and would bring in money where needed and, besides, it would be fun for the peers."

Alice Roosevelt Longworth said of Lady Astor's visit to America: "Nancy, you're just like a little dog who walked into a strange house and chewed up a sofa." When Lady Astor returned to England and was asked to explain statements she'd made during her trip, she replied: "Explain? Explain what? I say so much, I can't remember."

Arthur Miller's screen story, "The Misfits," to be directed by John Huston with Marilyn Monroe as the star, will be made for United Artists in the summer of 1960 . . . Spencer Tracy was offered the starring role in "Lolita." His reply to the producers is unprintable . . . Ann Sheridan will make a TV film series in Munich. She'll play the part of a typical American wife of an American foreign service officer stationed in a city in Germany.

Col. Rex Smith, who died recently, once accompanied Sinclair Lewis to the Washington try-out of "Very Warm for May." At the party afterwards Lewis said: "The music was wonderful but the direction was bad." The director left the table. Smith said: "The music was wonderful but the production was bad." The producer left the

by Sylvia Porter

'THE ADVENTURES OF $10,000'

Let's say that back in 1950 you received a cool $10,000 and had this lovely lump sum free to invest as you saw fit.

If you had put the whole $10,000 in a "typical" one-family house, your investment now would be worth around $15,000.

If you had put it in the U. S. Treasury's 2½ per cent bonds due 1967 (the marketable bonds sold by the government in the war loan drive of 1942) your $10,000 now would be worth only around $8,800.

If you had put it in "typical" farm land, your nestegg's value would have grown to $16,139 by early this year.

If you had put it in stocks — the across-the-board list of stocks in the Standard & Poore's stock average — your $10,000 would be up to more than $25,100.

In the current issue of "Banking" magazine you'll find this little record of "The Adventures of $10,000 Since 1950." It's the sort of compilation which focuses attention on the spectacular profits which could have been made by a person with enough cash, know-how and luck to have bought the right stocks at the right time in 1950 and to have held them ever since.

It's also the sort of statistical dramatization which emphasizes the dismal experience of those who have kept money in marketable U. S. bonds.

Let us not underestimate the impact of tables such as this! The well-publicized contrast between the brilliant performance of stocks and the sorry record of bonds during the '50s is a major reason the public has been buying stocks on an increasing scale and investors have been shunning U. S. bonds on an increasing scale. But before

In the past two years more businesses have been caught on a limb by embezzling employees than in the previous quarter century. And almost 40% are not insured for such loss! In fact, surveys prove over 2,500,000 businesses lack adequate protection against one or more common risks.

Why not be sure about your insurance? Let INSURANCE UNDERWRITERS INC. make a thorough study of your business risks. Our professional methods were pioneered by Aetna Casualty. And we back them up with our individual PERSONAL SERVICE.

One of America's most famous women, whose experience includes politics, discussed the Presidential choices and said that the polls produced this order of eligibility: (1) Protestant, (2) Catholic, (3) Jew, (4) Negro and (5) Woman. The American electorate, she continued, subconsciously votes for an "Image." And the "Images," in order of vote-getting importance, are: (1) father, (2) husband or son, (3) uncle, (4) cousin and (5) brother-in-law. Stevenson, she said, is an uncle, Rockefeller a husband, Kennedy a son, Humphrey a brother-in-law and Dewey a cousin.

When David Kapp was vice president of Decca Records, the company's first show-album was "Oklahoma!" with music by Richard Rodgers. Kapp's own company, Kapp Records, just selected its first musical show for recording — "Once Upon a Mattress," with music by Mary Rodgers, Richard's daughter.

Robert Young and Dana Andrews, prototypes of the clean-cut American Male, confided at lunch the other day that juvenile delinquency is not limited to metropolitan slum areas. Andrews mentioned "the fruit-bit," in which he and his boyhood friends in Texas would raid fruit-stands. And Young revealed that he and his friends in California raided a hardware store. He returned most of the loot and worked off the value of the rest. The leader of his gang of friends continued in crime and wound up in San Quentin.

Shall it be a tent — — or a house?

Freedom is precious, and wonderful.
 The Jewish men, women and children
 Who have arrived in Israel this year
 From Eastern European countries
 Have given thanks for their deliverance
 With tears
 With prayer.
 They are thankful to God and to Jews in the United States—
 In Providence—
 That they now have the opportunity to live in Israel
 With dignity
 Under a government that,
 Like in our United States, is
 Of the people
 By the people and
 For the people.
 There never was any question in Israel
 Whether the immigrants should be admitted.
 Israel is dedicated to the "open door" policy
 Of admitting Jews from anywhere in the world.
 This is one of the glowing statements in the Israel Proclamation of Independence;
 For which Jews in Eastern European countries
 Are truly thankful.
 Their arrival in Israel is but the first step
 In rehabilitation as productive citizens
 Who wish to take their place as workers,
 Workers who will help Israel grow.
 They need shelter—
 Houses
 Not tents.
 Thousands of houses are needed for them.
 Thousands of houses will be built if you help.
 On SUNDAY, JUNE 7, the annual BIG Day
 Will be held in Providence.
 If you enroll as a volunteer worker
 You will render a great service to
 These Jewish men, women and children who need homes,
 Who look to you to help them.
 It is their fervent hope you will say "Yes"
 And VOLUNTEER to be a worker on BIG Day.

you accept the generalizations, it would be wise to ask some pertinent questions.

For instance, is the record as black-and-white as "The Adventures of $10,000" would suggest? The answer is "no."

First, no one buys "stock averages." Sure, on average, stock prices have skyrocketed — but did any investor put an equal amount of money into each of the dozens of stocks in the Standard & Poor's average in 1950 so he could match the average rise? Of course not. You can't, you don't, buy the "averages."

Second, few people buy a "typical" house or "typical" farm land either. Some purchasers of homes and farm lands have made out a lot better than the "typical" owner, others a lot worse.

Third, the record of the U. S. bondholder isn't as bad as it may seem. The buyer of a U. S. savings bond at $75 in 1950 is now being paid off at $100. And buyers of shorter-term marketable U. S. securities have had their I.O.U.s paid off at 100 cents on the dollar.

Another valid question might be, "Is it sound to invest on the basis that what has happened in the '50s will be duplicated in the '60s?" Again, I think you'll find the answer is "no."

For the "average" rise in stock prices in the '50s has been the sharpest for any decade on record — and this followed a mighty boomy market in the '40s. There have been longer periods of overall rises, but never stock price upsurges of this magnitude. It's hard to believe the percentage increases in the next decade will parallel the '50s.

What's more, just as stock prices have been in an extraordinary boom, bond prices have been in an extraordinary slump since the mid-40s. Higher interest rates and lower bond prices are likely, but a slump in bond prices paralleling the '50s? That too is hard to believe.

The trend is toward wider, greater ownership by the millions of stocks, land, real estate and away from blind ownership of bonds and cash.

But, "The Adventures of $10,000" beginning now are likely to be quite different from those of the lovely lump beginning 10 years ago. With a bow to Labor Secretary Mitchell's hat-eating pledge, I'll promise to eat my Easter Bonnet at the corner of Wall and Broadway if the markets of the '60s don't hold surprises that will surprise most of the experts of the '50s.
